Tom Thrasher Declares Candidacy

by T. C. Treanor

Stay Senator Tom Thrasher last night became the first to officially announce his candidacy for the presidency of Notre Dame's student body.

In a statement, Thrasher and his running mate, Assistant Student President Greg Murray, contended that this year's student government had "straddled into disarray." Thrasher, a 21-year-old senior from Rochester, N.Y., called his candidacy "an effort to bring government on the campus back to the only role which can justify its continued existence and of interest of each individual student. This student power has its roots in representation and of interest of each individual student to the solutions to University problems.

"With this objective Greg and I announce our candidacy for the offices of Student Body President and vice-president. But the limit on the campus back to the student body has been pulled into disarray." Thrasher, a 21-year-old senior from Rochester, N.Y., called his candidacy "an effort to bring government on the campus back to the only role which can justify its continued existence and of interest of each individual student. This student power has its roots in representation and of interest of each individual student to the solutions to University problems.

Steinberg lectures about advantages of gun control

by Tom Bornholdt

The need for control of misusing "gun pollution" was stressed by David Steinberg, Director of the National Council for a Responsible Firearms Policy, in an exclusive interview with The Observer editor the interview he gave a speech in the Library Auditorium on "Firearms and the Law." He felt that gun control was the only rational approach to the problem of dangerous weapons.

Steinberg summarized the purpose of his organization, "To alert the country to the dangers of guns, both long guns and handguns, and to stop defective weapons." Steinberg gave examples of people who should not be allowed to possess firearms. "They who lack maturity, or who have criminal records, or drug addicts... the mentally defective." When asked, he added that "political subversives" also be denied the legal access to weapons.

Steinberg felt that the registration of firearms and the licensing of gun owners would greatly reduce the availability of dangerous weapons. He readily admitted that those who really wanted guns would get them, but he still felt that registration and licensing would prevent many needless gun deaths. He said that the country was not nearly divided into two factions regarding gun ownership and the criminals. He felt that there was a large number of Americans possessing firearms, while not being criminal, simply are not qualified to use them.

He claimed that these people often accidentally kill themselves or others due to their ignorance about the proper use of guns.

On the issue of registration and licensing, Steinberg said, "We would want this licensing at the state level; there ought to be minimum federal standards." He thought there should be some variance in laws from state to state because of differences in situations. He gave as an example the different needs for firearms in Wisconsin and Connecticut.

Steinberg felt that other methods of control should also be put into effect. Each state should have a code of responsible gun ownership. Through such a code, society would keep gun owners that a certain conduct is expected of them... This way you would prevent the accidental or conscious attitude towards guns. This whole casual attitude toward guns should stop, he proposed.

This code would make the gun owner responsible for the use of all guns registered for him. This is a gun owner's responsibility to sell, loan, or give his weapon to another person, without registering that firearm. In the case where a weapon was misused, the registered owner would be held responsible.

"In an attempt to determine exactly where the Notre Dame student of 1970 stands, what he believes strongly in, what he likes and doesn't like about his school, his country, and his world, a comprehensive poll on the opinions of the student university body has been devised through the joint efforts of the Student Government and the Notre Dame Observer. The poll, which has been in the planning stages for months, will address itself to the widest possible range of contemporary problems.

Comprehensive poll covers topical issues

by Bill Carter

In an attempt to determine exactly where the Notre Dame student of 1970 stands, what he believes strongly in, what he likes and doesn't like about his school, his country, and his world, a comprehensive poll on the opinions of the student university body has been devised through the joint efforts of the Student Government and the Notre Dame Observer. The poll, which has been in the planning stages for months, will address itself to the widest possible range of contemporary problems.

Nutting explains educational philosophy

by Mike Bergida

Knowledge Breen Phillips hasenstreet, Prof. William Nutting, A. About 40 eager students, including Nutting-gathered at 10 p.m. last night. For little over an hour Nutting shared views on learning, his campaign, graduate school, and much more.

Nutting emphasized the "stupidity" of the course and credit system. He noted that a person might get a D in a course and later become very interested in the subject. Lectures, readings, and "reading half as much and thinking twice as much" could make him more informed than someone getting an A.

But, he stressed, this achievement would go unrecorded. A stigma was placed on his record.

The student who got an A might feel that he "knew the subject," because of the work necessary to earn the grade. He would probably forget the course matter. Yet, in the eyes of the world, he was a success, and not the D student.

"Speaking about a liberal education, Nutting remarked that it must have an innate sense of proportion. The poor man is given a vocational education. The rich man gets the liberal education. He understands the need for the poor man to "contemplate and know justice." But the limited education he receives often allows him only to dream of "golden faucets." Result: foolish. Use of what is the real and the ideal. The rich man's positions are enough to satisfy the basic human desires. He doesn't need to turn to ideas for stimulation, yachting, a pub, or night- ingale-town which would serve as well.

Conclusion: give a man who more clearly needs a liberal education the chance to obtain it. Show him how to accept his lot in life and how to transcend through ideas.

Nutting pointed out to the student-run campaign as a definite sign that the students could have a strong idea and do something about it. He commented that the gr. aduate schools make "scholars" who learn how "to make footnotes." Nutting also observed that every one he has asked who passed their doctorate exam has stated that the time necessarily spent could have been used more profitably. Nutting deplored that "credentials, not knowledge, were checked." He added, "prospective employees. In fact, he said," Ph.D. might prevent a person from being good in life and how to transcend through ideas.

Nutting pointed out to the student-run campaign as a definite sign that the students could have a strong idea and do something about it. He commented that the graduate schools make "scholars" who learn how "to make footnotes." Nutting also observed that every one he has asked who passed their doctorate exam has stated that the time necessarily spent could have been used more profitably. Nutting deplored that "credentials, not knowledge, were checked." He added, "prospective employees. In fact, he said," Ph.D. might prevent a person from being good in life and how to transcend through ideas.

"I think this is the most comprehensive poll that ever been put out on this campus," Corso said. We tried to cover every conceivable area that we (continued on page 6) choate subsidizes Mrs. Olivarez

This is the second of three installments on Mrs. Grace Olivarez, who will be the first woman to be awarded a Juris Doctor Degree by the Notre Dame Law School. She will receive the degree this spring — ed.

by Mark Walbran

In 1962 Mrs. Olivarez met Mr. Robert Choate who profoundly expanded her opportunities to do social work. Mr. Robert Choate of the Choate Foundation had long been interested in her work and asked her to join the Choate Foundation in its work in the southwestern United States. She was rather wary of Choate and suspected him to be just another White out to solve the Mexican-Americans’ problems. Choate knew that at this time Mrs. Olivarez was supporting only her mother and was using a considerable amount of her income to help starving families in the county who could not wait for the bureaucracy of the local Welfare board to provide them with food. Choate made her see that she had become dependent on helping these people on a day to day basis without solving the situations which caused them to be poor. She admitted that she sometimes almost felt hurt when families she had helped no longer asked her for assistance.

Taking a leave of absence from the radio station, Mrs. Olivarez went to work for the Choate Foundation. At this time she began to realize how little formal education she had had. After speaking nothing but Spanish for fourteen years, she was now required to use English.

Mrs. Olivarez

At this time too she began to read the reports of sociologists like Oscar Lewis and Michael Harrington. These people broadened the scope of her understanding of the poor. The problems were much larger and more widespread than she had expected and she realized how sheltered her life had been. Her work with the foundation took her around the country and she met other concerned Mexican-Americans. Realizing the opportunity to make real progress, Mrs. Olivarez left her radio career behind and went to work full time for the Choate Foundation, taking a considerable loss in income from $7,800 to $5,000 annually.

“Mr. Ford Foundation”

One of the projects the Choate Foundation was working on at the time was a motivation program for minority group children to improve their progress in school. The work Mrs. Olivarez did in this area attracted the attention of the Ford Foundation who gave her a 30 day grant to travel the Southwest to investigate the problems of Mexican-Americans.

After travelling and preparing her report, she went to New York to present her findings to Mr. Paul Ylvisaker, “Mr. Ford Foundation.” Choate had advised her before coming to New York that the Ford Foundation people were on top and that she should remember that the future of her social work depended on how well she presented herself. It was soon become obvious to Mrs. Olivarez that Ylvisaker had not read her report, and she told him so. He said very few people told him that he had not done what he said he had, and that it was very refreshing. Most people, he told her, were so concerned about getting money that they would never think of disagreeing with him. He extended her travel grant so her investigation could continue and recommended her to the Advisory Council of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Serves on committees

“All of a sudden I was big,” she explained, “serving on committees with Kenneth Galbraith and Mrs. Robert McNamara, Whitney Young and Dr. Spock.” Soon she was travelling extensively and giving lectures and organizing workshops on minority groups and their problems.

In 1962 Mrs. Olivarez met Fr. Theodore Hesburgh when the Civil Rights Commission was having hearings in Phoenix. In Phoenix no one really talked about discrimination but she spoke out and presented her findings. The Ford Foundation people were so impressed by this man who knew Spanish and who displayed a genuine concern for the poor.

By 1966 Mrs. Olivarez had finished two years of television work in Phoenix and had left the Choate Foundation, presenting the TV the idea of an educational program she used to do for KIFN. She was serving as Director of the Arizona Office of Economic Opportunity, a job she lost after Governor Jack Williams came into office, later that year.

She was becoming more disillusioned about the progress all her efforts were really having. Although she enjoyed travelling and serving on committees, the results of her work never seemed visible among the poor she knew so well in the mining towns and villages of Maricopa County.

Continued tomorrow

Marilyn Reed is named Wilson Designate

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has announced that Miss Marilyn J. Reed, a senior at Saint Mary’s College, Notre Dame, Indiana, has been named a Woodrow Wilson Designate for 1970. The “Designate” status singles out those young men and women as outstanding students with a strong interest in teaching. Miss Reed was listed as one of 1,153 designates selected from approximately 12,000 outstanding graduating seniors nominated for the honor by more than 800 colleges. This list of Designates will be used by the Woodrow Wilson Fellows which include consumer- crusader Ralph Nader, poet Erica Mann, and eleven college presidents.

Miss Reed is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Reed of Hobart, Indiana. She graduated from Andrean High School in Gary, Indiana, and is an art major with a special interest in art history at Saint Mary’s College.
Chicago Seven denied bail

Chicago (UPI) - The government, charging that the "Chicago Seven" and their two trial lawyers are "a danger and a threat to the community" yesterday asked a federal appeals court to reject their requests for bail.

Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark and four other attorneys of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), arguing there is no indication the nine convicted men are dangerous, asked the court to grant bail pending final outcome of the case.

The opposing briefs were filed with the 7th US Circuit Court of Appeals, which must decide whether to overrule District Court Judge Julius Hoffman's denial of bail. Attorneys for the "Chicago Seven" and their trial lawyers, William Kunstler and Leonard Weinglass, asked the court to grant bail pending appeal.

Appeals court Saturday to grant the nine men their freedom pending their appeal.

Five of the "Chicago Seven" were found guilty by a jury of crossing state lines with intent to incite a riot during the 1968 Democratic National Convention. Hoffman found all seven defendants, together with Kunstler and Weinglass, guilty of contempt of court for actions during the tempestuous, 4 1/2 month trial.

In a 39 page brief signed by US Attorney Thomas A. Foran, the government said "evidence overwhelmingly demonstrates the defendants are a danger and a threat to the community and the record does not in any way establish that the appeal of the conviction is meritorious."

"The government submits that there is no policy to grant bail to all self styled political militants..." the brief said. "In this case denial is based on the danger in view of the evidence."

Federal rules leave the question of bail after conviction up to the "sound discretion of the court," the government said. The ACLU petition and 17 page supporting brief said, on the other hand, that "at the very least, the defendants are entitled to bail pending the outcome of the case."

It said denial of bail violated the first, fifth, sixth and eighth amendments to the US Constitution.

Grave Boycott

After meeting with some difficulty with vandals destroying signs publicizing their earlier attempts to boycott, the leaders of the Grape Boycott Committee will open their second semester series of talks tonight in Lewis Hall.

Members will conduct a forum on the nature of the movement including not only the items of wages for the manual farm laborers in Delano, California, but also the related issues of dangers to those people from pesticides and other related items.

Discussion leaders for the night will include members of El Centro, a local group working on the plight of the Mexican-Americans as well as Notre Dame students and local residents who have been active in boycott activities.

While the group which recruited at registration had begun the year by picketing at local grocery stores which sold California grapes, they have recently reorganized into teams in order to speak to various groups of citizens in an educational effort to acquaint them with the facts.

Most of the members of the teams have attended long training sessions to prepare them with information and background material.

The program is slated to get under way at 8:00 pm in the basement lounge at Lewis Hall. Bro. Mark Raffae, F.S.C. has stressed in his publicity that all are welcome to attend whether they favor or oppose the movement or are just interested in learning or questioning.

THEY DON'T FOLLOW FADS. THEY SET TRENDS.

Bass Weejuns

Announcing...more Bass Weejuns and Bass tack styles than ever before! In our Shoe Salon. Bass Shoes are the most popular hand sewn casuals in the world. Select your Bass Weejuns, Tacks and sandals at the Frances Shop. We have the most ever!

Girls little heel Weejun in brown leather $20.00

EUROPE $229

JET

ROUNDTrip JET

EUROPE $229

Most destinations except

(1) London, Amsterdam, Rome, Paris, and Brussels;
(2) East Asia including Japan, Hong Kong, etc.;
(3) West Africa and Johannesburg;
(4) South America except Brazil.

Two way air transportation and hotel accommodations and all meals are included.

Jordan Hotel, 54 W 40th St., N.Y. 19, N.Y.

THE REASON

You'll be the most popular girl in the world. With Bass Weejuns you've got the story...and the shoes to wear it.

THE POWER OF BASS

THEY DON'T FOLLOW...THEY SET TRENDS.
Nutting mirrors Caws's concepts

This is the second of five installments in The Observer in which members of the Nutrition for President committee answer the fundamental question of why should any change be made in the existing power structure or why change the people now in power.

by Mike Kovacevic

It's very hard for me to consider just what a university is anymore without realizing what it has to come to be in America. It's very hard to forget that napalm was developed at Harvard and tested behind that institution's football stadium. Or that James Rect or was killed by a shotgun blast because Berkeley and Oakland police responded violently to Charles Pal mer's concept that people attending the University of California, "street people," and other residents of the area should have a "People's Park." It's impossible. So in describing what a university should be, I shall also say what it is, in fact, is.

What A University Should Be

Probably more worthless nonsense is written about education than about any other subject except religion. Because of this proliferation of verbiage, it is one of the hardest subjects to write about objectively.

-Peter J. Caws, "Design for a University", Daedalus, Winter 1970

People go to college, in part, to examine the corporate structure and corporate services their institution sustains, to the extent that education is a secondary issue and is treated as such. An ideal university, Caws believes, should adhere to two basic principles: the curriculum of the university ought to be interesting, and the government of the university ought to be fair. Both principles must be interesting, as judged by the students who are compelled to follow it; and the government must be fair, as judged by the faculty and students who are ruled by it.

Such are the basic principles that must be realized to create a community of scholars. They mean that the community should follow in learning and living together. Caws recognizes, unlike many of our universities, that a university, by its nature, is responsible to society at large. The government of the university must be fair not only to those within it, but also to those outside it. If an university is implicated in society and cannot escape the charge of unfairness if it helps to perpetuate an inequality in that society.

Restrictive admissions policies that exclude a class of people from membership in the academic community, when they would benefit by it is white-collar crime. The fact that Southern, indeed Northern, institutions of higher education have such poor enrollment of Blacks, Chicano, and American Indian districts deny any claim of pursuing high ideals, like being "open community" for example.

A few words about the administration of the "ideal university": in a community where faculty and students are the university, where they are the focus of concern, and the university's administrator's function is to attend to their needs and wants. Trustees, presidents, deans, registrars, secretaries, janitors, and the like are not, strictly speaking, the university. They are necessary, only the remaining of the community model by the corporate model that has them in their present dominant position . . . in the ideal university administrative personnel would be appointed only for the day-to-day running of the institution and would be under the control of the community of faculty and students.

"Design for a University"

What the University, Is

Witness students striking at Columb ia, Harvard, Berkeley, Western Colum bia's large land holdings in Harlem; witness napals of Harvard; witness a young man from San Jose fatally wounded on the roof of a Telegraph A cross, bookstore in Berkeley. Witness the American university: it falls more than the considered interest of the ideal community mentioned above.

I am firmly convinced that the educational policies of liberal arts teachers in liberal arts colleges work is thoroughly and intrinsically wrong, so wrong that they who most ac tively preserve for the full intellectual development of their students must suffer almost continual frustration, and can accomplish their work only to the extent they refuse to conform to the pattern.

Letters to the Editor

Money for Africa

Editor: We would like to take this opportunity to compliment the dining halls for the gesture of goodwill expressed through this obvious waste of food, thousands of Biafran's are starving.

We do not know how these figures run finnially, but we are certain that the dining hall management must be aware of the tremendous waste which accompanies these affairs. We are sure that if the student body had been made aware of this feast far in advance Notre Dame men would have sacrificed this meal for the needy in Africa.

James Delagio

Jose Vilamiri

John Vonder Haar

Power to ladies

Editor: We commend and encourage the women who challenged Dr. Benjamin Spock on his attitude of male supremacy. They effectively used Spock's own device which the doctor did not effectively answer.

We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con
tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and Simplicity of dressing the "establishment" -an important characteristic, "by its naked lapid") and asked questions which the doctor did not effectively answer. We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and

Power to ladies

Editor: We commend and encourage the women who challenged Dr. Benjamin Spock on his attitude of male supremacy. They effectively used Spock's own device which the doctor did not effectively answer.

We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con
tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and Simplicity of dressing the "establishment" -an important characteristic, "by its naked lapid") and asked questions which the doctor did not effectively answer. We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and

Money for Africa

Editor: We would like to take this opportunity to compliment the dining halls for the gesture of goodwill expressed through this obvious waste of food, thousands of Biafran's are starving.

We do not know how these figures run finnially, but we are certain that the dining hall management must be aware of the tremendous waste which accompanies these affairs. We are sure that if the student body had been made aware of this feast far in advance Notre Dame men would have sacrificed this meal for the needy in Africa.

James Delagio

Jose Vilamiri

John Vonder Haar

Power to ladies

Editor: We commend and encourage the women who challenged Dr. Benjamin Spock on his attitude of male supremacy. They effectively used Spock's own device which the doctor did not effectively answer.

We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con
tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and Simplicity of dressing the "establishment" -an important characteristic, "by its naked lapid") and asked questions which the doctor did not effectively answer. We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con
tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and Simplicity of dressing the "establishment" -an important characteristic, "by its naked lapid") and asked questions which the doctor did not effectively answer. We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and

Letters to the Editor

Money for Africa

Editor: We would like to take this opportunity to compliment the dining halls for the gesture of goodwill expressed through this obvious waste of food, thousands of Biafran's are starving.

We do not know how these figures run finnially, but we are certain that the dining hall management must be aware of the tremendous waste which accompanies these affairs. We are sure that if the student body had been made aware of this feast far in advance Notre Dame men would have sacrificed this meal for the needy in Africa.

James Delagio

Jose Vilamiri

John Vonder Haar

Power to ladies

Editor: We commend and encourage the women who challenged Dr. Benjamin Spock on his attitude of male supremacy. They effectively used Spock's own device which the doctor did not effectively answer.

We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con
tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and Simplicity of dressing the "establishment" -an important characteristic, "by its naked lapid") and asked questions which the doctor did not effectively answer. We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con
tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and Simplicity of dressing the "establishment" -an important characteristic, "by its naked lapid") and asked questions which the doctor did not effectively answer. We're amazed that this glorious feat of rational discussion and community dialogue degenerates rapidly to the use of derision and antagonism when a view is expressed which is con tary to the cherished popular opinion. The treatment these women received (the catcalls and
Trial of '8 in book form

A 320-page illustrated documentary of courtroom confrontations from the trial of the three defendants. The book, the official 220,000 page transcript, will be published next week by Bantam Books in a $1.25 paperback.

Rushed to press as the 27th Bantom Extra immediately after completion of the trial, the book, which trial book is titled The Tales Of Hofman is and is the work of three attorneys who, for the first time, the transcript to show what transpired in the co-sroom in the participants' own words.

The excerpted portions not only reflect the highlights of the trial and the philosophy of the defendants, but also the bitter furor and outrageous order of the proceedings from both sides.

The editors are Mark L. Levine, a graduate of the New York University School of Law presently working with a prominent New York law firm; George Louis, a Yale graduate and presently of the New York Stock Exchange; and Michael Greenberg, a Columbia Law School graduate presently teaching fifth grade.

The book's illustrations are by Vera Saito, whose sketches have been basis for NBC-TV news broadcasts throughout the trial since photographers were not admitted to the courthouse. Bantam book will contain 25 of the artist's sketches.

The manuscript was completed early last week and Bantam immediately implemented its "instant publishing" schedule. Books will be off the press the first week of March and immediately distributed throughout the world.

Murray Louis
Poll to deal with academic, national affairs

(continued from page 1)

felt students had a strong interest in. Since four people worked on it, I think we did a pretty good job of hitting every major area."

In regard to views on campus issues, students will be asked to evaluate the success of the present student government administration and what they feel should have been done that was not done. They will also be asked to offer opinions of the job being done by the Observer, the Scholastic, and WSNOD.

The more controversial current issues of drugs, recruitment by Dow-CIA, military research, and racism on campus are all touched upon in the poll. In addition, less volatile subjects such as evaluation of the campus social atmosphere, living conditions, and extracurricular activities are also included.

Concerning the academic aspects of the university, the students will be asked to give their opinions of such matters as the ROTC program, the Black Studies Program, Free University, Non-Violence Seminar, and the psychological services department.

The students will be given the opportunity to evaluate Notre Dame as a whole, to indicate what they support and what they oppose in university policy and what changes they feel should be made to improve it.

The only campus issue not included in the poll is the co-education question. Corso explained, "We deliberately left out coeducation since that subject was covered pretty thoroughly in the previous Observer poll."

On the national level, the poll takes up the questions of solutions for the Vietnam War and the race problem. The students will be asked to evaluate the performance of President Nixon and offer their choice for the office if an election were imminent. Such areas as legalization of marijuana, economic reform and educational opportunity for minority groups are also touched upon.

In explaining the necessity for such a poll, Corso pointed out the need to know what the students are really thinking before any changes can take place.

"The primary reason we put out this poll, it is to find out what the Notre Dame student body wants done and how it feels efforts in various fields such as minority recruitment, and academic reform are going," Corso said, "We hope that this poll will be beneficial to next year's student government in determining its course of action."

Corso expressed the hope that the response to the poll will be significant enough to make some solid conclusions as to the direction of opinion among the students.

"I'd also like to extend special thanks to Steve Flavin and the hall clerks who gave up their time so that the poll could be distributed and collected as quickly as possible," Corso added.

Gun control favored

(continued from page 1)

able. In gun control, would be prohibited from selling, giving, or loaning a gun to someone who did not possess a license. In either of these violations, the gun-owner would lose his license.

Steinberg gave two examples of bills before Congress that he found desirable but not perfect. The first is sponsored by Senator Tydings of Maryland, the second by Senator Dodd of Connecticut.

He lamented that Congressional debate is behind schedule on these two bills. Steinberg, however, considers it unlikely that either of these bills, or any like it will be passed in the near future. He placed the blame for this on the Nixon administration.

Steinberg favored legislation which allows a judge the power to grant heavier penalties to crimes involving the use of firearms. He felt that this would not only pass in the house but in the Senate as well.

As a last point, Steinberg addressed Equal Opportunity Employers in the Plans for Progress Program

ACCOUNTING, MATH AND ENGINEERING GRADUATES FOR SYSTEMS, PRODUCTION, RESEARCH, INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING, TESTING ENGINEERING, FIELD ENGINEERING, DESIGN AND SALES

The Inland Steel Company, East Chicago, Indiana, invites you to investigate our many career opportunities. Consult the specific job descriptions in the pocket of our brochure. Our representative will be on your campus on

MONDAY, MARCH 2, 1970

INLAND STEEL COMPANY
INDIANA HARBOR WORKS
EAST CHICAGO, INDIANA

Equal Opportunity Employers in the Plans for Progress Program

INTERESTED IN WORKING FOR THE OBSERVER?

A WORKSHOP WILL BE HELD FOR ALL THOSE INTERESTED IN NEWS AND FEATURE WRITING. TOPICS WHICH WILL BE COVERED INCLUDE:

STRUCTURE OF A NEWS STORY
INTERVIEWING TECHNIQUE
THE ROLE OF INTERPRETATION IN A NEWS STORY
THE QUESTION OF OBJECTIVITY.

DATES: Mon. – March 2
Wed. – March 5

TIME: 7:30 – 9:00

PLACE: 356 O’Shaughnessy

Call 1715 for information

Gun control favored

(continued from page 1)

mitted the relatively small size of his organization, which he estimated to be a few thousand. While he felt that large numbers of people gave moral support to his council, they do not offer financial contributions. He complained of the shaky budget of the organization. He said that he served as only Executive Director, but also as Treasurer, but was not being paid a cent for his work, and therefore was only a part time worker. He added that his organization included Mayor Lindsay and Adlai Stevenson III.

Age of Vasari lecture topic

Tonight in the Notre Dame Art Gallery, Janos Scholz, a collector of Italian drawings and noted musician will give a lecture entitled "Federigo Zuccaro's Sketchbook of the Life of Taddeo Zuccaro." This is the second lecture in "The Age of Vasari" lecture series accompanying the Art Gallery's exhibit of 16th Century Florentine art. The public is cordially invited.

CPA film

A film documentary of the nine month occupation of the black ghetto of Wilmington, Delaware by National Guard troops after Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination in April 1968, will be shown tonight at 7:15 and 8:15 in Nieuwland Science Hall.

The film is being brought to campus by Professor John Williams of the History Department in conjunction with the CPA and Complicity Week.
Approximately sixty persons attended a meeting in Lakeshore Student Center last night exploring the possibility of the formation of a draft council and conscientious objection club at Notre Dame. The meeting was presided over by junior Tom Hampson, who led the discussion on the conception, purpose and goals of the club.

The group was formed to be informative to anyone interested in the draft or conscientious objection and also to be supportive to those persons attempting to receive CO status. The club, titled the Notre Dame Conscientious Objection Club, was the conception of Hampson when he became interested in a CO classification.

Notre Dame was in need of an organization that could help council students on the draft law and inform them of any alternative avenues open to them.

He stated, "The club would be a service to the university in that it provides information to its members on the complexities of the draft and the alternatives to the emphasis on conscientious objection. In turn, it would be an agent of information to the entire campus."

Hampson stated there are many people interested in the fine points of the draft law and that, "hopefully, we can get these people together, study and discuss individual questions and problems, and find out what's going on. He claimed this would be the primary function of the group.

Once organized Hampson plans to set up a table in the library or the Huddle and pass out mostly free information on the draft and conscientious objection. The club members hope to form small groups and cover topics relevant to each individual.

Counselors from the South Bend Draft Union and a few Notre Dame law students are supporting the club and are offering their services. One of the counselors present at the meeting was part of the group.

Beytagh joins Law faculty

Francis X. Beytagh, Jr., assistant to Solicitor General of the United States Erwin Griswold, will join the Notre Dame Law School faculty August 1, 1970. As assistant, since 1966, Beytagh has argued many government cases before the U.S. Supreme Court. He also served as Senior Law Clerk to the retired Chief Justice Earl Warren and taught a seminar in constitutional litigation at the University of Virginia Law School in 1969.

Correction

The story that appeared in the Observer yesterday, headlined "Proposes Channelling of Student Union Funds," was partially inaccurate. Senator Russ Stone did not propose taking away any money from the Student Union to send back to the halls. Rather he proposed taking a certain amount off the top of every student's activity fee and sending it back to the halls. The story also mentioned that Stone proposed giving money to the halls that were not that well off financially first, under his bill. What Stone said was that smaller halls should be allotted more funds than bigger halls.

You only go around once in life. So grab for all the gusto you can. Even in the beer you drink. Why settle for less? When you're out of Schlitz, you're out of beer.
Towards the 2000 breaststroke. Doug Free was the only other Irish wrestler to win an NCAA championship match, finally defeating his CMU opponent, placing third in the 100 freestyle.

The Irish close their dual meet schedule by hosting Toledo at 2 p.m.

JIM MURRAY
Playing a Bigger Game

A lifeline backer of the kind of archangel of football. It is his duty, whatever the sinners have lost the forces of evil slip through, to swoop down, plug the hole and hurl Satan's halfbacks back.

I don't suppose anybody ever filled the role, in life and on the field, so well as Donn Micouman did - and did it.

"He is a zealot in cheers," his coach, the late Henry (Red) Sanders used to say. St. Michael in a gold helmet.

Donn Micouman could have been one of the great players of all time but he fell in with good company. He was All-American, All-Coast, All-Colombia in each of his last two seasons in college, and there are few players you could have found who would have faced his 6 feet 5 inches of average, 225 pounds of weight, except for the 7-man line throwing Alan Amiche around for minute yardage.

The pro scouts drooled. The Rams drafted him No. 1. The very name of the school with the cold fury he did. He was the terrible swift sword of the 1951-52 UCLA team that went the long way around any Bruin team. Yes, it's true that fact it had an offense as gutsless as a farmer's daughter and as slow as a glacier. In 1952, its defense intercepted an incredible 34 passes, a national record. Merely for its offensive record for throwing quarterbacks in the end zone for safeties and the NCAA record for fewest fumbles. It lost only three of its 22 games. But it had not offered up many things, a lateral. But it had already beaten the team USC was to meet in the Rose Bowl, Wisconsin, 20-7, in a game in which Donn Micouman scored a touchdown on a 7-man line.

The book has a soak beginning, an unhappy ending and has been on the best-seller lists since the days parts of it were written on rock.