McNamara Wins Postponement In Lie-In Trial

by TED PRICE

Mary McNamara won a postponement until Feb. 9 yesterday at the last session of his trial on the charge of infringement on the 14-member National Alumni Board and Alumni Association's jurisdiction.

1) The fact that Mr. McNamara was not informed of the charge against him until Christmas vacation left us a little time to prepare a defense.

2) Mr. McNamara did not fully understand the nature of the charge when he was served with it.

3) The recent investigatory hearing was illegal on the grounds that it is not provided for in the Judicial Code nor in the Student Government Constitution.

4) At this hearing, Mr. McNamara was not given a copy of the case.

5) Violation of the judicial code in that Mr. McNamara was not presented with a copy of the charges.

6) Mr. McNamara was not given the option of trial by either the Judicial Board or the Dean of Students, as provided in the Bill of Student Rights, Article 9.

7) Violation of the right to an open trial, as provided for in the Bill of Student Rights, Article 15.

Dave Ryan, chairman of the Judicial Board, said that "every effort" had been made to inform McNamara of the charge as soon as possible after the charge was filed, but that the Board was unable to do so.

"We have more than discharged our duty, and McNamara and his friends have treated this case as a joke," commented Ryan.

McNamara did not return to the campus after Thanksgiving vacation, but traveled instead to "look at grad schools." McNamara said that the Judicial Board made only a half effort in their attempts to notify him of the charge. He argued that "all they had to do would have been to send a copy of the notification to my South Bend address. It would have taken 30 minutes." Ryan says a letter was sent to the South Bend address, while McNamara maintains that the first notification he received came to his home during the Christmas holiday.

The charge, filed by Robert Narucki, 358 Bedin, was called by McNamara "rather obtuse.

In the specification of the charge, Narucki cited the following charges in having led to the cancellation of the Alumni Board meeting, on which one of McNamara's charges is a violation of his right to be interviewed.

- "I was very disappointed with the responsibility of the University community," said Narucki after yesterday's meeting. "First the Senate and the Student Life Council failed to take any action, and now the Campus Judicial Board has left things alone until almost two months have passed before the case even comes to trial."

Ms. Pearl announced that McNamara's case is Don Hynes, a senior, McTigue, an alumna, Peter Michelson, a faculty member, and Kathy Cec, a St. Mary's student.

Ms. Pearl has been acting in all phases of the investigation and that there has been no violation of anyone's rights. In response to McNamara's argument that he has violated certain modes of procedure, Ryan said, "McNamara obviously does not understand the procedure, especially insofar as it differs from a civil court. We have followed our rules of conduct to the letter."

Winter vacation now comes to its conclusion with the new Alumni Club, formerly the Faculty Club and formerly the McNamara house, with the possibility that the campus will open soon after the stadium. Seniors who join the Alumni Association may partake of its delights.

Pears Says Students Wrong on Robberies

Security Director Arthur Pears charged last night that the opinions of holiday campus theft victims were "all wrong.

Off Campus student Joe Reivmzky, who remained in a friend's room during the Christmas vacation, however, took issue with Pears' statement and attacked campus security operations. Reivmzky said last night, "at 11:45 on Christmas Eve, I noticed some regarding its nature and activity in Dillon Hall. I searched the hall for a security policeman, and couldn't find one until I reached the security office in the Administration building. There I found eight of them, talking and drinking coffee."

Senior Bruno Eidietis had a close call with the robbers when they attempted to remove some electronic equipment from his room through the transom. He surprised them in the act, however, and they fled before he could react. "There was no guard on duty in Alumni Hall that night," complained Eidietis.

According to Eidietis, the guard is stationed about twenty feet from my room. Had an officer been present, at least some of the thieves would have been apprehended."

Mr. Pears countered that his men were doing the best possible job under the circumstances. "The lackadaisical attitude of the campus police is alarming," continued Reivmzky. "One night I encountered a guard in Cavanaugh Hall sound asleep in the basement lounge."

Complaints about sleepy guards are not uncommon and are specifically mentioned in the Hall Presidents' Council report on Hall Life, which was submitted to the Student Life Council on Jan. 5.

According to several students, South Bend youths robbed the campus over the vacation period, abusing property and running through the halls. "These kids have probably learned how to pick the locks on the doors, as I have when I forgot my key," observed one irate student. The rector of Badin Hall is reported to have reported the case to the University security, and rejected the idea of housing guards in the halls over the vacation period as "too expensive."
Board Makes No Decision

The Student Union Board of Directors met Friday morning to try to smooth out the rift between Student Body President Richard Rossie and Student Union President Rick Rembusch that arose over Rossie's refusal to sign a check covering transportation expenses to an unbudgeted conference. Rossie felt that Rembusch had overstepped his authority when he made arrangements without consulting the proper people.

The meeting was an attempt to determine the lines of authority in Student Government so that future incidents can be avoided.

Both Rossie and Rembusch described the meeting as a "good session." Other members of the Board of Directors voted not to comment on the meeting stating that, since the meeting was concerned with relations between Student Body President and Student Union President, all comments should be made by the parties directly involved. The Board earlier had voted to hold a closed meeting.

The other members of the Board are: Vice President for Student Affairs Rev. Charles McCarragher; Student Body Vice-President Chuck Nau; Treasurer Richard Rodrick; Student Union Vice-President Bill Wade; Hall Presidents' Council Chairman Phil McKenna and Professor John Houck.

In summarizing the session, Rossie said that the entire relationship between Student Government and Student Union was thoroughly discussed, but "Nothing as such was decided. The discussion was to see where the weak points of the Constitution were. We tried to get an understanding of individual duties and the duties of the Board." He added, "The issue of signing checks was not even mentioned."

Rembusch agreed generally and mentioned that the meeting was "not productive in specifics, but in attitude." He further stated that "There is a need for a clear definition of lines of authority. It (Student Union) should be somewhat subordinated."

Rossie also thought that there was a strong need for constitutional clarification of the role of Student Union. These improvements could be forthcoming from a bill to be introduced in the Student Senate Tuesday by Breen-Phillips Senator Richard Hunter and Farley Senator Ed Davie.

The Hunter-Davie bill would clearly subordinate Student Union to the will of the Student Body President and the Student Senate. Davie has stated that he wanted to insure that the student would "remain a part of the Student Government in the hands of the Senate and the S.B.P. so that any loss of money by the Union would be allowable to the Senate and the S.B.P. since that is the source of their funds."

Money, obviously, was one of the major points of contention prior to the meeting and will be one of the major things to be decided by the Senate. At present, Rosie explained, "No one has the authority to alter the budget after the Senate passes it. But there is a certain amount of autonomy in dispensing budgeted funds. The Senate will have to determine just how much autonomy the Union has.

Blue Circle

The Blue Circle Freshmen Tutor Program will continue to offer free tutoring for freshmen. The remaining tutor sessions will be offered Jan. 14, 16 and 21 at 7 pm in 104 O'Shaughnessy Hall.

All freshmen courses will be tutored upon request. Freshmen are reminded that if they wish to attend, they must sign up with their hall representative by 10 pm the night prior to the tutor session they attend.

HUAC Head Ichord To Look at SDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Rep. Richard H. Ichord, a tough minded Missourian who will become chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, said yesterday his first order of business would be to investigate the Students for a Democratic Society.

Ichord, who will also seek new laws governing behavior in the committees' hearing room, said in an interview that the student organization will be investigated "in view of the information that has been made public of the increasingly militant nature of the SDS - it's conducting classes in sabotage, how to make molotov cocktails and its teaching violent guerrilla tactics."

"I intend to use all the body of the law that is available to maintain the proper atmosphere of a hearing," Ichord said "if necessary. I will introduce a bill to this effect that permits me as chairman to maintain order in the hearing room."

Ichord will be the eighth chairman of the controversial committee, first organized under chairman Martin Dies in 1938. Its hearings have been among the most tumultuous on Capitol Hill.

Ichord also plans to "improve the investigative techniques of the committee" as a way of saving the Senate from what Ichord sees as "useless" investigation of "names of those who are hostile witnesses intending to refuse to testify under the 5th Amendment.

 Jury Selection Begins in Sirhan Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Selection of jurors to try Sirhan B. Sirhan on a charge of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy may begin Monday following a week of legal maneuvering by defense attorneys.

Sirhan, 24, a Jordanian immigrant from the gas chamber spent the weekend preparing arguments challenging the jury selection process.

 Cal Teachers Threaten Walkout

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Unionized teachers in California threatened to stage a statewide walkout if any attempt is made to fire striking faculty members at strike-torn San Francisco State College.

John Spryling, president of the California Federation of Teachers, said teachers would hold a one-day strike at all 16 state college campuses and at nearby public schools following the threatened firing.

"If a one day strike doesn't get the fringes resined, then we'll escalate," Spryling said. "We're going to make them realize it isn't their football."

 Surprise Paris Meeting Still Fails

PARIS (UPI) - The United States and North Vietnam met unexpectedly last night in an effort to get the Paris talks on Vietnam moving during President Johnson's administration, but they failed to come to terms.

The US side was represented by Cyrus R. Vance, deputy chief of the American delegation to the conference, summoned his North Vietnamese counterpart, Col. Ha San Long, to their first meeting since November 10.

It lasted for two hours and 15 minutes and ended on an encouraging a note as previous sessions, an American spokesman said.

 North Irish Leader Rips Catholics

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) - Northern Ireland's home affairs minister charged yesterday that the aim of the organizers of the current civil rights campaign "appears to be to create civil strife."

The minister, Capt. William Long, made the charge in a statement condemning violent attacks on police and government buildings which have climaxcd a Catholic led protest march on the border town of Newry Saturday.

The march was organized by the self-styled "People's Democracy" movement which has taken the leading role in the campaign against alleged anti-Catholic discrimination in Northern Ireland.

 Infantry Repulse Viet Cong at Delta

SAIGON (UPI) - American infantrymen defending a bivouac in Mekong Delta swamps hurled back a Viet Cong charge before dawn yesterday in heavy fighting that raged for more than an hour.

The U.S. command said the men of the 9th Infantry Division lost nine killed and 17 wounded while killing at least six Viet Cong in a force which crept through marshy flats and attacked the camp with small arms and rocket grenades.

Field reports said the Americans, with support from machine guns and T-72 "Spooky," sent the Commu-nists retreating back into the rice paddies 60 miles southwest of Saigon shortly after 3 a.m.

North of Saigon, other U.S. infantrymen broke out of an ambush setting trap them as they headed to reinforce some embattled buddies a mile away and reported killing 22 North Vietnamese attackers.

Famous men can say that they have influenced history, and almost nobody that I can think of on the Notre Dame campus. True, we have had our share of TIME covers but there have celebrated football more than they have excelled excellence or influence. Notre Dame has trained influential men, but the closest it has come to placing a man in a real power position was with William E.
(remember?) Miller in the 1964 election.

The year 1968, which will be recalled by many men for many reasons, saw a change in that a man from this school helped change the political course of this nation. This man was one of perhaps thirty individuals nationwide who led the campaign against Lyndon Johnson and the War.

A year ago the United States of America appeared to be a political wasteland. The President was sure of renomination, while George Romney and Richard Nixon shifted away from promising ers any choice on Vietnam and national goals.
Robert Kennedy gave no indication that he would enter the race, and Nelson Rockefeller insisted “I’m through with Presidential politics.”

However, one man stood up and spoke out substantively against the Administration. He was and is - a diffident and baffling figure, seemingly a towering man of courage at one moment and a vindictive politician at the next. Whatever would happen later in the year, Eugene McCarthy was in New Hampshire giving the votes a choice. He spoke in a soft voice, and in a message was one of peace.

Many laughed at McCarthy, and party hawks brazenly he would get no more than ten percent of the primary vote. The campaign was undermined and unfaithful. Yet, a brave group of men stood up with the Senator and worked to make his campaign a reality not just in New Hampshire but in places such as Indiana. One of these men was Dr. James Bogle of the Notre Dame Government Department.

In a way the McCarthy campaign for much of the Midwest started with Bogle and started at Notre Dame. Under the leadership of Mary Perone and Chuck Nau the first McCarthy for President youth group in the country was formed.
However, throughout the good moments and the bad, the major figure was Bogle. In one of the most conservative states of the U.S., he put together a volunteer organization of more than 9000 people. In less than three months he put 15,000 miles on a new car travelling throughout Indiana urging on those committed to stopping the War and the man who caused it.

Bogle made a unique contribution to Notre Dame as he worked exorbitantly hard with McCarthy. For the first time a high degree of political awareness and activism was stimulated on what has been a most peaceful and isolated campus. The example of the calm yet intensely involved professor was followed as hundreds of students here worked on the campaigns of Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy, as well as the unprecedented effort on behalf of Mark Hatfield at the mock convention.

In the end the tumulted suits and cracked up car produced a strong moral reward for Bogle, and for all those who were mocked in the early going.
McCarthy defeated Johnson in New Hampshire.
Two weeks later, following the declaration of the Kennedy candidacy, the President deescalated the War and quit the race. The year 1968 would bring many disappointments, but the tide of history had been reversed by a few courageous men.

There can be no doubt, then, that Notre Dame’s man of the year is Dr. James Bogle. Along with a very few others he stopped Johnson and slowed down the War.

He stood up when others remained silent. Dr.
Bogle is an example of the committed man in the modern university. Let us hope others in the faculty, and perhaps the Government Department as a whole, adopt his as an example of relevance.

LOTTERY TONIGHT AND TOMORROW NIGHT FROM 7 TO 9PM IN THE STUDENT CENTER
By MIKE PAVLIN

Irish coach Johnny Dee must be hoping that his team isn’t setting some sort of a trend.

For the second game in a row, the Irish have given their coach and fans fits by almost squandering commanding leads and fans fits by almost left. Dwight Murphy and Bob Whitmore did the damage for the Irish, combining for 32 of Notre Dame’s 36 points.

In the second half, the Irish stretched the lead to twenty at 18:44 and still led by 56-39 at 8:46. Then Joe Meyer took over as the Blue Demons’ Meyer, sophomore and the son of Coach Ray Meyer, scored seven points himself and quarterbacked a Demon surge to cut the lead to seven with 4:12 left. Dwight Murphy and Bob Arnzen then canned buckets to bring the Irish’s lead shrink to seven with 4:12 left. Dwight Murphy and Bob Arnzen, De Paul captain Al Zetschhitl a jumper. But Collie Jones made a lay-up and Murphy a foul shot, enabling the Irish to coast while De Paul ran off six last disaster points.

In the locker room, Dee could only shake his head in disbelief over the rash of injuries which have hit his club. Austin Carr will be out for several more weeks, Jack Meehan is not yet 100% after his injury, and John Derrig is still rusty after his five-week lay-off.

Last week in practice, John Flisch hurt his foot. X-rays proved negative, but John was still unable to run effectively. O’Connell suffered a knee burn during the second half, causing his arthritic knee to swell and Dee to remove him from the game.

Dee also indicated that Arnzen is playing in great pain in his heel. Despite freeze treatments, as Jim Blainey observed, "Arnie just runs out of gas in the second half."

In a preliminary game, the Irish Frosh again their record 2-1 by drubbing De Paul 103-86. Notre Dame raced to 54-34 halftime before closing the bench in the final twenty minutes. Terry O’Brien was high man for Notre Dame with 26 points, backed-up by Jim Regelien (18), Tim Di Pico (16), and Doug Gemmel (15).

Nick Hitzgard and Paul Shields led the Little Demons, combining for 43 points.

The Irish, now sporting a 10-2 record, complete first semester action by taking on Air Force tonight and Spencer Haywood’s Detroit Titans on Wednesday.

At 6-10, Cliff Parson of Monroeville, Pa., is the tallest man in the history of the United States Air Force. He is half a foot taller than Cadets should be, according to regulation, but the Academy made an unprecedented exception in accepting him. Parsons has more than returned the favor.

Tonight the 225-pound senior, averaging 17 points and 13 rebounds per game, leads the Air Force (7-3 this winter) against Notre Dame in a 7:30 contest.

Tomersoni was magnificient against the Bobcats as he thwarted a total of 44 scoring attempts, including seven in the overtime period. His defensive cohorts showed no reluctance for an occasional scuffle and Jim Morin in particular made it known that he’d rather give than receive.

Though they emerged unscathed from their weekend’s work, the Irish did suffer a couple of injuries which could hurt. Jim Blainey injured his ankle and Bonk, who leads the team in assists with 16, his wrist in the Titan clash. The extent of the injuries hasn’t been determined as yet, but anything is bad news to Blainey, who has a bad back himself.

With his four goals Saturday night, Hoene leads the team totaling 14 for 27 points. Bonk in second with 23 goals and Phil Westdell is third with 14.

The Irish must brace themselves for a weekend visit from two tough Minnesota schools. St. John’s and St. Thomas. Coach Smith is “very pleased” with the team’s progress so far and cites the steady play of Morin and Mark Longar, plus the addition of footballer Eric Norri as big plus for the defense.

Michigan State’s freshman team invades Irish ice next at 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday. And for those who like to look ahead, Bert Dehate and a powerful Wisconsin team blow in for an end of the month showdown on the 30th and 31st.
