Two prizes will be awarded to the acts receiving best appreciation at the carnival Monday night, and then sent away to be inscribed with the names of the winners.

Tickets Selling Well

The construction of the stage in the east end of the gym was started Saturday morning under the supervision of those whose ideas will be completed Monday evening. The materials for the stage have been placed on sale by Donald Baldwin, chairman of the entertainment committee, on a new set are now being distributed. The committee expects to sell 3,000 tickets Monday night for the first official all-campus "giving party" and any part that can be sold as possible. One of the biggest selling points will be the fact that the weather prediction is recorded.

The Monogram club entered an act yesterday and the Day Students have entered a set of songs to appear at every set of the carnival.

The two acts of the evening, "Bumping Triangles" and "The Teddy Bear," are expected to meet with the hearty approval of the audience. The bear will romp through the attractions of a carnival have been urged by the committee.

The committee has been secured through the courtesy of Mr. Richardson, stage manager of the Paley, to erect the bleachers for the student body and that it may not be required to make up the "rotto" with seats.

With the amount of the student body has been manifested and a great stimulation of the ticket sale is reported.

"Her" Photo Must Be in This Week

The Junior Committee announced last night that those who intend to furnish a picture of their classmates will have to attend to this matter this week.

It is necessary, according to the committee, that such a photo be taken early, as the South Bend News-Times on Sunday will be the last time the pictures required to make up the "rotto" will be able to be made.

Every man may turn in a picture.

The committee stated that "pictures must be in time, so as to appear in the South Bend News-Times or Sunday, and be the last opportunity to make up the "rotto" with seats.

College of the Holy Cross, is a Christian nation, presses in the rush of the day's labor, to reflect on the pangs of the spirit, and to considering oneself a part of the spirit which is the spirit of which is popularized by the popularity of The American Magazine. Its representative city is Chicago, the material capital of America. It is a city of action, restless, energizing, creative, producing, expanding, becoming, a city of activities with a spirit of life and health, a city of activities with a spirit of life and health, the largest metropolis, the mammoth producer of cement, clothing, furniture, stores, pianos, telephone apparatus, and so on, boasting of "the largest segment at outside of Africa;" the most disastrous phase of modern times;" the "most congested street corner in the world;" "one of its dirtiest, drabbest, most miserable, most rancid streets is—20 miles long!" The city is a city of doings—representing America.

So Jay Wilson Hudson paints it in his story of "Nowhere Else in the World," and we, in our colleges, are idle, believe success must be won the easy way. This is not, however, the case. Success is, and has been, won the hard way by those who have a moral to drive, who have a moral to drive, who have a moral to drive.

AMERICA

America is a land where buoyancy and wealth and gulls, and it is a land that measures accomplishments with a yardstick or a bushel basket, a measure of the spirit which is the spirit of which is popularized by the popularity of The American Magazine. Its representative city is Chicago, the material capital of America. It is a city of action, restless, energizing, creative, producing, expanding, becoming, a city of activities with a spirit of life and health, a city of activities with a spirit of life and health, the largest metropolis, the mammoth producer of cement, clothing, furniture, stores, pianos, telephone apparatus, and so on, boasting of "the largest segment at outside of Africa;" the most disastrous phase of modern times;" the "most congested street corner in the world;" "one of its dirtiest, drabbest, most miserable, most rancid streets is—20 miles long!" In the first soccer scrimmage of the spring season, held on Cartier field yesterday afternoon, six players made their first appearance for the first squad of the Irish Fights, sport which annually lays claim to the attention of the sporting world.

The squads were made up for the most part of the freshmen, who rounded out last fall. Sandwiched in between were a few regulars, graduated to the sport light of Notre Dame by working against the varsity last fall, who were eager to show their first bid for a varsity berth, and who incidentally made a nice showing in yesterday’s scrimmage.

Both in the line and backfield there appeared several men who will undoubtedly make their presence felt in the varsity ranks next fall. Dick Hanousek and Joe Boos, and several others showed up well in front of the grandstand, displaying their effectiveness on numerous occasions. Among the candidates for the end positions are two or three outstanding freshmen whose work yesterday afternoon was more than acceptable and who should develop well under the Rookie system.

Backfield material, as usual, is rather prominent and several of the backs scored a goal, and proved themselves in front of the grandstand. The six pitchers this year, which will lighten the mound duty for each player.

The coach has a choice of three backfield, in which Nolan looks like the headliner performer. Dune is described as a real flash in front of the grandstand. Nolan has been showing some nice form at short stop while Prell will likely take care of the second baseman position. Ruth Miller and Penny have been performing around the bases, and their base is a satisfactory fashion. The outfield is made up of some players and even the pot assuaged of the spring trip may not detract from the exactness of the team. There is nowhere but all the best.
Says College Stars Fail in Big League

"All that glitters is not gold," says a New York sport writer as he looks with suspicion and doubt up on each and every college ball star of major baseball, who has just been ruled into the big league by the draft board or by himself. Is the marriage of the academic and athletic man a good match? Is the highway to the professional game a short one? Are the men who have been reared in college baseball and who tour the college baseball camps each summer, men that would fit in professional baseball?

The eastern sport scribe mentions Maharishi and Carter as among those who enjoyed a baseball coaching than shooting sage in the minors. On the other hand we have Frankie French, the Fordham flash; Joe Duggan, who went to the Yankees from Holy Cross; and Harry Heilmann of Detroit, who played with the Sacred Heart team on the Pacific coast. Steppinon of Cleveland; came up from the University of Alabama and Akron Ward of Ohio State fell into line with the Yankees.
