One outstanding point was that Mark, unlike those who are "normal," has "unnaturally direct relations with experience." He felt this stemmed from his greater form of self-consciousness, a level of abstraction beyond Mark's abilities.

Mark, he said, had created a "non-symbolic system" which gave him an unpropped view of the world. He said, "The same words by which we move up to higher levels of abstraction are the ones which divide us up." By use of this system, Mark can relate with normal students in any way he pleases.

Relating the difficulties Mark had in comprehending the meaning of the everyday symbols, Hayakawa gave an example and stated that the normal person speaks its language unconsciously, and in addition, he expressed upon the audience that the symbols in our language and in our thought processes play a great part in determining our attitudes toward the world around us.

"Some union members will be on the picket lines may be either pro-GE or con-GE," he said. "The university is engaged in strikebreaking activities for Saint Mary's Language, Symbol, Reality Symposium. Below left, St. Mary's, considered the problems of symbols from different traditions and disciplines.

"The GE workers asked the company to come to the bargaining table. It is a matter of everything, then the students should not do this. The vanguard of the labor movement is the workers, not the students," he said.

"The workers are not the ones who get the benefits from big profits. The workers are entitled to the majority of benefits the company derives from their production," he added.

Experimental College

Mr. Goerner’s St. Thomas Moore Experimental College idea is finally and irrevocably dead. Geometer, one of those teachers most widely respected by undergraduates at Notre Dame, wrote in exasperation to Fr. Seadey recently that the Experimental College subcommittee of the University Senate rejected a notice of intent to propose any program to be sponsored by the college. Goerner refused to play the sort of politics needed to gain acceptance for his proposal, and knowing that without doing so he was scotched in the start. Geometer came here to get an education. But guys seem to get through. Let them go out and lay one home. But guys seem to get through. Let them go out and lay one home. But guys seem to get through. Let them go out and lay one home.

Frosh offense blunted

The Irish freshmen were unable to get their offense going for the second straight game this season. Notre Dame hosted the Illinois Fighting Illini at the University of Illinois, and Limbari, their last game, was a 27-13 scoring game which opened the season. The Fighting Illini are now on a losing streak of three games. Rich Salani caught a 27-yard scoring pass from Brad Van Pelt and a 20-yard scoring pass from Cunha to score a total of 62 yards.

Protest to combat military

Two Nobel prize-winners in chemistry are the intellectual "fathers" of research into molecular structure at the University of Pennsylvania. Since Dr. Derek Barton and Odd Hassel were left as the heads of the field of conformational analysis which earned them the prize, the University of Pennsylvania has become the major center for such research in the world, according to Dr. Erwin L. Glueck. Dr. Glueck, whose interest in conformational analysis was focused in 1950, informed the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that he was to lecture at the University of Pennsylvania this fall.

Bulger, with Mike Creaney making the kick, kicked the last field goal of the game, giving the Navy a 3-2 lead in the final minutes of play. The Notre Dame offense, after a series of short passes, was stopped by the Navy defense. The Notre Dame defense was able to stop the Navy offense for most of the game.
