Response denied to McKenna on ND Placement Bureau recruiter policies

by Jim Holanger

A request by Student Body President Phil McKenna for objective information about the functions of the university’s Placement Bureau was denied by the director of the bureau last Friday.

Early last July, McKenna called for “an objective look” at the Placement Bureau. A list of questions was sent to Rev. Louis T. Thornton, Director of the Placement Bureau.

In a ten-page letter to McKenna dated September 26, Thornton took a defensive attitude toward the request, and didn’t answer the questions.

The interest in the bureau stems from the CIA protest of last November. "During the day demonstration against the presence of the recruiters from the CIA and Dow, discussions arose concerning the purposes and procedures of the Placement Bureau. In order for the university to benefit from the discussion, McKenna felt it was necessary that certain facts should be publicized since there was little known about the bureau. "The questions have not been asked in an intimidating atmosphere. I feel that it is necessary for the University to take an objective look at all of its past policies," wrote McKenna in a letter to Fr. Thornton last summer.

The questions are factual. They ask about the origins of the program, the number of students involved, and the results obtained over the years.

Greg Scott, a member of last year’s SLC, then went to Fr. Thornton and gave him the list of questions.

In July of this year, Phil McKenna sent a letter explaining the reasons for the study to Thornton. The ten-page reply was released yesterday.

The letter dealt with the supposed injustice of the Dow protest and of the proceedings which followed it.

Fr. Thornton accused protesters and certain members of the student government of interfering with the rights of the individuals who sought information from the recruiters.

The protesters at the November sit-in were asking representatives of the companies on campus should be required to meet with groups of interested students. (continued on page 7)

Finance Committee meets

by Jim Graif

The Student Government Finance Committee will meet tonight in an effort to determine a course of action in regard to this year’s Student Activities budget.

The committee is faced with the problem of inadequate funds for Student Government needs. Although approximately $95,000 was received from Student Government fees, $23,000 must be returned to the University in payment for a loan received last April for operating deficit last year. Student Body Troubleshooter John Coughlen pointed out that he recently paid $2,700 for last year’s unpaid bills. This leaves $47,300 for this year’s operating expenses.

The committee has two options at the present time. The first would be to operate with only the $47,300. This would mean cuts in appropriations to nearly all campus organizations. The second choice would be to ask the University for a new loan. However, Student Body President Phil McKenna stated that he would be very hesitant to ask the University for another loan.

Rev. Charles I. McCartagher, Vice-President for Student Affairs, felt that he could not predict the University’s attitude toward a possible loan request. He did mention that the University is having financial difficulties of its own.

At the present time, committee members are divided over the two options to follow. Those who favor a balanced budget feel that such action would create a feeling of respect for, and confidence in, student government by the members of the student body. Those who favor a deficit believe that it would allow the Student Union to provide more services for students and would give the Union more flexibility.

Tonight the committee will go over the Student Union and the Student Government budget requests and try to decide if it will be necessary to ask for the loan. These two organizations receive priority in the allocation of funds. Both McKenna and Coughlen were hopeful that a decision could be reached tonight. However, in the next three weeks the committee will view requests for funds from other campus organizations and then the final decision could be delayed.

Goerner requests radical revision

by Paul Gallagher

Edward Goerner, pass the ND Curriculum Revision Committee's experimental college proposal.

The recommendations of the experimental college subcommittee of the Notre Dame Curriculum Revision Committee containing the proposal that the university begin an experimental sophomore year program emphasizing "a process and methodology rather than subject matter orientation" is not radical enough, says Edward A. Goerner of the Political Science Department.

Goerner whose 10 page proposal entitled Experiments with Truth: A Radical Proposal appeared in the May 16 issue of the Scholastic and began much of the current talk on campus about experimental college courses discussed during the results of the subcommittee's work.

Of their initial recommendations still to be discussed and approved by the entire Curriculum Revision Committee before being forwarded to the Academic Council, the political scientist said: "It just doesn't speak to the problems that generated my proposal. It just doesn't answer to the problems we (Dr. Goerner and other faculty members submitting experimental college proposals) presented. The problems, as outlined by Professor Goerner's proposal last spring, centered around the "obscure but deeply felt and genuine alienation from their collegiate experience of so many of our students," and the fact that a student's life is "in great, really landscaped barracks where he is largely cut off from any round contact with older scholars whose life of wonder and study he might have an opportunity to share, to test.""

Professor Goerner's proposal was that a five year resident college within the university be set up with no more than 200 students (100 men, 100 women), and 30 faculty members. Junior scholars (students) and senior scholars (faculty members) would work together, would share a life of reflection and growth together—the thesis being that "some young men at least may profit from spending a part of their growing up among a community of learned and holy men."

The proposal for having students live for one year in a co-ed dormitory and with freedom to pick their own university is not enough, said the professor. "It is irrelevant to the functions sought after as far as Notre Dame last year." Goerner contended "None of the people who wrote proposals are happy with it." The recommendations to be voted on by the entire Curriculum Revision Committee may have indeed reordered Goerner's ideas such that little of his ideas remain, admitted Barry Gallagher, a student member of the CRC.

"The ideas are too radical for Notre Dame," Gallagher explained. "They are radical, but conservative he continued. "He felt that he presented a rigid, scholastic view of education," said the committee member. "Goerner wanted to dictate what students should take, but the subcommittee was in favor of giving students greater freedom in this regard," said Gallagher.

Also, in regard to faculty living with students, Gallagher said, "It has been tried in colleges. It doesn't work. It isn't realistic."

Discussion on the Goerner proposal is just beginning, say faculty members and students in support of the political science professor. Among campus faculty members known to be behind the Goerner live-in university idea are Professors Joseph Duffy, Frank O'Malley of the English Department and Professor Peter Walsh of the economics department.

Professor Goerner of the Political Science Department is acting CAP director.
We Call it "Livability"

Our idea is to serve you with lunches and dinners you can live with day after day. Fine steaks properly broiled and at prices you can live with. And with pleasant surroundings, comfortable booths and chairs, a little background music, and a smile from the folks who serve you. And a choice of dinners to match your taste: from the folks who serve you.

Our lunches and dinners you can live with, too.

An4 comfort...little with

The two units most affected were the Army and Air Force. The Army's freshman enrollment dropped from 154 in 1968 to 106 this year - a reduction of approximately 31%. Attrition was even more apparent in the comparative sophomore classes. Only 86 of last year's 154 freshmen wear Army green this year, a drop of 41% from last year's 182-second-year cadets.

The Air Force experienced a similar drop. Freshmen ranks fell a little over a third, from 206 to 137.

Only the Navy did not follow the downward trend. Sixty-three freshmen are currently participating in naval ROTC this year, compared to 67 last year. The stability of the Navy unit can in part be attributed to the heavy number of ROTC scholarship students in its ranks.

The Executive Officer of the Naval unit, Commander W. P. Calhoun, commenting on the steadiness of the enrollment, said that he had noticed "no appreciable change in spirit or participation." Officers in the other units could only speculate on the reasons for their relatively poor showing among this year's freshmen. The Army unit's Executive Officer, Colonel Max L. Lake, mentioned the rearranged freshman orientation as a possible cause, saying that "the fact that we did not get to address all the students as a part of freshman orientation" may have led to a lower enrollment.

None of the units mentioned the anti-ROTC work of the Coalition for Political Action as a cause of the enrollment drop. The CPA had earlier in the year sponsored a program urging the incoming freshmen to consider the alternatives to serving in the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Notre Dame. These efforts centered around a letter sent to the freshmen and various discussion groups during the orientation period.

The main problem associated with the new dinner hours is whether or not this will give the staff students, who usually eat earlier, enough time for their dinner.

Perey also announced, as another time-saver, that the evening entrees will be posted in the hope that the girls could decide beforehand what they want.

In the event that these two proposals do not work, the next solution will be to provide a fourth line below the dining hall, where the Coffee Shop is now located.

Mr. Peroy noted that this line could not possibly serve hot food. Only cold sandwiches and salads would be served.

This would necessitate the closing of the Coffee Shop from 4:30 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. in order to prepare for the evening meal.

Concerning the problem of seating, Peroy said that the seat shortage might be alleviated if the girls made use of the fourth line above.

All organizations requesting funds from Student Government must connect the Student Body Treasurer on or before Wednesday, October 1.

Office Hours: 1 - 5 p.m.
Phone 7664

The Observer is published during the college semester except during the summer vacation by the students of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $4 from The Observer, Box 13, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556. Second class postage paid, Notre Dame Ind. 46556.
Hall presidents set strict parietal enforcement

by John Shreves

Parietal hours became the main topic of a recent student meeting. The meeting was called to order by John Shreves, the new President of the Hall Presidents’ Council, at last night’s Hall Presidents’ Council meeting.

The meeting began with nominations for chairman of the Council for this year. Those nominated are Tom Saddes of Holy Cross Hall, John Backett of Morrisey Hall, and Don Hall’s president, Gerry O’Shaughnessy. The election will be held later this week after a short speech before the Council by each candidate.

Pete Key, Community Relations Commissioner, spoke to the Council explaining his new program as it related to the individual halls. He said each hall president should select a person in his hall to be in charge of distribution and collection of an multiple questionnaires. The questionnaires would concern the students’ preferences in volunteer programs and the time they would be able to devote as a volunteer.

The upcoming Student elections and their procedures were presented to the Council by Stay Senator, John Zimmerman. The campaigning period begins Saturday night and will be extended this year because of the complications produced by the unfinished high rise buildings. Elections will be held next Thursday. Hall Presidents were asked to turn in the names of those who will be in charge of the ballot boxes, and also to give the candidates in their halls the necessary information on campaigning procedures.

The Council decided to purchase a ditto machine because other ditto machines which they regularly use are either not serviceable or already in use. The machine will cost $100 and because of the fact that the Council has a total of 64 cents in their treasury, $7 will be collected from each hall to pay for the machine.

The Council then began discussion on possible means that could be used to amend the parietal hour system of sign-ins. The means decided on was a strict enforcement of the parietal hour rules this weekend. This weekend all females including mothers and grandmothers will have to be signed in and out. This ruling remains in effect for all parietal hour times.

To enforce this rule, a suggestion was entertained to post signs at each entrance to the halls which would explain the strict enforcement very clearly. By enforcing these absences of the parietal hour legislation and by informing and demonstrating to the parents these absurdities, the Council hopes they will inform the University officials of their views and thus curtail the new rules to be removed. It was pointed out that this method could make the new system look ridiculous or, in retrospect, if no parents complained, it would only strengthen its position.

The second proposal would have the Hall Presidents’ Council, as a body, present their rationale for rejecting the new system. Many members felt the previous idea would only cause trouble and that this method would be more to the liking of the University officials. Most halls, it was stated, operate now as if there were no parietal regulations. The system which some use is one of respect for each member of the community. Names are turned in if a sufficient cause is presented but otherwise, only a reminder is necessary. Other halls rely on the honesty of the students to comply with the parietal regulations and no watch is kept.

The Council did not vote on any of the proposals.

The last item discussed dealt with the speakers invited to each hall. Hopefully, each hall will in the course of the year have a member of the board of trustees and Father Hesburgh in to speak.

Are you a dissatisfied off-campus student? Room in new dorms (Planner) overlooking campus available. Call 232 - 0550.

War pamphlets are distributed; Selective Service is questioned

Two pamphlets from the War Resisters League will be distributed at the Off-Campus Union Office today. The pamphlets have been supposed official Selective Service pamphlets, but this is silenced by the IRS.

One of the pamphlets deals with the selective service tax, which its author claims is being levied solely to finance the Vietnam War. It urges people to boycott the tax, and to deduct it from their monthly telephone bills. It cites the telephone company as assuring subscribers that they will not be cut off. It also relates the legal consequences of such action, including the legal recourse the person can resort to to collect the tax.

The second pamphlet is supposedly an official Selective Service System memorandum, put out in 1965. It deals with the supposed “spirit of the Selective Service System”, which is concerned with channelling manpower into many endeavors and occupations, activities that are considered in the national interest.

Mike Kovacevich, one of the students involved in the distribution of the pamphlets, commented on the SSS memorandum.

“I wouldn’t say that this pamphlet is official policy,” Kovacevich declared. “I’d say that it gives the spirit of the Selective Service, which is channelling people into occupations by the use of the deferment system. This draws individual interest.”

Kovacevich claimed that even though a person is supposed to channelling occupation occupation in the U.S. it is essentially a “false choice.”

“It’s a false choice because the Selective Service provides ways of staying out of the draft through deferments, then they decide if the deferments should be granted,” he said.

Kovacevich stated that “dis- tinction is silenced by deferments”, and that “if student deferments were ended, the SSS would be destroyed.”

The stated purpose of the pamphlets is to “educate the ND community to what they’re into, that they are a part of a system that may call on their direct participation either physically or economically,” he commented.

State troops move in MADISON, Wis. (UPI) National Guard troops occupied the Wisconsin capital yesterday to prevent another takeover of the state legislature by demonstrators demanding more for welfare.

Gov. Warren B. Knowles said the guard would stay “as long as necessary.” to make sure the legislature would not be intimidated. The legislature is meeting in special session to consider the needs of state welfare recipients.

The Rev. James F. Groppi, a militant Roman Catholic priest, and about 1,000 of his followers including college students took over the assembly chambers for approximately 10 hours Sunday, leaving after National Guardsmen surrounded the building. The state department of administration estimated they caused damage amounting to $26,000.

Groppi and about 150 to 200 others planned to march on the capital later Tuesday after attending a rally at the University of Wisconsin.

Knowles had called the special session to consider a $33,1 million supplementary budget to restore welfare cuts and to provide funds for urban areas.

K nowles said the demonstrators did not represent the state’s welfare recipients.

The Time Has Come

STUDENT UNION SOCIAL COMMISSION

Presents the Chambers Brothers

In Concert

Saturday, October 4 at 8:00 PM
Athletic and Convocation Center

Tickets $4.50, $3.50, $1.50 on sale in the Dining Halls Tonight and tomorrow night

Are you a dissatisfied off-campus student? Room in new dorms (Planner) overlooking campus available. Call 232 - 0550.

NOTRE DAME ITS PEOPLE AND ITS LEGENDS

by FRANCIS WALLACE

This is the story of the University of Notre Dame from its founding to the present—the story of its people, its traditions, its sports, its great events and achievements, and its new expectations.

1867 $6.95

NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

The last item discussed dealt with the speakers invited to each hall. Hopefully, each hall will in the course of the year have a member of the board of trustees and Father Hesburgh in to speak.

Are you a dissatisfied off-campus student? Room in new dorms (Planner) overlooking campus available. Call 232 - 0550.

NOTRE DAME ITS PEOPLE AND ITS LEGENDS

by FRANCIS WALLACE

This is the story of the University of Notre Dame from its founding to the present—the story of its people, its traditions, its sports, its great events and achievements, and its new expectations.

1867 $6.95

NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

The last item discussed dealt with the speakers invited to each hall. Hopefully, each hall will in the course of the year have a member of the board of trustees and Father Hesburgh in to speak.

Are you a dissatisfied off-campus student? Room in new dorms (Planner) overlooking campus available. Call 232 - 0550.

NOTRE DAME ITS PEOPLE AND ITS LEGENDS

by FRANCIS WALLACE

This is the story of the University of Notre Dame from its founding to the present—the story of its people, its traditions, its sports, its great events and achievements, and its new expectations.

1867 $6.95

NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE
Desserts for breakfasts

The idea of a "dessert" fast to help feed South Bend children who go hungry to school every day has raised a number of questions in the minds of many St. Mary's and Notre Dame students.

Although over 2100 Notre Dame men and over 450 Saint Mary's women signed up for the fast every day in the dining halls, many of them did so only after they had received assurances about the need for the project and about the precautions that would be taken to assure that funds obtained would not be wasted. Such a concern is justified when viewed in light of the fact that similar National Student Association projects in the country were plagued by misdirection of funds. NSA fast funds that were to go toward work in the Civil Rights movement actually went toward paying off the association's five-hundred thousand dollar debt.

As we see it there is little danger of such an incident occurring if the program is run entirely by Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students. It will be quite easy for the entire community to keep an eye on whether or not their money is being spent appropriately. The students are working to distribute the food through the Catholic Social Services Agency in South Bend and through another private group. We are sure they will be more than willing to provide periodic information as to whether the students are using the funds for the food that is promised.

The concept of sacrifice is very personal. Each man sacrifices for those goals that he deems personally worthwhile for him. The Observer then cannot officially ask students to join the fast.

Sponsors of the program, however, state that future progress is contingent upon approval of the proposal by the administrations of both schools and the food services. The fast will not effect either administration to a great degree. The food services however will have to make some sacrifice. Part of the cost of each desert that is relinquished by a student is profit for the food services. If the fast were one or two nights they might not mind. But a project for the whole year cuts into their profits.

We encourage the food director to make a decision that will enable students at both Notre Dame and Saint Mary's to aid a cause which they deem to be worthwhile. Place the children of South Bend over profit and agree to the fast proposal.

Parital sign - ins

The Hall Presidents' Council at its meeting Monday night discussed various ways that it could express its disapproval with the present sign-in procedure for parietal hours.

The concensus of the body is that the procedure is ridiculous. If a public opinion poll of students were taken it would probably yield the same results.

The rationale for the sign-in procedure was never clearly outlined. Apparently it is instituted to give the hall some idea of how many women were visting on a particular evening and where they were at. No one other than some number of women who have left at the sign-out hour or what.

Many students feel that it is basically an inconvenience and we agree with these. No one officials state that it is their obligation to check to see whether girls have left at the appropriate hours or not, and we doubt very much that anyone cares to assure that responsibility. Most students who would keep a woman in after hours would probably not take the time to sign her in anyway.

As it stands now hall members must sit next to the sign-in book during all of the visiting hours on weekends. Sign-in is a tremendous inconvenience for them as well as for students who have to sign in the female visitors they are entertaining.

The Hall Presidents intendent to ask each of their halls to enforce the sign-in procedure this weekend to the letter and to make fathers visiting their sons sign in their own and small daughters. Surely if such a procedure was established, many more people around campus would be openly cognizant of the meaninglessness and inconvenience of the regulation.

Perhaps the issue can be resolved without resort to such absurd measures. The Board of Trustees meets this weekend and could easily eliminate the regulation in five minutes if pressed to do so.

If the Trustees take no action, we urge the student members of the SLC to introduce as soon as possible a resolution calling for the abolition of the regulation.

If neither body acts, the regulation will probably go the way of most outdated and meaningless rules at Notre Dame. No one will take the time to enforce it and soon-in little or no time, no one will be managing the sign-in desks and no one will be signing in.

The opinions in the editorial, news analyses, and columns of The Observer are solely those of the authors and editors of The Observer and do not necessarily represent the views of The University of Notre Dame, The University of Notre Dame College, the University of Notre Dame's administrative, faculty or student body.
The saga of rock 'n' roll

This is the first of a five-part series on the development of rock 'n' roll as a musical form. The articles originally appeared in the Louisville Daily Herald. In this piece Michael Kendall discusses some of the problems of rock 'n roll that had an influence in acceptance in the U.S. Subsequent articles will trace the history of rock 'n' roll from its origin in 1955 to the present day.

Walking across campus this morning I suddenly felt very ancient which, I imagine is not all that uncommon for a college senior.

The cause of this was an "oldies-but-goldies" piercing the early morning air waves. Now in itself, it isn't so bad, but the song was "Blue Suede Shoes" by Elvis Presley and that, in case you weren't listening, in vintage 1956 rock!

A decade plus is a lot longer than rock 'n' roll's critics thought it would last but that's just what happened. To Frank Sinatra, who once called rock 'n' roll a "nigger" music, trash, immoral and even "immorality of the music was widely known.

But rock 'n' roll is not only alive, it's dominating the music of the United States in the majority of the nations of the world. From the 4-5 chord progression of musical form. Rock has been branded as a "return to '56 rock, the Beatles have become a vanguard of change and musical innovation in rock 'n' roll. With the release of "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band," the Beatles heralded a new era in popular music. In the case you were wondering, that's not a fact, there was another, more exactly, in 1964. The Beatles have received an award given for outstanding technical and musical talent and ability.

For her program Miss Griffel selected a number of pieces from a variety of sources, including the opera "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band." She is a native of Ashland, Ohio, where she completed her graduate degree in piano at Indiana University in Bloomington this past summer. She received a Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degree in piano performance and is presently working on a Doctor of Music degree.

Miss Griffel spent her first two years of college at the University of Mississippi, and since then has been a member of the University of Mississippi's Piano Department. Miss Griffel was this time that Miss Griffel received the very coveted Peretti Award in piano, an award given for outstanding technical and musical talent and ability. For her program Miss Griffel has selected Sonata in C Minor, Op. 4, 57, by Mozart, Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Handel, Op. 24, by Brahms, Sonata in C major, Op. 119, by Beethoven, and a piece by Debussy.

All day today

(UPI)-Today is Wednesday, Oct. 1, the 274th day of 1969 with 91 days to follow.

The moon is last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

They are the stars of music and the moon is the symbol of music. The evening stars are the stars of music, and they have been the source of inspiration for many composers. The evening stars are the stars of music, and they have been the source of inspiration for many composers. The evening stars are the stars of music, and they have been the source of inspiration for many composers. The evening stars are the stars of music, and they have been the source of inspiration for many composers. The evening stars are the stars of music, and they have been the source of inspiration for many composers.

Are you kidding?

NORTH MANCHESTER, Ind. (UPI) Seventy Manchester College students plan to set a new world record for the duration of a touch football game, starting today at 2 p.m., and running uninterrupted until Saturday at 7 p.m. for a total of 101 hours.

The students, all residents of Shenckley Hall residence for men, announced yesterday that they plan to break the world record of 83 hours set in the fall of 1966 by Manchester students.

The hills and the sea and the earth dance:

The world of man dances in laughter and tears.

Why put on the robe of the monk, and live aloof from the world in lonely pride?

Behold, my heart dances in the delight of a hundred arts, and the Creator is well-pleased.
Editor:

With regard to the recent publicity offered to the eating Notre Dame masses concerning a project to help the needy children of South Bend, I commend the individuals involved and hope that they manage to aid said children. I take issue, nevertheless, with the manner used to almost coerce the Student Body of South Bend, Indiana. I commend the efforts of those Campus Christians who want to give their desserts to children. I take issue, nevertheless, with the unconventional air, Van Heusen Hampshire House!

Hampshire House! The shirt with the bold, manently pressed Vanopress to let you skip the ironing drag. Kick over brash stripes and switched-on solid colors with the unconventional air, Van Heusen Hampshire House!

The Erstwhile Courageous Student

Mr. James Thanos

PIZZA HUT NO.

Coercion

Follow the white-hatted leader, and forget about desert until you have graduated from college. You get about your friends, your self-respect. Better led than fed. Follow the leader as he plays his tune upon his flute, oh mice (not men) of Notre Dame.

P.S. Produce better food and we will produce a better response! Take note of how successful food sales are all over campus— and you desire that we give up more? I think the meals as they are constitute quite a sacrifice.

Names and address of author must accompany letter which will be withheld upon request as was the above case.

Charity stays home

Editor,

"Give to all who ask you, and don't ask for it back... but... let your alms sweat in your hands until you know to what end you are giving." (DIDACHE, 1:4:2) I believe that this is the advice which should be given to those campus Christians who "want to give, we want to want..." Therefore, I believe that their particular skill, that Man is the same in the foreseeable future. It occurs that Saga is not going to save any money this way. But the worst fallacy in this perpetuation is that while being filled with the sweet knowledge of generosity, we cannot as intelligent Christians really believe that our gift has been given to those who truly deserve. We must truly believe that our gift has been given to those who truly deserve. It may seem pleasant to be known as the University that gave up its deserts for the hungry, although not quite as dramatic as periodic token fasts are meaningful contributions to be made by serious Christians.

First, until further informed, I consider the notion that our generation is both insidious and insolent. I do not desire to be a Candy Christian, in all seriousness.

Laura Hafner

ROTC retort

Editor:

I must agree with Mr. Johnson's statement that militarism is fatuous. I do not agree, however, that the ROTC units are "obviously" a manifestation of militarism— well, by golly, I say it, "Don't go into Nieuwland or somebody is gonna one you for a bunner burner." Why is ROTC militaristic? Are the detachment officers always speaking of the glory of fighting in uniform with your Kamera? Is the United States going to make a military attack on the "peace-loving allies of the Soviet Socialist Republics"? Not quite, bus not quite.

Each and every one of the military men down in Building #5 would be quite happy if they woke up tomorrow and found that their particular skill, whether it's how to navigate a B-52 or aim a torpedo or drive a Patton tank, would no longer be needed, that Man "ain't a gonna study war no more." The trouble is, that isn't going to happen in the foreseeable future. No American officer or government official has said, within the last ten or so years, that the United States could emerge the winner (in the traditional sense) of a thermonuclear exchange. The most important ranking Russian marshalls, a WW II hero who served Stalin's, Khruschev's and Kryuch's purges, suggested that the U.S.S.R. might attack America and that Russia was so strong that she would survive the conflict and remain as it. You say WE are the aggressors??? Or do you define aggression as preparing to defend oneself?

Finally, I'd just like to make a slight request to Mr. Johnson and the rest of his friends. Gen- elemen, you are perfectly entitled to voice your opinions and even try to make converts, just don't try to show your opinions down my throat. Adolf Schickel- gruber and a bunch of militants just don't want to do that about thirty years ago and something happened to them.

Stephen Noe

SENEATE ELECTIONS

All candidates for the Student Senate must meet in the Auditorium, Student Center, at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 2, to pick up petitions and election rules. Attendance is mandatory! For information call John Zimmerman at 7663.
McKenna's request for 'objective look' denied

(continued from page 1)

The interests of the protostudents were incorporated into a bill passed by the Student Senate last year.

"... The Student Senate demands that all firms granted the privilege by a significant number of students to recruit on campus appear in public to answer questions, this is desired by a significant number (100) of students." The bill further provides that if a firm fails to make the public appearance they will be asked not to return.

After the passage of the bill, a petition was presented to the Placement Bureau asking to be allowed to sponsor on-campus interviews with the public.

When Dow officials could not agree to a meeting, an appeal to the university was made in conjunction with the policies of the Placement Bureau.

It was at this time that McKenna tried to understand the facts about the operations of the placement bureau.

He felt that both sides could have active, meaningful discussions if the facts about the Placement Bureau's operations were known.

Thorton used the reply to make accusations rather than answer the questions.

Thorton wrote, "It is fundamental that a student group for the purpose of organizing his class in an effort to avoid unessential inconvenience of the students will be allowed to participate in the planning of the election." The bill further reads in part:

"We urge that the Student Senate's commitment to effective and meaningful discussion on the various aspects of the mobilization of the student body be carried forward by the Senate..." The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have considered the responsibilities of office.

After having gathered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, campaign candidates' petitions have to be returned not later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

As an indication of the campaign's projected time, it will be scheduled for 6:00 pm Saturday, to be terminated at 2:00 am on the following Thursday.

Balloting will be conducted on Thursday, October 11th, during noon and evening meals in the halls of residence. By contrast, candidates for the six off-campus Senate seats will be held all day Thursday and Friday in the off-campus office.

The practical polling time has also been made available for students of incomplete Grue Tower who have just returned from all over campus. Votes of Grace Tower residents can be cast at all day Thursday in the off-campus office.

To compensate for the inconvenience of Grace candidates in visiting their widespread students, the length of the campaign has been extended this year.

Also, each Grace candidate will be provided with a list of Grace residents and their temporary addresses. A question and answer session for Grace candidates and voters will be scheduled for the middle of next week.

Election results will be tabulated by the Election Committee on Thursday evening in the Student Center.

As a reminder to campaign candidates, Zimmerman re-marked that each should be prepared for several evenings intensely reviewing this year's budget.

The senate will be equipped with only half of normal facilities this year, and the responsibility for an efficient budget lies with each Senator. In touching upon Senate outlines for the year, Zimmerman observed that the Senate has been recently hobbled with a "playing in the sandbox" image. He also cited failure of recent Senate sessions to relate to their particular halls as indicative of Senate inaction.

Emphasis this year will focus on well-researched, thought-out proposals presented by standing committees. In marked contrast to the past, each bill will originate within a set committee. The sponsoring committee will then present the bill to the floor for the vote.

Zimmerman hinted at proposals on attendance policy which would demand the presence of Senators—neither at regular sessions, nor at committee, senate meetings. The energy and vitality to the Senate is of supreme importance, Zimmerman reminded, and each Senator must be willing to work toward that end.

Conscientious Senators are solicited from each hall, with an understanding and appreciation of his hall. The Senate will be much more concerned with the establishment of hall autonomy this year, and will concern itself less with student government.

Whatever, they will be committed to Student Senate and define its relationship with the SLC, Zimmerman urged. It is of the utmost importance to keep the image of Notre Dame better in the minds of the students.

The way you handle the questions, the answers, is vital. Zimmerman advised.

The Student Senate's commitment to effective and meaningful discussion on the various aspects of the mobilization of the student body be carried forward by the Senate..." The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have considered the responsibilities of office.

After having gathered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, campaign candidates' petitions have to be returned not later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

As an indication of the campaign's projected time, it will be scheduled for 6:00 pm Saturday, to be terminated at 2:00 am on the following Thursday.

Balloting will be conducted on Thursday, October 11th, during noon and evening meals in the halls of residence. By contrast, candidates for the six off-campus Senate seats will be held all day Thursday and Friday in the off-campus office.

The practical polling time has also been made available for students of incomplete Grue Tower who have just returned from all over campus. Votes of Grace Tower residents can be cast at all day Thursday in the off-campus office.

To compensate for the inconvenience of Grace candidates in visiting their widespread students, the length of the campaign has been extended this year.

Also, each Grace candidate will be provided with a list of...
Tight end Dewey Pokon has been a sure-handed receiver for Ara Parseghian this season, catching six passes for 75 yards. Duffy's Veer-T to test Irish defense

East Lansing, Mich. — "Bill Tripplet could be the greatest quarterback in the history of this school," said Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty prior to the 1969 season.

Tripplet took over the reins of the Spartan attack as a sophomore midway through the 1968 season and never lost the job. He guided the team through the regular season, including that 21-17 upset of Notre Dame on national television.

Should Tripplet become State's greatest field general, he would be part All Americans Al Dorcey, Tom Yewcic and Earl Morrall and All Big Ten choice Jim Ninow.

Tripplet completed 47 of 90 passes for 1,162 yards and four touchdowns in 1968 and added 29-39-18 yards on the ground to lead the squad in total offense with 1014 yards.

This year Tripplet is firmly in charge once again, and has adapted well to State's "veer-option with powers" offense.

"His getting much better at offensive defenses and is throwing the ball much better than last year," says assistant Coach Al Dorcey. "Every time he scrimmage's he improves."

The strangest part of the Tripplet story is that he almost didn't play quarterback. At the start of fall drills last year he was so low in the hierarchy of signal callers that Spartan coaches considered moving him to running back.

"I couldn't understand that," Tripplet said later. "I was No. 3 at quarterback, and I'd have been no higher than that at flanker."

But the 6-2, 193-pounder remained at quarterback and injuries to senior Bill Feraco and sophomore Jim Nicholson, the two men ahead of him, helped put him on the call.

And there he has remained.

Tripplet was twice named NATIONAL TEAM's "Greatest" QB is MSU key

Bill currently ismajoring in accounting, but has considered changing to history and pursuing a teaching career, the field his parents work in.

"I thought about coaching, but seems to me that it just too much pressure on a coach," Bill admits.