SLC defeats moratorium motion

by Bill Carter

At last night's SLC meeting the Council narrowly defeated a resolution introduced by Fr. John Walsh, Vice President for Academic Affairs, to penalize any student or faculty member who wished to take part in any of the demonstrations planned for Nov. 13 and 14 for absence from classes on those two days.

The Council also passed a motion which called for the elimination of the section of the Student Manual which prohibits eligibility for extracurricular activities to students on academic probation. A similar motion concerning disciplinary probation was voted down.

In other business the Council named Fr. Joseph Turnbull, Notre Dame Sophomore, for the University Court. The Court's appointment was confirmed by Rev. James Turnbull, President of the Student Assembly, the day before.

G.E. interviews still scheduled for N.D.

by Don Ruane

Rev. James L. Richle, Dean of Students, yesterday reinforced the position of Rev. Louis J. Thornton, Director of the Notre Dame Placement Bureau, by saying that the General Electric campus interviews should be carried out as scheduled.

Richle also answered claims by the CPA that the University is supporting the G.E. management by "opposition to the CPA activities location during the strike between General Electric and thirteen unions. The other claim was that the University is engaged in strikingbreaking activities by recruiting workers while these are striking. Richle termed these claims as "illogical" in his reply.

"I don't know what I can say about it. I have nothing to do with the Placement Bureau, so I don't know what their policy is or what they are doing."

"The Placement Bureau," he said, "was originally set out as a service for students to help them get jobs when they leave the University. I don't know how this is taking a side with the policies of G.E., one way or the other. I don't see how a conclusion such as that can be drawn."

"What the Placement Bureau is doing is offering a service to the Notre Dame students and before General Electric happens to be on strike right now does not, to me, interfere with the Placement Bureau's schedule which is made up far in advance with prospective employers who are looking for a job. I can't see how the University takes a position on the one side or the other. It doesn't follow. It's illogical." Thornton explained to Phil Fleming of the CPA on Thursday afternoon that over "100 students signed to take interviews with G.E." He also said these students "have the right to accept" and as other students "have the right to dissent." Thornton stated, as reported in Friday's Observer, that the interview dates were set about one year ago when there was no strike in progress.

As of yesterday afternoon, today's scheduled picking of the G.E. interviews had not been registered with the Dean of Students. There is a violation of a University rule that requires all new obligations to be registered with the dean's office. Violation of University rules are punishable in several ways ranging from disciplinary probation to permanent dismissal.

Shuttle hit at circle

Notre Dame Sophomore Joseph Cassini was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital in South Bend last night after he was involved in an automobile accident on campus.

Cassini, of 316 Planter Hall, suffered injuries to his nose which required several stitches when the car in which he was riding collided head-on with the shuttle bus.

The accident occurred at about 11:00 p.m. last night on wet pavement along Notre Dame Avenue in back of the Engineering Building. Miss Kathleen Vas­hi, a friend of Cassini's who was visiting on campus for a few days, was driving the car.

When turning east at the circle, the bus swerved over the curb on the left side of the roadway, where he struck a metal post, and ran back onto the road. When the car hit the curb, the left front wheel of the car broke, sending the car careening into the front of the bus.

None of the nearly 20 passengers on board the bus were injured.

SMC govt. suspended

We the student members of the Student Affairs channel of St. Mary's College (i.e., the Student Assembly, the Student Affairs Committee, and the Student Affairs Council) do hereby call for a temporary suspension of all meetings within this channel. At the present time, we find it impossible to effectively operate as representatives of student opinion as we are unable to gather support, interest, constructive criticism, or any other evidence that student opinion on issues of a significant nature exists. We, therefore, ask for student reac­tion so that we may decide whether this suspension should, in fact, be temporary or perhaps permanent.

Susan Turnbull, President Body President; the statement resulted from the "frustration of all the members of the committees which have been growing probably since the beginning of the year."

A few days ago, the members met last Thursday to discuss possible means of alleviating the deadlock created this year in student affairs decisions.

They decided to hold a closed joint meeting of the committee representatives. They met last night in the Student Personnel Lounge in LeMans Hall.

Turnbull said that "Student Government in the past has been a means of changing rules, but now there are not so many rules to change. It can be an instrument of force, and must be made to decide where we want to direct our energies -- it can no longer be in the realm of rules." She further stated, "If the students back off from this time, we will have to take a good hard look at the Student Affairs aspect of Community Government and see if it has any reason for existing at all."

Student Affairs Committee member Noreen Jordan holds a somewhat different opinion of the statement. "I didn't think it went nearly far enough; it didn't get to the core. The reason we haven't done anything this year is because we haven't had student backing and haven't heard their opinions. The whole problem is the girls themselves."

St. Mary's Community Government has two branches: Academic Affairs and Student Affairs. Any bill going up through their separate channels can fall to a final veto by Fr. McGrath. Any proposal which would affect college policy must pass through the Board of Trustees. Student Affairs concerns itself with all social rules: dress, hours, drinking, open houses vs. closed houses.
Room in Keenan ransacked

by Jim DeCala

Bill Walkup left his room in Keenan Hall at 2:15 yesterday afternoon, walked to the book store, returned at 3:00 to find his room ransacked. Walkup soon discovered that thirty-one dollars had been taken from his wallet, and that sixty dollars in cash had been stolen from his roommate, Tom Hefrich. The bunk beds had been overturned, and their clothes were balled on the floor. Books, papers, stereo tapes, and Walkup’s other possessions were strewn throughout the room. The vandals had torn light fixtures from the walls and smashed several glass beer mugs on the floor.

HPC begins hall autonomy drive

by Jim Grafl

The Hall President’s Council last night began preparation for the drafting of a statement on the ratification of Hall Autonomy. The statement is to be presented to the student Senate on Monday.

The presidents were each given an initial copy of the statement which contained in part, the following: “The Hall President’s Council has for the past two years agreed that the opportunity to solve their own problems is essential to any democratic system. Each president will have until the next H.P.C. meeting to make revisions and additions to the initial copy. Some suggestions for improvements were discussed during the meeting. The presidents agreed that there was no need for the security police to be present.”

The basic idea behind the need for hall autonomy, according to the statement, is to create a form in which students can maintain a community spirit of cooperation and it is necessary that all the residents of a hall share in the rights of participation in matters of concern. At present the student and the community have no way by which they can find out that it is very hard to trace the door when he left and it was locked.

The security police also pointed out that it is very hard to trace the door when he left and it was locked.

The vote on the resolution resulted in a 10–10 tie which was broken by Chairman Maney who voted against the motion.

Earlier, the Council debated the question of student eligibility following a meeting this past Wednesday. The motion, as presented by McKenna at last week’s meeting, sought to cut out the entire section concerning student eligibility for extracurricular activities from the Student Manual. McKenna and the other students on the Council argued that external factors could be responsible for poor grades in one semester by an otherwise good student, and that some potential for student leadership could thus be lost by adherence to the eligibility clause.

Prof. John Houck proposed a motion to table the question until May when the student Manual is to be re-examined, as these were not the “best possible” and not sufficiently important for consideration by the Council. Prof. John Houck felt that the student Senate should take up the issue if it considered it important and present recommendations to the Council at a later time.

McKenna argued that to state that the Senate should consider the bill first would raise a basic question of authority. Did the Senate, McKenna said, have the authority to pass a bill that would contravene university policy and make recommendations to others to do other matters?

The three worms

Dr. Howard J. Saz, professor of biology at the University of Notre Dame, recently received $306,382 from the National Institutes of Health to support his research on the roundworm, Ascaris lumbricoides, which has tropical climates.

Saz, a recent addition to the Notre Dame faculty, will continue research at Johns Hopkins University on helmints, parasitic worms that affect one-quarter of the world’s population.

Over the five-year period of the grant, the plan is to investigate the biochemical processes of a common round-worm, a tapeworm, and a filarial worm, searching particularly for differences between the human host and the worm and its human or animal host. “If we can find biochemical differences, we may be able to exploit them to destroy the parasite without harming the host,” Saz said.

The three worms under study include: Ascaris, which causes such diseases as ascariasis, or roundworm, Ascaris lumbricoides, which has tropical climates, and returning with parasitic diseases. Ascaris, a common round-worm, is one of the most widespread and wide-spread parasites, Saz said. According to the World Health Organization, this parasite afflicts 448 million people around the world.

Some tape worms are among the world’s largest parasites, growing up to 40 feet in length. These intestinal parasites can interfere with vitamin absorption, and cause lesions in the host’s intestines, Saz said.

Of the three parasites, probably least known about the filarial worm, which affects humans and domestic animals, is the filarial worm. In humans, Saz explained, the worm can cause leprosy, an essentially incurable disease with symptoms which include severe skin disease, and particularly affecting the limbs. The swelling is caused by the tiny worms, which congest the lymph glands during most of their life cycle.

During the rest of the cycle, the worms maintain their life in the lymphatic system, eventually attaching themselves to the skin or other tissues. These worms, Saz explained, have been growing at a rate of $3000*, tax exempt. Sponsor movies for their individual halls with the proceeds to go to the residents. A proposal to endorse the University Forum was voted down. The president felt that the proposal was not directly connected with hall life. They did believe that the University Forum is a good idea in itself.

Wheaton heads placement office

The Placement Office at SMC is now under a newly appointed director of Career Planning and Placement, Miss Janice Wheaton. Miss Wheaton will be the new director of Career Planning and Placement. Miss Janice Wheaton will be the new director of Career Planning and Placement. Miss Wheaton's main job is to coordinate the student's personal files, in order to facilitate the students' applications to graduate school or employment.

Miss Wheaton has been a resident of the student body since her freshman year. Miss Wheaton says that she will be working along with the faculty, and especially the education department.

Miss Wheaton received her B.S. in Arts from Nazareth College, in Michigan, and her M.S. in Music from Notre Dame University.

Residents of Grace Tower assured of rebates

Residents of Grace Tower have been assured of a rebate from the university for the in-convenience and loss they have suffered by the incineration of the tower at the beginning of this semester.

In an interview Friday afternoon, President Phil McCaslin announced the rebate, which is under consideration by the university, and explained the situation.

Earlier this semester, Student Government requested that the in-conveniences and losses be reimbursed, but President McCaslin had instructed the Department of Security to investigate the matter.

"We haven't quite had a bad week yet," said President McCaslin, "because the students were requested to be on campus security, which now investigating the matter.

The statement was signed by the Chairman of the Government, Professor George Brinkley, and the President of the N.D.I.G.S.P.S.U., David W. Folks.

Soph social weekend considered successful

This past weekend the Sophomore Class Government in 225 girls from Tulane, Marygrove, and St.

The mixer was held on Friday night between 8 and 12 p.m. on the 2nd floor of LaFontaine Student Center. The music was provided by the Sophomore Class's local rock group, Michael's. The mixer was described as successful, primarily because of the "high" ratio we had.

Due to the recent trouble in arranging off-campus parties, a scheduled beer blast at Misha's was called off. Interested female guests were invited to various section parties in halls across the campus, and some managed to tape player and three dollars from her wallet. A description of the woman was given to campus security, who are now investigating the matter.

In response to the Student Government concern, Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, CSC, president of the University of Notre Dame, authorized a rebate to Grace residents. McCaslin included a copy of Hesburgh's response.

President McCaslin wrote of the generosity that Notre Dame students always show in times of emergency. "Certainly, there has been inconvenience and disruption of normal activities because of unforeseen events. It will be time, in the future, for such a kind of magnanimity..." Hesburgh wrote.

"Tl would like to thank all the mothers of the East coast who have come to Notre Dame to support their sons. I am happy to have the opportunity to welcome you and your sons to our beautiful campus." Hesburgh concluded.

McCaslin also enclosed a copy of the Student Government proposal in his letter, but he did not mention any comment made about Father Zheng's letter. "I will not attempt to refute the letter, nor will I encourage you to ask for your rebate. I do not believe that the rebate will be available to you if you desire it," wrote McCaslin to the Grace residents.

Those students who want the rebate must sign a statement requiring the reimbursement from the University of Notre Dame, and the rebate will then be credited to the student's semester bill.

Vandalism marks the weekend

by Tom Bornholdt

"We didn't have quite a bad a weekend," said the Chairman of the Department of Security, summarized yesterday, referring to the usual weekend theft and vandalism.

"The weekend started at 10:20 p.m. Saturday, a girl claims that she was boiled into driving two Notre Dame students in the Circle. Among other things, she lost her stereo.

The faculty and graduate students of the government department released a statement declaring their full agreement with the English department requesting that the salaries of teaching assistants be increased.

The statement reads: "The graduate students and faculty of the department of government and the full support of the English department resolution requesting that the salaries of teaching assistants be substantially raised, and will support proper action aimed at bringing about this goal. It is hoped that the administration will act with all deliberate speed to rectify the existing situation."

The statement was signed by the Chairman of the Government, Professor George Brinkley, and the President of the N.D.I.G.S.P.S.U., David W. Folks.

Basketball

The Interhall Athletic Office has released plans for the 1969–70 Interhall Basketball season. The major change is that halls are no longer permitted to host more than one team. Halls have been granted three spots on the basis of population, approximately one spot per hundred residents. Planner, Grace, and Off-Campus are permitted four teams each; Dillon, Keenan, and Stanford are allowed three teams each; all other halls are considered two-team halls, except Carroll which is limited to one team. The primary reason given for limiting the number of teams was the unusually high forfeit rate of last year, approximately 33% of the teams forfeited out of the league. There will also be a mandatory deposit of $11.00 to cover the payment of officials.

Any team forfeiting a game will also forfeit whatever remains of their deposit.

Soccer

Western Illinois added insult to an already disappointing Notre Dame soccer season by whipping the Irish 2–1 at WIU on Saturday. The home team led at the half 2–0 with the aid of some muffed chances by the Irish offense. The lone ND score came off the foot of Fred Kohles who was assisted on a cross pass by Jim Schweitzer.

The men from Du Lac put up a strong fight considering Western had no less than eight scholarship players. The game was a real struggle and the Irish took quite a physical hammering.

This loss left Notre Dame with a mediocre 5–4–2 record, far off the ideal prediction by team captain Greg Abrams of 10–2. The booters will give it one last try this Saturday as they host the Marquette Warriors at the Stupan fields. Game time is 3:00 p.m.

She Jumps for Joy

I suppose the most famous English horsewoman ever was Lady Godiva, she was the original Peeping Tom. It was the only male who violated orders and gazed on her ride and was struck blind for his impertinence but I have always thought he was just a dolt who thought they were doing a work into the horse to set him up for a price, and didn't know the rider from friend. Since that time people on horseback have usually worn cloth, even if they have consisted mainly of feathers and a breech cloth, and they have pretty much spoken barbarly. The only females in the cavalry have four feet and a saddle.

Anneli Drummond-Hay is the most famous, fully-dressed lady rider in British history. She can do more things on horseback than the James boys. She may be the best over hedges and rocks in female history. She's on horseback more than John Wayne. She can do more things with a horse than Willie Shoemaker.

The horse is supposed to be a dying breed, except for the thoroughbreds, but the only form of transportation that outnumbered automobiles in the automobile. The nice thing about the horse is it doesn't cause smog, and the fuel it uses doesn't pollute rivers and oceans. It rarely causes fatal accidents; in fact, it runs more than behind the automobile. The National Safety Council rates it safer than roller skates.

There are more horses in California today than there were in Black Bart's day. The Indians never would have lost if they had the cavalry that Pancho Villa had.

No Shortcuts

Anneli is a tall, blonde Englishwoman whose specialty is jumping horses. This is an equestrian event in which a horse is asked to run a mile over 12 to 17 obstacles, ranging in height from a minimum of 3' up to a maximum of 5 feet. The rider must jump these obstacles on horseback. A horse who will jump is like a horse who will buck. There is no form. There are no shortcuts of breeding, training or conformation. A horse who is believed bucking dangerous seems to have learned the art of kicking wolves. Jumping horses were, presumably, on the run for the rider's mount, and the farmer cashed the check quickly before she found out the horse couldn't talk.

He was part pony, part thoroughbred and part outlaw. He bucked Anneli off several times, sunsatelated with her a few others. She broke the horse, also a colonar, and eased him into jumping with a few for chases, cross-country events, and log leaping. He got so he would jump anything that didn't have elevators in it.

She was offered $720 for the mount, and the farmer cashed the check quickly before she found out the horse couldn't talk.

NORWAY.

Skaters from last draft will be required of all participants at the Convo Friday night. The double淘汰 is set for 9:00 P.M. with the aid of the Marquette Warriors at the Stupan fields. Game time is 3:00 p.m.

Those interested in forming teams should see their hall athletic commissioners. Rosters may contain as many as fifteen names; deadline for submitting rosters is November 25th. Play is slated to begin December 6th. It was also announced that sopho­more Bob Webb has been appointed Interhall Basketball Commissioner.

Hockey

Notre Dame Hockey will begin its second season on the Convo ice with a general draft of players this Wednesday night. Joe Kuchta, league president, said he would use the draft to "build the league." Skaters from last year's roster will remember the gross inequities of the '68 – '69 season.

All players interested in parti­cipation should meet with their equipment, ready to skate at the Convo Rink on Wednesday night at 8:30 P.M. This will be a sort of "try-out" session with the capta­ins viewing the skating and shooting performances before the picking. A five-dollar entry fee will be charged, and the five-dollar fee from the double淘汰 draft will be required of all players to cover the purchasing of jerseys and the remaining expenses.

Seven team captains, al­ready named by the league's front office, will do the picking for this year's squads. Everyone interested in partici­pating should meet with their chosen by the league's front office.
