BURKE IS NEW HEAD OF THE SCRIBBLES

Harry McBreire Resigns Because of Ill Health; Patrick Is Made Member.

Joseph Burke, who was elected President of The Scribbles to succeed McBreire, has announced that he is forced by his own ill health to resign his position at last night's following the club's election of McBreire as President and his final acceptance, John Breanen, was announced as the President of The Scribbles. The membership of the club will thus be at a minimum of forty, the number of students who have resigned to the presidency, from which Joseph Burke emerged the victor. His short speech of resignation was followed by the reading of papers by James Johnson of the Department of Education.

The Scribbles is in charge of the Press Committee, and together with that of the Education Department.

THE CHURCH OF OUR LADY OF THE SACRED HEART AT NOTRE DAME

This is the largest college chapel in the United States, built in the form of a basilica and 275 feet long and 114 feet wide at the transept. The foundations were laid on the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, December 8, 1888, and the chapel consecrated (as shown by the date) December 8, 1898, the feast of Our Lady of Sorrows, the golden jubilee. The church includes a chancel and seven apsidal chapels, with fine stained glass windows, together. It is good standard of Gothic throughout; and from the choir loft, looking down the avenues of light, one recognizes the suggestion in aspiration in the tall columns, branching out in the apses, reminiscent of the forms of the Gothic in the form.

The windows are one of the chief glories of the church, and their splendid beauty is the result of a careful study. Working in stained glass is one of the few remaining mediums of art expression, and the choice of a group of artists with a need for the fresh inspiration of high art is a step forward. Our Lady of Sorrows, the golden jubilee, the golden jubilee, is still handcrafted, although innovations are made by modern mechanical and time-saving processes. The windows in our church are genuine.

The architectural mind that conceived the idea, made the first small drawings, and directed the work were the only ones that had a clear idea of what a church should be. If any good standard of Gothic throughout; and from the choir loft, looking down the avenues of light, one recognizes the suggestion in aspiration in the tall columns, branching out in the apses, reminiscent of the forms of the Gothic in the form.

At the Blackstone
Greater love no man hath, that is lay down life for his adopted mother, unless he be for his mother-in-law.

"Strangers" stresses the fact that even on the shelves of a bar-room nook there may be a heart of feverish hard heart.

It firmly resolves itself to being some sort of a circus, and every downtown or out-town scintilating a strip.

These cupboards come have, of late, blasted our faith in the feigned breast of the government.

We're convinced that justice is no longer blind, but shaved and dumb as well.

The wrong man has been convicted in sight of some ten oranges by some one.

Something should be done about it, or soon.

The plot of the ordinary red incredibles is in being fairly interesting.

The G. H. Henry sort of a way is very different, Richard Lews, Sue, and Tully Marshall compose, or can.

It is good from the outside, and after seeing it is possible to corroborate our outside impression.

The Colleen Ambassadors are left from the all-embracing class of "pretty good" by Lynn and Lenore Johnson, who, according to Anna Patrois and Florence Rieg, are the class stars chill dust in the business. You will find them with Anna and Nels.

At the Palace

What a difference a few days make! If we were to split a graph to represent the respective qualities of the last few weeks of weather at the Palace, the result would be an encouraging upward curve. We are in spite of it all roomy, for improvement, they're getting warm--and who knows? The next one might be pretty hot.

First in importance and last on the program is the longest-running of the house, and much press-assorted Olga Myra, with her South Bend Symphony. Miss Myra plays the violin well and dances very cleverly, while attired in a costume designed to prevent any coming of her style. The symphonists are fairly good.

George Armstrong gives the impression that he was just passing by, and dropped in at the party to sing a few songs. George has what the character schools call "personality plus," which added to his good voice and some clever songs, make the act a success.

Watson, the hamster! Miss and Mr. Werner prove that it takes more than black faces and lead stockings to make an act funny. The humor is very crude and produces on the subject the sensation of being tickled by a shovel.

Miss Jeannette Childs is rather a good comedienne, with some new songs and a knock of imitating Charlie Chaplin. Her act is well received.

The Russian Trio consists of cellists who balance everything but their acts. They "crescendo" on time.

Spring Weather Due
On St. Patrick's Day

When daisies begin to sprout it is a question that has been perplexing many for years. The weather man and the almanac always disagree. The "White Plumes" winter, as frequently upset the calculations of both.

And now another authority appears and will tell us the day that morns in that retiring season. "Sure, St. Patrick's Day is the first day of spring, and it would take an Ormiston to deny it," said Mike.

Denny's Orchestra on Vaudeville Stage
Harry Donny's Oliver Hotel orchestra, which will present a feature of his orchestra at the Vaudeville stage, is composed of Notre Dame students. Harry Denny is the leader, who is in charge of the orchestra at the College of Law, and at present is practicing for his engagement in the show.

Vicke Labedz, a product of Portland, Ohio, will appear at the orchestra. Mabel Zampa, Michigan, and Florence Wither, Merill, are also prominent in the orchestra. The orchestra has a large body of music, and is well known in the city of Portland, Ohio, will play with his trombone. John Davis, a member of the orchestra, will play in the violin with Mr. Denis and his orchestra. The orchestra will appear at the drama.

The Oliver Hotel orchestra has made plans and arrangements for the presentation of the latest dance music, and will entertain the patrons in a style that is a real original in a fashion. Mr. Denny receives regularly the latest records recorded by the leaders and other well known artists and will have the best of the latest show before they are placed on sale.

The orchestra has received several requests for engagements, but has refused them. The Redpath Orchestra was anxious to get the orchestra booked on its circuit, and the Carterton Orchestra of Cleveland was anxious to bring Mr. Denny and his associates to their fashionable establishment.

JUNIORS ARE AGAIN URGED TO SECURE PROM TICKETS
The sale of tickets to the Junior Prom will in all probability be terminated before March 20th, the date originally set for it to close. Only 295 tickets will be sold. To date the sale has been very lively, and with the number of senior reservations already made there is every likelihood of being sold out. The sale will be opened to seniors on March 15th, at which time the tickets will be distributed to them in the order in which their names appear on the waiting list.

The chairman of the Committee for the Prom is an active official and the committee's plan to see one of the following top men immediately: William Hurley, William Brice, William MacNish, John Need, and John Dyer and John Joiner, alternates.

The members of the winning team were: Paul Brown, Philip Moore, Ben Brown, and Sydney Brown. The team is composed of Ray Cunningham, William Coney, Mark Hite, and Paul Harrington, alternates.

The members of both teams were treated to a delicious dinner dinner, which is customarily given by the faculty of St. Mary's.
