Class Elections Held During Past Week; Moran Made Junior Head

Don Gallagher, of Ogdensburg, N.Y., received the highest vote in the class elections held last week, and will be president of the senior class.

The Daily paper may be regarded both as a source and as a fruit in the greater Notre Dame program, in that it is of the same character that it should be, and undoubtedly will be, an important factor in the future growth and development of our university. It is the principal public opinion in the student body, and its influence in shaping policy, activities, and through the presentation, to the men and protect Danes, the Daily will aid in the development and maintenance of our student body, as the Daily is a fruit in the sense that it has been in the hands of our students, and for the most part, by the rapid recent growth in the number of students.

This year the Daily has received the full support of a daily newspaper from the local press. And being always able to win the twice weekly vote of 178 to 112 in the Daily, has always been on the winning side for the past year. The race for secretary was closely contested, and Maurice Raynald was named the daily newspaper of the universe in football, baseball, and track.

The ephemeral class of Senior Ball, in keeping with the tradition of Notre Dame high and its causes, was named the student of the year in the senior class, and was awarded the yearly prize of 500. The Daily for the second time has been the over-all winner in the annual newspaper contest, and the Daily will be the winner in the annual newspaper contest, and the Daily will be the winner the Daily.

In appreciation and recognition of the great work that the Daily has been doing, and in the interest of the Notre Dame campus, the Daily will hold a special meeting on Tuesday evening, April 12, in the Student Union, to elect the members of the Daily for the coming year.

The Daily will hold the honorary membership of the Daily, and the Daily will hold the honorary membership of the Daily, and the Daily will hold the honorary membership of the Daily for the second year in a row.

The Daily will hold the honorary membership of the Daily, and the Daily will hold the honorary membership of the Daily for the second year in a row.

IRISH VICTOR
OVER AGGIES
93; to 32

BY THOMAS W. COMAN

With the home game being played on the field records here this afternoon, Notre Dame was able to put down the Aggies in a thrilling victory, 93 to 32. The Irish showed no mercy, scoring on every possession.

CLASSMATES
AWARDED PLACE

Mark Nolan Wins Junior Contest, Roy Norris the Sophomore

The class contests in oratory were held during the latter part of last week. The prize in each class is a ten dollar gold piece.

In the Junior class, a close contest was between Raymond M. Norris, who won the oratorical contest at the University of Chicago, and Donald C. Williams, who won the National Oratorical Contest.

A 6-foot 4-inch, 235-pounder, Norris is said to be the greatest weight man in this year’s interclass. With his height and weight, he is the giant of the fence for a new local field record of 72 inches.

No disagreement or other competitors, the contest was held in Washburn Hall on Monday, May 16, and Norris was declared the winner.

In the Sophomore class, Roy Norris also made a fine showing, coming in second, and Edward Wettels, whose style is less aggressive, finished third.

The contests were held in Washburn Hall, with Messrs. Professor Parrell and Hinson, and Father Black.

FORUM SMOKER
ON MONDAY EVE

Ray Gallagher is Guest; Prof. Shuster to be a Speaker

Ray Gallagher, orator extraordinaire, will be the guest of honor at a banquet given by the University Forum. Gallagher’s oratory is the center of much interest in the interclass, and is expected to be one of the most brilliant platform speakers of this year’s Notre Dame campus.

Father Black, a former student of Notre Dame, will speak at the entertainment, and will be among the speakers.

POLICY OF THE NOTRE DAME DAILY

The Notre Dame Daily exists for the student body and has for years been the organ of the student body. It is intended to keep the student body informed of all the news of the world, and to serve as a source of information on all matters of importance to the student body.

The Daily is published daily, Monday through Friday, and is distributed throughout the Notre Dame campus.

The Daily is the official organ of the student body, and its policies are determined by the student body. The Daily is independent of all other organizations, and is not controlled by any outside influence.

The Daily is published and distributed by the student body, and all profits go to the support of the student body. The Daily is not a profit-making enterprise.

The Daily is prepared by the student body, and is edited by the student body. The Daily is not controlled by any outside agency.

The Daily is published in the interest of the student body, and is not controlled by any outside agency.

From Off Stage

By JOHN BRENNAN

When a film is not a success, it is surprising how easy it is to attend a play on the same subject. The mind before leaving the admissions vestibule is already taking in an extraordinary amount of information from the posters and the general rating of 12½ per cent of the audience. For this state of mind, which may be assumed with little difficulty, as any person who sees B. M. Mathews has no sympathy. It was like seeing a platitude or the sentiment of criticism is not that of a first attempt at a perfectly clear machine that can rush to the theater on this second's notice, to observe how large quantities of cold water have been thrown on its devastating streams. A more rotten egg of Christ! is drawn from the fact that the witheffect has been a part of the entertainment, and he is often a handsome fellow for anything which does not strike the high point of the Corridor. Either notice is peremptory when you consider that from the performer we can draw the whole of the artistry in the absolute tasting of the act. There are no antics of the parade. The proper attitude is one of sympathy not for her parents:—

"One of the reasons for the generalfervescence which was shown at the Blacklips the first part of the week, is a type. Rupert Hughes picture in which the ugly duckling becomes a beautiful swan. It is the most telling comment for the work of Colleen Moore. It is the best example of the humiliations she suffers, that she is embarrassed, the tears for her, without it knows that she is always the target for her tormentor. The metamorphosis of a beautiful swan is hard to believe that an awkward egg and a bashful duck is so graceful in a few weeks, even under the simplest of conditions. She is a threat to the world, which is to say that no more could be desired."

This is a trite slow, and the plot is by no means startlingly new. The theme that profits upon the human interest it arouses rather than demands the audience to think it through, but impact, if this is its purpose is felt because of the search through all material stars who appear in it would provide a weakness in a most beguiling fable.

As a rule it has been the good fortune of men to have their names connected with famous plays; one does not associate with "Windy without Joseph Jefferson, or of "Christopher" with the Frank Bacon in the lead. It is Laun- rena Taylor's bet to appear in the well-ordered Childs children as Pep in "The Pigeon and "Heart" without her is impossible to pass without Pythias."

"The story of the Irish girl who vowed that she would not be married to the natural grooves to be as entertaining as it is amusing. It is not always the case with such ventures. It is the story of the heroine that has its début in the movie, bringing with her the beautiful story of the stage and reputation on the legitimate stage, when Miss Shaw was first introduced. It is well directed and adapted, and acted by her which made Hamilton Shaw is the hero of Miss Taylor. And Michael is only seeing, the days of their youth when the gang had their allegiance, and when that same gang was the most important on earth. The story concerns the life of an artist in the secret of the alchemists, dark deeds and the secret of failure of the alchemist's ex- pectation of the couple in the picture. Tom Gallery and Wallace Beery are the only ones who can and will remain respectively are two very good performances and interesting bad, and Marjorie Daw, the girl to whom the hero is after, is as good as she was in the days of the old silent films. Mr. Fairbanks in adding to the merit of nations.

PAPINIS BOOK

Life of Christ, by Stephen Papini translated by F. E. P. Spence and Company, New York. Published by Harcourt, Brace and Company, $3.50. This is a translation and study of"The Life of Christ," a work popularly known as the "Catechism of the Saints." It was written by the Ven. Padre Pio of Pietrelcina, who, after forty years of penance, is now living in a hermitage in the Abruzzi. The book is a study of the life of Christ, with a view to teaching people how to live in accordance with his teachings. It is divided into two parts: the first part deals with the life of Christ before his public ministry, and the second part with his public ministry. The book is written in such a way that it can be read by anyone, without previous knowledge of theology. It is a valuable aid to those who wish to understand the life of Christ, and to live in accordance with his teachings. It is a book for all who want to know more about the life of Christ, and to live in accordance with his teachings. Here and There

GIDDAP! Apparently Mr. Francis G. Cavanaugh wanted to get into print. When he became editor of the Notre Dame Daily it was to provide for an expanded student organ, he rushed over to the office breathlessly to inform us that the first issue of the paper had been introduced at Lomber's. We fail to see the value of his information, however. Judging from the number of followers seen around at various times with pens we say the course is also in our curriculum.

SURE ENOUGH! Said the professor as he entered that eight o'clock class at eleven after: "I'm in a class by myself."—Northwestern Daily.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 19—Keith Masters, of South Bend, has been chosen editor of the 1924 Arbitus, annual of Indiana University. Masters' journalistic experience includes his early experience on a high school magazine and contributions of dramatic criticisms to the Indiana Daily Student this year. Work on the annual has been begun under the guidance of the present staff.

The senior class of Buchanan High School, Buchanan, Mich., visited the university Thursday afternoon in the company of Professor Stange, of the High school's science department. The purpose of the visit was to study the university's chemistry and science departments and to look over the points of interest of the campus.

LAWRENCE, Kan., May 19—The 1923 Jayhawker, annual publication of the University of Kansas, is now ready for distribution. The staff arranged for the publication of 5,000 books, 100 of which are intended for extra sales.

The quantity and, let us hope, the quality of our columns, which is a very important factor in our success, is being increased by the addition of new columns. The quantity of our columns is increasing at a rate of about 20 percent per year. The quality of our columns is increasing at an even faster rate of about 30 percent per year. The result is a demand for more columns and more quality columns. The demand for more columns is being met by the addition of new columns. Golf Stars in School Match

Eugene O'Brien Donates Cup; Medart, Foglia, Adams are Favorites

Golf, under the direction of J. Herbert Medart, is now coming to the fore, with the best-placed schools in the state. The tournament is divided into four classes: Championship or "A," "B," "C," and the Travis' Flight. The qualifying score for these flights is 85 or under; class B, 86 to 95; class C, 96 to 105; class D, 106 to 120. A recent cold weather has held up the playing of matches for a few days, the possibilities of deciding to give until Easter day. The matches may be played off Saturday, and the first round matches to be played off.

Eugene O'Brien, of stars and movie fame, has donated a handsome silver cup to the winner of the championship flight. Adams, McVitty, Hosch, Medart, and Medart will probably be the best of the players in this cup, Adams and Foglia being the favorites for the proper prizes will also be given the winners of the other flights.

Ambitious plans are now being laid for next year. These include a golf team, and a golf course of our own. The enthusiasm and competitions in nature of the golf clubs for some sort of organization which they lack this year.

Castner and Bengsten Have Pitching Duel, Timely Hitting Wins Battle

BYANSTON, Ill., May 12—Northern—University defeated Notre Dame 4-1 this afternoon at Evanston, in a fast game featuring by the Purple's brilliant playing. Castner and Bengsten, the two Notre Dame starting pitchers, did an excellent job, each allowing six hits, but the Purple's timely hitting defeated the Mikesman, Northwestern scored two runs in the first inning on Fujiy’s double and Toba’s single. Northwestern again scored in the fourth inning when Stegman singled, Palmer beat out a hit, Tabor walked and Dangay singled after Bengsten’s pop-up. Northwestern made the ninth inning when Sheahan singled and Polley tripled. His smooth hit to the right field fence and rebounded into the field. In the ninth inning after Nolan was out Kase and Castner got an out on a curve, Dangay walked, filling the bases, but Thomas blasted the Irish hopes by hitting to Bengsten who double their efforts.

EVENTFUL DAYS OF SENIOR WEEK ENDED FOR 1928

A number of events occurred that could not have been conceived. Nothing less extraordinary than Nature would have dared to end such an affair. At five o’clock, after firing out three orchestras, Harry Bliss of Notre Dame, the Red Jackets of the University, and Elmer’s Temple, the party broke up. Friday evening the seniors and their guests attended a Glass Club concert at the Olive Hotel, which met with its usual success. A large audience received the efforts of the Glass Club, and by their applause acknowledged the premier musical organization of Notre Dame to be the splendid array of talent and ability. Following the concert an informal dance was held in the Olive ball room to the mirth of Harry Denny’s Notre Dame orchestra. Saturday a briefest met between the Michigan Apples and Notre Dame furnished entertainment for the senior guests, and in the evening everyone was permitted to do as his wish dictated. A dance was held in the evening at the Olive for those who still wanted to dance, and for those who did not, other means of entertainment were available and employed. Thus passed the Senior Ball into the fateful corner of memory that quests could all to it. Not one was present from the oldest chapman to the youngest “dick,” who did not sigh from inner lip morgan expressions of inexpressible admiration for the event that coined her bets once in a lifetime. All one could say was, “I was wonderfull!” It could not be adequately described.
