Senators John Rank, Mike Mead, and Tom Thrasher held the Student Senate in a fluster last night over the issue of academic credit for ROTC. For four hours the three senators gave their views on why Notre Dame's ROTC program should be granted credit as a department of the University. Before the issue was voted on, however, it was determined by the Senate Secretary that because some members left the senate chambers, there were not enough members present to continue the meeting.

The ROTC bill, which had been presented by Senators Kevin Rooney and David Jones, stated "The Student Senate of the University of Notre Dame endorses the resolution passed by the Faculty Senate on May 7, 1969, and calls upon the Academic Council to establish that academic credit for ROTC be granted only for courses taught by faculty members of the requisite (that is, non-military) academic department of the University. We mandate the Student Body President to send copies of this resolution to Father Hesburgh, the Academic Council, the Board of Trustees, and the Faculty Senate." Since this bill was not voted on last night, no action was taken against its passage, walked out of the room in order to continue meeting night after night until they decide on this issue. He also stated that it was important for the Senate to vote on this bill before the University Academic Council meets on May 29.

Moynihan, Flahiff to speak here

Daniel P. Moynihan, assistant to President Nixon for Urban Affairs, and George Cardinal Flahiff of Winnipeg, will be the principal speakers at the University of Notre Dame's Baccalaureate Mass, the Athletic-Convocation arena. Both men will be awarded honorary doctor of laws degrees.

Moynihan received his undergraduate training at Tufts University and earned a Ph.D. in political science from the University's Fletcher School of International Law & Diplomacy in 1961. He then spent four years in the U.S. Department of Labor as an executive assistant to the Secretary of Labor and assistant U.S. Secretary of Labor for Policy Planning and Research. Prior to his appointment as a White House urban affairs advisor, he spent three years as director of the Joint Center for Urban Studies of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University.

Cardinal Flahiff is a Basilian priest who did his undergraduate work at St. Michael's College, Toronto, and his graduate work in Strasbourg, France. He taught Medieval history at the University of Toronto graduate school and at the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies at the University from 1934 to 1952 when he was elected superior general of the Basilian Fathers.

An advocate of renewal in the religious life, he was appointed archbishop of Winnipeg in 1961 by Pope John XXIII and from 1963 to 1965 served as president of the Canadian Conference of Bishops. He served on several pre and post-Vatican II commissions on the religious life and in 1965 was named to the Sacred Congregation for Religious and Secular Institutes.

Last night Dean Howard S. Weaver of Yale University spoke in St. Mary's Little Theatre on "Educational Television: A Link Between the University and Public." Weaver spoke of the "big monster known as television," and called it "one of civilization's great technological advances." He said, "it's going to be an element in terms of education which we will live with indefinitely."

Weaver said that the original plan for television was an educational one, but that we have come to think of it today in terms of "time slots," and "blocks of time." The modern audience, Weaver said, is "used to the fact that it's a powerful medium of delivering a message."

The Yale dean said that educational television will be presented not with the idea of delivering a message, but to show what is or has happened over the tube, and let you decide on it." Weaver stressed the notion of personal evaluation, and said that one asset of educational television will be to allow the individual to form his own judgments on matters presented without being confined to studio evaluation or intended messages.

Weaver said that most people have come to think of educational television in terms of commercial television, and that "inevitably critics used the same yardsticks to evaluate them."

Weaver said however, that educational television has an advantage because it can "offer an opportunity not for 'programming,' that is to say, a prover said it would not be technicians or station managers who originate innovations in educational television, but "something akin to the artist."

A conference to explore anthropological aspects of liturgy is scheduled for June 9-13 at the University of Notre Dame.

The symposium, entitled "Roots of Ritual" and sponsored by Notre Dame's graduate program in liturgical studies, has a threefold purpose, according to the Rev. Aidan Kavanagh, O.S.B., program director: 1) to examine the role played by ritual structures in the psycho-social development of man; 2) to determine the sources and limits of man's need for ritual structures in the civil and religious spheres of his existence; and 3) to suggest the radical effects such structures have as agencies of value dissemination in society and as forces securing a sense of identity for the individual member of society.

Speakers at the symposium will include Prof. Brian Wicker of Birmingham University in England, Prof. J.C. Crocker of Duke University; Prof. Margaret Meade of Columbia University; Prof. Patrick J. Quinn of the University of California at Berkeley; and Dean Alexander Schmemann of St. Vladimir's Seminary, Tuckahoe, N.Y. In addition to Father Kavanagh, other Notre Dame faculty members on the program will be the Rev. David Bureau and Prof. Edward Fischer.

Topics to be discussed include "Ritual in Personal Development," "Ritual in the Resolution of Personal and Social Crisis," "Ritual as a Communication Medium," and "Ritual and Christianity."

The symposium will be held at Moreau Seminary, and further information is available by writing Father Kavanagh at the University.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Nixon yesterday summoned Ambassador Henry C. Holton Lodge from Paris for new negotiating instructions based on Vietnam peace developments which Nixon will disclose to the nation tonight. The White House said only that the President would present "new material" on Vietnam in a major 30-minute speech to be broadcast live from the East Wing theater of the White House starting at 10 p.m. EDT tonight.

In a special message to Congress, Nixon putaside until "more stabilizing world conditions" prevail his campaign pledge for replacing the draft with an all volunteer army. In the meantime, he said, "we must do everything we can to limit the disruption caused by the system and to make it as fair as possible." At the core of the President's proposal is a system of random selection so that chance alone would determine which of the 19-year-olds would be drafted and which would be bypassed. Some system that is necessary. White House aides explained, because each year another 600,000 men turn 19 but the Army needs only half that many as long as enlistments keep up at their present pace.

National Guard returns to Southern U.

(UPI) - Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen called out National Guard troops yesterday for the second time in two weeks to deal with student unrest at Southern University.

The Louisiana governor ordered 600 Guardsmen to form at an armory in Baton Rouge and proceed to the predominantly Negro Southern University campus in the state's capital city.

McKeithen moved after students set fire to a big construction crane on the campus, then to keep firemen from putting out the flames, and were repulsed by state police who fired tear gas at the assembled crowd.

The students threw up barricades and built bonfires on the streets in the second consecutive day of unrest on the campus. One student was arrested for throwing a fire bomb at a state trooper.

Andretti burns up track at Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - Little Mario Andretti continued burning up the track yesterday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, turning a lap at 171.494 miles per hour, the fastest ever here by a piston driven car.

Andretti, from Nazareth, Pa., on Monday was clocked at 170.197 m.p.h. in his backup car, becoming the first driver to reach the 170 mark this spring during practice for the Indianapolis 500 mile Memorial Day auto race. But yesterday his fastest lap came in his No. 1 machine, a four wheel drive turbo charged Ford.

His speed yesterday which came on his third outing of the day on the 2 1/2 mile oval, was slower only to those during last qualifications by Joe Leonard, Sun June Caf, at 171.933, and Graham Hill of England, 171.887, both in turbines.

Tower heads plan

Sunday night, the first step was taken toward the formation of the hall government for towers A and B. Both towers will be considered one hall, with one sector.

Under the chairmanship of Paul Dillenberger, three committees were set up. A constitutional committee, which has the responsibility of setting up a constitution by which to govern the hall, a judicial committee, which has to set up a working judicial system; and an orientation committee, which is to handle the hall life orientation of incoming freshmen. The first two committees' tasks are directly concerned with the establishment of parietal hours for the hall.

After agreeing to set up the three committees, various things were discussed. Among them was the source of income which the hall must develop, in order to sponsor parties, and other events. Here a problem arose because, while other halls derive a large part of their income from food sales, the new dorms have food machines owned by the university.

If used if the university could be persuaded to give the hall the rights of those from the machines, Dillenberger said "I seriously doubt it."

The idea of a hall tax was discussed, with a majority of the members in favor of some kind of fee charged in order to raise funds.

The meeting broke down into three groups, comprising of those who joined the individual halls. Chairmen of the committees for the three groups were released. Work yesterday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, turning a lap at 171.494 miles per hour, the fastest ever here by a piston driven car.

A really good beer like Budweiser is just as good when you chill it twice. We're mighty glad about that. We'd hate to think of all our effort going down the drain just because the temperature has its ups and downs.

You can understand why when you consider all the extra trouble and extra expense that go into brewing Bud. For instance, Budweiser is the only beer in America that's Beechwood Aged.

So...it's absolutely okay to chill beer twice.

Good enough said. Of course, we have a lot more to say about Budweiser. But we'll keep it on ice for now.
Rugby cup goes to Irish (Canadians)

Sailors midwest champs

The Notre Dame Sailing Team weathered the squalls this week end at Bloomington, Ind., to secure a victory in the Midwest Challenge Cup Regatta. The victory qualified the team for the North American Championships to be held at Seattle June 14-15. The opposing schools, the Bear in the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association, proved to be little competition for the Irish. With one regatta remaining—this coming weekend at Wisconsin—there are enough points available for the Irish to account for each and every division of the 20 regattas.
