CAMPUS BY-PATHS

Confuted! As the poet says: "And roast 'er weather it wad not.
And if it freest on every hill
And Boro's blows his blast so mild.
Confuted! I had hoped that we would have a fair winter.

And I have another cause for complaint. Jim Brown, the new captain, is famous for his slicker. They say he wears it to bed, but I don't believe that. The slicker is a rather big gaudy, but he can't kid us.

O'Keefe has a three-week tour, but he can't land out his voice well enough.

And if it rains, Ramon Navarro will be the first on the campus, deep in his wet suit, dodging the "Wally walk" -- can wear his slicker this way.

John Rourke, the humorist, has been seen with the admiring throng who have been the "wally walk" so favorably to the letter or passed and a delicious woman, who, they say, is from John, while the little lady waxed delicate.

John stated at the evening concert on "The French Song," for five minutes and forty seconds.

And a little later that same day, another stranger, Minnesota, forwarded a message that his data for the program was off. After the wire-tapping authorities, the students found it to be true. When they got the date with an evening again was over.

But a sight, from the window, of Claus Fitzgerald's new sweater must return many sentimental reminiscences to many things. We might enquire, when this man after all, does he ever stop shaving, and will he ever have a place of his own?

"The Hot Dog" than for a column which is to have a small price on a mile of 10 cents, and which doesn't mean to hurt or offend, but on the feathered tip of your pencil, that the sly trick rather than prick.

All-Campus tea-touch competition is growing in popularity. "Taste of the Town" is the name given to this event on Tuesday. Students from various groups compete to have the best mixture of tea from local establishments. The winner is decided by a panel of judges and the winner is awarded a prize.

The heavy lead that Joe Burke had in the race is still intact. Joe has been fasting for a few days and has lost over ten pounds, according to his scale readings.

The standing forgiveness of the football world should satisfy the demands of any old football fans. Yet there are still a few who are not satisfied. The very mention of the name "Tylor" brings forth a wave of excitement, again like the "mustache," which somehow seems to have a mysterious power over the football fans.

"I hereby enter the name of "Tylor" Tashoff in your touch-down column. As the name of the other Frenchman Tashoff was not made public before he retired to the field, he wrote me a note that he had entered." This is according to Tashoff himself.

"The accounting shark" Ed McLaughlin, of Sporting Echo, has been named the usual "scoop" for the day, as he has the ability to capture the biggest fish of the day. His work is eagerly awaited by the students, who are looking forward to his next column.

THE RUBDOWN

John Levi, full back of the Has­ ter Lamb and Rochester, chose for All-Western, passed consistent, and settled for 10, 10 and 10 yds.

The skill of the Indian's passing was exhibited on Carter field in 1921, when Notre Dame met Has­

ter. The clever Indian's passes could take the pass from center, run bow to his own goal five or eight yards, and then pass 20 or 30 yds to the receiver on an angle across the field.

Somebody may say it happens only in story books, but Detroit knows this happens. In the game with

Notre Dame a Michigan,

It is expected_C by the committee

The man that blocked and the man that recovered should have been on the same team.
