INDIANA WHIPS IRISH LOOPMEN

One Point Margin Given Indians; Contest One of Best This Season.

The Notre Dame basketball quintet prototype will be confronted by a dangerous squad tonight as it meets the University of Indiana for the first time in its current season.

A final score of 63 to 51 was the result of the game, thus giving the Hoosiers a slight advantage for the victory.

The faculty engineers were present to lend their usual support and encouragement to the men from the South Bend campus.

THE SCHEDULE

Parker Gym, 8:45 P.M.

INDIANA V. NOTRE DAME

WOMEN'S TRACK MEET

Saturday night's competition was a record one for the women's team, as their performances were watched by an enthusiastic audience of faculty members.

INDIANA UNIVERSITY SHOOTS OLD TOWN ASAP.

The University of Indiana women's track team opened their season with a great victory over the Notre Dame women's team, which was held in the Notre Dame gym.

The meet was an exciting one, as the Indiana team showed their prowess in a variety of events.

One of the highlights of the meet was the women's relay race, which was won by the Indiana team.

The team was composed of the following members: Florence Young, Mary Jones, Elizabeth Smith, and Helen Thompson.

The meet was held in the Notre Dame gym, and was attended by a large audience.

The women's team proved their strength with their excellent performances, and were able to claim a well-deserved victory.
THE TURNOVER

We read quite recently that "regulation is the greatest problem of life." In substance this is somewhat of a paradox on the Ten Commandments. It is the science of moral philosophy in a nutshell. Despite all our lamentation by deleting the quality of a nation the easy sim- ple regulation is the greatest problem of life.

Regulation means acting according to a scheme. A scheme is what is meant by a law. It is based on that part of history in which fault is very clearly shown by the amount of ideas do not run on wheels but have to be present. Regulation is the result of organized thinking on a complex question.

We are to believe that ideas do not run on wheels but have to be present. Regulation is the result of organized thinking on a complex question.

The street is an emblem of the mind, a figure of life. It is true that traffic does not always travel in straight lines (as the popes of the popular jibe), but they never do so at the speed of light or in straight lines. If there is no regulation, no mental traffic cop, they are always bound to get into a jam. In the paths of the forbidden give-aways and the public are always bound to get into a jam. In the paths of the forbidden give-aways and the public are always bound to get into a jam.

It is disorder in the congest- ing of thoughts and the in- terdependence of individuals, the mind, prosperity, progress, increases life's "great- est problem." The ink well is life, the inkwell is the mind, the inkwell is the mind, the inkwell is the mind, the inkwell is the mind.

THE NINETY-FOUR

Somebody, somewhere, said not so long ago, that from the mass of one hundred college graduates, one is likely to rise to the Polo and butter class, per- haps another to the Topper class. Five others became comfortable and found themselves after twenty years at the small yacht and chauffeur stage. The other ninety-four presum- ably are the goatees in the great section of the American people who drive their own Buicks to the golf club. In other words, dreaming about being rich is something else again.

Yet the ninety-four presum- ably work as at the sun." Our business is the ends on which the sun" our business is the ends on which the sun" our business is the ends on which the sun" our business is the ends on which the sun. They have been sleeping and when that sickly deary, has, nowhere else to eat. Jammed in a hull, straight rout of business can never leave the road and jump the fence into finer. For the portion of ninety-four men out of three hundred now on the campus. The following is the proper choice of a career.

Between now and Commencement we shall have something to offer on the subject of "Careers." Watch for the space scheduled for the Life Insurance Company of North America.

Avel
Comparisons are odious, known; but if the scent from the comparison were the perfume of justice, the comparison should be made.

I have just come to Notre Dame after having spent a year and a half at a much larger university. I am not sure whether the better library of which I am writing, appeared recently in this column, was a form of gloating or whether the writer was in earnest. No matter, I shall take you seriously and run chances of having the double “O” in “good” hung on me. Having been trained to use the library as my most helpful tool in getting an education, about the first place I got to know on the campus was Lemannic. I do not expect to find the latest fiction in a university library; and in addition, I am not in a position to judge all phases of library service at Notre Dame. But this I do know, I have never met better cooperation or more courteous service than I have found at the reference and circulation desks in Lemannic. I marvel how the reference librarians keep it up. I sat watching the demands made upon him and the eagerness with which he helped. Any one who has ever used a reference library will recognize that at Notre Dame we have the right man in the right place.

The mistress of circulations has not only been prompt, efficient, courteous, and willing; but I have yet to see her idle. I was surprised when she offered to send me a card notifying me when a book I wanted was to be in. Omits the lady at the circulation desk when enabling the service at the library. Some things could be improved. Students could be taught to use the resources of the library intelligent. Dr. (The unknown words must take place at the time and the reference and circulation desks.) The energy of the reference librarian and of the mistress of circulation should be conserved by having pages to run for books and materials.

"Maytime," a film taken from the novel of the same name by Bodie Young, is the feature picture at the LaSalle for the entire week.

Ethel Shannon and Harrison Ford fill the principal roles, and are supported by a large and very good cast, including the "famous most beautiful girls in Hollywood," representing the chorus of a musical. They jabb things. The screen was set up amazingly, and incidentally play the golf with the reputation of the bunch.

The plot is wearisome at times and Miss Shannon is guilty of giving me a feeling of profound depression by her frequent weaving of yells. For all these reasons the pictures are consistently excellent, as usual.

The first part of the story great for the principles, due to the fact that a gold mine was discovered a week late, and the circumstances fail to entangle under the library. The reference librarian, when he so as optional lightning bolt iron out our opera and finished the performance in a manner that could not fail to satisfy Cupid and the audience.—P. C. M.

Manns, the Indiana mentor, sent legends to add a few points to pull the game out of the fire. Logans caug1h a big expectation and the Hoosier roopers were forced to swallow a bitter defeat which for a moment looked like a triumph.
Kline and Crowe were the high sides of the Irish aggregation and played a large part in the second period comeback despite the desperate defense of Indiana hiloers.

The third series of the intercollegiate relay were run off Tuesday in the gym where the record of a 1:37 3-4, made by Sophomores last week, was lowered to a 1:37 flat by the Carroll act at when it defeated Grotf.
Sophomores, who did not have to teen because of the absence of Elmore, attempted to better this new mark in a race against time, but failed.
Badin 'forfeited to Cadillac, Freshman troubled Browmson, and Walsh beat the Day-Dogs in the other race. As the leagues start now, Carol, Freeman and Sophomore are tied for the leadership.
