News In Brief:

Student Union Robbery Nets Three Thousand Dollars

By GUY DeSAPIO

A reward of $500 has been offered by the Student Union for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person who took $3000 from the Student Union office sometime between midnight Friday and midnight Sunday.

Bill Wade, Student Union Vice-President said, "The theft of $3000 is Grand Larceny in this state. The last thing that the Student Union wants to do is to send anybody to prison for five to ten years. Naturally what we want is to get that money back as soon as possible."

When asked if he meant by this statement that if the money was returned voluntarily the Union would not prosecute, Wade said "yes."

At the same time Wade announced that Student Union Officials had decided to voluntarily submit to be detector tested Thursday and Friday. Wade hoped that these tests would clear Union Officials of any implication in the theft.

The stolen money was $3000 in cash and checks which represented the gross receipts from the Henry Mancini Concert held in South Bend Fri. night.

The robbery was discovered Mon. morn.

Father James Flanagan, rector of Dillon Hall, said yesterday that he was resigning from Father Rath's Disciplinary Advisory Board. Although Father Flanagan declined to comment on the exact contents of his letter of resignation, sent to Father Riehle over the weekend, he did say that he felt the Advisory Board was no longer useful as it now exists.

Father Flanagan said that his resignation was not, in any way, created in the future will be given jurisdiction over all disciplinary matters and that their decision will be considered final, not subject to change by higher authority or outside influence.

Father Riehle gave an address in the Library Auditorium yesterday that the penalty of suspension or expulsion are to be placed before the Student Judiciary Board. He said yesterday that he did not consider Father Hesburgh a relevant factor in his decision. He was unable to discuss the impending week to last in any way detrimental to the authority of his office as Dean of Students and president of the University Regulations. Riehle said that such a system would require a "clear-cut definition of both the kind and gravity of disciplinary violations" so as to avoid jurisdictional conflicts.

Riehle said that such minor parital hours violations, for example, could be handled by the hall Judicial Boards while more serious offenses, like those judged last week to be material to the authority of the Campus Board.

Kennedy, McCarthy Hit ND, South Bend

It was announced yesterday afternoon that the Student Union Academic Commission will sponsor an appearance by Senator Robert F. Kennedy of New York in the Fieldhouse at 2:00 p.m. tomorrow afternoon.

Senator Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota will visit South Bend this afternoon and a possible surprise campus visit has been rumored. Senator McCarthy will address an airport rally at 11:30 a.m. this morning and will spend the rest of his afternoon in South Bend doing street campaigning, and will probably visit the Bendix plant.

McCarthy's visit will be the first of two to the South Bend area, and was arranged with only two day notice. Over the weekend rumors circulated and were denied by McCarthy's South Bend headquarters that the Senator would only wage a limited campaign in Indiana.

Senator Kennedy is scheduled to arrive at the St. Joseph County Airport at 1:15 p.m. tomorrow afternoon. A student rally is being planned at the airport, and a motorcade will bring Senator Kennedy from the airport to campus.

In a letter sent today to faculty members, the Academic Commission asks faculty members to consider cancelling or granting cuts for two o'clock classes tomorrow. In a tentative Academic Commission letter states: "we will request the same should any other top-name speakers in the year for an afternoon appearance--whether he be democrat or republican."
Polish Ambassador Explains Warsaw Student Unrest

By CHRIS WOLFE

Zbigniew Stypulkowski, repre­sentative of the Polish govern­ment in exile, spoke Mon. night about the recent unrest in Poland. The unrest is a result of student demonstrations in the wake of the repression of the play "Fore­fathers."

The play is a nationalistic piece concerning events in Pol­and under Czarist Russia. It in­cludes not only anti-Russian state­ments, but also pro-religious elements. It has been shown in Poland 16 times since 1945, but apparently the enthusiastic response it drew with the anti­Russian lines caused the govern­ment to close the play down and ban it.

The students responded with demonstrations that started in Warsaw, and increased in magni­tude and spread throughout the country. Mr. Stypulkowski said that "the students have wisely limited their goals and their ex­pression of dissent."

These goals include govern­ment censure of censorship and guaran­tied rights of freedom of speech, assembly, press, etc. Mr. Stypulkowski has been named director of the University's Office of Education­al Research.

It has been established last April to carry forward the Uni­versity's project of a three-year survey under a Carnegie Foundation grant has been named Director of the Denver metropol­iitan Catholic schools and the secondary school system in the Diocese of Saginaw, Michigan.

Robert Hassenger, 31, holds a doctorate in social psychology from the University of Chicago, and last year edited The Shape of Catholic Higher Education. He will continue to teach every other semester

Under Professor Hassenger the office will be expanded to enable it to undertake or assist in studies of Catholic education in numer­ous dioceses across the country. At the present time the office is studying the Denver metropol­iitan Catholic schools and the secondary school system in the Diocese of Saginaw, Michigan.

Reginald A. Neunow who directed the Catholic Schools in Action survey under a Carnegie Foundation grant has been named head of the continuing re­search program and will assume the new post of Director of Re­search for Elementary and Second­ary Education.

Dr. Eugene Campunale, for­mer director of the graduate division of education of St. Mar­ty's College has been named As­socite Director of Research for Elementary and Secondary Edu­cation.

The students were able to demonstrate is at least in part due to the fact that the repression of the Polish Com­munist party at the present time. The eventual result of the demon­strations may be determined in some way by its relationship to the power struggle.
Witt vs. Reneau vs. Phelps And Stumm Big Class Contests

Robert Rogers is challenging incumbent Bruno Edietis for the position of class secretary. With three candidates vying for this position, it is expected to be one of the closest races.

Although sophomore Sam Boyle's attempt to organize a "Consolidation for a Junior Class Alternative" failed, the Junior class presidency should be no less a strong write-in campaign. A three-man race is also developing for Senior Class treasurer. Thomas DeMetrio, Ernest Gargiulo and Michael Neumeister are seeking control of the class finances. The only other uncontested offices board consisting of Administration, faculty and student representatives.

Students Vote Registration Ends Mon.

Notre Dame and St. Mary's students interested in voting in the May 7 Indiana primary have until Mon., April 2, to register at the courthouse in South Bend. In order to register all applicants must sign an affidavit which includes date of birth, place of birth and other pertinent information. A student may not be registered in his home state and registered in Indiana simultaneously. To be eligible to vote in Indiana a student must establish legal residence in the state and have resided here for six months. If a student is registered in his home state, the county clerk in his home county must be contacted and informed of the student's intention to make Indiana his legal residence. All students attending Notre Dame or St. Mary's since September will be eligible to vote provided they meet the age and residence requirements.

Tom Fieg's column of March 27 is a mess! He states unequivocally that Sen. Eugene McCarthy is the best man for the office of President of the United States for the very cogent reason that he was the first to ask for it. I hadn't really noticed that our democracy was run on a "first come, first served" basis.

Another thing, who's taking the greater risk? Sen. McCarthy was never elected as President, and probably will never be closer to that office than he is now, while Sen. Kennedy was conceded an excellent very real chance at the Presidency in '72 by all who know anything of politics. If Bobby Kennedy doesn't get the nomination, he might very well have made enough political enemies to keep him out of the running for a very long time.

I suggest that Mr. Fieg read a little more and write a little less until he's able to write intelligently and unblurred. Of course, then he'd get off the Observer--no place for intelligence in our newspaper!

I'm a little disturbed by a growing tendency around the country, especially after Johnson's recent announcement, to think that jumping on the Kennedy bandwagon is the thing to do, that "he can't miss now." I wish people would remember that while Eugene McCarthy was risking his political future by challenging the president, even though he is representing a Humphrey-dominated state in the Senate, the typical Kennedy speech began with a condemnation of Johnson's policies, proceeded to a refusal to do anything about changing them, and concluded with a statement supporting LBJ all the way.

Without McCarthy's move, Kennedy would still be waiting for good old '72 and we would be faced with a Johnson-Nixon "choice" next November. To say that McCarthy is a "nice guy who did his job but can't win" is ridiculously narrow-minded.

He has at least as much political experience and popularity as RFK had at this stage in 1959 and what is important is he is a man of action, not words, who has always had the courage to act on his beliefs, from the period when he debated the "other" McCarthy to the present day, while others with similar beliefs have sat around. Just once, in this messed up country of late, I'd like to see the best man come out ahead. It sickens me to think that this man, to whom, whether we realize it or not, we owe such a great deal, may be left on the outside looking in next November.

I read Tom Britlin's explanation why you youthful ide­alists should "place our stars" in Robert Kennedy (RFK Center), but I must admit that, although I am an Irish Catholic, I have not seen the light quite as clearly as Mr. Britlin has.

Maybe I just don't see things from a different point of view. Brain in praises Kennedy for going down to Mississippi and Alabama (total of 18 electoral votes) and criticizing the racial bigotry of the local whites—there can be no doubt that these states will never vote for Kennedy now, but I am lauded for a truly courageous act. Britlin fails to note, however, that RFK had been hated in these areas for years, that he had nothing to lose in these states anyway, and that it helped to see down a few million northern Negro votes.

In 1967 Bobby was the major critic of the war in Vietnam. From November of 1967 until the New Hampshire primary, however, he silenced his attacks on Vietnam, and was perfectly content to see Eugene McCarthy play stalking horse. Suddenly realizing that McCarthy couldn't handle the job, Bobby decided to enter the race. McCarthy, blinded by his thirst for power, has failed to see the light, and has refused to drop out.

McCarthy isn't the only one who is blinded. Polls taken in February in New York show that RFK's popularity has dropped from 51% to 36% in two years. Reasons given by Bobby's con­stituents: "too arrogant, too ambitious, too ruthless." A man like this just doesn't appeal to my youthful idealism, and now that Johnson has dropped out of the race I think it is now practical to work for the man who placed his star in us—Eugene McCarthy.
