SMC O - C living benefits school and students

The following is the first in a series of articles compiled by Carol Casick and Irish McNamara, two members of St. Mary's Committee for Off-Campus Housing. The committee has done extensive research into the feasibility of off-campus living for the St. Mary's community, and contrasting its particular problems and situations with those of other colleges attempting similar measures. Their results are presented here to acquaint the entire community with the work that is being done by the group and to present their opinions on what direction St. Mary's should move in the issue of Off-Campus Housing.

The present situation at St. Mary's College in the physical, academic, and personal realms lacks a meaningful sense of direction due to an insensitive order of priorities. An institutional economic prestige seems to override any concern for a healthy community in the determination of policies, plans, and procedures. As a college cannot exist outside of its students, it must incorporate their voice if it is ever to find a workable direction. We propose, as one step toward economic and individual betterment of this community, off-campus housing. This program aims to satisfy needs on three levels: financial, psychological, and communal.

The future of St. Mary's as a private college lacks economic security, either in its continuation as a private institution, or in light of a possible merger with Notre Dame. Allowing girls to move off-campus facilitates an increase in enrollment, a specific gain of the present administration. This results in augmenting tuition funds while lessening the cost of additional room space. In September of 1970, there will be an increase of approximately 200 resident students, 40 of whom are expected to live in the new Regina Hall - the last vacant room space existent on campus. 50 girls will attend the initial year of the Rome Program, leaving a dorm-over-availability of 110 students. Expansion will continue during the next few years. Land in the housing house 15 of this over-flow, and increasing existing room capacity. Many students claim the practical and personal inconveniences of such an act at present room ratios are many not at any cost. Off-Campus Housing offers the right and a sound economic policy. The financial gain for Off-Campus Housing is considerable. Based on a nine month term, a one month room rent for 207 students is $66.00 per student. An Off-Campus Housing four students averages $35.00 a month per student, a savings of approximately $810 to $378 per school year. The cost of board at St. Mary's is $600.00 for an eight month period, vacations excluded, or $75.00 per month. Zimmerman and other experts agree that a group of four students can feed itself moderately yet afford $40.00 to $55.00 per week, or $1600.00 to $2000.00 per month. Therefore by preparing their own food, four students can save approximately $1000.00 to $1200.00, or $200.00 per student for an eight month period.

Transportation with location and furnishings, so an approximation of savings can range from $200.00 to $300.00 per school year.

The inevitable over-crowding of room capacity will only add to the already existing psychological and social pressures felt by SMC students. The concerns of both these students and some counselors is that insufficient facilities for undisturbed study create undue tension. The complex lack of real privacy can tend to stifle and frustrate a dynamic individual, the imposed structure of dorm living is not always conducive to growth of individual responsibility and independence. A subsequent article will elaborate on these aspects of dorm living which call for an Off-Campus Housing Program.

Finally, Off-Campus Housing adds a new dimension to the campus family fostering sub-cultures, thereby adding diversity of opinions, perspectives, and lifestyles. Increased diversity in an already overcrowded campus can only broaden the experience and deepen the quality of the student life.

This is a brief summary of the individual, communal, and institutional needs for an immediate program of Off-Campus Housing. Its more detailed benefits as well as possible detriments remain to be discussed.

Lawless met with these leaders of the "Red Power" movement during the student conference on the American Indian and asked them to visit the University's efforts to attract American Indians to the field of law. There is now one American Indian among the 349 law students at Notre Dame.

Code decision sought by Buzz Craven

The Student Senate overwhelmingly approved Senator Dr. Richard Bambaneik's motion to require Father Hesburgh to act on the judicial code on which the Student Senate has been working. The motion was submitted to him for approval in October.

The A T t n a l i n column representative's motion that "the Student Senate will ask Father Hesburgh to inform the Student Life Council of his decision concerning the judicial code within two weeks," received 31 votes out of 35 cast. St ay Senator John Zimmerman questioned why the judicial code was not already considered approved. Zimmerman pointed out that the SLC passed a resolution last year which said the SLC considers a motion approved by a two-thirds vote. Zimmerman had a question about it within two weeks.

It has been almost three months since the SLC sent it a code to Father Hesburgh, he pointed out. The SLP Bill McKenna clarified this by saying that Father Hesburgh did not approve or disapprove the two weeks (continued on page 2)

St. Mary's to reward faculty contributions

Students wishing to voice their opinions are asked to send letters to the President or Vice-President; their class president, Paul Carey, Patty Gill, or the secretary or treasurer of Student Government.
Selectve Service reclassifies 'Ten'

by Marty Graham

Reclassifications of the status of the Notre Dame 10, who were suspended last month, have already been sent out by some students.

I believe, according to the editor in yesterday's The Observer, "I just want to share with the rest of the little community, the inefficiency with which it operating..."

It really is a credit to their expeditious procedures that they notified the registrar of the boards of the ten suspended students within six days, particularly when one considers that they have thirty days to do so," said Roickle.

Leo Corbacci, the University Registrar, answered Roickle's statements. "The Roads, Mayor David Stahl on Monday, and other officials, improvements for the University, non-combat status forms to the respectability of the student alone to compete for, because of the opportunity to send the student.

Roickle said that one of the restrictions which the Selective Service System can put on the university is the ability of the university to notify his draft board. We notify his board when his status is changed. The University also has to notify his draft board when his status is changed.

Besides having their draft status changed to 1-A, another factor of their suspension is on the minds of the students of the ND-10, who were reclassified by draft board as of yesterday. It wouldn't be surprising if he had that, I have to compete with transfer students for readmission to the Greek system, he said, has a valid reason for competition. The Tripartite Appeals Board, composed of the colleges, Associate Dean Donald Jerger of the College of Engineering, and a senior in the government department, recommended that the punishments be reduced by the executive demerit, and that all punishments be the same.

Father Rieke said he heard the ten suspensions on the recommendation of the Appeals Board.

Celebrate end of war

LAGOS (UPI) - Thousands of Nigerians danced in the streets yesterday to celebrate the fall of Biafra. Police fired tear gas into a large crowd that marched on the Roman Catholic secretariat after the government denounced Pope Paul VI as "mischiefous and provocative."

Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, the Nigerian chief of staff, was lukewarm to the massive relief program organized by the Catholic church, because of the people's past actions. The Ibo tribesmen of Biafra are mostly Christian and the war was sparked by religious strife between the Ibo and the predominantly Modern Hausas of northern Nigeria.

While Nigerian civilians celebrated the fall of Biafra, Sunday, Tuesday, army commanders in the jungles of Biafra offered full encouragement for the troops who surrendered their weapons. Gowon ordered his soldiers to be treated with the utmost respect, abstaining from looting and pillage.

Johs staff

John A. Macheca, a 1962 graduate of Notre Dame, has been appointed regional director of development and public relations in Chicago, it was announced by James W. Frick, vice president of public relations and development.

Macheca succeeds David J. Shariabski, who served as assistant to the president and was post since 1965 and who has resigned to return to private business. In addition to administrating Notre Dame's development program, Macheca will also serve a number of other midwest cities including Milwaukee, Minneapolis-Saint Paul, Saint Louis and Kansas City.

Macheca joins the Notre Dame public relations and development staff after serving as an intelligence research analyst with the National Security Agency in Washington, D.C. In addition to his Notre Dame responsibilities, Macheca did post-graduate work at the National Cultural Institute in Mexico. He is married and has two children.

Placement Bureau

Placement Bureau

The Student Life Council committee which is investigating the operations of the Placement Bureau is holding a special meeting next Monday night in Farley Hall. The purpose of the session will be to gauge students’ opinions of the role that a placement office should play on campus and, indeed, whether or not it should exist at all. The current Placement Bureau provides opportunities for students to be interviewed by representatives of government and business. Some of those who argue that university complicity exists, feel that the placement bureau should be more selective about the firms that it allows to come here. They feel that firms like Dow, IBM, and Honeywell among others should not be allowed to recruit because of the role that they play in the war effort and because of the work that they do for the government.

Some students argue that the entire Placement Bureau should be abolished. They argue that the business community as a whole is corrupt, that it is engaged in the exploitation of individual around the world as well as in the United States. The university should not be part of the system they argue.

The entire problem of “complicity” will have to play a vital part in the SLC’s examination of the function of the Placement Bureau. We encourage all students to express their opinions on the issue either through writing to The Observer, or to the SLC or by attending the meeting to be held on Monday.

At this point there is one obvious flaw in the Bureau’s procedures that must be dealt with. Currently the Placement office works merely with finding positions for students in outside firms and government. There is no service to assist students who seek information about entering graduate school. There are no interviewers from graduate schools who came through Notre Dame through the work of the Placement Office. The individual departments and colleges provide such services now. The Bureau should begin to work in this area though and expand its facilities to help place students in graduate school. With the finding of graduate schools for students perhaps it would determine whether or not the Bureau should be abolished. They argue that the business community as a whole is corrupt, that it is engaged in the exploitation of individual around the world as well as in the United States. The university should not be part of the system they argue.

A time for peace

Tomorrow is the birthday of a great man, Doctor Martin Luther King. This man brought to the world Gandhi’s soul-force to America in his non-violent struggle for human rights. He gave his life for the cause of brotherhood and be willing to share in his crucifixion.

He saw America preaching to the world to live together as brothers, or we are all going to perish together as children of a common god. He realized why he felt the need to become involved in the Vietnamese anti-war struggle. He realized that it was impossible to achieve peace by waging war; Hitler had made that claim. A true peace can only be obtained by peace.

This is the same theory that Gandhi held with respect to unfronnting established injustice. If violence is used to overthrow the existing power, the injustice only changes hands. The power of non-violence is a person’s strength in his willingness to accept suffering for what he holds as truth. Dr. King was continually willing to carry his cross and accept the suffering inflicted on him by his three enemies: racism, war, and poverty.

He saw America preaching to the world of her goodness and justice while she was denying the independence of the Vietnamese people, while ripping off huge investments profits from the third world while showing no concern for social betterment, and while allying herself with the landed gentry of Latin America in opposition to the peasants. It is evident that America is not a land of freedom for all, a land of brotherhood and justice for all.

As a minister of the Gospel of Christ, Dr. King preached non-violent revolution.

SMC Academic Commission assumes various duties

by Mary Kay Davy

Too few students are aware of the vital contributions of the Academic Commission of SMC. Aside from the Commission’s work on the Teacher-Course Evaluation Publication, headed this year by Maureen Metter, little is known of the group’s structure and activities. The Academic Commission is a body of student representatives contributing to numerous academic aspects of the college.

The Commission is open to student representatives. Pam Carey, Pam and Rosemary Anderson serve as the two student representatives on the Education Policy Committee, a sub-committee of the Board of Trustees which meets three or four times a year to discuss major policy decisions.

Pam also acts as student representative, as does Mary Niemeyer, on the Academic Affairs Council, an advisory group to the President of the college, which has the final say over all academic affairs.

Commenting on Fr. McGrath’s financial report to the Council, Pam said, “The school is in debt, the tuition rate is in necessity.” The Development Program, however, appears quite successful as a large sum of money has been pledged and up to now returns have been good.

The Academic Commission is subdivided into five major committees: Curriculum, Academic Standards, Teacher Education, Library, and Admissions and Scholarships. Each of these includes two student representatives.

Presently very active is the Academic Standards Committee. A sub-committee of faculty and students has been formed to evaluate the controversial pass-fail grading system and to investigate its possibilities at SMC.

Too few students are aware of the vital contributions made by the Admissions Committee, which has the final say over all academic affairs.

The Admissions and Scholarship Committee is headed by Sr. Raphaela. Student representatives are Evan Nixon and Sally Tripple. Unfortunately this committee is greatly hindered by a lack of funds. Pam Carey stated she feels student influence in academic areas is very recognizable and generally, the Commission’s results have been good. However, she did suggest that the lack of student interest in their fields of study to which she feels is hindering greater academic revision.

Corso comedy

Editor:
I must compliment Glen Corso for his fantastic piece of comedy which recently livened my day. His "Notre Dame Ten" should serve to teach a freshman English class in Rhetoric and Composition how not to write.

From the very beginning the author makes one unsubstantiated statement after another. e.g. "the complete paranoid rejection", "the condemnation... is downright childish", etc. Really now, calling rejection of something as paranoid is a beautiful rhetorical device to imply to the reader that if he does so, his rejection is on the same level as those before him. Does the good author have empirical data substantiating the childishness of the condemnation of which he spoke? In the vein of Willy Buckley when he recently spoke? In the vein of Willy Buckley when he recently spoke? In the vein of Willy Buckley when he recently spoke? In the vein of Willy Buckley when he recently spoke?

But he failed to go into the fact that the armed forces and industry are the controlling factors in American life today. Americans are literal prisoners of war, whether they may want to admit it or not. To see this, all one needs to do is look at the way in which everyone is controlled today by the military-industrial complex (of which the cartoon spoke). Is it paranoid to work for freedom from this?

However, the crux of the article was the line "I see nothing un-Christian about it. I am no theology major, yet I still think that the basic tenet of Christianity is love-the giving of oneself to another. And if the reason for our presence there is maintenance of self interests (rather selfish), I can't see how this can be anything but un-Christian. Indeed, the implication is that if we were not in our interests, we'd let the area go to hell (need I bring up or reluctance to act and maintain Biafra's freedom, let alone survival?). Not too Christian in any book.

1) "most of Southeast Asia will remain free." In view of what preceded, this can Southeast Asia remain free? Is that in our interest? Free for what- to have the continued exploitation of American resources in their affairs? The only difference between what we offer them, and Communism is that under the U.S. they'd be free to do as the U.S. will have them do. Under Communism, their only freedom is to totalitarianism. One way they're getting shafted by a merciless exploitation, the other they get what they wanted back in 1956 (when Uncle Ho would have won 80% of the vote by Eisenhowser's own admission. More than our departed LBJ. In conclusion, I'd suggest that Glen Corso get a pair of glasses and look past the surface of things.

Sincerely yours,
Walter G. Secada

To the Men of Notre Dame,
On behalf of Northern Illinois University's Poim Pom Squad, we would like to thank you for your wonderful hospitality and warm reception. Never, not even before the last time we came, have we performed before such an enthusiastic audience. Students and faculty alike welcomed us. You truly made us feel at home, which made a great difference between a good performance and a bad one.

We knew before we arrived that the Fighting Irish have excellent ball teams. What we didn't know was that they also have a fabulous marching band, and spirited students. We loved it, and I'm sure that you'll ask us to come back again.

Thank you again for a truly thrilling evening, we are

Sincerely yours,

Senior anarchy

Editor,
As I sit here on my paunch behind the desk of the Doldrums of ignorant anarchy, something is really bugging me. For about four or five years I've been here and listened to all the brilliant drivel that this country has to offer. The problems other people less fortunate than we here have to face, I've continually heard people plead the case of the underpriveleged. And in every stricken, witnessed those connived people expressing their contempt for evils in the system, and heard sickening accounts of the troubles of the world. It really gives one a great social awareness we all possess. But that's as far as it seems to go...talk. True there are many people on this campus who do contribute to the betterment of the human endeavor. But what about the rest of us? We can't change the world, but we don't even seem to be concerned with making a small contribution. Right now we have a chance to do just that, make a small but significant contribution. And what do we do? We sit on our ass and let it drift by.

I'm talking about the Mardi Grass raffle that is in real need. All it takes is a little effort, a little effort that will bring a little better life to those whom we constantly discuss and analyze. But no, we can't seem to get our fat asses with a full stomach and wait for the other guy to do it. And, when you think about it, it doesn't take a major effort to sell two books of tickets. How many times have we blown $8 in the bars drinking ourselves into oblivion? How many times have we waggered our money on some unnecessary extravagance? Too many. We could be helping out the poor with only a little. It's very easy, especially when we talk our heads off about the poor and the ghettoes. Maybe we can still do a little something yet. All it takes is a little effort or a night of work from the wear and tear of booze.

Hall of Fame announces first All Pro Team

The pro football Hall of Fame today announced its first annual All Pro Team comprised of players from the American and National Football Leagues.

The team was chosen by the hall's Board of Selectors, who selected one All-Pro team from each of the 26 NFL and AFL teams. The board was organized primarily to select new members to the pro gridiron.

The defensive units, including a punter and placekicker, are dominated by NFL performers, with 17 of the 24 named coming from the older circuit, although 15 of its 24 from AFL squads, making the overall figure 32 of the 50 players.

New York Giants, coached by Broadway Buck Grant, coach of the NFL champion Minnesota Vikings, was picked as coach of the first team, and George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams was named to head the second team.

The offensive team, by position, is:

Wide receivers: Lance Alworth, San Diego, and Paul Warfield, Cleveland.

Tight end: Bob Trumpy, LSU.

Running backs: Gale Sayers, Chicago, and Calvin Hill, Dallas.

Outside linebackers: Bobby Bell, Kansas City, and Chuck Howley, Dallas.

Middle linebacker: Dick Butkus, Chicago.

Cornerbacks: Lens Barney, Detroit, and Willie Brown, Oakland.

Safety: Larry Wilson, St. Louis, and Johnny Robinson, Kansas City.

Second team offense:

Quarterback: Daryle Lamonica, Oakland.

Tackles: Bob Brown, Los Angeles, and Jim Tyrer, Kansas City.

Guards: Tom Mack, Los Angeles, and Gene Hickerson, Cleveland.

Center: Mick Tinglehoff, Minnesota.

Tackles: Merlin Olsen, Los Angeles, and Bob Lilly, Dallas.

Outside linebackers: Bobby Bell, Kansas City, and Chuck Howley, Dallas.

Middle linebacker: Dick Butkus, Chicago.

Cornerbacks: Lens Barney, Detroit, and Willie Brown, Oakland.

Safeties: Larry Wilson, St. Louis, and Johnny Robinson, Kansas City.

Safeties: Mel Renfro, Dallas, and Dave Grayson, Oakland.

Israeli warplanes made five raids over Egypt

By (UPI) - Israeli warplanes flew five raids against military installations in the Egyptian delta yesterday including an air base only eight miles from Cairo in their greatest strike to the Egyptian capital since the 1967 Mideast War, Israeli spokesmen reported.

The target in Cairo's outskirts was El Kabir, "a military camp which is an important and vital component belonging to the Egyptian air force," according to the spokesmen in Tel Aviv Military sources said yesterday the raids encountered only inef isive light antiaircraft fire.

The Israeli planes hit Egyptian targets on the northern and southern sectors of the Suez Canal at about the same time, Israeli spokesmen said. Strikes were launched along the central sector later.

The air raids came as Premier Golda Meir told a group of visiting U.S. Jewish editors and publishers that as long as President Gamal Abdel Nasser is in power, "I cannot say when there will be peace." She also said the Soviet Union is not interested in bringing peace to the Middle East and that Israel will reject any American-Russian peace proposal reached without Tel Aviv's consent.

She added, however, that she believes Israel "has a friend in the White House" and is trying to force Israel to withdraw from occupied Arab territory before a settlement is negotiated.

Irish blitz Foresters with point barrage

by Jim Donaldson
Observer Sports Writer

Freshman center John Noble capped an awesome display of Notre Dame scoring power by netting three goals and collecting a pair of assists as the Fighting Irish hockey team trounced Lake Forest College 12-2 last night at the ACC before a crowd of 1,239. Ten players tallied goals for ND as the Irish increased their production in each period, netting three in the first stanza, five in the second, and seven in the final twenty minutes. The seven goal barrage was a Notre Dame single period scoring record.

Notre Dame completely dominated Lake Forest in all facets of play and kept the 'Cats in the Foresters end of the rink for most of the game. Notre Dame outshot Lake Forest by 77-21 margin and constantly banged in a rebound with 15:55 remaining. Lake Forest's Jeff Johnson slipped the puck past Chris Cathcart, who had replaced Tomasoni in the cage midway through the second period, for the tally.

Noelannoni's scoring outburst against Lake Forest with two goals and two assists of his own.

Ward had cleared a shot from the goal mouth, one of the Forester defencemen deflected the puck back past the stunned Ward and into the net. Joe Dank, the closest ND player to the goal at the time of the score, was credited with the tally.

The Irish were slow in mounting their offensive as several scoring attempts were thwarted by Ward and his teammates. Noble registered his first goal at 3:36 to open the scoring column with a little less than three minutes remaining. Lake Forest's Jeff Johnson slipped the puck past Chris Cathcart, who had

Rick Cunha gunned in his second goal at the 5:05 mark to put the Irish on top 10-0. Mark Steinborn (6:36), Hoene, who tallied his third goal by tipping in a Hoene slap shot at 15:24, drilling a slap shot into the net, to send the Irish off the ice with an 8-0 advantage at the conclusion of the second period.

Noble panned in his second goal of the night at 15:55 to give Notre Dame a 5-0 lead after the first period. Lake Forest was kept so busy with its defensive chores that Foresters were able to direct just five shots at Irish goalie Dick Tomasoni, all of which he turned away handily.

The Irish attack rolled into high gear in the second period. With 3:30 gone in the stanza Rocky Danko came up with the puck in a scramble in front of the Lake Forest goal and slipped it into the net for the fourth Notre Dame tally.

Regan began the spree by netting a 15-footer at the 10:04 mark. Within two minutes, at 11:41, Jim Cordes took a perfect pass from Gary Little who had hustled down the ice to steal the puck, and drilled it past Ward for the sixth ND mark.

Just ten seconds later Cordes victimized Ward again, circling behind the cage and flipping in an eight-footer. Noble registered the first goal of his hat-trick at 15:24, drilling a slap shot into the net, to send the Irish off the ice with an 8-0 advantage at the conclusion of the second period. Although Lake Forest managed to score both of their goals in the final period, the Irish were in complete control and easily outskated the tired Foresters.

Mark Longor drilled home a rebound at 3:36 to open ND's seven goal, final period onslaught.
