FARRELL RATES NOTRE DAME AS NATION'S BEST FOOTBALL TEAM OF Past Season

When conditions exist that make it impossible to pick a football team as the best, Farrell believes that Notre Dame is the natural choice. There are many football-playing communities that have a large one or two teams that have not been taken in by an invalid conclusion.

At various states in different parts of the United States, a January, tells me. And by someone whose total and displaying some pretty ornamental talent. And even with ample As far as is later, I"\n

Seventy-five Notre Dame alumni and guests were entertained at a banquet given in Fort Wayne, Indiana, by the Notre Dame Alumni association on November 25th.

The Rt. Rev. Father Walsh, president of the University, was the guest of honor at the dinner, and noted themes and alumni associations Father Thiele, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Fort Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Tackett were also present. The dinner was a complete success. "I am convinced," Father Walsh said, "that the best way to make a good man is by helping him.

THE DAILY QUESTIONNAIRE

Who says: do you think will be the Democratic and Republican nominee for President of the United States in 1924?

Where asked: Oliver H. North, designer.

Martin Sheehan, cameraman II.

"Oh, I guess Goodspeed will get it," said the man. "We don't think Smith will get the nomination.

Frank E. Aldis, III.

"Bumby will win," the man predicted. "The Democrats don't follow politics.

Norbert Espele, B. M. D. Jr.

"Who's winning? Well, the Republican party will win the election. Republicans have more votes than the President.-

The committee in charge of the banquet was Howard S., chairman, Francis E. Man, E. W. Evans, John B., and Frank H., chairman.

Rockne Is Declared Dean of All Coaches by Los Angeles Writer

By MARK KELLY

Los Angeles Examiner

The title of coach of the Notre Dame football team carried a little more significance this year than usual. The reason is that the team was the best in the country.

The term "coach" is a little misleading. The American Football Coaches Association is very strict about the use of the title. In Europe, Rockne was given the title of "Coach." In the United States, he is known as the "Headman" of the football team.

This last was the result of a speech at a meeting of the University of Notre Dame.

The title has been cold of late and because of the poor showing of the team, the term has been dropped. But the team has a brilliant coach, and if the term is ever returned, it will be given to him.

"I know some of the loyal readers will protest, even the implacable, that the title of coach is awarded to the coach of the team."

Well, wait a minute. Let us first consider the definition of a coach. A coach is a person who is employed to instruct and guide. He is the leader of the team.

I don't know how the term coach was derived. It may have come from the Greek word "kochos," which means "to instruct." But I think the term was derived from the Latin word "cognitio," which means "to know." It is the title given to the person who is employed to instruct and guide.

I believe that Rockne is the best coach in the country. He is the leader of the team. He is the one who is employed to instruct and guide. He is the one who is given the title of coach.

A HAPPY YEAR

Once upon a time it was considered fitting to address a friend with that friendly greeting, "A happy New Year". That simple day has passed. You no longer wish your friend happiness, or joy; you wish him instead something more than happiness, and something more admirable than God and man to Prosperity.

"A Prosperous New Year." Our scientists and philosophers have discovered that happiness is a myth—and so far they may be right—but we live in a time when the soul of a nation is feeling the absolute necessity of prosperity to modern ideals of beauty, and therefore—sincerely, successfully. Secondly, we are hoping that prosperity may bring them some of the ordinary-fashioned bread of happiness.

In everything but in our souls we are realistic. We want the truth on sex, on hygiene, on cotton politico, on pig-iron and pigs—we want the truth on everything. Therefore. We do not blame the first group for their fears. They have been warned.

Anyway, we hope that you may look into the mirror of your heart, many times during the year, and discover there contentment, or happiness; from our God. And you, more Christian (that is of many Christians) it doesn't matter a fig if you are prosperous or not.

WRITE A PLAY

The Daily questionnaire, presumably the pulse of opinion on the campus, was more than ordinarily interested in December 16. Every man questioned on the subject stated he would rather see a play than go to a football game. We know that a Poke at a Pickled Trotter is, but we say it sounds every so much more soul-satisfying than Prosperity.

While we wish we were as good as our friends and that they are good enough for you all a Prosperous New Year. But there are fairy tales in our head, and in our heart a feeling that all the Prosperity in the world is not worth two Pokes at a Pickled Trotter. We know that we know what a Poke at a Pickled Trotter is, but to us it sounds every so much more soul-satisfying than Prosperity.

THE INK WELL

By JOSEPH C. RYAN

As Old Doorway

Only a doorway that's weathered and scarred,

And once to its threshold would wander at night

Tired feet that would falter and fail.

But today there's a wind blowing from a new west

Past the doorway both panels shudder

With lavender sash to a spigot of some green

At the rain will wash down to the gutter.

"The Scrubbers' Book of Notre Daily Numbers," your guide to the week's happenings, is on sale for $1.00.

There is an irresistible note of a beautiful combination to Gipps's life of the spontaneity and idealism of young hearts. It is a unique collection, admirably selected and prepared. Poems of love, of happiness, of sorrow, of the battlefield, are included . . . a marvelous array of verse. Here one finds the joyous cry of glad youth; here the patient appeal of a girl's faith; a wide range of droll characters and amorous collections of melting.

Any attempt to select the most charming poems is difficult. The shorter ones are excellent. Among them are "Happy," by Frank N. Summerville, and "Reveries," by Professor George N. Blume. In "Keating and Crime" there is a strange beauty, dignity and wide wisdom. P. E., gives a brief clear flash of a beautiful vision.

Kennedy and Lieb in Irish Olympics

Notre Dame will be represented at the Irish Olympics in Dublin by two of the greatest track stars ever produced at the University, when Paul Kennedy and Tom Lieb join the Irish-American team in August to compete in the latest track classic to be established for universal competition.

Paul Kennedy, captain of the 1924 track team and one of the outstanding milers in college sports, has entered in the distance runs to compete with Irish runners from other parts of the world. Kennedy was also the mainstay of the Notre Dame harrier team for two years. He has been running the mile in 4:35, but considering the condition of the Irish leader this year, his mark is due to be slipped several seconds to 4:31.20.

Tom Lieb, who will enter in the distance, has been one of the most consistent performers in the field events and a versatile trackman of the highest type. Lieb won the state title in 1922 with a score of 147 feet, 4 inches. At the National Intercollegiate games in Chicago last summer, Lieb defeated Pyne, the I. A. C. star, with a heap of 151 feet, 6 inches.
