SMC students to have voice on commission

St. Mary’s College students beginning in September will hold voting positions in all college commissions concerned with academic matters as a result of a proposal approved Friday by the faculty senate and accepted by college President R. V. Magruder. The proposal was approved by the faculty members placed two students on the Academic Affairs Council and on each of its five committees. Representatives will hold full voting privileges on the Academic Affairs Council as well as committees on academic standards, curriculum, library, teacher education and admissions and scholarships.

A convocation of the student body will be held at 1:00 p.m. today to explain the workings of the new setup and how they apply for applying for positions. Representatives will be chosen by the students, under the direction of the Student Government subject to the approval of the Student Assembly.

Applications will be taken for positions all this week.

“The reason for student participation in the government of the academic area is communication of student views and student run projects,” Pam Carey, SMC Academic Commissioner said yesterday.

Carey said that she hoped that there will be an increased effort by the area of pass-fail expansion of the pass-fail system and study techniques at Notre Dame and St. Mary’s scheduling of study days before exams.

The proposal for student participation brought forth at the faculty was a result of recommendations by an Ad Hoc committee of students and faculty at St. Mary’s which held two full-student participation in academic affairs of the college. Sally Davis, last year’s Academic Commissioner, first introduced the proposal to the faculty assembly last fall.

There’s something about a greased pig that seems to excite Notre Dame men. As a matter of fact, ND men seem to like chasing pigs—greased or otherwise.

The Mansfield experiment directed against the Soviet Union’s reasonable Minutemen would survive.

The Mansfield experiment was approved by the faculty today to prevent violent disorder without any side effects. The federal government can do anything it wants.

The possibility of such a loss, said Dr. John S. Foster Jr., is the first time the nation’s troubled university campuses.

Although he has the capability to build a force of 500 SSSICMs by 1975, he has never been able to do anything about it.

WASHINGTON (UPI) The request for defense research and development was in the first time.

At the end of his trial, the judge ruled that the matter of fact, ND men seem to like chasing pigs—greased or otherwise.

McNamara, Kahn convicted

By Jim Raleigh

Saturday morning, the Campus Judicial Board convicted David Kahn and Marty McNamara of three charges, tried by them of Students, Rev James Rieble, the acting president, or secret conversations" still offered the best hope, in Saigon's view, of getting the Communists to put their cards on the table.

“Most people refused to engage in serious discussion with the other side if they want them,” he told newsmen at Orly Airport.

“...but to be able to explore more deeply the possibilities of agreement,” he said, “it seems to me that the most feasible formalities of the package’s proposals or private and secret conversations between the two sides is to put something we can’t be precise about” at the formal weekly negotiating sessions in Paris.

Manfield says to govt: “hands off”

WASHINGTON (UPI) Senate Democratic leader Mike Manfield said yesterday the federal government should “keep its hands off” the nation’s troubled university campuses.

The former professor said college authorities “have the duty and ability to prevent violent disorder without any action by the government.”

“The best thing the federal government can do is to keep its hands off,” Manfield said in an interview. “The best thing the students and faculty can do is to face up to their own problems.”

Although he rejected the get tough approach of Attty. Gen John N. Mitchell and other officials of the Nixon administration, Manfield said university administrations should not tolerate “violence and license” from a few student rebels.

“I differentiate between the minor misbehaviour which seems to be a confrontation and the great majority of students that are more interested in negotiation,” he said.

U.S. present missile system weak

WASHINGTON (UPI) The Pentagon’s research chief estimated yesterday for the first time publicly that perhaps only one tenth of the U.S. strategic missile force would survive a Soviet nuclear attack in 1984.

The possibility of such a loss, said Dr. John S. Foster Jr., is the first time the nation’s troubled university campuses.

McNamara, Kahn convicted

Despite protests from the humane society, 1969’s An Tostal concluded with a pig chase. Dillon hall nailed four pigs in record time to win the event with SMC coming in a close second. The pigs were persuaded to participate in the chase by being drowned into the pen.

"And when they were in there, you couldn’t tell who was chasing whom,” remarked one ND student. Freshman Carol McRedmond, dressed entirely in white, produced the best tackle of the day. She missed the pig but hit the mud.

Cavanagh won the best race, but Badin had the most unusual host—a maid’s cart with a few footboard, two chairs and two pillows. The cart gained so much speed that it was surging on its rear wheels. The pit rider riding the cart almost got killed. C.S.C., in regard to their actions in the Friday incident of the Censorship and Pornography Conference.

Kahn and McNamara were both found guilty for unauthorized use of Campus facilities, Kahn, of assault and battery, and McNamara was charged with contributing to a public disturbance.

On the first count, the Judicial Board recommended that they be placed on probation. In the second count of assault and battery, the Board did not levy any penalty due to the possibility of unlawful misuse of the defendants’ property.

The judge that the letter the law had been violated. However, this violation, he said, was provoked by a possible unlawful seizure, such that their actions were somewhat justified to which we can, therefore, not levy any penalty.

In regard to the Judicial Board’s decision, Kahn stated, “It is a credit to the Judicial Board, that they understand the rationale of civil disobedience and that they are able to transcend the letter of the law in favor of academic freedom. Furthermore, they were entirely correct in their adjudication which has indicated that student’s were not to be blamed for the phobic disorder which occurred in conjunction with the suppressed conference.”

An Tostal concludes with chase

Dr. Peter P. Grande, director of the office of institutional studies at the University of Notre Dame, has been named director of admissions at the University. The appointment is effective July 1.

Grande succeeds Brother Raphael Wilson, C.S.C., who has headed Notre Dame’s admissions program since September, 1965. Brother Raphael, an associate professor of microbiology, will take a year’s sabbatical leave at the University of Illinois, West Germany, before returning to the teaching and research staff of Notre Dame’s Lobund Laboratory. He will be a visiting professor at the University of Illinois and director of its clinical bacteriology research program.

"Rx for discontented youth"

"Professor Joseph J. Schwab has written a tough-minded, analytic, and prescriptive book that is more humane and more generous than any apologia of student protest not in print. There is not a university president, or member of a board of trustees, or senior faculty member hiding behind his diminishing grants, or junior faculty member fearing both freedom and liberation, who can afford not to read it and to study it. Perhaps, in place of a few of the academic hegiras planned for this coming summer, it might be more profitable, and far less costly, if a few beleaguered (and some of the as yet untouched) institutions were to build student-faculty seminars around the text...Professor Schwab has produced the definitive handbook for creative academic revolution."

Professor Michelson resigns

Professor Peter Michelson has resigned his position in the English Department, effective at the end of the year, in order to edit a literary magazine at the University of Wyoming. Michelson said, "I am leaving Notre Dame, first, because the repressive and censorious attitude of the university administration, especially this past academic year, has seriously compromised the possibility for free humanistic inquiry at Notre Dame, and secondly, because I feel that I can more freely explore the interaction of art and society in the position I have been offered at the University of Wyoming." In his letter of resignation, sent to Father Walsh, Michelson said, "I am the cause of the past year administrative responses to campus dissent have defined a repressive and authoritarian educational environment at Notre Dame. Such policy in prescribed in Father Hesburgh's letters must create-hostility in fact already created-an atmosphere of suspicion, hostility, and harassment of whatever falls outside its arbitrary, and often whimsical, bounds. Thus, the possibility of free humanistic inquiry at Notre Dame has been seriously compromised. For there can be no real freedom of mind where dissent is suppressed; and that is the consequence of Father Hesburgh's machinations to effect a conformity of will in the Notre Dame community.

HPC discusses idea of hall fellow

HPC Chairman Rich Heidecker asked each hall president last night to submit to him the name of a faculty member that hall might want for a hall fellow next year. The hall president, academic commission, or council will make the final decision on its fellow, but the HPC is co-ordinating the program.

Both Morrisey and Farley had fellows last year but the program will be expanded in the fall to include every hall on campus. Heidecker said that the purpose of the hall fellow will be to "bridge the student-faculty gap" by becoming acquainted with hall life. Tom Duffy, HPC secretary, felt that the hall fellows program will eventually lead to a faculty office move from the library to the halls. "The move would give the halls a more civilized touch," he said.

Greg Murray, a promoter of a leadership conference to be held on campus a week before classes resume in the fall, asked that the hall presidents make an attempt to attend the conference. He said that a five dollar fee would cover the cost of a textbook and other miscellaneous items. Any other expenses will be handled by either ND or SMC.

Next week the HPC will vote on a constitutional amendment proposed by Jim Smith of St. Ed's giving the council the power to express an official opinion on issues pertaining to hall life.

Irish hurlers spin twin shut-out victories

by Terry Shields
Observer sports writer

Nick Furlong continued his fine shutout pitching as he led the Irish to a 3-0 victory over Ohio University last Friday at Carter Field. In so doing he extended his scoreless inning string to 23 innings and evened his record at 2-2. This fine performance also lifted the Irish over .500 for the first time this season with a 10-9 mark. Furlong gave up seven hits in his nine inning effort.

The Irish scored in the initial stanza when Bob Votier drew a walk and went to second on Tom Lux's single. Rich Lucke then walked and Bill Orga drove in the run with a sacrifice fly. The contest remained tight until the seventh inning when

Rain dampens Blue-Gold scrimmage

by Mike Pavlin
Observer Sports editor

For awhile I thought this job was a thankless one. You sell all night in the office trying to figure out why your headlines don't fit and people call you up asking why the last issue didn't contain the results of the Zahn Hall third floor Wall Ball Tournament.

I changed my mind radically last Saturday, though, because as Sports Ed I was entitled to a free seat in the Press Box for the second annual Blue-Gold football scrimmage. There I sat, eating free hot dogs and drinking free Coca-Cola vanilla while outside the rain drenched and the wind chilled a multitude of 5,375 who were exploring the length and depth of meaning of the expression "die-hard." The game itself replaced the nostalgic Old Timer's Game last year. Ara Parseghian had wisely decided that since scores in the contest were ballooning and since Pro teams were becoming worried about injuries their property could suffer, it would be better to hold an instructional, intersquad scrimmage.

Last year's opener was exceptionally good, because it unraveled the wizardry of Joe Theismann, who ran and passed varsity and he had the Chicago inter-squad scrimmage.
