Kertesz asks for NATO power

by Paul Gallagher

Beware of the myth of a mellowing Soviet leadership and power it still the only thing that can hold Soviet expansionism at bay, Kertesz maintains. The major message that emerges from an article by Stephen Kertesz, director of Notre Dame's Institute for International Studies, is: 1. This is no vacuum to be filled. 2. The only thing that can hold Soviet expansionism at bay is the power of the United States.

Kertesz wrote the article in July's Atlantic Monthly. As a guide, he tells his readers, he finds certain natural obstacles that were successfully converted to useful political power: (1) the Soviet Union's failure to gain a foothold in any European country besides East Germany; (2) the dynamic industrial richness of Western Europe; (3) the Atlantic Alliance as a deterrent and a reward. The major message that emerges from an article by Stephen Kertesz, director of Notre Dame's Institute for International Studies, is: 1. This is no vacuum to be filled. 2. The only thing that can hold Soviet expansionism at bay is the power of the United States.

Kertesz concludes that the Soviet Union has a permanent characteristic of Russian foreign policy - that of territorial expansionism. The Soviet Union's expanse has created a power vacuum. "Moscow would easily find ostensible justification for intervention in West Europe if the old continent were to become a power vacuum," Kertesz writes. As for the Soviet's march on Czechoslovakia, it's little over a year ago, Kertesz charged that the Soviet Union formulated the statement spelling out the Soviet view right into the affairs of socialist countries only after they tried unsuccessfully to find Czech leaders willing to say that the Soviets were invited to do so. Effect to their ends, Kertesz says, the political capital, if no power in politics to prevent Soviet imperialism, they will move and find justifications for the action afterwards.

Lottery ticket sign-up tonight

Registration for the lottery of the 300 N.D.-Purdue football tickets available for students will take place tonight from 7:30 in the Fiesta Lounge on the second floor of the Student Union, announced Service Commissioner Bob Pohl yesterday.

According to Pohl, the lottery results from the fact that many fewer tickets than were anticipated were sent west for Purdue. N.D. and SMC students may purchase an additional 20 tickets if they approach him yesterday. The bill included a declaration that any body obtains a set number of tickets from the SLC.

The SLC at its first meeting yesterday in the Center for Continuing Education. Other nominees for the student chairman were Assistant Professor of Physics Rev. James L. Shifts CSC, and Fred Dedrick, Student Body Vice President. Dedrick automatically becomes the new vice chairman as was noted in the sole nominating for that office. The selection of a new secretary will take place next week.

Before the election, Student Body President Phil McKenna, speaking for the eight student delegates to the council, requested that the new chairman be a student member of the council. His rationale for the request was that any body whose major concern is students should be led by students. However, Rev. James L. Buttschell CSC, Chairman of an Assistant Professor in the Department of Theology, felt that the chairman has "significant political power on the council."

McKenna also asked that the new secretary be a student non-member of the SLC and receive some sort of salary. The entire Council seemed to agree with McKenna. McKenna felt that the job would be a good opportunity for a student to work at a financial level. He went on to say that he felt the Observer gave the SLC excellent coverage last year. However, they were asked a belief that a student could properly handle the job.

The election of a secretary was tabled until next week's meeting by both Bob Money and Fred Dedrick as to present a list of candidates. Should no students show an interest in the job, Dean of Students Rev. James L. Richele CSC, offered to serve as secretary.

Minutes before the meeting adjourned the body passed a bill which endorsed continued publication of the Juggler, the University's literary magazine. The bill included a clarification which reads:

"The Student Life Council recommends to the President of the University that the publication of the Juggler be continued with the assurance of continued sponsorship by the University. A mandate follows the declaration:

"The chairman of the Student Life Council is mandated to send copies of this bill to the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, the President of the University, the Vice Presidents of the University, the Editors of all student publications, and the Dean of the Department of English."

However, Rev. Charles J. McCarragher, Vice President for Student Affairs, felt that the SLC shouldn't have even considered the bill since student publications fall under his jurisdiction. McCarragher wrote Juggler editor Michael Patrick O'Connor in early summer and said: "I have information from Father Hennessy's office that he will not fully resolve, that they should close the Juggler next week.

O'Connor then contacted Hennessy and demanded an explanation.

The New SLC Chairman

Prof. James Massey

In a September 5th resolution, Hennessy told O'Connor: "... First of all, I would like to say that the discontinuation of the Juggler did not originate with me. You may wish to discuss this whole matter further with Father McCarragher and that, of course, is perfectly legitimate, since it is his area..."

The Student Union decides change ticket policy

The Student Union reversed a long standing policy last night and released the sale of the student lottery 50 tickets for Saturday's game against Purdue which were held for a special sale to the Student Union staff.

Student Union director Dennis Clark explained that the move was made because he felt what he termed was an inherent "iniquity" in the system as it was run in the past. In former years, the Student Union obtained a set number of tickets from the Notre Dame ticket office for away football games. A set number of the tickets, anywhere from 25 to 50, were then set aside for reserved sale to Student Union officials. The use of the tickets was made available, usually through Board of Trustees, to the right of the student body.

Clark said that a student had approached him yesterday afternoon and remarked that he felt that the system was unfair. "We realized then," Clark explained (continued on page 4)
Food director wants better understanding

by Timothy Treanor

Edmund T. Price, the recently-appointed director of Notre Dame's food services, announced in an interview with the Observer that he will key his administration towards "trying to reach a better understanding with the student." Price, a Cornell alum who served as a general manager of Central and Highland Residence Towers at Memphis State University, said that he was reorganizing an efficiency campaign designed to make mealtime more amenable to Notre Dame's 17,000 students.

To that end, he plans to install complete self-servng in the Undergraduate Dining Hall. Although the plans were originally to go into effect during the fall semester, the technical problems will delay implementation until an indefinite date in the future. Price promises that one of his prime objectives will be to develop an efficient support system between the cafeteria staff and the students they serve. "We are going to have a lot to do with food service. We try to install in them (the cafeteria staff) a desire to please the student," he further suggested that staff workers generally respond favorably to student-generated ideas. "They'll knock themselves out," he said, "if you say something nice to them."
Two week delay at printer's for photo book

The Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Freshman photograph book will be delivered at least two weeks later than expected this year. The reason for the delay, according to the printer, is that the book was more difficult to publish than he anticipated. It will take him upwards of 6 weeks to produce it, rather than the expected 4 weeks.

The book will be 200 pages long and will be distributed at the dining halls sometime later in September.

New approach to sex

NEW YORK (UPI) Young people have a new and healthier approach to sex that should be of great value to their more inhibited elders, according to John D. Rockefeller III.

Writing in the current issue of Look Magazine, the oldest of the Rockefellers, described the behavior of liberated youth as "the new chivalry." He said he was based on trust, openness, respect, and the true and essential aspects of maleness and femaleness.

Rockefeller said marriage, as the conventions of civilized society remain important to the young but that they have rejected different standards for male and female. Young men are increasingly against the warlike role and not afraid to do domestic chores, he wrote.

Young women pursue activities outside the home and worry less about proving their femininity. "They seem to understand that love is much, much more than sex, and that it is natural for a person to be loving, in the finest sense, toward many other persons of both sexes," Rockefeller wrote.

He noted that in the older generation men are deterred from deep affection for other men by false notions about masculinity and from meaningful friendships with other women by fears of what their wives will think. Youth is changing all that, he believes.

"Children will be brought up to understand that love does not mean owning another person, that it is possible to love deeply in marriage and to love others openly and honestly as well," Rockefeller observed.

"This liberation of the human spirit, both in one's upbringing as a child and in marriage, can in turn only make a wholly based marriage even richer and stronger." Rockefeller concluded.

Nixon board studies labor tension

WASHINGTON (UPI) President Nixon yesterday created a "commission of labor, industry and government representatives to deal with strike and tension in the construction industry. He authorized it to intervene in any labor dispute likely to have 'significant impact' on construction.

Nixon said the commission will not try to compulsory arbitrate or limit the right to strike. He explained in an executive order, it is "designed to develop voluntary procedures to be followed in the settlement of disputes over the terms of collective bargaining agreements in the construction industry involving the standard labor and management organizations."

The commission, named the Construction Industry Collective Bargaining committee and headed by Labor Secretary George Shultz, will be composed of four representatives from labor, four from industry, two from the public at large, plus Shultz and Director J. Curtis Counts of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Thirty one percent of the labor contract settlements in the construction industry so far this year were preceded by strikes, he said, compared with 13 percent for industry as a whole.

"Labor management relations in the construction industry reflect numerous signs of strike and tension and the national interest requires an improvement in the procedures and performance of collective bargaining in this sector," the President said.

Nixon said the commission is authorized to intervene in any labor dispute in the construction industry whenever in its judgment the labor dispute is likely to have a significant impact on construction activity in a locality."

Also, he said, it is authorized to develop a voluntary procedure under which labor and management would observe a 30 day cooling off period before a strike or lockout is called. In addition, Nixon said, the commission may seek to mediate labor disputes or investigate them and recommend solutions.

New athletic league formed

The Illini university members of the conference are Southern Illinois of Carbondale, Northern Illinois of DeKalb, and Northern Illinois of Rockford. Ball State, of Muncie, Ind., and tennis, gymnastics, swimming, track, and football to be followed.

Because of advanced over colleges, football in football will be conducted under the first opportunity for conferences to compete on a round road basis.

The starting lineup this Saturday was slated to play in the university division in all sports except Softball, which requires sanction by the local competition of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The joint statement announcing the conference's formation was signed by Dr. John J. Pruis, president of Ball State, and Dr. Alan C. Rankin, president of Indianapolis State.

Grants in Aid Set

It said all five universities agreed to provide a total of no less than 120 and no more than 220 full operator's grants for athletics by the 1970-71 school year. These grants will range from 25 to one hundred and no more than 24 shall be full scholarships.

Tuition grants will start immediately with a minimum of 15 and a maximum of 100 grants and by 1973-74 will be at a level of 85 to 100.

For those students who wish, the institutions are required to plan include reasonable targets of 1960 for students or participating municipalities in the range of 25,000 to 50,000 and during the 1961 season to at least 50 percent of these students.

And there is more, the home games will be scheduled through May 5 and 12,000.

The four horsemen

The formation of the league was announced jointly at the universities in Detroit, D.C., and Chicago.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) Purdue's Boilermakers won their sixth straight game yesterday and reviewed game films in preparation for their traditional rival game with Notre Dame.

The new system of seating was rough on the students and on us. Now only contributing alumni are offered ticket and another 500 or even 1 or 2 tickets is an incentive.

"We never really talked about the policy before, is 1967. The ticket department decreased the number of seats allotted to visiting schools in an effort to accommodate more alumni.

Visiting teams are now allowed only 5000 places. As a result of this Notre Dame is only invited to games when the team plays on the road.

Season ticket sales have been frozen since 1967, and cachbacks were also made in the parents' group.

Only contributing alumni are offered ticket applications, and tickets are on a lottery basis. When an alumni member dies, the name of the heir is placed in the lottery for the remainder of the season.

The former restricted seats policies were replaced by the new general admission seating.

Two shortages arose when students took more room in a particular row or section than would have been assigned to them last year.

There were no enough seats, but with the general admission system ten or twelve students were seated in a section that could have been seated previously.

Mr. Donald E. Boufford, Notre Dame Ticket Manager.

Boufford further explained that when the administration decided to make the spring game a sellout, there was not enough time to wait until registration to clear up the situation.

The selling had to be assigned on a basis of the registrar's office during the summer.

It was on that data combined from the offices of Notre Dame and So., the number in section and whole sections were reserved.

The sections are divided by academic year, and a student is free to sit anywhere in his section.

Even though there was enough room in each section, students who arrived late had trouble finding seats.

I think that the first game on general admission was a test on the students and on us. Now that the students know where their sections are it should run more smoothly, Boufford said.

Room at football games has become a major problem for the university. In 1962, the last time there was no new tickets issued since 1967.

The space problem stems from the fact that the university is growing. Each year 1500 new members are added to the alumni association, but the group does not allow new members.
