CAMPUS BY-PATHS

Reflect a moment (as you read this in your eight o'clock) on the multitude of things we, as students, have to do. When all is said and done, I'm bound to echo the sentiments of the 1880s philosopher, who was quoted as saying, "Nothing is too small to do at a meeting of that body Wednesday night, and I do encourage you to bring it up."

By the Rev. Dr. Wittenberg.

PENANCE IS URGED ON STUDENT BODY

Fasting Not Necessary if Some Other Penitential Act Is Performed, They Are Told.

"I do not say that fasting and, to dust thou shalt return," is the key to the non-penitential way of life, as set forth by the Rev. Charles G. Miltenor, O. C. S. C., in a short discourse preached at the celebration of the solemn high Mass of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary in the Church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart.

The spirit of Lent and the observance which those periods do demand were set forth by Father Miltenor. Fasting, he said, was not necessarily ironical in character. "To fast thus means that some sort of act or acts of self-denial, besides penitential acts, should be practiced.

Father Miltenor, who was the celebrant and preacher for the Rev. Thomas Steiner, G. C. C. deacon, and the Rev. Bernard Lang C. S. C., subdeacon, the Rev. John Dineen, O. C. S. C., as master of ceremonies.

Huether Elected Drama Club Head

Ted Huether was elected president of the Drama club at a meeting held Tuesday evening, June 20. He was elected over Claude Whitman, vice-president; and Ed Hansen, treasurer.

Plays to be given by the club in the near future were discussed at this meeting. It is probable that the debuts will be made by The Servants. "The Servants" is a one-act play by the Scribblers. "The Servants" is "highly recommended" as a play.

Debaters to Meet De Pauw, Wabash

Affirmative Urges Schools Compulsory Settlement of Friday Dispute

On Friday night at 8 o'clock, Washington will witness the debate between De Pauw and Wabash over the question of whether or not compulsory military training is necessary in the educational process. The affirmative side will argue that compulsory training is necessary in the educational process.

The debate will be held in the S. C. A. to fill the vacancy made by Professor Robert Cuthill. Father John R. S. C. A. Curtain were discussed. A meeting of the club will be held Wednesday to determine the place to which to participate in the carnival on June 30. The club plans to be represented in the carnival.

Reports of the Cotillon and French club were read and approved at this meeting.

The Notre Dame Tennis Association will meet on Thursday, June 24, in the Student Gymnasium, to name officers and plan tournaments. The club will meet at 8:30 o'clock.

Walsh Hall Residents Discuss Disturbances

The residents of Walsh hall held a meeting last night in the small study chambers at 7 o'clock. Edward Ditson, chairman of the Walsh house committee, which is composed of all the seniors residing in the hall, presided at the session, which threatened at times to break into a virtual riot.

It was announced that the chairman of the committee had the authority to turn over any resident raising undue disturbances. If these were in evidence again after disturbances, said the chairman, the privileges of the house committee were drawn.

It was decided that the students would purchase a sanitary pump for the Walsh hall chapel, the estimated cost of which was $30.

On Seeing Oak Trees Laden With Leaves At the End of Winter
You may ask: "Is it Spring?"

That's what we've all been out looking for these past few weeks, and that's why we find ourselves out looking for it. If you've been asking yourself: "Is it Spring?"

Hilarielle Bellomo's visit to the United States this week meant a whole new look for Oak Trees. A new form of Oak Tree just published by Harper's Magazine with the title "The Eternal Spring," is now being sold for $2.50. A whole new look for Oak Trees means a whole new look for the world.

So, here's to the Eternal Spring, to the new look for Oak Trees. May it bring a new look for the world.

SAINT THOMAS AQUINAS

Six hundred and fifty years have elapsed since the most saintly of scholars and the most scholarly of saints expired in Fossa-Napura; yet his name and his works still live at that time has not diminished, but rather has increased steadily with the passage of years. The observant student has long found his name more honored and his influence more thoroughly appreciated than ever before. So it is most fitting that the philosophers of Notre Dame should take up the work of the great St. Thomas in the University. And we acknowledge the debt which we owe to the Chief of the Scholastics.

Even St. Thomas was not greater perfection without us, but the effect of his death on the church was not only on the church, but on the whole world. The work which immortalized his name, would not have been written.

And at Naples in 1775, after he had completed his treatise on the Existence of God, St. Thomas saw the light, and instantly a voice preceded from the crucifix, saying "Thou hast wrought a work of the utmost splendor, which thou hast not done, before the world." Thomas replied: "None other than Thyself, Lord."

Should there be any institution suitable to the Lorriets, for further productions of the screen, "Stracamouche" would demand a position of highest honor and great consequence, so that in accordance with merit, it might have its proper measure of admiration. We have often attended these plays that were described as "remains" but, strangely enough, we never experienced that elusive feeling until we viewed this talent of Mr. Rex Ingram. In addition to this "remains," it is difficult to describe; we had a pleasant feeling that we were wise to see them, and that a tribute has been paid to our individual taste of admiration.

Should you happen to be "acquainted with the Qabson lightful..." for Business and have the "highest praise" for "the court of Lewis, Hilborn, and Rumen Navarro, you are capable of carrying a play of this type to an extent that you will achieve the most splendid dramatic epicure.

Mr. Navarro, as Andre Louis Moreau, is warmly praised by Sidney Skjeldar, the Bearcamouche of the highest generation, for his "interpretation of Stracamouche." And, so he may be "disregard of the rights of man is equal only to its total disregard of personal daring..." these characters are delighted.

George Heilmann, who took the part of the brutal margy-go-round "in "Murphy-Ground," is in Boston, the poack-marked revolution, he bears an enemy resemblance to original pictures of the real Danton, and there will be critical of his work.
