by Jerry Jenkins

Weasley Marx, noted environmental writer and photographer, spoke to a group of about 200 students at the Notre Dame campus Tuesday night. The Notre Dame Student Union and the SREB (Southern Regional Education Board) hosted the event, titled "How not to Kill the Ocean."

Weasley's talk, titled "How not to Kill the Ocean," presented his plea that citizens consider all possible uses of the ocean's resources before allowing further exploitation and pollution. He complained about coastline municipalities which, he claims, act as though "the solution to pollution is more dirt."

The environmentalist said that temperature changes in the ocean can break up existing pollution with chemical agents in inefficient and only furthers the pollution. He blames coastline cities for the largest portion of the problem, claiming that they are the largest sewage dumpers. He called for more legislation coupled with increased technological research to control both the coastline cities and the problems he claims they propel.

Marx said that the present trend in nature is irreversible and that it would take nearly 25 to 30 years for nature to simply clean up the present waste. He highlighted his lecture with color slides of coastal erosion, pollution, and dead marine life.

The best way to end the trend, according to Marx, is a full-scale program of development for treatment plants. Marx also considered the possibility of using the ocean as a food source. Although he admitted that the ocean development could have an impact on lowering the protein shortage, he said that this is not the answer.

Marx is the author of the book "Our Planet and the Wild," which was sponsored by the first national Environmental Teach-in "It's My Ocean: A Global Conflict!" and "Wilderness or Wilderness: An Enviro-Imaginative." Times and places for the remainder of the series are posted around campus.

Jordon ready for battle

by Fred Schaeffer

Co-education at Notre Dame is "inevitable" according to Fr. Charles Sheedy, head of the committee evaluating co-operation between ND and Saint Mary's."A separate men's college does not fit in the overall picture. Separate education for men is suitable only in a small and manageable community," Fr. Sheedy said in an interview with the \"Observer\" last week. "At Notre Dame, there are over 1500 students, but only about 2000 on campus at any given time."

Sheedy believes that progress is being made towards co-education, however he said the administration at ND and Saint Mary's has been slow to act. "At ND, there are only 1500 students, but only about 2000 on campus at any given time."

According to Sheedy, another problem encountered in the relative similarity of Saint Mary's and Saint Mary's feelings is that "it's character and thus has detrimental environmental influence on its students."

One program helping to bring co-education closer is the co-exchange program. According to Sheedy, "It's a great idea, but it's creating dozens of problems: it's forcing itself upon us." Sheedy explained that the problem here is the separate "operating sectors" that are forcing the sectors to work against each other. He feels the best plan for co-education at NC is a "cold, self-sustaining, self-helping, women's college" at St. Mary's, and "with men and women here at Notre Dame, the women will be able to help themselves to prepare for life." As an example, he mentioned an administrator at ND who knew how to run a registra-
Israelis ready to move on strategic positions

(Continued from page 1) who has spearheaded the campagain against Husein, sent a cable to Arab leaders in Cairo which described the situation in Jordan as "a massacre, never witnessed in history before."

"They -- the Jordanian army -- are determined to exterminate our people," Arslat said. "After they failed to destroy our people themselves, the landing of American troops with their collusion is a matter of hours away."

In Cairo, an Egyptian government spokesman said Arab leaders trying to end the war in Jordan sent a top level delegation to Amman. It was headed by the Sudan, Maj. Gen. Jafar El Nummeyy.

Reports trickling out of Amman told of intense suffering. Thousands were reported dying of hunger and thirst. The International Red Cross said the food supply in Amman was critical and that conditions were "absolutely catastrophic" in one camp for Palestinian refugees.

A spokesman for the Palestinian Liberation Organization in Cairo, Gamel El Sorani, said 120,000 shells were fired on Amman alone in the first five days of the war, destroying half of the city.

"This firepower is equivalent to the atomic bomb which was dropped on Hiroshima," El Soruni said. He said 80 per cent of the Al Walsat refugee camp, largest in Jordan with 31,000 Palestinians, had been destroyed and the whole area, as far north, was "almost totally detroyed."

The Israeli military correspondents reported the Jordanian troop movements yesterday from Tiberias, an Israeli resort on the Sea of Galilee not far from the battle zone. The Israels said the two brigades -- about 8,000 men -- moved northwards before dawn toward Irbid, the Jordanian city which was reported seized by the Syrian backed guerrillas Mon-der, Irbid, Jordan's second largest city is 45 miles from Amman.

The Israeli observers reported seeing convoys of Jordanian army trucks rolling south of the east bank of the Jordan River later yesterday and said these vehicles were apparently empty supply trucks returning to bases for fresh ammunition, food and water.

The fighting around Irbid, 18 miles from the Jordan River, brought the conflict extremely close to Israeli occupied territory and Israel was on full alert. Premier Golda Meir convened an emergency session of her cabinet to hear a briefing by the military chief-of-staff, Lt. Gen. Haim Barlev, on "security problems."

The report of the two Jor-danian army brigades moving into northwest Jordan coincided with an announcement by the Palestinian Liberation organization (PLO) in Beirut, Lebanon, that Jordanian warplanes joined the war for the first time yesterday.

In Amman, the military comptroller, Chief-of-staff, Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-lev, said that Jordanian jet fighter bombers attacked the areas of Soom and Aqabat Jaber on the outskirts of Irbid in a 10 minute raid.

In Amman yesterday the military government reimposed a "shoot on sight" curfew and guerrilla reports said a guerrilla rocket attack had destroyed part of King Hussein's palace just outside town after palace guards opened fire on the Al Bauqa refugee camp.

Reports in diplomatic circles in Beirut said some of the Amman fighting yesterday raged around the U.S. Embassy. An Arab official said a diplomatic source was able to file a dispatch from Amman to Cairo said hundreds of houses had been destroyed and thousands of bodies were in the streets and uncollected.

The PLO Red Crescent relief organization painted a picture of horror in the Jordanian capital.

Thousands of children are dying in Amman of hunger and thirst and tens of thousands of wounded, dying because of lack of medical aid and destruction of hospitals," Red Crescent said.

There was no word on the fate of 400 Americans in Jordan whom President Nixon has pledged to protect. This group includes 38 Americans seized aboard three jetliners which the Jordanian government said were headed to Jordan earlier this month.

Uruguay turns down new terrorist offer

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) -- college government has turned down a new terrorist offer to release an American hostage in exchange for publication and broadcast of a 1,300 word letter, manifesto, ancestor close to the presidential palace said yesterday.

The report flatly contradicted earlier indications the government would go along with the demand to save the life of Charles L. Fly, 65, a U.S.

expert, held by the terrorists since Aug. 7 and reported to be in ailing health.

The early reports said the government had decided to yield to the terrorist demand at a longest deadline, the two leaders at tended by President Jorge Fasc-cultures who previously had rejected any negotiations with the terrorists. The later report implied the conference had "re-pected totally any negotiation" with the underground guerrilla organization.

Microbiology speech today

Dr. Mogens Volkerdt will address the students assembled by the department of microbiology, describing his research on the gen-edics of RNA-type virus. His experiments indicate that here-ing in these viruses may be very flexible, unlike traditional genetics based on DNA

Council host party

The council conducts a three hour physical education activity at Logan School on Saturdays.

Mrs. Carolyn Mays, past activity director at Logan School, feels "this is an important thing that's happened to return to the south of County." She went on to say, "the Notre Dame and St.

Mary's students give the children something to pattern themselves after.

Membership has increased greatly since the club was started two years ago by two seniors, Jerry Loughlin and Rocky Blier, former football captain. Carla Edwards, second Vice-President, estimates the number has doubled each year. Many new members are present at last night's meeting.

The non-profit organization relies on donations to pay for trips to such activities as the Blue and Gold game, the circus and the ice Capades.

For the past THREE YEARS, CONTINENTAL HAIRSTYLING INC. of South Bend has been proud to offer Notre Dame men the best in hair care. Continental cuts your hair the way it looks best, ... the way your favorite townie

Continental cuts your hair the way it looks best, ... the way your favorite townie

Continental cuts your hair the way it looks best, ... the way your favorite townie

Today.

Welcome Back ND Students

The Faculty Assembly of St. Mary's College has gone on record as being opposed to a proposal to students be given a week's recess in October to provide time for active participation in the forthcoming national elections. The Faculty Assembly, whose membership includes the entire teaching faculty, is looking for body for facilitating responsibility in the function of the College according to Dr. Anthony Black, chairman of the Assembly, the proposal was rejected after a number of grounds.

Principal was the belief in the primary concern of the College as an academic body which might be jeopardized should the College policy itself. Faculty also expressed concern that lost class time would not be compensated for by student involvement lack of medical aid and destruction of hospitals," Red Crescent

No more word on the fate of 400 Americans in Jordan

"The community response has been tremendous," according to the council president Griff Hogg. "The Logan school has been getting calls for weeks prior to the beginning of school asking when the Notre Dame program was to begin again," he said.

"When the parents and the kids are satisfied," he added, "that shows we've done a damn good job."
Next two years crucial

by Art Ferranti

Three members of the Academic Affairs Commission (AAC) expressed their views yesterday on the passage of the controversial Princeton Plan and commented on the newly-granted student representation on the Academic Council.

Bill Wilka, the Academic Affairs commissioner, commented that he was "quite pleased" with the Academic Council's members who participated and attended the online meeting of the Academic Affairs Commission's behalf. He said that the next two years would be the "most crucial" for student membership in order for the plan to continue, because at the end of two years, the idea will be reviewed.

Before student membership was allowed, the Academic Council was made up of all the deans from all the colleges, and institutes, all the vice-presidents of the provost, and the president as the ex officio membership. Elected members are the faculty members based on the proportional number of faculty in the different colleges.

Bill Wilka also cited Bill Locke, last year's AAC commissioner, as being the "most responsible" in Congress OK necessary (Continued from page 1)

you in the country—following any arson or bombing.

Scott said "other acts of terrorism" would also permit FBI investigation, but declined to be specific. He said, however, the legislation would rule out "throwing rocks or breaking glass" as grounds for federal intervention.

Under the Nixon-Mitchell proposal, the Justice Department and the FBI would have authority to act without invitation and even if campus and local officials object to the presence of federal agents.

Ziegler, asked what would happen if a college administrator did not object to a federal investigation, said he could not conceive of that happening.

He also said the administration did not ask the advice of the Commission on Campus Unrest, headed by former Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton.

A similar system of one member from each of the seven schools representing students and one from the administration would be used. The meetings would be presided over by the President, and the provost, and the president as the ex-officio members.

Stepan site for pep rally

by Greg Pudilowski

The era of the fieldhouse has ended but Blue Circle Pep Rally Chairman Doug Coppola expressed the hope that most of the tradition would be retained by holding the rally in cozy Stepan Center.

The University Arts Commission, which looks over the antiquated fieldhouse during the controversy that followed the administration's decision to level the structure, presently has moved to large sculpturing stones. Coppola expressed the fear that the students would present a danger to those attending the rally. Due to the dissatisfaction expressed by much of the student body following the one rally that was held in the spacious and antiseptic Convocation Center the search began for a suitable site. The possibility of outside rallies was considered initially but the task of relocating upwards of ten thousand people was considered too great to risk on the fickle South Bend weather.

The Council originally allowed a total of five student representatives. After the meeting, a seven student membership was created.

All four students predicted that the Princeton Plan would not pass.

Stepan Center was decided upon because it was felt that it would have the best chance to replicate the atmosphere of the fieldhouse. Coppola noted, however, that when conflicts arise by events already scheduled for the Stepan Center that the Convocation Center would have to be used.

The band will begin canvassing the quads at 6:45 PM. Speaking at the rally will be head coach Ara Parsegian, co-captains, Larry D'Nardo and Tim Kelly.

Now maybe your folks will understand you.
Guy DeSapio

The SLC

The Student Life Council should meet again when they find a time when they would not be able to attend and in haste, additional and in haste, additional dical... results and find a time when all students were found guilty by the students and judges will suffer no ill effects beyond the unwarranted intrusion of the police. If, however, they are engaged in processing dope they won't have a chance to flush their poison down the toilet.

...The time was not wasted though. That was back in 1968, when they would not be able to attend and in haste, additional

...consideration the instances where the student court would flagrantly ignore the facts or misinterpret a rule. And things are not as this is the obvious that present bail procedures are the no-knock warrant is designed to the university in the next fall the SLC set out immediately to prove that they held. The time was not wasted though. That was back in 1968, when they would not be able to attend and in haste, additional

...The time was not wasted though. That was back in 1968, when they would not be able to attend and in haste, additional
J. ARTHUR PEARS,

Notre Dame Supercop J. Arthur Pears is, in addition to being an investigative genius and karate expert, a master of disguises. Here, in a world exclusive, the Observer takes a look at Pears in his various disguises.

J. Arthur also makes all executive decisions for the security department, such as how many bullets each patrolman may have. He was in on the decision to change over from Civil War rifles to the newer WWI models.

J. Arthur, or “Mr. Pears” as he is known to his friends, was on top of the circus throughout the weekend, disguised as a trapeze (not shown.)

Here, Pears poses as baby doctor and budding insurgent Dr. Spock in order to keep an eye on radicals and pot-eating youngsters.

In this photo, Pears is cleverly disguised as student body president Dave Krashna.

Direct quote from honest J. Arthur Pears, commenting on the confiscation of film at the pornography conference, “I know absolutely nothing.”

MASTER OF DISGUISES
OC commissions combine to eliminate duplication

The Notre Dame and St. Mary's Off Campus Commissions (OCC) have combined their services. In a letter dated September 8, Jerry O'Connor and Kathy Barlow, the Notre Dame and St. Mary's Commissioners explained the rationale for the merger.

"We have taken this step with the view that two separate offices would result in much needless duplication of effort, when the primary concern of the two commissions should be, and is, the Off Campus student or intending off campus at the let ter also stated that the commissions hope to "start changing the separate atmosphere that has existed between the two schools in the past."

More SMC upperclassmen are expected to move off-campus next year, when St. Mary's anticipate a largest freshman class, than are presently living off-campus. The Commissioners say that they are presently working to allow SMC juniors to move off-campus.

Cambodian troopers move after being stalled

PHnom Penh (UPI) - Cambodian parachutists clearing the largest tank force of the war advanced northward yesterday after being stalled for eight days by a Communist blockade. They flanked a village where North Vietnamese troops were reported dug in 52 miles north of Phnom Penh.

Elsewhere in Cambodia, a force of 3000 South Vietnamese marines penetrated through flooded rice paddies southeast of the key Mekong River ferry crossing at Neak Leung, and rounded up 165 suspected Communists.

A spokesman for Laotian leftwing forces in a Hanoi broadcast said they had cooperated in the primary U.S. diplomatic thrust in the crisis was received at about 6 p.m. Monday when July M. Vorontsov, the Soviet charge d'affaires, called on Joseph J. Sisco, assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern affairs, at the State Department.

The department said Tuesday that "the Soviet government is in touch with the Syrian government about Secretary of State William P. Rogers' request for a withdrawal from Jordan."

There was no indication whether the Russians endorsed Rogers' plea or merely transmitted it to the Syrians. "The real test of whether that is a meaningful matter will turn on whether or not forces from Syria are withdrawn from Jordan," said department spokesman Robert J. McColloch.

The White House confirmed that King Hussein had sent messages to the U.S., British, French and Soviet members of the U.N. Security Council "regarding what assistance could be provided diplomatically."

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler refused to say whether Hussein had sounded out the United States about sending military to save his regime. McClory said Hussein's appeal to the Big Four was "not in terms of a request for military intervention," and neither he nor Ziegler would divulge the contents of direct communications between Washington and Amman.

McClory made clear that at the moment, the United States was attaching the most weight to Rogers' message to Moscow Sunday for help in impressing Syria with the danger

Soviets relay

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The United States waited yesterday for a response to its urgent request, relayed by the Russians, that Syria withdraw its tanks from northern Jordan and ease the threat of warfare engulfing the Middle East.

Word that the Soviet Union had cooperated in the primary U.S. diplomatic thrust in the crisis was received at about 6 p.m. Monday when July M. Vorontsov, the Soviet charge d'affaires, called on Joseph J. Sisco, assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern affairs, at the State Department.

The department said Tuesday that "the Soviet government is in touch with the Syrian government about Secretary of State William P. Rogers' request for a withdrawal from Jordan."

There was no indication whether the Russians endorsed Rogers' plea or merely transmitted it to the Syrians. "The real test of whether that is a meaningful matter will turn on whether or not forces from Syria are withdrawn from Jordan," said department spokesman Robert J. McColloch.

The White House confirmed that King Hussein had sent messages to the U.S., British, French and Soviet members of the U.N. Security Council "regarding what assistance could be provided diplomatically."

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler refused to say whether Hussein had sounded out the United States about sending military to save his regime. McClory said Hussein's appeal to the Big Four was "not in terms of a request for military intervention," and neither he nor Ziegler would divulge the contents of direct communications between Washington and Amman.

McClory made clear that at the moment, the United States was attaching the most weight to Rogers' message to Moscow Sunday for help in impressing Syria with the danger posed by its armored move into Jordan.

U.S. message

"The most significant diplomatic effort is the approach to the Soviet Union," McCloy said.

U.S. officials observed Tuesday that Syrian forces had dug in along the Irbid Ramtha line and had not tried to advance toward Amman, the Jordanian capital, 50 miles to the south. This enables the Syrians to partially flank the Israelis, who weakened Syria's military position when they occupied the Golan Heights in the 1967 war, but gave up recent Defense Department notes.

Vogel to deliver Reilly Lecture

A German chemist will describe his research on molecular architecture in the first Reilly Lecture in Chemistry, scheduled for Wednesday and Friday at 4:30 p.m. in Room 123 of the Nieuwland Science Hall.

Dr. Emmannuel Vogel, professor of organic chemistry at the University of Cologne, will deliver three talks under the general heading "Novel Aspects of Aromatic Chemistry." The series will describe research in which Vogel and his associates synthesized several complex molecules to test an important theory in organic chemistry.

Vogel has served as a visiting professor at Farah University and the University of Chicago, as well as Sandin Lecturer at the University of Alberta, Canada. He has held the chair of organic chemistry at the University of Cologne since 1961.

The Reilly Lectures in Chemistry are sponsored by the College of Science and the department of chemistry at Notre Dame. They are funded by an endowment from the late Indiana industrialist, Peter C. Reilly.

NOTE: The text above contains a mix of sentences that do not flow coherently. It appears to be a mixture of different topics and events, making it difficult to extract a clear narrative.
Wrap-up of news around the world

Bormann unsuccessful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Astronaut Frank Borman, who once told Congress of his triumphant trip around the moon, told a joint session Tuesday that all he found in his 14 nation attempt to free U.S. prisoners of war was "American anguish and human tragedy."

The House and the Senate, assembled in a rare joint meeting and joined by most of the cabinet, listened solemnly as the commander of the Apollo 8 mission described the plight of 1300 American missing or imprisoned in Southeast Asia. Nine ex-POWs in military desas listened from front row seats, their families and those of about 60 men missing or imprisoned were in the galleries for the report from "Borman on his 25 day, 14 nation tour to seek help for U.S. efforts to release the prisoners."

"The last time I was here," Borman recalled, "I was able to tell you about the voyage of Apollo 8, and I was able to report to you that it was an American success and a human triumph."

"I have recently returned from a 25 day trip around the globe in furtherance of the cause of our prisoners of war, and I must tell you that I can only repeat American anguish and human tragedy."

Borman's wires - some widows but unaware of it - sat dry-eyed and tight-lipped. Only 323 of the estimated 1500 captured or missing Americans have been allowed to communicate with their families and North Vietnam has never acknowledged holding any of them.

Borman said he failed to make personal contact with North Vietnam and the Viet Cong "through third parties in three countries," and could get no closer to Hanoi itself than Vientiane, Laos.

The only positive result from his trip was his promise that "North Vietnam will receive new and additional entreaties from many of the countries we visited."

General William C. Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff, estimated U.S. prisoners in Vietnam, sat in the gallery as the guest of the wires along with other service chiefs.

The huge House chamber was only about two thirds full when House Speaker John W. McCormack first introduced Borman, expressing America's "extraordinary sense of moral outrage" at the war prisoner situation. With other service chiefs.

Speaking from notes on yellow paper which he said contained his report to President Nixon in San Clemente September 2nd, Borman warned Hanoi that U.S. policy in Vietnam cannot be swayed by North Vietnamese abuse of prisoners.

He asked Congress and the Cabinet to do as he did nightly after "a frustrating day" during his trip when "I tried to place myself mentally in the position of a prisoner in a North Vietnam prison camp."

"After your capture, you are probably beaten, dragged through villages, and in some cases tortured," he said. "You probably have lost 45 to 60 pounds. Your food generally consists of two meals a day, one rice and squash soup and an evening meal of pig fat."

"It is designed barely to keep you alive, it appears, as is the medical care destined to barely avert death... You are probably held in solitary confinement."

When Borman, to loud applause, denounced as "utter rubbish" North Vietnamese claims that the prisoners were war criminals, Senator J. William Fulbright, D Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, did not join in but stared stonily ahead.

And when Borman called on American peace groups who in the past have arranged the release of some U.S. prisoners to deal with the North Vietnamese, Senator Mark Hatfield, R Ore., refused to join in the applause. Hatfield, as sponsor of the recently defeated "amendment to end the war," has closer contact with peace groups than almost any senator.

Agnew labels FCC official permissive

LOUISVille, Ky. (UPI) — Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew Tuesday singled out a member of the Federal Communications Commission as the type of "super permissive" government officials who have encouraged the country's youth to use marijuana and other drugs.

Agnew did not name the official in his speech to a fund raising luncheon but he made it plain he was referring to Former Lyndon Baines Johnson.

The vice-president said he was "surprised and shocked" by Johnson's reaction to a speech he made in Las Vegas last week in which Agnew said some "proponents of the drug culture are making popular music to get across their message."

"This appointee of a previous administration promptly took the side of the rock musicians and echoed their pronouncements about how many songs were produced with anti-drug lyrics," Agnew said.

"He went on, however, to expose the kind of radical liberal philosophy of permissiveness and self-flagellation that has encouraged so many of our young people to turn to pot and worse."

Johnson last Thursday told a group of foreign service officials that Republicans should stop accepting campaign contributions from liquor and cigarette makers and corporations whose ads promote the drug culture.

"One cannot help but wonder how he [Agnew] overlooked Ford's urging, 'Blow Your Mind;' TWA's taking us 'Up, Up, and Away,' the money company that suggests we 'Get High on Money,' the motor bike company that advertises 'A Trip on This One is Legal,'" said Johnson.

"Perhaps the critical point is that young song writers and performers don't make political campaign contributions, but that Ford, TWA and other drug image merchandisers do."
Boilermaker win in South Bend.

Recent battles between the collegiate powerhouses have been played for "The Shillelagh" since 1957, usually decided by super quarters.

However, the Boilermakers outscored Notre Dame Saturday in an outcome likely decided by superior ball control.

The Irish have two more chances to improve their season-opening victory for (Newport News, Va.) and Bill NEW inexperience. Bend.

The defense is expected to play actively until the win was completed. of both. Hightower's was kept to the ground game United Christian, keys the been played for extending a three-game usually decided by super his 13 TD receptions received guard spot. The defense is but cashed in on cornerback His replacement sophomore Buchanan's

Northwestern 35-14 in its (Chicago) and junior Scott theses: First week to maul sophomore

Purdue

The pair

The newcomer's credentials:

Purdue

With fullbacks John Bullock stops

Bucknell's (Alton,Ill.) moves began in 1896 with a 28-26 participants Saturday.

Notre Dame has

It

SO

WHAT

STATE'S two unbeaten responded for 186 of the field; Cosell would improvement over the usual competition and we got it.

success.

Thirdly, we were to experience the ultimate in broadcasting technique with the famed avaricious voice of Howard Cosell joining those of Keith Jackson and Don Meredith.

Then, if we could judge from Monday night's broadcast, was a mistake.

Supposedly, Cosell was bring a new, honest approach to TV. In "more sugar-coating" mistakes on the field; Cosell would "tell it like it is."

Jackson is very

DAME

fight the impact of a really fine performance by Carter (Cayce, S.C.) and Steve deGrandma

Purdue's

One punter center George one punt center George has a duty to convince the we got it.

To TV. No more experience the ultimate in

As Cosell has a duty to convince the attractive presence to the audience that injustice was done being done to the Jets.

And after the final Brown however, he showed exquisite bad taste. A pre-game interview with Namath and Al Atkinson was very forced with the two rallies starts this evening with a Tie West Virginia

The Browns' "rubberband" defense bent, but never quite broke, under the impact of a really fine performance by Carter (Cayce, S.C.) and Steve deGrandma

Purdue

The first of many Beat Purdue rallies stars today with a yell session behind Zahm Hall. Tim Kelly, Scott Hempel and Tim Kelly are among the featured speakers. The time for the rally is 10:00 p.m. Terry O'Neill will act as MC for the Zahms.

hobbled with a severe knee brace.

Earlier in the game tight end Ashley Bell (Rumson, N.J.), who set school and Big Ten records last season with his 13 TD receptions received a severe shoulder brace.

DeMoan is hoping DeNuccio and Bell will be able to play Saturday, but neither is expected to practice until at best Wednesday.

Buchanan's loss puts

sophomore Bob Hoidahl

The key man in the defense is DeMoss (Cayce, S.C.) and junior Scott theses: First week

to maul sophomore

Otis

...without the graduated Mike Saturday, but neither is

The newcomers' credentials:

Do you know that you can enjoy this book in its entirety? Get it now.

Out of stock.

It's possible that the book isn't available in your country.

Please try again in a moment.

Read on. — If you have a question about this product, our team is here to help.

Report a problem

How can I help you today?