Wallace Gain
WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Richard M. Nixon leads Hubert H. Humphrey, 39 to 31 per cent, in a Louis Harris survey published yesterday which also showed George C. Wallace gaining on both major candidates.

The poll, sponsored by the Washington Post, said 21 per cent of the voters now favor Wallace, an increase from 17 per cent just three weeks ago.

The former Alabama governor is hurting the Republican nominee more than his Democratic opponent, Harris reported.

In a two-way race, he said, Nixon would lead Humphrey by 14 points instead of eight, 50 to 36 per cent.

The Harris survey was conducted Sept. 11 to 13 among a cross section of 1,222 voters it had interviewed previously on the generally Democratic Convention Aug. 25. In that poll, Nixon led Humphrey 40 to 34 per cent.

Austrian Dissent
VIENNA (UPI) -- Austrian Roman Catholics do not have to confess the use of the pill, an extraordinary Austrian Bishops' Conference yesterday.

In a carefully worded statement, the Austrian bishops under the leadership of Cardinal Franz Koenig of Austria said:

"In his encyclical, the Holy Father did not define usage of the pill as a mortal sin. Therefore, whoever acts against the spirit of the encyclical is not necessarily parted from the love of God and may accept holy communion without confession."

Danny In Jail
FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) Police held "Danny the Red," a German leader of the 1967 French student rebellion, in jail today for leading German students into street brawls with police that disrupted ceremonies honoring a visiting head of state.

Police braced for a possible resurgence of the riots.

Cohn Bendit was rapped with truncheons and hauled away by police when he attempted to lead about 1,000 demonstrators in a charge on historic St. Paul's Church, where President Heinrich Luebke was presenting the peace prize of the West German publishing industry to President Leonpold Senghor of Senegal.

Police fought four separate battles with students outside the church, resulting in broken windows, broken glass bottles, sparks flying, broken windows, and serving the ends of the battle. One of the forces fought Senghor and Luebke's motorcade to determine his future.

Police refused to give details or arrests or injuries. Senghor was honored on the occasion of the Frankfurt Book Fair, an event sponsored by German publishers.

With HHS
TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) -- With tears on his cheeks and sweat on his back, Hubert H. Humphrey said yesterday it was "nothing short of outrageous" that hippies, Yippies and Black Panthers get more attention than the majority of Americans.

Streching to his right, the Democratic presidential candidate told 500 Toledo housewives in a humid gymnasium "the slaughter" of protesters was getting a "disproportionate" share of the news.

Pope Disturbed
VATICAN CITY (UPI) -- Vatican sources said yesterday Pope Paul VI fears that some young rebel Roman Catholics are in danger of coming under Communist influence and he plans to issue a public warning to them.

The sources said the Pope particularly has in mind Catholics who have recently occupied cathedrals in Italy and Chile and those who support armed revolution to obtain social justice.

But he told a news conference he saw no break in the "leadership of the West German publishing industry to St. Paul's Church, and serving the ends of the battle."

Toledo, Ohio (UPI) -- With tears on his cheeks and sweat on his back, Hubert H. Humphrey said yesterday it was "nothing short of outrageous" that hippies, Yippies and Black Panthers get more attention than the majority of Americans.

"In his encyclical, the Holy Father did not define usage of the pill as a mortal sin. Therefore, whoever acts against the spirit of the encyclical is not necessarily parted from the love of God and may accept holy communion without confession."

Danny in Jail
FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) Police held "Danny the Red," a German leader of the 1967 French student rebellion, in jail today for leading German students into street brawls with police that disrupted ceremonies honoring a visiting head of state.

Police braced for a possible resurgence of the riots.

Cohn Bendit was rapped with truncheons and hauled away by police when he attempted to lead about 1,000 demonstrators in a charge on historic St. Paul's Church, where President Heinrich Luebke was presenting the peace prize of the West German publishing industry to President Leonpold Senghor of Senegal.

Police fought four separate battles with students outside the church, resulting in broken windows, broken glass bottles, sparks flying, broken windows, and serving the ends of the battle. One of the forces fought Senghor and Luebke's motorcade to determine his future.

Police refused to give details or arrests or injuries. Senghor was honored on the occasion of the Frankfurt Book Fair, an event sponsored by German publishers.

With HHS
TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) -- With tears on his cheeks and sweat on his back, Hubert H. Humphrey said yesterday it was "nothing short of outrageous" that hippies, Yippies and Black Panthers get more attention than the majority of Americans.

Streching to his right, the Democratic presidential candidate told 500 Toledo housewives in a humid gymnasium "the slaughter" of protesters was getting a "disproportionate" share of the news.

Pope Disturbed
VATICAN CITY (UPI) -- Vatican sources said yesterday Pope Paul VI fears that some young rebel Roman Catholics are in danger of coming under Communist influence and he plans to issue a public warning to them.

The sources said the Pope particularly has in mind Catholics who have recently occupied cathedrals in Italy and Chile and those who support armed revolution to obtain social justice.

But he told a news conference he saw no break in the "leadership of the West German publishing industry to St. Paul's Church, and serving the ends of the battle."

Toledo, Ohio (UPI) -- With tears on his cheeks and sweat on his back, Hubert H. Humphrey said yesterday it was "nothing short of outrageous" that hippies, Yippies and Black Panthers get more attention than the majority of Americans.

"In his encyclical, the Holy Father did not define usage of the pill as a mortal sin. Therefore, whoever acts against the spirit of the encyclical is not necessarily parted from the love of God and may accept holy communion without confession."

Danny in Jail
FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) Police held "Danny the Red," a German leader of the 1967 French student rebellion, in jail today for leading German students into street brawls with police that disrupted ceremonies honoring a visiting head of state.

Police braced for a possible resurgence of the riots.

Cohn Bendit was rapped with truncheons and hauled away by police when he attempted to lead about 1,000 demonstrators in a charge on historic St. Paul's Church, where President Heinrich Luebke was presenting the peace prize of the West German publishing industry to President Leonpold Senghor of Senegal.

Police fought four separate battles with students outside the church, resulting in broken windows, broken glass bottles, sparks flying, broken windows, and serving the ends of the battle. One of the forces fought Senghor and Luebke's motorcade to determine his future.

Police refused to give details or arrests or injuries. Senghor was honored on the occasion of the Frankfurt Book Fair, an event sponsored by German publishers.

With HHS
TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) -- With tears on his cheeks and sweat on his back, Hubert H. Humphrey said yesterday it was "nothing short of outrageous" that hippies, Yippies and Black Panthers get more attention than the majority of Americans.

Streching to his right, the Democratic presidential candidate told 500 Toledo housewives in a humid gymnasium "the slaughter" of protesters was getting a "disproportionate" share of the news.
On The Feast of St. James

The joys and the hopes, the griefs and the anxieties of all men if this age, especially those who are poor or in any way afflicted, are the joys and hopes, the griefs and the anxieties of the followers of Christ. Indeed, nothing genuinely human fails to raise an echo in their hearts.

The majority report of the papal commission, birth control summons to outline the relationship of this age, especially those who have bothered to talk with prefects know that they cannot evade the current pupil leadership. A committee of the Board of Trustees. Its recommendations have been the ones that most prefects bear no resemblance whatsoever to any authority that most prefects bear no resemblance whatsoever to any authority...
Belafonte

A Notre Dame Student Union Social Commission Presentation

Stepan Center

Sports Parade

By Milt Richman, LPI columnist

---

Kaline's A Pro

NEW YORK, (UPI) Above everything else, Al Kaline is a professional. He seems to feel that the one thing a professional never wants to be is embarrassed.

Right now Al Kaline finds himself embarrassed. Nearly as much as he was last year when he got so mad about not the fact that he broke his finger by accidentally slamming his bat bat it.

Al Kaline has an extra kind of pride. Special professionals like Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays, Johnny Unitas and Arnold Palmer all have the same kind and guys like Sandy Koufax, Joe DiMaggio and Joe Louis had it before them. They all feel the same way. They know it isn't a felony to lose but they don't ever wish to look bad losing. In other words, they never want to be embarrassed.

The thing embarrassing Kaline now is the fans everybody is making him play with the Tigers in the World Series. Nobody has less than two weeks from today.

Al Kaline embarrasses easily because he's sensitive. He appreciates people are happy for him that he's finally on a pennant winner after 15 years but he wishes they'd stop fussing over where he'll play.

Actually, he couldn't care less.

The important thing with Al Kaline, if you know him, is that the Tiger will be in the series. That's the big thing with him, not whether he's going to play. That's why he did what he did Tuesday night when he walked into manager Mayo Smith's office and told him to play that kid, Mickey Stanley and Jim Northrup, in the outfield with Willie Horton.

There had been some talk that Kaline -- who played first base as well as the outfield for the Tigers this year, might be used at third base against the Cardinals but that was mostly talk.

Mayo Smith tried to explain what he meant when he first mentioned the possibility of Kaline playing third. He wasn't ruling out the World Series but he was thinking more in terms of trying to play his 33 year old outfielder at third base next spring.

As matters stand now, Smith probably will start Stanley, Northrup and Horton in the outfield and Kaline will be his fourth baseman, his second first baseman and his first pinch hitter.

"That ain't hay, especially these days. It's considerably better than the outfield and Kaline is going to be a lot of somewhere during the series. He won't be shut out. But even if he was he'd be much more better than those making all the fuss.

"You know, I'd love to get into a World Series," he said before the Tigers clinched last Tuesday, "but it won't be a case of life or death if I don't." Kaline played right field in the Tigers' 6-2 victory over the Yankees Thursday and the two singles he collected as Denny McLain reeled off his 31st victory upped his average to .285.

"I'll play anywhere Mayo wants me," he says.

"When you get right down to it, what else can he say? What else do you say when you've got a professional like Al Kaline?"

The Tigers have still another professional who hasn't been heard from much lately. He's also looking forward to the series particularly since he's 36 and not likely to get another close look at one. He played third base for Detroit Thursday, got a base hit in two tries and knocked in a run, but there's little chance he'll get into the series some guy gets hurt and the Tigers put him on their series eligible list. If they don't, Eddie Mathews will simply have to get along with the memories of those two other World Series he was in with the Braves.

He'll do it if he has to, though. He's a special professional. Like Al Kaline.

---

Hurd: A Muscle Pull Away From Mexico

By MIKE PAVLIN

While some Notre Dame students were wondering how Summer Storage turned their Louis XIV tables into matchwood, senior Bill (Soul) Hurd was faced with a different problem. 7,282 feet in the air, Bill was attempting to negotiate a place in the 1968 U.S. Olympic Team. He's back down to earth this week, after narrowly missing spots on the 100 and 200 meter dash squads. Having qualified in the 100 and 200 meter dashes at the NCAA meet in June, Hurd worked for two weeks in a bank in his home town of Memphis, Tenn. Then he reported to South Lake Tahoe, Cal. for the final Olympic trials. "We had some fine coaching," comments Hurd. "Jim Hines's old high school coach from McClymonds High School in Oakland was there, as well as the former Tennessee Southern coach, Stan Wright. Past Olympic greats Ots Davis and Hayes Jones assisted.

The trials were run on the synthetic "Tartan" surface, the same that is being installed on the Notre Dame Convocation Center track. "Some runners used the special "Puma" track shoes, which have 68 'pin' spikes instead of conventional spikes," according to Hurd. "I have a pair myself, as does Tommie Smith."

Wearing these shoes, which are illegal under international rules, Bill found the rarified atmosphere to be only a slight problem. "At my first practice, I ran 150 yards flat out and was completely out of breath. It took me about two weeks to get used to the altitude."

At the trials, Hurd was faced with competition from the likes of world record holders Lee Evans and Tommie Smith. "When I left school, I didn't have that much confidence. But after I began working with the other runners, I gradually felt better. By the time the trials came around, I was ready."

In the 100 meter dash qualifying heats, Bill ran 10.2 and 10.1 (comparable to a 0:09.2 hundred yard dash) to reach the last six. His 0:09.2 in the finals, however, left him in fifth place, one slot short of a place in the finals. "It was the intense competition between runners, the five guys right next to me, that got me."

Hurd took home a pile of medals in the 1972 Olympics arc too far in the future to consider definite yet.

Many observers feel that U.S. track and field members will take home a pile of medals in the 1972 Olympics arc too far in the future to consider definite yet.

"It went as I came around the curve," says the disappointed Hurd. "I had felt trouble about an hour before the race, but there wasn't much I could do about it."

John Carlos set a world record in the 200 meter dash with a time of 0:19.7. With track temporarily out of the picture, Hurd plans to devote this semester to the books, toward graduate study in Electrical Engineering. "I'd like to compete in some international meets over the summer, unless the very, very remote possibility of professional football comes up."

The 1972 Olympics are too far in the future to consider definitely yet. Many observers feel that U.S. track and field members will take home a pile of medals in the 1972 Olympics arc too far in the future to consider definite yet.

By MIKE PAVLIN