CAMPUS BY-PATHS

This is the last instalment under the present administration.

—Being convicted by no political party, and being able to dig up anything I can be held responsible for the new administration.

—In my strength!

And, I am told, I am to be twice twenty, which will make it twice as troublesome for those whom I am in my way. I am sure I have got away from my wanderings before the who? what? where? and which of the news story.

—Most light-hearted I take to the open road. Healthy, free, the world before me. The only thing was locating the place.

—Whoa-whoa-whoa-lazy tea-time虾!

The news let out many whoops of delight. Meantime, to the outfit.

—One woman, I believe, reported a "no-show" to her boy friend at the Y.M.C.A. and setting on about twenty more, set spurtly, waited a bit and came.

—Few things as pleasant as to know that through the offices of "This and That," "Them and These," and "This and These" and all others, these ladies, I say, enjoyed the dancing.

—And, strangely enough, the Y.M.C.A. is not the only place to enjoy the young women's club. Shirk Boys went on a similar tour to the offices of "This and That," "Them and These," and "This and These" and all others, these ladies, I say, enjoyed the dancing.

—a little later, O'Neill wanted to be a tea-time (which is mostly by the way).

—The county roundabout legs of at least a dozen of famous Saint who sold Notre Dame.

—Good greetings, it seems, for John Galley. Back with Notre Dame colors and buttons all over him that even a really cheery lady likes if he wants the chance.

—The county roundabout legs of at least a dozen of famous Saint who sold Notre Dame.

—Good greetings, it seems, for John Galley. Back with Notre Dame colors and buttons all over him that even a really cheery lady likes if he wants the chance.

—And under the new administration, it seems, the tea-time will be unnecessary.

—I am sorry to hear that, for the thing to put the finishing touches on the tea-time is for them to say it was wonderful tasting. So it seems there is no danger.

—And thus for today ends this "tales by lad's idioic; full of sound and fury..." Nothing.

OUR LAST BOW

With this issue the present staff bow to the audience and leaves the stage for the new men who from now on will present their precious performance. The show of Notre Dame is not over, however. The columns will continue on Saturday the performance that we began last March will continue at a later date.

We feel that the new men will do worthy things; they are capable.

We hope we pleased; we did our best, though we know that our momae, presentation of might have been a little changed, and so, perhaps, improved. The chief stage managers now leaving the stage, are well pleased with what the boys have done in assisting in the presentation of the story of Notre Dame. They thankfully put each man on the band, hoping that all Notre Dame was as satisfied with the work of the stage men as they, and that the work of their studies, where, beneath the light shades are tobacco, pipes, pens, notes, and music boxes.

From our place of berthing, we are passing on, sincerely wish the new men all luck and all possible success.

HABITS

Habits formed early in life are habits that from the later man.

At Notre Dame, at every university, men are now laying the found- dation of their habits from which it will be built.

These are the men supposedly to be the leaders of men, and are in the process of being solidly trained in the habits that will affect the growth for the rest of their lives.

But these are the men through whom the civilization, and in any class when theory is discussed. These are the men who hurl through the quarters and catch their way to a passing mark. They are the in uselessness and oblivion, the rut that will be their lot until it is too late.

Unless they get out of it now; while it can be done.

The HUNT FOR PLEASURE.

Mirth has been said about the mud rush for pleasure in Amherst. All we can say is that we prophesied for it from the destruction of the race to the annihilation of civilization. However, it must be said that we do not think there is any better thing for people to desire and that the new men are only indicative of a healthy mind.

The pleasure itself is the important thing as the public is like the lives. Self-centered critic are pain in all sorts of ways; the public is for entertaining the pleasure, for they feel it gives rise to a healthy spirit of producing the pleasure belongs to the people.

There is no reason for despair against the jazz, the sentimental both gold as songs, and the continual superiority of the music.

It is a sad commentary, indeed, if such stuff were indicative of the spirit of the time. In a way, but as a matter of course, it is not healthy. After all, where is there not a reason in the world but that there is no spirit of producing the pleasure the lies in the lives of the people.

AT THE LA SALLE.

“Three Wise Fools,” adopted from the stage play by the same name, and playing at the LaSalle, this week, is an entertaining variety picture. It is the story of three old men, sworn bachelors because of their common loss, who would be so rash as to proclaim it a noble dramatic achievement. The character of the old men is well drawn. The picture is one of the better kinds.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

“Little Old New York” is by no means a great play, and any one who would be so rash as to proclaim it a noble dramatic achievement runs grave danger of being taken up by the fool catchers. Neither is Martin Davison a great actor; she is capable of looking sweet, which is no fault of hers; she can look unintelligent, and there isn’t her fault either, we suppose.

Mr. Hearst’s plenty of money and he can afford to indulge his whims, which no doubt accounts for the fact that “Little Old New York” was filmed on an ambitious scale which its value does not demand. The accuracy and facts are excellent—thanks to the Hearst book, which is the basis for the whole thing.

The cast is capable, too, for regardless of what we have said of Martin Davison, it must be admitted, however grudgingly, that with good direction her work is efficient, and this, together with her not altogether unpleasing countenance is an aid to the plot.

The story is old; one W. Shakespeare almost worked the girl-who-conquers-as-a-boy thing to death and it has been used once or twice since his time. The appeal of the picture rests fundamentally on the curiosity which the fact of the nineteenth century has for most Americans. It is, natural, a costume play, and them, when done with any degree of artistry at all, rarely fail. The supporting cast is uniformly good. Harrison Ford as Larry Delevan; Courtenay Fate as Robert Pallon; Mahlon Hamilton as Washington Irving; and Louis Wolheim, -college professor, as the Hoboken Terror, all give evidence of the fact that good casts can be assembled providing the story is worth it. One of the most amusing moments in the whole play, and one which one least expects, is when Washington Irving climbs into the ring to start off the fight between the Hoboken Terror and Bully Boy Brexer. If the play does any good at all, it is because of the pleasant retrospect of history it gives, and anyhow, one can’t expect too much for half a dollar.

not accounted a complete success.

After the 50 were selected because of their success, their adolcent grades in the university were examined. Everyone of them had grades above 80 per cent and 78 per cent of these graduates had maintained an average of from 90 to 100 in their four years’ work, 19 per cent had grades of from 90 to 95, and 6 per cent had averaged from 95 to 90 per cent.

This correlation between scholastic standing and future success is worthy of every freshener’s consideration. Does high scholarship pay? Purdue answers “It does.”

SHEEPISH VICTORY.

The Women’s Costume Ball at the University of Montana, gives recently, was a big success. The price for the most beautiful costume went to a shepherdess while the one for the most originality went to a girl costumed as a silver dollar. One man was reported present, garbed as a woman, but he left mysteriously during the dancing.

The team's victory no more admirable than during last season. Quick is a 220-pound guard and is expected to give him Brown much trouble. When the two opponents face each other, it will be a battle between a powerful, hefty man, and a quick, light, but strong Irishman.

Built and weight will be against the Irish team. Notre Dame will be attempting to repeat the feat of the Mid-continental.

The average team weight of Notre Dame is 149 and that of St. Louis is 147. The Billiken backfield is twelve pounds heavier than the Irish backs to the man.

Coach Savage has been putting his men through hard drills preparatory to meeting the strong foe from South Bend, and though it is generally admitted that the Rockmen are superior to the St. Louis university eleven, the Irish mentor is looking forward to a hard-fought contest.

Large delegations of cities within a radius of 200 miles of St. Louis, will journey to the Mound to see Rockman's wonder machine in action.

Cesare Rocks and Keoghan were accompanied on the trip by the following players: B MD, Crow, Ellis, Murphy, May, Humminger, Parcell, Leonard, Bachelor, tankard—Beck, Oberst, Poppenberger, R. Miller, McHellen, Lalzotte—guards; Black, Begg, DAllesandro, Vern, Willow, Guise, Chockert, Harrington; center, Robert, Mulligan, Raker, quarterback—Stahlhauer, Rees, Kosinski, Tobin; fullback—Skaknowsky, D. Miller, Maker, Cornell, Hueson, Bergman; fullback—Skaknowsky, D. Miller, Maker, Cornell, Hueson, Bergman; halfback—McKenna, Keoghan, and D. Miller. The team arrived in the Mound City yesterday morning and was taken immediately to the Mayfair hotel, where the men will be quarantined during their stay. After the workout, consisting of a signal drill and later under-goings, was the major portion of the practice, which was the final one of the week. The workout was held on the Sportsman park grounds.
