NEWLY SKETCHED BAND PARADES

New Program Planned for First Appearance of Music Makers in New Uniforms.

Notre Dame's band, with 38 men in the new uniforms, will make its appearance on Carroll Field this afternoon, following immediately behind the Notre Dame team. Drum major John B. O'Riordan will lead the band in a march around the field.

Southern airs, marches and popular tunes will be played throughout the game and between intervals, and the new uniforms will be presented in a medley, in which "Dixie" and "The Victory March" combined.

Every student is urged to buy the hand tags being sold to enable the band members to purchase passes for the new uniforms. Band members will be expected to wear their new uniforms. Members of the Blue Circle will sell admission passes at the gate before the game.

The bands will be led by yelling the hand tags at the gates should members of the band be unable to make the game. The sides of Notre Dame's new uniforms are being made by the students in the art department of the University.

WELCOME THE GOLDEN TORNADO

Southern hospitality is traditional.

And that was only proper. In other days when a team traveled to atmospheres where no emotions were treated as almost personal enemies as well as opponents in a game.

The game was war and "everything’s fair in love and war.

But that era has passed; a sad order has come.

And that was only proper. At last year, Notre Dame was a wonderful welcome. It is up to the Notre Dame fans to come and to help us, to help us, to help us, to help us, to help us. And it is up to our fans to come and to help us, to help us, to help us, to help us, to help us. And that was only proper. At last year, Notre Dame was a wonderful welcome.
