PARTIAL TEXT OF DAYS KRASINSA'S STATEMENT ON THE PROPOSED CONSTITUTION.

“We’re moving to abolish the present form of student government that is, the student senate. We believe that the senate as it is structured now is too remote from the reality of the present situation. All student life legislation is in the hands of the Student Senate and we feel that a new body should be created. The present Senate has never been representative in any way, shape, or form. I really wonder if we have any real representatives of the student body here. I wonder if Phil McKeeins was, I wonder if Rich Rose is. I would think that we would be more liberal or radical than the student body. To make student government work, hall governments have to work.”

Regarding the election itself, Stay Senator Russ Stone said the election would follow traditional procedure. Candidates will report to the Senate room in LaFortune Center at 7 p.m. on Wednesday. October 7. Completed nomination petitions (continued on page 8)

HPC finalizes float plans

Money was be used to build a float for each quad. The council accepted this plan.

HPC finalizes float plans

The council accepted this plan.

HPC finalizes float plans

The council accepted this plan.

HPC finalizes float plans

The council accepted this plan.

HPC finalizes float plans

The council accepted this plan.

HPC finalizes float plans

The council accepted this plan.

HPC finalizes float plans

The council accepted this plan.

Phenomenal people within the halls to do so the hall presidents.

Phenomenal people within the halls to do so the hall presidents.

Phenomenal people within the halls to do so the hall presidents.

Phenomenal people within the halls to do so the hall presidents.

Phenomenal people within the halls to do so the hall presidents.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.

The burden of designing and organizing a display was assumed by a student group. The group went to the student union for help, and a student group set up a display in the LaFortune Center.
Janis Joplin found dead of overdose

WILLIAMS (UPI)–Janis Joplin, whose husky, near shouting vocal style propelled her to the top of the pop charts was found dead at her apartment late Sunday. Her body was found wedged between a bed and nightstand by one of the members of her group, "Janis Joplin Full Till Boogie Band." She was clad in a short nightgown.

Ed Sanchez of the Hollywood Police Department said the singer had "numerous homosexual needle marks on her left forearm." Some appeared to be covered over by makeup but were from two to 14 days old, he said. No drugs nor narcotic paraphernalia was found in the room.

The coroner's office said yesterday an overdose of drugs was the cause of death and that further tests were underway to determine the specific agent.

Miss Joplin was by many to be the top female rock singer in the nation, was the object of concern by some writers in the field that she would clean her act up and put her all out delivery.. "People like to say I'm ruining myself," she said last year. "Maybe it's getting rougher but I could clean up the act.

Her rough, throaty singing and the remarkable intensity of her voice, which would soar into screams and shouts, were displayed in concerts around the country and in record albums. Lately, she said, she could get by just on the music.

Her fondness for drinking Southern Comfort was well known. Many would say it was the drugs and alcohol that killed her.

In an effort to show that the wiretaps installed under the 1968 Crim

Control Act were not ordered as "fishing expeditions," Mitchell they had produced evidence so far for 419 arrests and 325 indictments.

"Arrests resulted in all but 12 wiretaps," he added.

In addition, Mitchell said, police in states where wiretap is permitted had installed 241 taps last year but that records for 1970 were not yet available.

"I hardly think the 271 state wire taps occurring last year in the United States constitute an abuse of the prerogative," he told the police chief.

But the Attorney General had said Sunday morning he ordered 16 wiretaps in Virginia the previous day.

"We believe that it is our duty to just as much as halting the illegal use of wiretaps as is used by wiretaps to conduct organized crime," he said.

Dear Rusk to teach

WASHINGTON (UPI)–The former Secretary of State said yesterday he will be free of the University of Georgia campus yesterday to assume his new duties as a full professor at the law school.

There will be a writing workshop on Tuesday, October 6th from 7:30 to 9:30 in room 20 in the Fortuna student center.

ATTENTION: REPORTERS & ALL INTERESTED IN REPORTING

THERE WILL BE A WRITING WORKSHOP ON TUESDAY OCT 6TH FROM 7:30 TO 9:30 IN ROOM 20 LA FORTUNE STUDENT CENTER

All present reporters must attend this workshop or one that will be held later in the week.

Federal Wiretaps increase 100%

WASHINGTON (UPI)–Federal wiretaps during the first half of this year were up more than 500 per cent over all of 1969 Attorney General John N. Mitchell reported yesterday.

Mitchell defended the sharply increased use of electronic surveillance, calling it a "particularly effective weapon in the government's law enforcement arsenal."

"The only repression that has resulted is the repression of criminals," Mitchell said, in a speech for the annual meeting of the International Association of Police Chiefs in Atlantic City, N.J., said federal agents installed 1969 and 1970 more than July 13 of this year--most of them to get evidence for gambling, narcotics and extortion cases.

"In an effort to show that the wiretaps installed under the 1968 Crime

Control Act were not ordered as "fishing expeditions," Mitchell they had produced evidence so far for 419 arrests and 325 indictments.

"Arrests resulted in all but 12 wiretaps," he added.

In addition, Mitchell said, police in states where wiretap is permitted had installed 241 taps last year but that records for 1970 were not yet available.

"I hardly think the 271 state wire taps occurring last year in the United States constitute an abuse of the prerogative," he told the police chief.

But the Attorney General had said Sunday morning he ordered 16 wiretaps in Virginia the previous day.

"We believe that it is our duty to just as much as halting the illegal use of wiretaps as is used by wiretaps to conduct organized crime," he said.

Students from Tennessee

Invited to work for Gore

Students interested in doing campaign work this fall will be invited to work for Governor Albert Gore's bid for reelection, in a meeting to be held Thursday night. In what is expected to be a close race, active student participation could be the deciding factor in determining the outcome.

Pat Meyer, of Jackson, Ten

nese, is coordinating the pro gram to involve students in working for Gore. Until now, the idea has met with little support of populous states.

The Senate has been consider ing the amendment since Sept. 7. Mansfield said the third vote on limiting debate would not be taken until after the Senate failing to finish its work before the election.

Mitchell, in a speech for the annual meeting of the International Association of Police Chiefs in Atlantic City, N.J., said federal agents installed 1969 and 1970 more than July 13 of this year--most of them to get evidence for gambling, narcotics and extortion cases.

"We're just not going to be able to shut off this filibuster," he said.

He consulted with Senate Demo cratic Leader Mike Mansfield who then won the Senate's consent to call off the third scheduled vote on whether to break a Southern lead filibuster.

"We're just not going to be able to shut off this filibuster," he said.

He consulted with Senate Demo cratic Leader Mike Mansfield who then won the Senate's consent to call off the third scheduled vote on whether to break a Southern lead filibuster.

"We're just not going to be able to shut off this filibuster," he said.

He consulted with Senate Demo cratic Leader Mike Mansfield who then won the Senate's consent to call off the third scheduled vote on whether to break a Southern lead filibuster.

"We're just not going to be able to shut off this filibuster," he said.

He consulted with Senate Demo cratic Leader Mike Mansfield who then won the Senate's consent to call off the third scheduled vote on whether to break a Southern lead filibuster.

"We're just not going to be able to shut off this filibuster," he said.

He consulted with Senate Demo cratic Leader Mike Mansfield who then won the Senate's consent to call off the third scheduled vote on whether to break a Southern lead filibuster.

"We're just not going to be able to shut off this filibuster," he said.

He consulted with Senate Demo

Huddle hours work well
by The Redman

The extended hours in the Huddle have been quite successful so far, according to Edmund Price, Director of Food services.

He claimed that business has been good during the new times.

However, he emphasized that the change in hours is not final, and that permanent change depends on continued student support.

A final decision won't be made on Huddle hours until the beginning of the second semester.

Electoral College
(Continued from Page 2)

Bayh tried to win Southern support for a compromise amendment but he had to abandon that effort too, late in the day.

"The general feeling is that at this late date there is not sufficient time to consider something totally new," he said. Attempts to invoke cloture failed by five votes last week when 14 senators were absent. It failed by six votes the previous week.

Baker and Bayh preferred that the amendment be side tracked to the Senate calendar from which it could be revived in a post-election session. If cloture defeat, they feared, might kill it forever.

The Senate, instead, a compromise to the Southern bloc that abandoned the direct popular principle but retained safeguards against a candidate who received fewer votes than his opponent becoming President, which can happen under the current Electoral College system.

Under the compromise, the Electoral College system would be retained, but without the office of elector.

Floats planned
(Continued from Page 1)

construction will be between the Knights of Columbus and Alumni Hall. Success, he strewed, will depend almost entirely upon the number of hardworking hours put in by the students.

People interested should work during any free period from 9:00 until 6:00, those with construction background are urged to respond to this call.

The Observer is published daily during the fall and spring semester except vacations by the students of the University of Notre Dame and may be purchased for $5 from The Observer, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556. Second class postage paid, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556.

THE OBSERVER
French Separatists kidnap
British diplomat in Canada

by Hillary Rhoades

Vicki Mech and Jeanne Du Fon, editors of the 1971 St. Mary's yearbook Blue Mantle, said today that it would be a different annual from previous editions. They billed a co-ed staff and a new editorial board as examples of the changes they plan to make. There will also be a more evenly distributed representation of students, faculty, and administration, and there will be a greater stress on the academic aspects of SMC.

The editors pointed out that this year's theme for the yearbook is people. The yearbook will be concerned with how SMC and its people inter-relate and work together toward common goals, and it will also show the things which help the SMC student to become a better person. Through pictures and words it will share how students at the college are affected by the type of school SMC is, how the school affects the rest of their lives and how each person affects the lives of many other people.

SMC will be reviewed in all its aspects, and all groups and ideas will be represented.

Have a news tip?
Call The Observer—8661

ENGAGEMENT RING
Why not have a real Tiffany diamond ring?
You'll find it hard to beat the price anywhere. E. We stock every style. From $144 up.

TIFFANY & CO.
7th NORTH MICHIGAN AVENUE, CHICAGO 11, Ill. 60610, 21/2 blocks south from State St.
Please add sales tax where applicable.

Welcome!
N.D.
TAILOR SHOP
Hrs. 8-12, 12:30-4; 15-5 DAYS A WEEK
Alterations done for all occasions. Next to Washington Hall. Across from the Huddle.

Tickets $5, $4, $2
STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE
BOOKSTORE
DINING HALLS

Saturday, Oct. 10, 8:00 PM
Sh-a-na-na
Johnny Rivers

STUDENT UNION SOCIAL COMMISSION

Presents

THE OBSERVER
French Separatists kidnap
British diplomat in Canada

MONTREAL (UPI) A French Canadian separatist group said yesterday it would kidnap the senior British trade commissioner, and gave the government 48 hours to meet a long list of demands including payment of half a million dollars in gold and safe passage out of the country.

It was Canada's first diplomatic kidnapping.

Four men, three of them armed with sub-machine guns, forced their way into the elegant downtown hotel "The Bay" of James R. Cross—the equivalent of a British consul in Montreal—and took him away in a taxi as his wife watched.

In an eight page ransom note addressed to the news media and police, the FLQ, claiming credit for the kidnapping, demanded in return for the release of Cross that they be paid $500,000 in gold, certain jailed separatists be released, and they be provided with an airliner and safe passage to Havana, said Quebec Provincial Police Inspector J.R. Melancon.

City police confirmed the ransom terms.

The ransom demands were relayed to the federal government in Ottawa, but there was no immediate indication of what the terms would be met. A government spokesman said earlier that Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau consulted his top advisers in "an urgent session." The kidnapping was revealed.

A spokesman for the department of External Affairs in Ottawa, said the ransom note was "strikingly similar" to a note uncovered by police this summer who broke up an alleged plot by a separatist group to kidnap Harrison W. Burgess, then the U.S. Consul in

The ransom terms were basically the same in that instance, he said. Three men were arrested and their case is before a Montreal court.

Blue Mantle editors alter SMC yearbook

by Hillary Rhoades

FORT WAYNE (UPI) - Sen. Vance Hartke, D Ind, predicted here yesterday that President Nixon will issue a "dramatic protest proclamation" to ease the current political "tax" of $500,000 in gold.

An airliner and safe passage for the released prisoners, the kidnappers, and the gold, "to Cuba or Algeria"; identification in Quebec newspapers with a photo of the informant who turned an FLQ cell in to police recently.

That Senate Majority leader Hartke's recent comment about a statement from the President is "something more than merely an educated guess of the President's intentions." We have long since learned that we cannot expect a military settlement in Southeast Asia and the President has told us that we cannot win such a settlement.—so it is for serious diplomatic negotiations."

The Paris negotiations on Vietnam began while Lyndon B. Johnson was President and have continued since Nixon became our chief executive, but never have produced any tangible peace results.

Hartke says Nixon will call truce

The new hours are a result of a student questionnaire strongly favoring later hours for the Huddle. In response to the question, Mr. Price expanded hours to 12:30 A.M. for all nights.

One advantage to the change has been the increased student employment at the Huddle. A staff of seven students mans the Huddle from 10:30 P.M. until closing.

Mr. Price also mentioned the possibility of obtaining some new equipment for the Huddle. Included would be a pizza oven, which would offer the student a greater selection of food than already offered.

He expressed hope that the Huddle would be open all night during first semester final exams. He said there may be a staffing problem however, since most students wouldn't have the time to work before exams.

Hartke says Nixon will call truce

Edward Hartke made the comment during a news conference. He is scheduled to return to Indianapolis for another news conference in Democratic state headquarters Tuesday at 3 p.m.

"I think the indication points to the fact that President Nixon has finally become convinced that he is obligated to honor his 1968 campaign promise of an earnest effort to end the Indo-Chinese War," Hartke said. "It fits the threat of an overwhelming Democratic victory at the polls in November to finally force the President to take his own campaign pledge seriously, that is all right with me.

Hartke said he is basing his prediction partially on his belief that Senate Majority leader Hugh Scott's recent comment about a statement from the President is "something more than merely an educated guess of the President's intentions."

We have long since learned that we cannot expect a military settlement in Southeast Asia and the President has told us that we cannot win such a settlement.—so it is for serious diplomatic negotiations."

The Paris negotiations on Vietnam began while Lyndon B. Johnson was President and have continued since Nixon became our chief executive, but never have produced any tangible peace results.

Hartke says Nixon will call truce

Edward Hartke made the comment during a news conference. He is scheduled to return to Indianapolis for another news conference in Democratic state headquarters Tuesday at 3 p.m.

"I think the indication points to the fact that President Nixon has finally become convinced that he is obligated to honor his 1968 campaign promise of an earnest effort to end the Indo-Chinese War," Hartke said. "It fits the threat of an overwhelming Democratic victory at the polls in November to finally force the President to take his own campaign pledge seriously, that is all right with me.

Hartke said he is basing his prediction partially on his belief that Senate Majority leader Hugh Scott's recent comment about a statement from the President is "something more than merely an educated guess of the President's intentions."

We have long since learned that we cannot expect a military settlement in Southeast Asia and the President has told us that we cannot win such a settlement.—so it is for serious diplomatic negotiations."

The Paris negotiations on Vietnam began while Lyndon B. Johnson was President and have continued since Nixon became our chief executive, but never have produced any tangible peace results.
Princeton Plan (2)

Last Friday the Notre Dame Student Body, with a convincing finality, called a moratorium to its participation in the national democratic process.

The hope of the week was skirted; at least, it bent the minds of those who still held the hope that the students of this University didn’t sell the political birthright they won last May for a mess of Thanksgiving turkey. But that, part at least, is over.

There are all sorts of things on which we could blame the landslide: Dave Krashun, for procrastinating on his endorsement; the Scholastic, for weakening their endorsement, WSND, for their opposition; the Academic Council for making the terms of the agreement so harsh and dissonant that it was inapplicable to; the weak, but the issue would be skirted if we passed the blame to skull individual entities.

We are the guilty party. Let it be noted here that we, the Student Body of the University of Notre Dame, rejected our first chance ever to effect American politics as free men. We rejected it overwhelmingly, and with unmistakable clarity. And in rejecting it, we confessed our willingness to take the consequences of the campaigns and elections over the next four years of our life.

During the next four years, a large number of students at this University will pretend that this year—1970—marked the breakdown of the American political system. Then let us mark, too, the fact that in 1970 it was not the American political system, but us which broke down.

PRINCETON PLAN POLLING

About the only good thing about the election was the way it was run—efficiently and honestly. Student Government could take a lesson and a half about running elections from this escapade. There was a theory—long cherished by the Princeton administration—of ITS being 2000 miles away, that this year—October of this year.—would be a Good Thing.

We submit that the late referendum indicates precisely the opposite. It indicates that when an election is held in a place where it takes a minimal amount of effort to find and a little bit of exercise to reach, the voting public is more informed and more interested. And that we submit is a Good Thing.

Dear Editor:

Through devious means, (class attendance study, etc.) I managed to graduate from the University in the Spring of this year. I love the University for the joy it has given me and hate it for the grief which it has dispensed in unnecessarily greater measure. (Tuff stuff—weaknesses are inherent in all institutions.)

I write now because I am concerned at the administration of this University.

As for the danger of interrupting the academic year—you students are also citizens; you are going to have to live with the men who are elected this year. I hope you don’t have to spend the rest of your lives unravelling the bastards of this decade.

If this statement is an affront to you, I can be reached at Rural Route 4, Box 96, Princeton. (Please mark the outside of the letter "Observer opinion" to ensure forwarding.)

Charles B. Woodell

Lammers and the Rock

‘Editor:

Well I had hoped that this year I could relax, study, and ignore the flammers—but, no, you had to let Dave Lammers out from under his rock and annoy me with the worst example of irrationality and spleen-ranting I’ve seen in a long time. I am referring, of course, to his article of September 17.

Lammers calls anyone he opposes a nazi, anyone he disagrees with a pervert who enjoys sending people to be killed; anyone who sees the necessity for a strong American military is another Himmler. Funny thing, the people who use such language are the same ones who scream: "Polarization!" the loudest when their victims finally get angry enough to retort.

May I suggest, then, that Lammers shut up until he can talk and write intelligently—or be shut out. I shelve his heid and wear a swastika armband like all the others, with his letters Sturmen Soldaten since 1936.

Stephen Noe
306 Pangborn

Reflections on Fr. McGrath

In this, the last of the series of articles reflecting on the present situation of St. Mary’s College, it is fitting to examine the direction in which the college is moving. Little can be said concerning the student situation at the moment. Saint Mary’s is searching for someone to take the place left by the death of Fr. McGrath.

The position is currently being held by Sr. M. Alma Peter, C.S.C. formerly Assistant to President McGrath. Since coming to St. Mary’s twenty years ago, Sr. M. Alma has held the posts of Director of Administrations, Dean of Freshmen, and Academic Dean.

As Acting President, Sr. M. Alma is perhaps the best qualified to break the tradition of St. Mary’s.

Having worked under four presidents at St. Mary’s, Sr. M. Alma has seen definite progress made, "as far as continuing excellence in teaching and upgrading of the academic areas. Upgrading can be seen in such areas as pass/fail, the Madeleva Scholar programs, and the participation by St. Mary’s in the programs abroad as well as the St. Mary’s Campus in Rome.

Progress under Mgr. McGrath was made in both social and academic areas. ‘He more or less set up a new idea of the college community. He increased participation in the college by setting up committees from the Board of Trustees on down on which students and faculty were included as well as administrators. Community Government originated during Mgr. McGrath’s administration and social reforms such as no-hours, and a new dress code came into being.

Thus, under the administration of Mgr. McGrath, St. Mary’s has progressed and changed. Now in his absence new directions must be chosen and followed through.

At present there is much discussion as to the advisability of St. Mary’s becoming coeducational with the University of Notre Dame. Daily the pros and cons of the situation are discussed on both campuses. The ultimate decision is not imminent but, according to Sr. M. Alma there are "great advantages in having an academic co-educational situation. And I also believe in a coeducational social and cultural community. But I still think there are advantages to a women’s residential college.”

As to the future of St. Mary’s if Notre Dame would go co-educationally independent, Sr. M. Alma stated that as long as applications keep up, there would be no problem. Last year for the present Freshman class, there were 3778 requests for information, 984 applications, and 507 freshmen currently enrolled in classes.

Sarah sees definite advantages to St. Mary’s remaining a separate institution, such as freedom in the dorms and the residential aspect of the college. "As far as academics, we’ve always maintained the fact that smaller classes make for easier dialogue with students. I think the liberal arts area should be strengthened, and strengthened because this is something a small college should do and be able to do well.”

The selection of a new president will be a large factor in the direction which St. Mary’s will take. As a member of the search committee, Sr. M. Alma says she personally is looking for "the best possible person for this period of development at St. Mary’s. A person who might have been a candidate 10 years ago might not be right for 1970. We’re not looking for some big name but a person who might be a leader. And also someone who will maintain the real aims of St. Mary’s as a Catholic Liberal Arts College.”

That St. Mary’s College is at a crossroads. She has made advances in the realm of academic and has maintained her status as a residential Catholic Liberal Arts College. The question of her future can only be answered by the new President when he decides the directions in which she is to go. With Mgr. McGrath’s death, St. Mary’s has had a time to reflect her worth and her goals. We’ve come a long way—but there’s still a long way to go.
Merton's "Faith and Violence"

The Title of this book, its dedication to Thomas Merton, and the fact that it was written by Thomas Merton's wife, Monica, all the songs, defies description. I think it was intended to be the soundtrack to distributors sent us to listen to. It's called of fine tunes. In fact the only bad, (and it's really not so much bad though, it's an excellent package. A title more fitting the racsim and violence irr the book under this publishing that he would find in it a United States, and reflexions on the very concept of the New theologian. Much of the material has been published before and mentioned in the acknowledgments.

RORY MCHugh

One for the record

The Byrds, probably the most versatile and consistent group to "vie the sixties is back again with a new album, The Byrds (Untitled) which is not only not very much alive but also a very vital force on the scene I mean that almost anything the Byrds have all been resolved, and under the guidance of Roger McGuinn they have evolved into the best commercial country groups around. Byrds (Untitled) is a double album consisting of two sides recorded in 1967 and 1968. It features some of the best in the world, the Life of the Church, and then retire to the North Pole. It is a pity that just lately someone has stolen this book.

Thomas Merton is a monk, a contemplative monk by nature, but he has a very intelligent and "contem porary" man speaking of contemporary music without going overboard with enthusiasm or with poetic license. Thomas Merton understands and he sympathizes. He knows the Father and he knows the thinkers of the present day. He can be loyal and still criticize. It is this unique position of his that makes him so truly worth listening to. He can understand the black man's attraction to music without judging it, and it is the move for him. He respects the greatness of Malcolm X and King and he is aware of the rather naive mytholoygy under which he is operated at least until very recently. For Merton the great enemy of peace and love - is the Western technological culture with its exploiting and its myopic view of the world and general excellence. This culture is so overwhelming that an individual can hardly resist giving in to it. And yet a Christian must resist. The Christians who give in will inevitably become a partner in its ruins. It is a pity that Merton did not live long enough to see a formidable part of the younger generation uniting to repudiate this culture and all its works war and affluence. It would have done his heart good. There is a wonderful inspiration to a Christian (and it should be (My request to a Christian trustee of the university) when he sees a group of young people to whom the slogan "you never had it so good" has no appeal. I have personal acquaintance among pigs (real pigs, that is) and I never knew a pig to be dissatisfied with a state of affluence. I never knew a pig to be dissatisfied with a state of affluence to be concerned because there were other pigs who were in dire poverty, or who gave up their affluence so that the poor pigs could eat. What the young people of our "subculture" are doing is proving to me that human beings are not pigs. This is why I say that it would have done Merton's heart good if he could have seen the present day (and no doubt he does see it and is glad).

It is from the standpoint of his disbelief in the traditional Western culture that Merton criticizes the new theologies. They all in one way or another accept the secular city and advocate our submersion in it. They all come dangerously near saying "Whatever is right." They offer no basis for any criticism. It rather do go along with its revolution, whatever turn it takes. There is no line but the party line. This attitude not only degenerates Christianity. It annihilates it as anything distinctive in itself. It is a self-humblent my now to accept new myths unques tionedly. "Mankind has at last come of age." "Modern man" will accept nothing that is not empirically verifiable. "The language of the modern man is the language of science and the very concept of "Modern man" is itself a myth. You did ever see one? Here again, it is sad that Merton did not live long enough to experience the last two years. It is simply a fact that most traditional Christian's reactions to racial causes, arise at maturation just in time to be late. Our advocates of "Modern man" have gained a hearing just when modern man, whoever he is, is on the point of becoming extinct. The whole realization of our ecological peril has dampened our ideal of technological progress. The language of our young people is anything but the language of science. They are taking very seriously the religious theologians. They are fascinated by Eastern thought. They speak about the Age of Aquarius. They are looking for a "gene­ leap" about the year 2000, which will produce a better race of men. (Shades of Karkar?) It may be that the views of Thomas Merton, the contemplative monk, will be popularly accepted sooner after his death than has been the case with most prophets.

BOOK OF JOB

The St. Mary's College Performing Arts Series will open October 6 with a presentation of the highly acclaimed "The Book of Job" in which famous players in O'Loughlin Auditorium at 8 p.m. The drama, "The Book of Job" presents one of the oldest stories in the world, the Biblical story of Job's undoing faith in God the face of terrible torment by the devil. It is the production, however, that marks "The Book of Job" as a significant contribution to the professional religious theatre. The story is spun and chanted, often in chorus, in the beautiful and poetic language of the Bible. It is a source of hope to the religious in a state of affluence. It is a source of hope to the religious in a state of affluence to be dissatisfied with a state of affluence. Job's trust in a state of affluence is sad that human beings are not pigs. This is why I say that it would have done Merton's heart good if he could have seen the present day (and no doubt he does see it and is glad).

It is from the standpoint of his disbelief in the traditional Western culture that Merton criticizes the new theologies. They all in one way or another accept the secular city and advocate our submersion in it. They all come dangerously near saying "Whatever is right." They offer no basis for any criticism. It rather do go along with its revolution, whatever turn it takes. There is no line but the party line. This attitude not only degenerates Christianity. It annihilates it as anything distinctive in itself. It is a self-humblent my now to accept new myths unques tionedly. "Mankind has at last come of age." "Modern man" will accept nothing that is not empirically verifiable. "The language of the modern man is the language of science and the very concept of "Modern man" is itself a myth. You did ever see one? Here again, it is sad that Merton did not live long enough to experience the last two years. It is simply a fact that most traditional Christian's reactions to racial causes, arise at maturation just in time to be late. Our advocates of "Modern man" have gained a hearing just when modern man, whoever he is, is on the point of becoming extinct. The whole realization of our ecological peril has dampened our ideal of technological progress. The language of our young people is anything but the language of science. They are taking very seriously the religious theologians. They are fascinated by Eastern thought. They speak about the Age of Aquarius. They are looking for a "gene­ leap" about the year 2000, which will produce a better race of men. (Shades of Karkar?) It may be that the views of Thomas Merton, the contemplative monk, will be popularly accepted sooner after his death than has been the case with most prophets.

MARY's Full ticket information may be obtained from the Programming Office, Moreau Hall, 244-4176.

WSND-FM will present their regular monthly show on the Dorm. Games. January 7 to FM radio station (88.9 on your FM dial) will air the poetry of various Notre Dame writers. Coordinated by Rory Holohan and produced by Maureen Schimizzi, Virginia Harlow, and the Mary's of the student body who are interested. The talks will feature Steven Brion, Rich Bartelli, Kenneth Mannings, John Reeth, John Neher, John Hunter, and John Stupp.
WASHINGTON (UPI) President Nixon said last night he hoped his 12,000-mile tour would help make possible "what this world has not had this century—a full generation of peace.

In the exact words that he had expressed earlier in the day at the grave site of his ancestors in Ireland, Nixon summed up his nine day trip as a voyage to remind America's antagonists of its strength and of its intention to use that strength for peace.

About 1,500 witnesses—including cabinet members, leaders of Congress and many diplomats—welcomed Nixon and his wife in a huge hangar at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington. Mrs. Martha Mitchell, dressed in a bright orange coat, was especially prominent in the receiving line.

The President, fresh and in good spirits despite his hectic travels, said he saw young faces in the air base crowd and said, "What we want for them is what this world has not had this century, a full generation of peace."

He said he hoped "that the trip may have contributed substantially to that goal."

Earlier, standing at a graveyard at the village of Timahoe, where his great-great-great-great-grandfather, Thomas Milhous, was buried two centuries ago, Nixon dedicated a memorial to the dead and said there, too, that "a full generation of peace"—dented all young people in this century—was the goal of his presidency.

And he said he found far more understanding for America's role in Vietnam and his policy of gradual withdrawal than existed in February 1969, when he took command of the presidency, Nixon toured Europe.

During a speech of opinion, with America among the world leaders he met, Nixon said, "They recognize the fact that the United States with its great power does not represent a threat to the independence of any nation in the world."

A full generation of peace--that was the goal of Nixon's daughters Tricia and Julie, and his son in law David Eisenhower, rushed up the red carpet to meet the President and Mrs. Nixon.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, back from a day of politicking in New York City, welcomed the President with the words America's relation with its NATO allies in southern Europe had been improved by America's role in the critical and toady area."

After his speech, Nixon exhalted, waved his black Magic "and an anti-war campaign style, shook many hands in the crowd and flew to the White House in a Marine helicopter.

Ireland was the sentimental finale to the President's trip, and it gave him an exhilarating welcome.

Friendly crowds of adults and school children followed him across the green countryside of Ireland through his tour of famous castles and gardens. Nixon responded with enthusiasm even riding in an open top car through a sudden downpour to wave at the crowds, with first lady Pat Nixon also waving.

But the tightest security Ireland has seen failed twice to prevent hundreds of young people slipping through police lines to get to the President, who arrived in Dublin for talks with Presidentlam De Valera and Prime Minister Jack Lynch.

Three eggs splattered the car on the streets of Dublin and after en route to the airport, two eggs and other unidentified objects were thrown. The eggs missed, but the other objects struck the side of the car, which sped away.

"You've got the world on a string in a Woolrich Fringed Vest."

Cuts you loose from the crowd with thong closure and a turn-on assortment of plaids or solids. Puts new life into body shirts. See if your world doesn't wear a lot better.

I and Mississippi, the obvious along with recovered five fumbles thus far.

The roughest schedule would have to be the choice of the team with the six teams on the Irish slate rushing in the first three games and have yielded only 213 yards through the air, while holding the opposition to a mere 4.7 points per game.

The Irish defense has given up but one touchdown this season, with seven home games in the national rankings each week.

The Cadets have been shutout Saturday versus Army. The last Notre Dame team to ring up three successive whitewashing was the 1966 national championship unit.

The Cadets have been shutout in their last three meetings with the Irish, losing 17-0 in 65, 35-0 in '66, and 45-0 last season.

The Notre Dame ground accounted for 366 yards Saturday the season's best figure. Joe Theismann was the club's top runner, gaining 113 yards.

Booster meetings and Larry Parker saw a good deal of action against State and both were impressive.

Deny Allensworth, 1 running back, suffered an ankle injury Saturday and will miss the Army game but should be back in action for the Missouri contest.

Generally speaking, the team's reaction to thearton surface in Spartan Stadium was not favorable. The Irish prefer grass to the "rug" situation that would have been dizzled by the Spartan stadium crowd of 76,103 by completing for 9 completions, good for 117 yards. Theismann hit on 12 of 17 passes on a windy day not conducive to an accurate aerial attack.

The hard fought battle was highlighted by the outstanding defensive performance of Irish senior Jim Hagenbich who stopped several Spartan drives. The non-participation of the Notre Dame Rugby Club looked like a reunion for second Floor Kee...
Referendum deemed 'out of order' by Krasha must be submitted by 6 p.m. on the following Friday. The campaign begins on Saturday at 6 p.m. and ends at 2 a.m. on Wednesday, October 14. The election will be held in the halls and in the Off-Campus Office on the fourteenth.

(continued from page 1)

Stone said that he could not say for certain how many signatures would be needed for nomination. Procedure will be handled by the elections committee which consists of the stay senators, Krashna and Winnings. Stone thought that even though this year's election is later than usual it is still "a normal election—not a special one." Commenting on the delay, Stone said that Krashna and Winnings "needed the senate in order to propose a revision of the constitution."

"It (the constitutional revision committee) is a Senate committee and Dave (Krashna) really can't dissolve it by himself," he said.

Stone also noted that the amendment procedures of the present constitution require the Senate to either adopt the amendment directly by a two-thirds vote or schedule a "plebiscite", if 500 students request one.

Stone thought that the decision to hold the election was reached by "mutual agreement" within student government, "not a power play."

Winnings disagreed with Stone's views on the necessity of the Senate for constitutional revision. He said that Student government would ask the new Senate to adopt the new constitution "in toto" but considered this to be "unlikely."

Winnings said "the method of adoption for the revised constitution should be a referendum. He noted that the Senate is bound to provide for such a vote within certain time limits as soon as the petitions have been submitted.

Mario Savio returns to Berkeley

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) The University of California opened for its 101st year yesterday with the return to classes of Mario Savio and a mild threat from the banned Students for a Democratic Society. Savio, leader of the first widespread campus revolution during the free speech movement at Berkeley in 1964, returned to classes quietly as a junior studying biological sciences. During his self-imposed exile of five years from the Berkeley campus the 27-year-old Savio worked as a bartender and bookstore clerk and spent a year at Oxford University in England.

No incidents marred the first day of classes as approximately 27,500 students enrolled for the fall term, including about 2,700 freshmen. Several changes have occurred at the university since the spring. Some were aimed at preventing a repetition of the wave of student unrest which plagued Berkeley and other college communities across the nation last year.

"Proper means of illumination during periods of cerebral meditation oftentimes results in an environmental metamorphosis beneficial to the cat who's using it."

The right kind of lamp can do good things to your head.

As well as your studies.

Like the Panasonic Fluorescent Desk Lamp. With an electronic gizmo that gets 22 watts of light out of a 15-watt bulb. And sends some of that extra light through the translucent shade that keeps your brilliantly illuminated crib notes from blinding you.

And if you have a small room or a small-minded roommate who likes to sleep occasionally, you ought to have Panasonic's High Intensity Lamp. With its sliding lever that gives you an infinite series of settings.

From a cram-night 150 watts all the way down to a Saturday-night seductive glow.

Now that you are adequately enlightened as to the relevance of proper illumination to emotional homeostasis, ambulate to that repository of knowledge and sweat shirts, your college bookstore. Where you can look at Panasonic lamps and electrical pencil sharpeners.

After which, we think you'll agree that there's only one way to see things.

Our way.

PANASONIC.