THE PROFESSIONAL BOOSTERS

Avoid the noisy clang and prattle of the exponents of the "Notre Dame Spirit," there has grown up at this school a class of men which may be the most effective in the promotion of Notre Dame. These men have this distinguishing characteristic: They have no interest in the "Notre Dame Spirit." They understand the value of the "Notre Dame Spirit," but they are not interested in making it bloom. They work to distribute the DAILY, to make money for the paper or the press, or to honor a living person, who has a sense of merit and worthlessness.

This edition is one of commendation for the men who have been blessed with this happy spirit of helpfulness.

It is not necessary to make a list of those "professional boosters." Everyone on the campus knows that a certain group of students are not touched by the "spirit," and that other students—two charming couples—seem to have made mail, at the time when one was expected—bill $2.00—capital $2.10.

TWO-TWOFOLD

"Dear Sir—What is it?"--"Platers."

Can anyone tell us why it is so hard to make money among the mining— even among the dead? The little note-book has a blank space reserved for the answer.

Jack Cowen, he of old Corby, is pursuing a career in the manner of his forefathers. He is out of true style. He urges all to do their best, but he is the last to put his best efforts into the work. His room is on the third floor of Corby Hall, and there is no little note-book.

He is busy preparing a course for his senior students. The course in Christmas spirit and all that.

Jack says:"

"The Christmas spirit and all that.""

THE STUDENT CONVOCATION

Considered from every angle, the convocation held Friday in Washington Hall was a success.

The Student Activities Committee labored earnestly, and did the best they could, in behalf of student interests. It never was meant to be a borough between students and faculty. It should not be that now. There never can be any wide separation between the student and the institution. When the men who attend the school show the interest of the institution, it is understood that student interests are shared by the institution. Students will always have complaints. Sometimes there will be no cause for them. Sometimes they will be answered when misunderstandings are brushed aside, sometimes they appear when brought under discussion. A conversation such as that between teacher and student can work them out into the open. And a complaint is better aired than nursed along in the mind of a student.

Play-Semi-Finals in Billiard Tourney

The semi-final round of the annual semi-final billiard tourney being held in the Brownean and Carroll "casino" was played last night. O'Brien defeated Roberts and Wilson two-three. These two men will play for the championship in the roll starts, and the winner will meet the Brownean champion.

The committee in charge of the tourney announced last night that seven players will be in the tournament in the roll starts, and the winner will meet the Brownean champion.

The winner in each event will be awarded a silver-mounted loving cup while the two second-place winners will be given gold cups. The prizes will be displayed at "Hullins and Millers."

Changes Made In Holy Cross Order

Announcement was made Monday of what will be the great change in the observances of Rev.
Thomas Carey, former Father Donahe, G. A., and Rev. Collentrie, C.
G. A., and the new appointments are to become effective at once.

Father Collentrie has been transferred from the Holy Cross mission band to St. Joseph's novitiates, where he will be the new superior.

The former superior of the noviti-atives, Father Donaldson, will assume the same position at Missour.

With Pater Carey, Father Donaldson is well known to the students. He conducted the an-naudition student mission on the campus for the past few years. The willing head of Mission, Father Carey, will return to the mission band from which he was called two years ago to assume charge of the novitiate.

In his brief stay at the University in this capacity, Father Carey made impression on the students of the seminary and the University.

Indoor League

Being Organized

The work of organizing an indoor baseball league among the halls on the campus is now under geway, in charge of Gehrig and Colley of the College of St. Mary. All halls on the campus now have teams, and as soon as those of Walsh, Brownson and Sophomore—can be scheduled, a tournament will begin to be played in each hall.

The winner of the league title will be awarded a trophy cup which Brownson and Gehrig and College have secured for the purpose. Any team which loses three games in the league will drop out and the video will be awarded at room 6, Corby hall.

THE RUBDOWN

The West Point football directors are displaying an unusual eagerness to import a few of the football brilliant that "the ghost of the past season" has come up "for the world to admit.

Press dispatches from the East disclose the fact that Harry Wilkins, Jimmy Robertson and one or two other stars were being sought by the military academy for service in the Pointer's backfield.

Considering the necessity of being, these and other stars on the service being considered for positive positions on the mythical All-America, this does not seem fair to the men in the other colleges who went out for the team, but for whose services are considered as adequate to compete for All-America honors. If the All-America selections are made on the basis of all-round playing ability the six-year service man holds an undeniable advantage which will give him his berth.

Herbert Stager, brilliant half back on the Wolverine contingent for two years, and then leading man of the All-American Turks, boasts a unique record for his football career which will close next year as captain of the Michigan team.

In the six years that Stager played high school and college football he has never been a member of a losing team. Stager began his career under Glenn Thrall at Oak Park and during the four years that Stager was the star halfback of that team, the suburban champs never lost a game. In the two years that Stager has carried the colors of the West Pointers, he has had the pleasure of being a regular on the championship football team, although next year the Wolverines were joint holders of the title with Iowa and Illinois respectively.

If you have any fear at wanting law suits, we might give you some information on how to make a suit.

A spectator at the New York Pittsburgh baseball game last June has filed a suit for $10,000 as a result of being hit by a pop fly, thrown bysome fan who was siting in the upper tiers of the grand stand of Forbes field. You might arrange for a friend to sit in the upper tier and provide him with a case of empty pop bottles.
