Clement Wood, novelist, poet and lecturer, will deliver a lecture at 8:00 o'clock Monday night in Washington Student Center.

Mr. Wood is a writer of the American literary generation, a scholar and poet. His contributions have appeared in the best periodicals.

In choosing for his topic "The American Negro in Song and Story," Mr. Wood has a subject that is fascinating to students of negro life and religion and literature. He has chosen a subject that is timely, of the moment, and one that is sure to interest and entertain.

The lecture will be well read and will be a delight to all who attend.

New 'Alumnus' Deals With Science School

The "Alumnus" for March contains a feature article by Mr. William Weikert, President, who has been writing for the magazine for over a year. The article is an interesting one and deals with the college from its inception. The article is well written and will be enjoyed by all who read it.

The magazine also contains a feature article by Mr. John H. Smith, President, who has been writing for the magazine for over a year. The article is an interesting one and deals with the college from its inception. The article is well written and will be enjoyed by all who read it.

Football Drill halted by Snow

The spring weather which invited the football outdoor activities for a few more days was broken by the sudden change in the weather and the drill of the past few days was suspended. The team is expected to resume practice after the weather clears up.

ARDE AND MONEY

The absorbed race were among moving picture companies has caused the death of several. Labor revolutions were unsuccessful because small tree movie producers could not compete against them, and the cities alone were not sufficient to support them.

Confronted with bankruptcy, other companies have begun to analyze their situations in order to determine the possibilities and proper field of the new business. Some of them now realize that plot is more important than mise-en-scene, that it is a producer’s duty to create new settings, and that the moving picture has not been real, it has failed.

The picture shows, in a manner, the effect of the conditions of the day, and may not properly make moralizing or other digressions. Its characters cannot stop to be analyzed. They must reveal possibilities and promise a great deal of profit to the producer. The graphic progress in this respect has been most remarkable.

Of the two, scenery and action, the first is a temptation for excess, which is counteracted by an attempt to keep and by the perception of the second. In its form the drama is more capable of presenting than is the cinema. Scenery is of value to the drama only as background, and the sooner it is lost sight of, the sooner the picture动物三明治, and the sooner the picture presents itself.

CONCENTRATION AND MEMORY

Nearly every student is inclined to bewail at times the difficulties and obstacles which are encountered in college life. But the inclination to exaggerate these difficulties and obstacles would be greatly lessened if it were apprehended that the successful student is no less a master of the art of overcoming obstacles than the successful student.

Such a student is Carl W. Reiss, blind student of the liberal arts department, who has made a mark in every work he has undertaken. In spite of his handicap, he has succeeded in learning a large number of books and in doing work of a high order. He has taken a number of tests and has passed them with flying colors. He has been a model student and has shown his work in a way that is a model student.

Tom Lieb of Notre Dame, in winning the National discus championship April 27, defied Midget Taylor, who won the title last September, winning the national title with a throw of 3\( \frac{1}{4} \) feet. The victory was expected as Lynch knocked out a heave of 26 feet in April at the game in Garden Square.

Last night's bout marked the last appearance of Lynch, who has had his weight and his title since defeated Midge Smith at Madison Square in December.

"Red" Facer proved yesterday afternoon that he is still the premier pitcher on the White Sox staff. The New York Giants were burned by the man supporting the cost to the tune of 4 to 3 in 9 innings.

"Young" Stripling and Mike McKeige are training faithfully for their workout on March 29 when the light heavyweight title will be at stake. The Massen school boy has shown the crown and will settle with the fighting Shanghai.

At present neither is giving out the odds.

Billy Gibson, manager of Benny Leonard, backed up his prediction that the lightweight champion, who is a favorite for Benny's and the field all round, will knock Leonard out in the ninth round.

Jack Driscoll held a job on Ben's and Leonard's traveling party as they roamed the country. At Chicago he was shot for Benny by a bullet that had been fired in the big city.

There are no lightweights worthy to be blocked by Leonard in the city with the exception of Taylor in the 133-pound class. Mychaelo Bernard, the best 133-pounder in the city, has announced that he will take up the game and it is expected that he will meet with Mace in the near future.

J. B. McCarty lives in the latter part of the sixteenth century and may, in the opinion of those who worship him, be an interesting one at that time.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb's ball-playing days will probably come to an end this year. Cobb is still very active and can hold down a garden herb but managerial duties will keep him on the bench. It is improbable that he will play for the team.
