C.S.M.C. Will Furnish Room in New Seminary

The local unit of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade met Thursday night in the south room of the library.

Joseph Mangier, president of the campus council, said the meeting was held at this time in order to begin the year's activities, and emphasized the importance of the students participating actively in the various activities of the council.

Rev. Msgr. Joseph B. O'Connell, C.M., chaplain of the college, also attended the meeting.

The officers of the council are: John J. Mangier, president; Joseph Mangier, vice-president; Joseph J. O'Neill, secretary; and Thomas J. O'Brien, treasurer.

Set Date for Catholic Education Week

The department of education of the archdiocese has designated the week of May 14-20 as Catholic Education Week.

The purpose of the week is to promote the study of Catholic education and to encourage the study of Catholic education in the schools.

Throughout the week, various events will be held, including a series of lectures on Catholic education, a film festival, and a series of workshops on Catholic education.

The official program of the week will be announced in the Coming Events column of the Daily Argus.

More information can be obtained by contacting the archdiocesan office of Catholic education at 1020 W. Superior St., Chicago, IL 60657.

The Bobbed-Haired Bandit.

They've taken Celia Cooney to Ashmore prison. Celia, the bobbed-haired little girl who terrorized New York with her pistol a few months ago, will have to do a "stretch" of from six to twenty years.

New Yorkers who shouted for her capture a short time ago had to hold back the tears as she was led into the jailer's room to say goodbye to her mother, who is too old to attend any attention to her for four years. The story, told in its completeness from the witness chair, was a bit different than expected.

Celia was just a little girl with neither father nor mother. Almost from the day she was born, the probation officer reported, she ignored her. She grew up without a mother's love, a home, nor family. She went on to be a famous criminal.

And yet, who will say that they are not nearer to each other than they have ever been before?

The Klan Sweeps Indiana.

Candidates bearing the endorsement of the Ku Klux Klan have just been nominated in the Indiana primaries. The Republican nominates for governor is approved by the headed band, and even one of Notre Dame's sons has been beaten by the K. K. K. in a race for prosecuting attorney of St. Joseph county.

From the tabulation of returns it appears that the Klan members directed their votes straight on the candidates across. They organized for the primaries. But, successful as they have been in the primaries, they cannot hope to win the election. The fair-minded citizens of the state will now have to do a little deserting of party lines themselves; scratch his ticket from here to there, and keep the Klamen out.

Though the Klan is strong in the Hoosier states, it is unlikely that it will ever be strong enough to force all anti-klan forces into one political party in order to defeat it. Evidently that is what the klansmen are after. Their plan is to prevent an active and intelligent voting, and that can be effected only by unity.

Knocking Knockers

All one has to do to tell what a hammer is used for is to look at one. But hammers like a lot of other things suffer misuse. Just as one of the things in life that may be called a "line of easiest resistance. Rebellion and revolution always come easy. It takes brains, use of brains, courage, and decision to construct a remedy—destruction is inevitably easier than construction.

Knocking is a kind of criticism; it is an ignorant kind of criticism. The more ignorance of such a kind, the more evil it is; and the kind that tears down and leaves nothing in place of the thing it has destroyed is that which is knocking.

Fair, constructive criticism can work wonders. Its possibilities are nearly limitless. There is no time that it is not acceptable, pro viding it is constructive.

Knocking, no matter what implement is used, is destructive. Don't destroy criticism, use it to build, and always will need builders. There is one thing you can knock and that is the broken window.

Tennis Team Meets Calver Here Today

After losing to Michigan and winning over the Detroit city college, the Notre Dame tennis team returned yesterday from their tour of the West. With Michigan to begin preparations for a match with Calver Academy in the near future, the contest will here today for the first home and home series.

Notre Dame lost to the University of Michigan tennis team, 7 to 0, on Wednesday afternoon after the Irish nation had made a gallant fight against every tennis player. The Wolverines were represented by delighted amateurs, with the exception of the Donovon-Rokicki set. Donovan made a disastrous hit for victory over the Melia and Bucie player and had the situation well in hand until he broke the net. Rokicki opened up with a series of splendid tennis tactics and won the next six games. The scores for the match were, 5-1, 9-6, 9-6.

Brick defeated Luta, 6-3, 6-4, while Centlivre lost to Hodgain, 6-4, 6-4. Gonzales lost to Crance, 6-1, 6-4 and Velasco dropped his set, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.

In the doubles, Michigan triumphed again by playing better tennis. Donavon won over Donovon and Centlivre, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. Crance and Velasco defeated Donovan in the same set over Gonzales and Velasco.

Notre Dame triumphed over the Detroit college the following day when Donavon defeated Stein, 6-1, 6-4, 6-0.

In the 1924 All-Academic tennis tourney, Michigan defeated the Blue of Michigan in a tie game and won over the Detroit college team.

GOLF TEAM LOSES TO NORTHWESTERN
Golfers Drop First Match to Purple in Close Meet by a Point.

Marking their first appearance in inter-collegiate golf competition, six Notre Dame golfers lost their first match by a score of two and nothing. In spite of the loss, the Purple school has produced a golf team for the past six years.

Notre Dame was leading 5 to 4 at the end of the morning round and were in a fair way to win. But the afternoon foursome routed in the visitors piling up six points against four for Notre Dame, in the two rounds. The feature of the morning round was the four some composed of Adams and Harris of Notre Dame and Alstrom, Larson, and Larson of Northwestern. As the play neared the finish of the round, the Irish players were being two and nothing in the Purple combination. The count was then three and one, and during the last three holes piling up four points for the locals while the visitors went blank.

The afternoon foursome composed of Bulger and Foglia of Notre Dame and Happers and Snr of Northwestern, in the deciding match for the Purple and the final count in the tournament, to undo the visitors to claim the victory by a point.

In the morning round, Notre Dame showed its best effort for the 18 holes, with Irishman and university golf champion played Alstrom, the captain of the visitors. The result was a 92 on the Nine and a 94 on the Eight, in which the players played. No. 2. The Irish team was played by Don Happers, the star of the Purple, the count for the round held two and nothing. G. Ward led by Scharer and won over him two and one. Corbett played off last but one to Larson three and nothing.

Possibly the best showing of the Notre Dame team gives golf at the university a stronger impetus and the match with DePauw at Clawson next Friday, is being looked forward to with greater interest. A return match with Northwestern is tentative. Indiana and Loyola are still on the card and both schools have excellent competition to offer Notre Dame. A galaxy of over a hundred spectators witnessed the play.

The individual scores are as follows:

Morning round, Notre Dame: Adams, 89; Harris, 92; Bulger, 87; Foglia, 89; Northwestern, Alstrom, 92; Larson, 82; Happers, 77; Snr. 80.

Afternoon round, Notre Dame: Adams, 91; Harris, 89; Bulger, 87; Foglia, 88; Northwestern, Alstrom, 92; Larson, 82; Happers, 77; Snr, 82.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY.

The second all-university stag for Northwestern men was held recently in Patton gymnasium. Over 150 high school boys were the guests of the men. Coach Glenn Threlkeld gave an address of welcome. Boxing bouts, swimming exhibitions, a fadie comedy, music and refreshment followed.

CALIFORNIA UNIVERSITY—The faculty maintains that European students go to college in order to study under great men and gain that which the American students do, in order to sell in that new million dollar stadium.

KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY—The university has invited all men who were in Kentucky to be its guests at a gigantic military reunion which will be one of the big events for Ransoming week and will bring more than 100,000 of the native sons together at the university.

IDAHO UNIVERSITY—Gordy reys have been adopted by the senior and junior men. The seniors will also carry cane and will go barbecued. The under-classmen have been warned not to encroach upon the privileges.

PURDUE UNIVERSITY—All preparations have been made to receive at least 1,500 guests for the hombay ball and girl’s Roundup, which begins today.

PENN STATE UNIVERSITY—The roadways leading around the campus have been closed to all cars with the exception of employees. No students will be allowed to drive into campus on the campus as the numerous cars have destroyed the natural beauty and attractiveness of the campus because of carelessness of the drivers.
