Rectors, Students, to Admin. Triumvirate

In a meeting Tuesday night, the Hall Presidents' Council elected four hall presidents to serve on the tripartite committee, according to Rev. C.I. McCarragher, C.S.C. The four are Rich Meehan, Vince Terlep, Dan Farrell, and Gordon Hunt. The Faculty Senate has yet to select its three members of the committee. According to Rev. C.I. McCarragher, C.S.C.,

News In Brief:

Writer Shortage

The Dome, Notre Dame's yearbook, made news this week with a late-breaking story of the brough-ha-ha that preceded the book's second deadline. Dave Heskin, the editor, is less than satisfied with the performance of this year's staff, despite the fact that they are over 65 pages ahead of last year's book at this time. "They just can't write to save their lives!" he moaned incessantly at a recent press conference, before slipping into bitter Italian.

Kevin Flynn and David Ward, his assistant editors, believe him incompetent. Mike Minton in support of a resolution for Wednesday night was cancelled due to lack of preparation. The proposal was that the Faculty Senate may simply call the work of the committee. He said also that the Faculty Senate may simply call the work of the committee.

The Hall Presidents' Council meeting also saw a revolt against the leadership of Hall Life Commissioner Tom Brislin. Brislin was not at Wednesday's meeting. According to Breen-Phillips President Rich Meehan, the Council discussed who should be its chairman. Meehan maintained that there was considerable sentiment for someone other than Brislin chairing the meetings.

Meehan also contended that the Council itself underwent "a rebirth of sorts" in Tuesday's meeting. He said the Council discussed numerous ways of improving communication between the halls. According to Meehan, the idea was suggested for a committee of hall vice presidents to be set up to facilitate interhall cooperation.

Meehan described what happened at the meeting by saying, "The Hall Presidents' Council came into its own at the meeting." He said the HPC had been "a tool of student government all year."

Breen-Phillips Senator Mike Kelly said in a related development that, if the HPC chooses to select its own chairman in place of Brislin, he will introduce a resolution in support of the move at the first Student Senate meeting after Christmas Vacation.

In a meeting earlier this week, three rectors were chosen for the tripartite committee to study university policy and student life. The three, Rev. Matthew Miceli, Rector of Cavanaugh, Rev. James Shorts, Rector of Farley, and Rev. William Hunt, Rector of Carroll Hall, were elected from the Rectors' Council. Selection of the rectors came at the Hall Presidents' Council's second meeting of the semester.

Of Billboards

A clash over the economics and aesthetics of outdoor advertising broke out Monday at a symposium on highway beautification at the Continuing Education Center. Dr. John Houck, conference chairman, defended billboards as a vital necessity which Prof. Patrick Horsburgh of the Architecture Dept. blasted outdoors advertising.

Meeting Cancelled

The Student Senate meeting scheduled for Wednesday night was cancelled due to the inability of either Student Body President Chris Murphy or Vice President Tom McKenna to preside over the meeting. The meeting was to have featured an appearance by Junior Class President Mike Minton in support of a resolution by Walsh Senator Pat Dowd calling for the second semester to be "4th Win For ND.

About 3,000 souls who braved miserable weather and an unimpeaching first half were rewarded with some great basketball in the last twenty minutes and a 79-59 victory over the SMU Mustangs in the fieldhouse Monday night. The win was the fourth straight for the unbeaten Irish.

St. Norbert's College will be fed to the Irish tonight as Notre Dame plays its final home game before away trips with Indiana, Utah State, and UCLA. Tipoff is scheduled for 8 o'clock in the fieldhouse.

Students Vote For Power

The issue of demonstrations sparked a heated clash in an Oxford-style debate Sunday night in the Law Auditorium. Student Senators Pat Dowd and Mike Kelly maintained that demonstrations are ineffective, calling for massive disobedience of rules as a means of changing them. Student government leaders Dennis O'Dea and Tom Brislin disagreed, maintaining that demonstrations are needed.

Dowd looked off the debate by saying, "The only way you get anything around here is to stand up for what you believe in." Dowd replied, "We all believe in student rights. What I say is the best way to stand up is through massive disobedience."

The debate saw numerous disturbances, including the assaulting of the stage by ten pickets bearing signs such as "Dowd and Randy: An Unbalanced Ticket," and "Brislin is a Brat." The demonstrators picked up debate moderator Joel Connelly and carried him bodily from the stage. Connelly returned, saying, "Mary, did I lose control of the meeting?"

The debate audience chanting "smack" as Dowd advocated disobedience, but was equally ensnared in stamping its feet when Brislin pounded on the podium for emphasis. In the end, the audience voted 25 to 15 to support demonstrations over disobedience.

Kelly said, "Hesburgh wouldn't back down and show himself a coward." Dowd maintained "I say you can get guys to disobey the parietal hours rule but it would be more difficult to get them to riot all over the quad." Dowd also maintained that Fr. Hesburgh might retaliate against demonstrations with expulsions.

Brislin argued that "We need a good demonstration around here." He said, "The only way you get something around here is to stand up for what you believe in." Dowd replied, "We all believe in student rights. What I say is the best way to stand up is through massive disobedience."

The debate audience chanted "smack" as Dowd advocated disobedience, but was equally ensnared in stamping its feet when Brislin pounded on the podium for emphasis. In the end, the audience voted 25 to 15 to support demonstrations over disobedience.
New York, Dec. 4 - The Observer, Dean Joseph O'Meara of the Notre Dame law school reiterated his call for criminal prosecution of Martin Luther King and Stokely Carmichael. Dean O'Meara is quoted as saying: "Like other country-bred malcontents they should be prosecuted, and that goes for anyone else — whether in bed with a girl or urging young men to become conscientious objectors."

How can anyone be prosecuted for encouraging someone to take advantage of a legal right? The Selective Service Act of 1967 provides that no person shall "be subject to combat training and service in the armed forces of the United States who, by reason of religious training and belief, is conscientiously opposed to participation in war in any form." Thus the right to exemption from military service on the basis of moral conviction is recognized by the law as being guaranteed by the First Amendment. Dean O'Meara's position seems to be that, while one may have the right to do this, one cannot encourage others to accept it as a criminal. Yet the "free exercise" of religion, recognized as a right by our Constitution, certainly must include the right to attempt to convince others of the correctness of our religious beliefs. To advise a young man of draft age to apply for conscientious objector status is no more illegal than using a newspaper, is published twice weekly in Notre Dame, Indiana (46556), is available by subscription at $7.50 a year to all non-undergraduate students. The Observer is an independent student newspaper, is published twice weekly during the college semesters by the students of the University of Notre Dame. The paper is the official mouthpiece of the Student Body and is supported by subscription at $7.50 a year to all non-undergraduate students at the University.

THE OBSERVER
Bogle Re-Affirms McCarthyism

Notre Dame Professor Dr. James Bogle, Chairman of the Indiana Concerned Democrats, said Tuesday that 110 Notre Dame Faculty have been enlisted in his efforts in support of the candidacy of Sen. Eugene McCarthy for the Presidential nomination. Bogte said he is unsure whether McCarthy will choose to run in the Indiana presidential primary. If McCarthy does not, according to Bogle, Sen. Vance Hartke (Dem., Ind.) will be a favorite son peace candidate. Bogte maintained that "I have a feeling McCarthy will run, but I do not know." He said "This is a matter for the two senators to work out."

On the statewide level, Bogle has to date acquired a mailing list of 16,000 names, a list which has almost doubled in the last weeks alone. In the future, he plans further steps to enlist McCarthy support, including a direct mailing to 100,000 voters in a letter similar to that employed by supporters of Assistant Secretary Henry Cabot Lodge in the 1964 New Hampshire Republican primary. Also on the agenda, according to Bogle, is a campaign of billboard and television advertisements. Bogle also hinted at newspaper ads containing a list of signatures, a tactic which might be used locally.

Bogle remarked that the Notre Dame faculty members involved will at the moment serve the purpose of gaining support in the State of South Bend for the McCarthy effort. At Notre Dame, Students for McCarthy is still distributing a petition in support of the Senator's candidacy. Bogle speculated that further escalation in the Vietnam War could substantially aid the McCarthy movement. He said that the recent resignation of Secretary of Defense McNamara and a bombing pause over Christmas could point to a further escalation in late January or February if negotiations are real. Bogle even suggested that there could be an invasion of North Vietnam in the demilitarized zone. Such an invasion, according to Bogle, "is bound to rebuff President Johnson's peace overtures.

Armed Bandits Rob Students

Two Notre Dame students were held up Monday night south of the campus. The two, James Juster and Jeffrey Sturty, were robbed of their wrist watches, class rings, and a small amount of money according to the police.

The students told police they were returning from a restaurant when two Negro men called them over to a parked car. At the students walked up to the car, one of the bandits held out a pistol and demanded money. After the robbery, the robbers fled in what the victims described as an old model car.

THE MOON AND I?

Want to do something different for about three months? Do you have a science, psychology, engineering or medical background?

Fairchild Hiller can use you in a space simulator study. You will work with space hardware, wear space garments, and eat space-designed diets more costly than dining at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Starting in early January, this project at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton, Ohio, will need eight physically and psychologically fit males between 24 and 36 years of age. These young men will work for 60 days as either subjects or monitors in a totally non-hazardous environment, checking out equipment for Apollo moon shots. The first study will be concluded in March. Participants in this study will be given preference for employment on a second program commencing in June.

It will be possible to continue some course work, or work on a thesis problem. We'll pay the tab as well as tuition. Money? You will be paid $1,000 per month. Monitors have all the same privileges but are paid on a per-hour basis. Full-time employees may be able to work part-time from the University.

The Fairchild project is an Equal Opportunity Employer.
Tom Figel
A Directive

Due to the misunderstanding arising from the Administration's recent clarification of policy regarding girls in student's rooms, the University feels the need to once again state its position. Students are reminded of University of Notre Dame directive No. 26904, readily available in the Faculty Manual, which states "Girls do not exist after the last game.

In general, visiting hours will roughly correspond to Fr. Heuburgh's presence on campus. Girls may be present in a student's room only if he is not. Exceptions may be allowed for mothers over thirty-five years of age, if accompanied by a responsible adult. In addition parietal hours are a privilege and may be exercised only on football Saturdays occurring in Leap Years or on the day immediately following a Friday the Thirteenth.

The Administration feels that this policy corresponds to the distinct and peculiar nature of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and should be given due respect. Students are reminded of the principle first voiced by Father Sorin: "Quod erat demonstrandum", that is, "What wasn't good enough for the alumni isn't good enough for you."

Entertainment of female guests can take place only in the facilities designed and set aside for that purpose. The Rathskellar is available for quiet conversation on Sunday afternoons from 2-4 when the sun is shining. In addition, the Fiesta Lounge is carefully attended by staff in an effort to make sure that enough chairs are available for students and their dates.

A few have chosen to ignore University policy in this area, consideringly endangering the Summa Drive. Students are reminded that violations of this directive will necessitate a more stringent policy. Father Heuburgh will take his university and go home.

Ryan Play
AND/OR
To Appear

Michael Ryan, juggler editor and Impersonal Promote Director, has announced that Pronouns is "prouder than average to present the world premier of my play, AND/OR (And/or The Lamentable Vagaries of Two Bohemian Personages in the Face of Love, Death, and Suffrage)."

The play, appearing tonight in the New York Times, has announced that it is "prouder than average to present the world premier of my play, AND/OR (And/or The Lamentable Vagaries of Two Bohemian Personages in the Face of Love, Death, and Suffrage)."

We'd like to talk to you about the many challenging opportunities available in retailing.

Seniors... the next time you're in Chicago...

To Father Reihle, a new sample case and the new line of Buster Brown Shoes
To Brother Gonch, Human Sexual Response
To Ronald Reagan, the leading role in Rio Loco
To Mao, the realization he is a minor poet
To Father Fey, a full-time job to the government dept., a computer programmed on moral.

To Sister Mary Grace, a gold watch for years of faithful service and a cabana hat to keep the sun out of her eyes
To Mother Olivette, a book of her favorite thinker - Michel

To Rotc, a permanent leave of absence
To Lenny Joyce, a 4-F
To Joe Blake, his lost Catho
t,

To Jay and Maureen Schwartz, a twin
To Mike McCauley, the last isting friendship of Richard Ronnie
To Father Heuburgh, 14 new reectors and # 1000 new students

To Father Reihle, a new sam ple case and the new line of Bus ter Brown Shoes
To Brother Gonch, Human Sex ual Response
To Ronald Reagan, the leading role in Rio Loco
To Mao, the realization he is a minor poet
To Father Fey, a full-time job to the government dept., a computer programmed on moral.

To Sister Mary Grace, a gold watch for years of faithful service and a cabana hat to keep the sun out of her eyes
To Mother Olivette, a book of her favorite thinker - Michel

To Rotc, a permanent leave of absence
To Lenny Joyce, a 4-F
To Joe Blake, his lost Catho
t,

To Jay and Maureen Schwartz, a twin
To Mike McCauley, the last isting friendship of Richard Ronnie
To Father Heuburgh, 14 new reectors and # 1000 new students
Homeward Bound: Paperback Reader

BY DENNIS GALLAGHER

In a day or two, we will all be winging on great white birds or rumbling on mighty iron horses or czak- ing on transcendent 1956 Studebakers toward our respective Green Valley. Some people prefer to pass away the hours by resorting to "horror!" said the Up With People people) Demon Run. And I think there's a lot to be said for that alternative. However, if your parents are meeting you at the station or you have to go to work at the post office as soon as you get home, you may decide that the safest way to avoid boredom is to read. As a public service, I list a few of the best in recent paperback fiction.

THE CRYING OF LOT 49 is Thomas Pynchon's second novel, following three years after the magnifica- tion of V. As with V., he is again concerned with the quest of the human being to put things into his life. The novel is about a group of children kidnapped by pirates, who in turn become the captives of the year. Keep away the hours by resorting to a full-blown, psychedelic elaboration the children被骗 into

ORDER OF THE SCREW, but as quite normal and representa- tive of children as a group. The massively brilliant writing of Hughes turns all our Wordsworthian child worship to a graver medicine.

Anyone who hasn't read the book should read it. It is the saga of Howard W. Campbell, who pretended to be a Nazi propagandist while he trans­ mitted coded information to the Allies in his anti-Semitic broadcasts. But the question is: has he been more effective as a spy than propagandist?

A HIGH WIND IN JAMAICA. Anyone who hasn't read it will misunderstand a plot summary, for it is totally abstract. However, if your parents are meeting you at the station or you have to go to work at the post office as soon as you get home, you may decide that the safest way to avoid boredom is to read. As a public service, I list a few of the best in recent paperback fiction.

THE CRYING OF LOT 49 is Thomas Pynchon's second novel, following three years after the magnifi- cently convoluted V. As with V., he is again concerned with the quest of the human being to put things into his life. The novel is about a group of children kidnapped by pirates, who in turn become the captives of the year. Keep away the hours by resorting to a full-blown, psychedelic elaboration of the children. This summary immediately suggests a rather fanciful juvenile novel. But the children are not embodiments of natural goodness like Huck Finn or entertaining pranksters like Tom Sawyer or Penrod. They are dark forces, full of deep natural fears and ag­ gressiveness, almost literally inhuman. If the adults in the novel are venal and corrupt, the children are horri- fying. And we do not think of them as exceptional or demonic, as we might the children of James' THE TURN OF THE SCREW, but as quite normal and representa- tive of children as a group. The massively brilliant writing of Hughes turns all our Wordsworthian child worship to a graver medicine.

So much for this year, for this column. We will meet the adults in the Green Valley, I think there's a lot to be said for that alternative. However, if your parents are meeting you at the station or you have to go to work at the post office as soon as you get home, you may decide that the safest way to avoid boredom is to read. As a public service, I list a few of the best in recent paperback fiction.

THE CRYING OF LOT 49 is Thomas Pynchon's second novel, following three years after the magnific- enctly convoluted V. As with V., he is again concerned with the quest of the human being to put things into his life. The novel is about a group of children kidnapped by pirates, who in turn become the captives of the year. Keep away the hours by resorting to a full-blown, psychedelic elaboration of the children. This summary immediately suggests a rather fanciful juvenile novel. But the children are not embodiments of natural goodness like Huck Finn or entertaining pranksters like Tom Sawyer or Penrod. They are dark forces, full of deep natural fears and ag­ gressiveness, almost literally inhuman. If the adults in the novel are venal and corrupt, the children are horri- fying. And we do not think of them as exceptional or demonic, as we might the children of James' THE TURN OF THE SCREW, but as quite normal and representa- tive of children as a group. The massively brilliant writing of Hughes turns all our Wordsworthian child worship to a graver medicine.

So much for this year, for this column. We will meet the adults in the Green Valley, I think there's a lot to be said for that alternative. However, if your parents are meeting you at the station or you have to go to work at the post office as soon as you get home, you may decide that the safest way to avoid boredom is to read. As a public service, I list a few of the best in recent paperback fiction.

THE CRYING OF LOT 49 is Thomas Pynchon's second novel, following three years after the magnifi- enctly convoluted V. As with V., he is again concerned with the quest of the human being to put things into his life. The novel is about a group of children kidnapped by pirates, who in turn become the captives of the year. Keep away the hours by resorting to a full-blown, psychedelic elaboration of the children. This summary immediately suggests a rather fanciful juvenile novel. But the children are not embodiments of natural goodness like Huck Finn or entertaining pranksters like Tom Sawyer or Penrod. They are dark forces, full of deep natural fears and ag­ gressiveness, almost literally inhuman. If the adults in the novel are venal and corrupt, the children are horri- fying. And we do not think of them as exceptional or demonic, as we might the children of James' THE TURN OF THE SCREW, but as quite normal and representa- tive of children as a group. The massively brilliant writing of Hughes turns all our Wordsworthian child worship to a graver medicine.