Klan Discussed

The race relations in the South by John Dodd, was a study of the colonies employed by the Ku Klux Klan. Dodd maintained that the problem is not to solve international relations, but to solve the movement within our own country, as the Klan, is no less unconstitutional and less reprehensible than the African laws, or the

Dias and Judges of the border, and the white, Southern and aristocratic interpretation of a theme of revolution, union and liberty, democracy, and brotherhood. The

What Others Say

Vive M. Polani

Whether one sympathises with the policy of the man, no one can deny the earnest and courageous statement as M. Poulani, of the Nationalist party, presented to the National Assembly. The encouragement and support which the President Milland has received for his policies has been an example of the power of the voice of the people. When and once again take over the reins of government, France even more than ever will be the country of the people. This is the only way the war and the period of reconstruction can be dealt with as long as such men continue to give the voice of France, M. Polani.

POLITICS

With the appearance on the campus of organizations chartered by the national committees of the two outstanding political parties, politics both local and national, bid fair to take a place among the leading campus activities. This should be regarded as a menace to the undergraduate body, regardless of party affiliation, because of the inseparable good that comes from an investigation of the principles of each.

The college man of today is weak in knowledge of the political issues whereas he should be among the best informed in his community. This is probably due to the lack of genuine interest, because most men are willing to be a Democrat if their father was one, or a Republican if their mother was a Republican.

When the resolutions at hand to learn both sides of the principal questions of the day, combined with the opportunities that the Republican and Democratic clubs of Notre Dame offer to hear the foremost voices of the nation, every student should avail himself of the chances offered. With a mind free from the influence of the soap box speaker he should attend the meetings of both clubs and thereby equip himself to take intelligently and vote intelligently when the occasion presents itself.

ART TRAINING IN COLLEGE

In a recent number of the Catholic Art Bulletin, the official organ of the Federation of Catholic Art, there is presented a strong appeal for art, and the action of the American art, and the value and dignity of the study and its usefulness in later life. The writer, George C. Nimmim, in showing that such training gives the most useful means of self-expression that can not be acquired in any other way, says:

"The faculty of taste is the sense of the power to discern and apply to beauty, order, proportion, symmetry, and good color, and the fitness and appropriateness of things is an important trait of human character which can only be acquired by art training. One of the most prominent qualities in the personality of an individual is his standard of taste... It is the responsibility of the teacher to cultivate the aesthetic sense, and to teach the appreciation of beauty. And it is then that the value of education is at its highest. The beauty sense is a vital part of education and is a necessity in the study of art, and a useful means of judging the character of the people of his time."

In these days of growing protest against education which does not teach, the observations of Mr. Nimmons are of considerable interest. And while it is true that art can not teach everything, it is possible for each student to make some effort to come to a better appreciation of art. One way of making such an effort would be to attend the readings of Great Christian Artists," by Reverend B. F. Garceau, S. J.

Semi-Pro Nines Oppose Varsity

Keogan Books Practice Games for Today and Tomorrow

The fight for places on the varsity begins today, with a tilt at the time for departure on the southern jaunt nearing, and two problems of how to go forward to determine who will be allowed to make the party of 16 men to be taken on the tour.

Coach Keogan expects to send his men against a group of South Bend sprinters on the diamond south of the gym this afternoon, and the Indestructo Track team of Marseilles is called for an appearance Sunday afternoon.

In white uniforms the squad will leave for Atlanta, Ga., next Thursday, and will play its first regularly scheduled game on Friday afternoon against Georgia Tech. Eight games are on the list, and the men will return to South Bend on Easter Sunday.

Excellent weather conditions the last couple of days have enabled Keogan to send his aspirants through short practice games against each other, and thus test the ability of the men under fire. While many defects are noticeable, his squad appears to have the material for a fast club.

Pitchers Working

Probably the most interesting task that is being urged upon for positions among the pitchers, a dozen men are engaged in stiff competition for the regular staff. This has been generally feared to be the most troublesome feature facing Keogan, but the earnest work of the men may serve to make things a bit easier.

Law Club Athletics

It was announced by Manager Brady yesterday afternoon that the first baseball team in the history of the Law club has been organized and that plans were being formed to schedule games with South Bend high school and the campus teams, including the inter-ball nine and the Engineering inter-class aggregation. Tom Donovan has been elected captain. All the pre-law men and the members of the Law club are eligible for the team.

Three More Weeks of Footbal for Tigers

Spring football for the Princeton Tigers will continue for two more weeks, Coach Roger announced this week, and will have to be discontinued at that time because of the warm weather. The squad has been out eight days now. The spring session, though short, is giving the Jugtown mentor a fair opportunity to get acquainted with some of the new men who have reported this spring.

In so far as veterans are concerned, the Tigers will have no great amount of worry, as they have a nucleus around which to build the 1924 team. The work during the past few days has been confined to the rudiments of the game such as falling on the ball, plus charging and blocking the dummy. Signal practice polishes off each day's practice.
