LADIES' QUARTET WELL RECEIVED

Laura Werno Company Pleasure Large Audience in Washington Hotel Rotunda.

The Lauren Werno Ladies' quartet returned to their home last evening after a successful tour of the capital. The audience was filled to capacity and the quartet gave an unexceptionally fine performance. They are considered as one of the most versatile quartets in the country. The reason for their success is the evident talent and skill of each member.

General Coxyx Talks to Commerce School Journalists

J. Steckleley, President of the DAILY, spoke before the students of the College of Commerce of the University of Notre Dame yesterday afternoon.

Though at times a little famous march to Washington in '94, of how the boys of C.M., were offed on the capital lawn, and how ever since it has been Italy, were all described in detail.

General Coxy spoke for an hour and seemed as happy as a man. To the President to the The students brought out many interesting places on this topic and showed the many organizations to which the students of the College of Commerce have contributed.

Two of General Coxyx's team are graduates of Notre Dame. His home is in Montana, Ohio.

TODAY'S QUESTIONNAIRE

What asked: What should be the organization of the "Federal Reserve System"?

Where asked: Car station.

Harlan Herman, Junior, III. Boestege.

"I think $3 should be charged for the fracle and $5 for the position. Seven or eight dollars is enough for the prom and $15 is our very best price."

Joseph Harmon, Ph.B., III, Sophomore.

"The frollee and ostielle, I believe, should be the same price to the prom and ball, I don't know whether it is too steep or not, but I think it would be less expensive."

Contest to be held at 7:30 tomorrow night in the Rotunda of the University of Notre Dame.

The Totem Club, in seeking a place in the "Puritus Festivitatis of a chariot," has asked for a place in the contest.

The Scrubbers will hold their first banquet of the year Wednesday evening at the Washington Hotel, which will be at 7:00 o'clock. Five dollars will be charged by the officers, including Honorary Treasurer, President, Vice-President, Secretary, and captain, and general admission will be charged, as well as all the undergraduates in the party. There will be no "wagging," that with a variant. It will be a formal affair, in which the Scrubbers will be admitted. The object is to raise money for the "Charity," which will be handed over to the students of the College of Commerce.

Record Class of Eighty-Five to Join Organization on Next Sunday Day Night.

Plans for the initiation of a class of 85 candidates into the campus's premier social organization (the best in our organization club) and the best in the University of Notre Dame. We want the students of the College of Commerce to take part in the initiation of a number of candidate classes until the next installation, which will take place in several months from now. Although this class is the largest, ever taken into the Notre Dame organization, it will be a great day for the students of the College of Commerce. We want the students of the College of Commerce to take part in the initiation of a number of candidate classes until the next installation, which will take place in several months from now.

Father John F. O'Hara, Prefect of Religion, addressed the club, his topic being "What is Religion?"

The Knights of Columbus, the oldest and most Royal Order in the world, have decided to take part in the initiation of a number of candidate classes until the next installation, which will take place in several months from now.

The contest will be held Thursday, which issues of The DAILY will be brought to the campus, Monday, January 28. All ballots must be filled out by election day by that time will be invalid.

Ball Committee Men Meet at Noon Today

There will be a meeting of the Senior Ball Committee today at noon in the library. Important business is to be transacted. It is imperative that every member be present.

This is the first meeting after the election of the Senior Class of '94, and the new changes have been called together. The only business discussed was the organization of the committee and the plans for the future.

In charge of the progress of Murray Brownson gained the trophy by defeating God. Murray was awarded with both men playing according to the rules and the points were scored by the Brownson team's strategy. With the score locked at 0-0 for several rounds, the game failed to finish because of fatigue. Both teams were the same, one having played Murray to the long run and set him in the lead. The final score was 100 to 88.

(Continued on Page 4)

THE DAILY ANNOUNCES ITS BEST-ORGANIZATION CONTEST

Organizations Divided Into Two Classes: Ballots to Be Printed in Two Classes; Loving Cups for Winners.

The DAILY, taking cognizance of the fact that there are at Notre Dame a host of organizations that are branches of national organizations, announces this contest as the means for the gratitude and admiration of the students of Notre Dame. Those winning organizations, also, will receive more than the vote—the DAILY will present each with a handsome silver loving cup, donated by Dr. Steckleley of South Bend.

Because their original inspiration did not come from men living on the campuses of the world, but from their branch or national organizations, will be honored. This will enable all those organizations in the world to work together and have their good works recognized.

The DAILY will publish the balloting in The DAILY, and those organizations that have worked hard and deserve to be honored, will be recognized.

All native organizations will be divided into two classes: (1) Secular and (2) Religious.

The entire organization of The DAILY will be printed on the ballots in The DAILY, and those who publish The DAILY will be able to vote in their respective classes.

To this ballot every vote must sign his name this year. It is decided that one man may not vote twice in the same class. These ballots will be brought to the campus in the boxes before the conclusion of the contest.

The contest in this case takes on a purely partisan point of view, The DAILY's aim will be totally thwarted if one candidate should win. We do not want those organizations which he considers best in their respective classes, whether he changes to another organization in that class, or whether he belongs to one of the organization of the University of Notre Dame. We want the students of the College of Commerce to take part in the organization of the University of Notre Dame. We want the students of the College of Commerce to take part in the organization of the University of Notre Dame. We want the students of the College of Commerce to take part in the organization of the University of Notre Dame.

In looking over the field of organizations this high standard should be maintained. Most of our organizations have done the most we can. This is our goal. We should be proud of our organization, and it can only be attained if every man, and it's his conscience, and not his prejudice, be his guide.

The contest will be held Thursday, which issues of The DAILY will be brought in the campus, Monday, January 28. All ballots must be filled out by election day by that time will be invalid.

Get ready—look for the field—

Ball Committee Men Meet at Noon Today

There will be a meeting of the Senior Ball Committee today at noon in the library. Important business is to be transacted. It is imperative that every member be present.

This is the first meeting after the election of the Senior Class of '94, and the new changes have been called together. The only business discussed was the organization of the committee and the plans for the future.

In charge of the progress of Murray Brownson gained the trophy by defeating God. Murray was awarded with both men playing according to the rules and the points were scored by the Brownson team's strategy. With the score locked at 0-0 for several rounds, the game failed to finish because of fatigue. Both teams were the same, one having played Murray to the long run and set him in the lead. The final score was 100 to 88.

(Continued on Page 4)
The Turnover

“Every teebotch is apt to magnify his own fellows in the fishy frintitude of a teacher, or rather the admission of a frak teacher. It is not strange that it should be so, but it is normal for it to be admitted. For the teacher is the itself a large part of his teaching, and if he wants him to fulfills his own intentions or to see lies behind them.

Being always human, and not al- ways perfect, the student turns the tricks he knows—or which he believes he knows—and his eyes may be vastly exaggerated. Therefore memory magnifies his subject more frequently than himself, and thus, since every indi- vidual, the universe is mini- mized. Teachers are rarely at fault themselves, which is why they do not think, but because they think in nonlanguage, they mistakenly believe to be the cosmic system.

Poetry may save them from this, but our friend offers us the will—but each rescue work is the work for which he learns. For “philosophy is the art of seeing things whole,” or, if you wish, to see all things at their best. A teacher who does not think things whole is no teacher. A teacher who thinks only in terms of his subject, he himself does not think at all is a monstrously.

The philosophy is able to make a difference to the subject. They can be taken up by others where teachers have failed or by themselves, not only because the subject is by itself a human thing, but it is a human demand to transcend limits, to the unclassifiable business of departments of knowledge.

It is evident to him from which friends of our authors as we will—but each rescue work is the work for which he learns. For “philosophy is the art of seeing things whole,” or, if you wish, to see all things at their best. A teacher who does not think things whole is no teacher. A teacher who thinks only in terms of his subject, he himself does not think at all is a monstrously.

The philosophy is able to make a difference to the subject. They can be taken up by others where teachers have failed or by themselves, not only because the subject is by itself a human thing, but it is a human demand to transcend limits, to the unclassifiable business of departments of knowledge.

It is evident to him from which friends of our authors as we will—but each rescue work is the work for which he learns. For “philosophy is the art of seeing things whole,” or, if you wish, to see all things at their best. A teacher who does not think things whole is no teacher. A teacher who thinks only in terms of his subject, he himself does not think at all is a monstrously.

The philosophy is able to make a difference to the subject. They can be taken up by others where teachers have failed or by themselves, not only because the subject is by itself a human thing, but it is a human demand to transcend limits, to the unclassifiable business of departments of knowledge.

It is evident to him from which friends of our authors as we will—but each rescue work is the work for which he learns. For “philosophy is the art of seeing things whole,” or, if you wish, to see all things at their best. A teacher who does not think things whole is no teacher. A teacher who thinks only in terms of his subject, he himself does not think at all is a monstrously.

The philosophy is able to make a difference to the subject. They can be taken up by others where teachers have failed or by themselves, not only because the subject is by itself a human thing, but it is a human demand to transcend limits, to the unclassifiable business of departments of knowledge.

It is evident to him from which friends of our authors as we will—but each rescue work is the work for which he learns. For “philosophy is the art of seeing things whole,” or, if you wish, to see all things at their best. A teacher who does not think things whole is no teacher. A teacher who thinks only in terms of his subject, he himself does not think at all is a monstrously.

The philosophy is able to make a difference to the subject. They can be taken up by others where teachers have failed or by themselves, not only because the subject is by itself a human thing, but it is a human demand to transcend limits, to the unclassifiable business of departments of knowledge.

It is evident to him from which friends of our authors as we will—but each rescue work is the work for which he learns. For “philosophy is the art of seeing things whole,” or, if you wish, to see all things at their best. A teacher who does not think things whole is no teacher. A teacher who thinks only in terms of his subject, he himself does not think at all is a monstrously.

The philosophy is able to make a difference to the subject. They can be taken up by others where teachers have failed or by themselves, not only because the subject is by itself a human thing, but it is a human demand to transcend limits, to the unclassifiable business of departments of knowledge.

It is evident to him from which friends of our authors as we will—but each rescue work is the work for which he learns. For “philosophy is the art of seeing things whole,” or, if you wish, to see all things at their best. A teacher who does not think things whole is no teacher. A teacher who thinks only in terms of his subject, he himself does not think at all is a monstrously.
Don't Wait About It
Write About It
This is your column

The DAILY is not responsible for any opinions or errors expressed in this column. The opinions contained represent the writer's views only, and do not necessarily reflect the views of the editor or the newspaper.

From Off Stage

At THEATRE

At The Palace

If anyone should drive up and ask you how the bill is at the Palace this week, just say "Yes," and you'll be pretty nearly right. It starts off like any ordinary show but quickly slides into high, and keeps pining speed until it finally climaxes to establish a new track record. A more detailed and less figurative account of the performance follows:

Madelyn Young and her Southern Singers were first on the program, and the quartet worked some fancy harmonies in a pleasing manner. One of the features of the performance was Miss Young's "World of Make Believe," a song sung as if for the little ones. It was included in the repertoire.

Pitser and Day were very good. When there is a clever fellow, and a girl with a good voice and clever, you may be sure of something good.

"The World of Make Believe," amusingly sung, brought the audience to their feet. Time after time, at the close of a song, the audience would burst into applause. The pit was packed with people.

Miss Faye and Mr. Day have an act entitled "How High Is Up," and it's what little folks would call a scream. If you are normally con- structed and have a weak heart, good blackface comedy, you will not get a laugh out of this act.

The concluding number of the program was an acrobatic act by Yosuma and company, and again you must pronounce it very good. These Orientals have guest quotes of a lot of money on their decorative effects, and the results are certainly gratifying. As for the acrobats themselves, they are the best you have seen for quite awhile.

A fairly good picture, called "No More Women," Topics of the Day, and a Pathé News complete a program of exceptional merit — E. C.

Widely Known Man to Address Club

Dr. Frank C. Whitmore, professor of organic chemistry at Northwestern University, will address the members of the Northern Indiana Section of the American Chemical Society at a regular meeting of the society in Chemistry hall, at 4:30 Wednesday evening. Professor Whitmore's subject will be "The Human Side of Mercury."

Beginning February 1, Doctor Whitmore will be acting head of the Department of Chemistry at Northwestern. He is the greatest living American authority on the chemistry of organic mercury compounds. He is an active worker in the Chicago section and is a former chairman of the Organic Division of the American Chemical Society.

Professor Whitmore's subject, which will be presented in a popular manner, promises to appeal to both teachers and students. Everyone interested is cordially invited.

Dr. J. A. Steckley, Dentistry and Medicine, 511 S. Wabash.

"A Passionist is a Man Who Loves All His Bitter Pills"

Remember

"You can't be optimistic with mistyopes"

MEIGS

207 W. Washington Street

Oliver Hotel Bldg.

"Wrigley's"

After Every Meal

Have a packet in your pocket for ever-ready refreshment.

Alkaline dentifrice, strong, bright, healthy, white and healthy.

Mr. Grundy

INDIANA'S LARGEST DENTAL OFFICE

Not only in size and equipment but quality of work as well.

J. T. HOLMES DENTIST

Corner Michigan and Washington Sts.

Over Frank Drug Company

Book for Signs

Lincoln 6119

Twente, January 16, 1914

NOTRE DAME DAILY
The Rubdown by Tom Coman

Notre Dame again stepped into the classroom, it was announced that Frank Shughaashey, football coach of the University of Montreal, and former Notre Dame football star, is the exponent of a change in the rules that would make possible the playing of international games as well as intercollegial during the fall season.

The outstanding difference between the American and Canadian system is the rule regarding the formation of interference. The American "Hoyale" is much more intricate in its detail than the interference. In Canada, interference is restricted to yards in front of the line of scrimmage and only available to the ball carrier of the line when the ball is put into play are allowed to interfere. In this country the interference is unrestricted.

Some of the other differences that mark the Canadian game are lack of the use of the forward pass, and a rule that allows the Canadian teams but three downs to make 10 yards. The neighboring pigskin chasers have yet to put their faith in the forward pass, but they consented that the Canadian rule regarding the forward pass would be an advantage if adopted in this country.

In Canada, kicking behind the opposing team's goal count for a score, unlike the American form of the game where a kick over the line in play line and kicking, the Yalemen have the better of the American.

Next fall, the McGill school is on the opinion that the McGill players excel the Americans in open field running, and that the Canadian victory is on the line play and line plunging, the Yalemen have the better of the arguements.

Speaking of the Canadian football situation, we are reminded that the American athletes with their wide field of open spaces wherein to set up their supremacy, have not lacked in the ability to take up the king sport of another country and with it the wealth of the nation.

Last year, a group of Rugby enthusiasts who had played the game in the United States, especially in the New York and Boston areas, entered the 1920 Olympics, and in December of that year, the game brought home international honors to Uncle Sam. Again this year a few veterans from the same group fostered the sport and after obtaining enough finances to put them in Paris, are ready to try on the American Rugby Hymn against the best from the British Isles.

It is interesting to note at this point that Great Britain seems to be interested in the several systems in the Olympic games and instead of counting the first six places, count only the first place. The winner of the game under such a rule would certainly have a coltette of "superbomcines."

Although the spring running period has not yet arrived, there has been a great deal of football coaches during the past few days. This is for the way from pressure of private business to the experience of a poor football season.

With the close of the football season at Notre Dame, Coach Keough began the campaign to get every man in the school out for athletics that was possible. Beginning with the compulsory physical education for freshmen, Keough has given special attention to freshman foot-

Murray and Hall Won

(The continued from Page 1.)

The result of the billiard tilts, however, furnished the "surprise of the day" in the fact that the regulars in O'Neill's are able to put down the new men that have been lined up on that floor.

Murray and Hall had won the first round of the contest, then Murray beat Hall in the second round, with the former carrying the favor.

But Hal, by playing a steady game, managed to take the lead from the first inning. He added points to his block with every appearance at the table. It was not until Hall had had the second half of his block that Russell started to catch up. In three successive turns at the table and after T. B. Russell had tied the score. However, Hall followed with a turn to tie him again. At the score at 15 to 8, two loving cups, nicely engraved were presented -

The Book Shop
North Michigan St.
Books and Supplies

Eyes Examined
by H. Lemontre
South Bend's Leading Ophthalmologist
222 S. Michigan Street
Phone Lincoln 6004

John H. Ellis
Optometrist
Optometrist
510-11-12-13
Phone Main 519

Office: Geo. Colfax Ave. and Colfax Ave. Colfax Ave.
Telephone.
South Bend, Ind.

The Book Shop
North Michigan St.
Books and Supplies

Eyes Examined
by H. Lemontre
South Bend's Leading Ophthalmologist
222 S. Michigan Street
Phone Lincoln 6004

John H. Ellis
Optometrist
510-11-12-13-14-15
Phone Main 519

The Book Shop
North Michigan St.
Books and Supplies

Eyes Examined
by H. Lemontre
South Bend's Leading Ophthalmologist
222 S. Michigan Street
Phone Lincoln 6004

John H. Ellis
Optometrist
510-11-12-13-14-15
Phone Main 519

The Book Shop
North Michigan St.
Books and Supplies

Eyes Examined
by H. Lemontre
South Bend's Leading Ophthalmologist
222 S. Michigan Street
Phone Lincoln 6004

John H. Ellis
Optometrist
510-11-12-13-14-15
Phone Main 519

The Book Shop
North Michigan St.
Books and Supplies

Eyes Examined
by H. Lemontre
South Bend's Leading Ophthalmologist
222 S. Michigan Street
Phone Lincoln 6004

John H. Ellis
Optometrist
510-11-12-13-14-15
Phone Main 519

The Book Shop
North Michigan St.
Books and Supplies

Eyes Examined
by H. Lemontre
South Bend's Leading Ophthalmologist
222 S. Michigan Street
Phone Lincoln 6004

John H. Ellis
Optometrist
510-11-12-13-14-15
Phone Main 519

The Book Shop
North Michigan St.
Books and Supplies

Eyes Examined
by H. Lemontre
South Bend's Leading Ophthalmologist
222 S. Michigan Street
Phone Lincoln 6004

John H. Ellis
Optometrist
510-11-12-13-14-15
Phone Main 519