Hartke holds slim edge

Two of the contests that are of special interest to the Notre Dame campus are the Senatorial election between Vance Hartke and John Brademas and the Congressional race between John Stauber and Donald Newman. Indiana is the closest of the Senate races. In this, Democrat incumbent Vance Hartke held a slight margin over his Republican challenger, Representative Richard Roudebush. The election promises to go down to the wire. At 2 a.m., the two candidates were separated by only a 4000 vote margin. With 80% of the vote reported, Vance Hartke had received 772,000 votes to Roudebush 768,000, votes. Hartke, who had projected a winner at this time and all of them believed that winner could not be declared until the early morning.

Evidently the candidates left the same bed at 1 a.m. and will not make a statement until morning. Roudebush announced that he will have nothing to say until the morning.

The Republican gains in the three Senate seats, were offset by a narrow victory by Rep. John Tunney over incumbent Republican George Murphy and the landslide victory of Adlai Stevenson III over incumbent Republican Ralph Tyler Smith.

Provided that Republican Senator Roman Hruska maintained his early evening lead over challenger Frank Merrick, and incumbents Vance Hartke (Dem.) in Indiana and Robert Taft (Rep.) in Ohio, maintain their close leads, the predicted Republican gain in the Senate is only one seat, leaving the Democrats with a projected majority of 56.

The over-all pattern indicated that Nixon would have four new Senators who would be likely to support his position (Buckley in New York, G. Reall from Maryland, Benstein from Texas, and William Brock from Tenn.), and three Senators which would be less likely to support him (John Tunney from California, Stevenson from Illinois and Laughton Chiles from Florida).

In the undecided races Vance Hartke held a 51-49% lead in Indiana with 93% of the vote reported. Roman Hruska also led by a 51-49% margin in his race. In Ohio, Robert Taft held a slight margin over his opponent Kent Metzenbaum, 51-47%, with 83% of the vote reported.

In Illinois, with 68% of the vote in, Stevens was leading 57% to 43% of the vote. However, he was leading in southern Illinois.

THE OBSERVER
ELECTION SHOWS NO MAJOR TREND

Serving the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College Communities

Wednesday, November 4, 1970

6.

ZPG's abortion program advocates liberal code

by Kevin McGill

Five authorities from the University of Maryland, and Joseph Duffy of Connecticut. In addition, the Catholic moralistic view of abortion, the head of Notre Dame's Theology Department, cited the differences between law and morality and stated that the moral solution to abortion might differ from the legal solution. He felt that in all cases the moral, "inward imperative," must be followed on the individual level, but that morality is not subjective but is an art that is absolutely right or wrong.

Dr. William Shriver, a gynecologist, appealed to a "moral imperative," claiming that the world population is growing too rapidly for its own survival. "By the year 1910," he said, "the population, if it continues as it does now, will have consumed the earth, and the earth and the sun will be expanding at the speed of light." Dr. Shriver also spoke of a number of abortion methods both in use now and under experimentation.

Mrs. Melba Laird, from the South Bend Mental Health Clinic, said that "there is no evidence that abortion as such creates psychological problems in the mothers." She called abortion "a people problem" and said that it should be solved by a woman and her doctor. A priest

(Continued on page 3)

Finance Committee: A Proposal

by Greg Riewski

The Finance Committee will propose a budget of $65,000 to the Student Senate, according to Stay Senator Pat Weber. The Committee did not have time to study the student budget, so it called a "lean" budget after a 3-hour meeting last night. Weber suggested that there would be bickering in the Senate over some of the allocations. Senate is a long and complicated procedure. The Committee did not specify where the cuts should be made, according to Weber, but it was assumed that the cut would have to come in the Senate. The Senate is to receive a $5,000 cut. The Committee did not specify what the cuts would be in the Senate. The Committee did not specify what the cuts would be in the Senate. The Committee did not specify what the cuts would be in the Senate. The Committee did not specify what the cuts would be in the Senate.

The Finance Committee's budget proposals are as follows:

- A lean budget of $65,000
- A $5,000 cut in the Student Senate
- A $5,000 cut in the Academic Affairs Fund
- A $5,000 cut in the Athletic Fund
- A $5,000 cut in the Student Activities Fund

The Committee also proposed that the Student Senate be given more control over the budget process. The Committee recommended that the budget be审议ed by the Committee themselves and then presented to the Senate for approval. The Committee also recommended that the budget be审议ed by the Committee themselves and then presented to the Senate for approval. The Committee also recommended that the budget be审议ed by the Committee themselves and then presented to the Senate for approval.

The Committee also recommended that the budget be审议ed by the Committee themselves and then presented to the Senate for approval. The Committee also recommended that the budget be审议ed by the Committee themselves and then presented to the Senate for approval. The Committee also recommended that the budget be审议ed by the Committee themselves and then presented to the Senate for approval.

The Committee also recommended that the budget be审议ed by the Committee themselves and then presented to the Senate for approval. The Committee also recommended that the budget be审议ed by the Committee themselves and then presented to the Senate for approval. The Committee also recommended that the budget be审议ed by the Committee themselves and then presented to the Senate for approval.
Concert season finalized with Rare Earth booking

by Dave Bach

The Student Union Social Commission has rounded out its fall concert season with the addition of the Chambers Brothers, The Pacific Gas and Electric Company and Rare Earth. Social Commission Chairman Greg Porst said yesterday that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company will be appearing in Stepan Center Friday, Nov. 13, in the Athletic and Convocation Center.

The Chambers Brothers, after a popular campus appearance last fall, will return to the Convocation Center Saturday, Nov. 21. Their concerts will probably be Martin Reeves and the Vandellas, although this has not been definitely confirmed, Porst said.

The final Concert of the fall will feature Rare Earth with Blood Rock on Friday, Dec. 4, the night before Notre Dame's home basketball opener with South Carolina.

Porst said that the Commission had decided to bring the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and Rare Earth for students who have complained about a lack of "hard rock" entertainment.

Porst said that the Student Union Social Commission will plan more concerts along this line if the demand is evident from the two full concerts.

Groups that Porst mentioned as possibilities, if the demand is great enough, included Ten Years After and Delaney and Bonnie.

Porst also said that the Commission was still negotiating with the Jefferson Airplane and Richie Havens. He said that they tried to get Havens on the bill with The Chambers Brothers but couldn't work out an agreeable date. He hopes that both can be scheduled this spring.

Pat McAdams, who is in charge of the Social Commission, free "over the hill" concert series said that after running for three weeks in a row, the concerts will probably be staged every other week from now on. Havens said that if the series is run on a loss-only basis, they are trying to keep expenses to a minimum while maintaining the "breaks" on a Tuesday evening, as often as possible.

The Cultural Arts Commission has also scheduled the Grateful Dead for a Feb. 14 appearance. The concert for the Mardi Gras Weekend, Feb. 5, which will be sponsored by the Social Commission is yet to be scheduled.

Feb. 4-9 fixed as Mardi Gras weekend

This year's Mardi Gras, designated Notre Dame Expo '71, will be held in Stepan Center, starting on Thursday February 4 and ending on February 9, a Tuesday. The Mardi Gras will represent a World's Fair pattern after Montreal's Expo 67.

Chairman of the event, Greg Stepec said that "in the past years, the charitable part of the Mardi Gras has been dwindling, so much that the Mardi Gras spirit was almost entirely lost. This year we intend to emphasize more the charitable aspect of the event."

Already halls and clubs are designing booths for the Stepan Center carnival. The architects of the booths will have their displays fall under the all-encompassing theme of a world's fair. Along with the carnival, a 1971 Luxury Sedan Oldsmobile will be raffled off. The proceeds from the raffle and the inexperience admission fee for the event will go to the ND Charities.

All students who manage to sell one book of raffle tickets will receive free admission to the Mardi Gras along with one chance toward winning the student grand prize of a 1970 Fiat 124 Spider. For every raffle chance sold, the student will receive a prize.

Stepec commented, "To boost student enthusiasm concerning the raffle, campus prizes, and interhall prizes will be set up as incentive." The top seller on the hall will receive a prize of $500. The second best seller will net $250 and the third, fourth, and fifth best salesmen will receive $100 each. On the St. Mary's campus, the top seller will win $250. The girls who sell second and third most chances will receive $100, while the fourth and fifth most proficient saleswomen will net themselves $50 each.

On the ball level, the hall which sells the greatest number of books will receive the grand prize of a $500 bill. Residents will merit a prize of $100. The top seller will win $50. There will also be a prize available for the Mardi Gras weekend for those who take on the responsibility of hall representative. If less than 3,000 books are sold, the rep will receive a 2% commission after the student commissions are subtracted. If between 3,000 and 4,000 books are purchased the commission rises to 3% and if more than 4,000 books are sold, the commission will be 5%.

The total profits from the Mardi Gras Weekend, Feb. 5, which will be sponsored by the Social Commission.

Naval Air team offers advice

A Naval Aviation Information Team headed by Lt. Jim Coleman will spend four days on campus at Notre Dame University to counsel and advise students on careers in Navy aviation. Lt. Coleman should arrive on campus before noon on November 4th, and will be available to interested students from 9:00 AM till 4:00 PM thru November 6th. The team will be stationed in the South Dining Hall.

The Navy campus recruiting has opennings in three aviation programs, pilot, flight officer, and air intelligence. All of these programs lead to a commission as an officer in the United States Navy and all, except air intelligence, enable qualified applicants to compete for the Navy's "Wings of Gold". Primary training is at the Navy's "Wings of Gold", Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Florida.

Dome Pictures

All advisory councils and honor frats wishing to be included in the 1971-72 issue of "The Dome" must submit their material during the coming semester except the students of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. Submissions may be sent to Dome, Room 4, Box 11, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556. Second class postage paid, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556.
Abortion termed ZPG “backup” (Continued from page 1) in the audience later protested these facts, recounting from his own experience girls who had had abortions and had later committed suicide. Dr. Shriver reminded him of the many suicides by those refused abortion and related that a number of British investigations disclosed that only between zero and 30 per cent of the women who have abortions have any guilt feelings. The last speaker, Dr. Thomas Paulson of Zero Population Growth, told that the goal of that organization is to stabilize the growth rate. Pointing out that a small but affluent group can create more waste than a larger impoverished class, he called for something to be done now on a voluntary basis before conditions of overcrowding and pollution approach calamity and the state must intervene in the area of birth control. He said that he regarded abortion not as a way to control population, but as a backup to other methods of contraception.

“Morality,” said Dr. Paulson, “is to be a relative matter. The right of the fetus to be born must be balanced against its right to be born into a family that wants it and is able to provide it with certain material good. Unwanted children turn out to have more moral and psychological problems than a comparable child born into a welcoming family.”

In the short rebuttal after the talks and the questions and answers that followed, a number of points were touched upon. With the exception of Dr. Sheedy, the panel seemed to agree with the abortion law in New York which allows legal abortions to anyone. They agreed that this should be easily available to the underprivileged.

Ruskin lecture

Alexandre Bennigsen, Russian political scientist and currently Director of higher education at the University of Paris, will speak in the Architecture Auditorium tonight at 8:00 p.m.

Bennigsen who is co-sponsored by the Student Union Academic Commission, and the Program of Soviet and East European Studies has written five books on Russia and its people. His subject will be “The Non-Russian Peoples of the Soviet Union.” Admission is free.

Fonda arrested for assault

(UP) - Film star Jane Fonda was arrested Tuesday after she allegedly kicked and slapped a policeman and screamed “get out of here, you pig.” Miss Fonda was taken to the Cuyahoga County jail on a warrant signed by U.S. Commissioner Clifford K. Bruce charging her with smuggling and assault.

It was reported vials of pills were found in her luggage when she arrived by plane at Hopkins International Airport. Patrolman Robert Piper, who assisted airport customs agents Richard Matuszak in the arrest, said Miss Fonda slapped him in the face and kicked him. The actress was represented by Mark Lane, Boston attorney who wrote “Rush to Judgment!”, which was severely critical of the investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Lane said Miss Fonda was on a tour of colleges and universities in the U.S. and Canada to speak against the war in Indo-China.

“Because of this she is harassed by the authorities,” she said. “Her arrest was an act of terror, an act of violence . . . this is the Nixon-Agnew terror.”

Lane said Miss Fonda had asked Matuszak if she could go to the ladies’ room.

“This big, burly federal agent wouldn’t allow it, so she put up a fuss,” Lane said.

Miss Fonda spoke at Fanshaw College in London, Ont., Monday night.

“There is only repression and prison for anyone trying to do anything in America,” Miss Fonda said at Fanshaw. “The government must be replaced.”

The actress was arrested last March with a group of Indians who attempted to take over an Army post in Pettig Sound.

Won’t you help?

If you have a car, and would like to drive underprivileged South Bend children to and from the Georgia Tech game on Sat., Nov. 14, come to a short meeting tonight at 8:30 in the amphitheater of LaFollette Student Center. If you would just like to be a monitor for the children during the game, come tonight also. We need your help!

Need a home?

You probably haven’t considered buying one while you’re in school. But this weekend, we can sell students needing off-campus housing a home for as low as $3,800. It’s a mobile home — fully furnished, complete with major appliances. No more money down the drain. No more people upstairs. You’ll have a new and comfortable home, privacy, and most important, an investment — all for monthly payments that are probably lower than what you’re now paying for rent.

Sound too good? Come see us this weekend during our open house. You’ll be surprised.

Greenbrook Estates

Mayflower and Sample

South Bend

Mobile Home Sales and Lot Rentals

*Student Billing Card

With this card, a dorm resident may make long distance calls with the privacy of the dorm room phone and get an individual bill once a month.

And even take advantage of Direct Distance Dialing . . . the faster, easier way to call long distance.

Your Student Billing Card is waiting (if you haven’t already picked it up) at the Indiana Bell Business Office. Just ask.
The Budget

The academic year is a good percentage over with now, and still the budget has not been passed. Most organizations have been forced to operate on budgets that have not been passed, spending money, which they essentially anticipate but do not have. Some of those organizations, frankly, are in for a rude awakening, and will be in for a harder awakening if the Senate itself tries to balance the budget and end Student Government’s financially embarrassing debt to the University.

This tragedy is enacted every year. The late budget puts a lot of organizations on the spot, and when the budget requests finally do reach the Senate, a lot of unnecessary ill will is caused by the conflict between desperate organizations and firm Senate.

The Observer believes that a lot of this ill will could be circumvented. The Observer believes that a number of simple procedural modifications could wipe out the November delay.

Obviously, the Senate, or whatever body ends up considering the budget, must be elected earlier in the year. This year, the Senate was elected a full month after school had opened. President Krashna did not call a meeting until late October. The Senate begins considering the budget today, November fourth. By this time, many organizations have already spent amounts of money approaching their budget restraints.

More importantly, however, the Finance Committee must be ready to make recommendations as soon as the school year starts. That means that members must consider the budget over the vacation, and in the last months of the previous semester. That makes it possible for them to hold their requests in, not at the beginning of the school year, but by May 1 of the previous year.

Most organizations change hands April 1. New organization heads should have a month to consider their budget means, and under the new proposal they would have that month. But if a new organization would be required to submit a budget request and a justification for that request to the Finance Committee.

By the same token, there is no reason to believe that the Senate Finance Committee would need more than the month of May to thrash out the budget requests and present some sort of recommendation to the Senate. The Senate takes its customary two weeks or so to determine the budget, a budget should be ready by late September, rather than middle November.

The problem has grown to be sufficiently dangerous, now, and it’s time to act.

LETTERS

Tech Tickets

Editor: I was deeply disturbed by your editorial in Friday’s copy of The Observer. It concerned the so-called student crisis existing for the Georgia Tech football game. The time has come, I think, to discuss the whole topic of student ticket passes anyway.

First, let me say that I am neutral concerning the idea which would allow South Bend kids to attend the game. By neutral I mean that I am not willing to give up my ticket. But, if it came down to it, I would buy one of the kids a ticket for the game myself. I think the kids deserve it and if anyone is willing to sell me a ticket for the Georgia Tech game (regular or neutral), please feel free to call me at Dillon Hall Rm. 159. Thank you.

Sincerely yours,

John Fineman

SMC Sit-ins

Editor: A lot of girls are in a disgusted, discouraged, and disillusioned mood today. It is Friday night, a “big night” for us. We just came back from dinner, the big activity of the evening. The letter to the Editor in Thursday’s Observer becomes our main topic of conversation. We are quite amused with the letter from A Typical Notre Dame Man.

It is held in common belief at the University of Notre Dame that all St. Mary’s girls do not know what it is to have a date on every night of the week.

Littl doing they know that many St. Mary’s girls suffer from dates weekends (especially upperclassmen) due to the misconception that men come to school to hold – that we are booked solid months in advance, that our men, aim is a Senior football player, and that everyone here is “without pity.”

In fact, we see a boy and a girl together, walking along, hand in hand, talking and laughing. It saddens a girl to have this vital part of her life missing – and not voluntarily.

But, after all, we do get a “good” education at St. Mary’s.

We attend parties where we are made to feel like the object of the defilement of their position on real issues. The critics contend that the present administration is appealing to various groups what benefits they may expect from the policies that the President regards as best furthering the common good. (An example of appealing to interest groups to the detriment of the common good is available—but it’s not Nixon. It is the Democratic Congress which has added billions of dollars to this year’s budget in order to please different interests, even though this significantly hurts the fight against inflation which clearly constitutes an overriding economic need of the country at the present time.) Anything the President does is bound to alienate some—in fact, many—people, and to that extent is bound to cause division.

The critics contend that the present administration is appealing to interests groups rather than aiming at the common good of the nation. Translated into clearer language this reads: “Mr. Nixon, quit trying to get the votes of all those people who agree with you disagree with you, since we’re the ones who know what’s best for our country.” It’s as if the administration were forbidden to point out to various groups what benefits they may expect from the policies that President Nixon regards as best furthering the common good. (An example of appealing to interest groups to the detriment of the common good is available—but it’s not Nixon. It is the Democratic Congress which has added billions of dollars to this year’s budget in order to please different interests, even though this significantly hurts the fight against inflation which clearly constitutes an overriding economic need of the country at the present time.) Anything the President does is bound to alienate some—in fact, many—people, and to that extent is bound to cause division.

Was the nation less divided in 1962 or 1966, when Kennedy and Johnson had been in office for two years? Who is it that the Left contends will not divide the country? George McGovern? Ted Kennedy? Jane Fonda? C’mon fellows, give us a break.

Why all this talk about “unity” and “environment”? Because it enables these carking critics who are generally unsatisfied with everything but themselves to assume a statesmanlike pose with the reverence of a patriot who abhors factious leaders (the very thing for which they call Agnew an “obscene and outrageous person”), are dividing our beloved nation. We would never do that. We seek only a national unity.

What the Left wants is in deed unity—as long as it is a unity on their terms and no one else’s. The argument that the Nixon administration is ripping the nation apart in rhetorical protest, a shoddy and hypocritical pose which ignores only to conceal the deficiency of their positions on real issues.

Chris Wolfe

Who divides
Wednesday, November 4, 1970

THE OBSERVER

WAITING FOR THE GIPPER

A Tragicomedy in One Long and Dreamy act or Ghosts I have Known and Flown With

By T. C. Treanor

The Setting: On Stage at Washington Hall, surrounded by Ouiji Boards, Tarot Cards, candles, mystics, and a Ghost Gun (a sort of supernatural Elephant Gun.)

Washington Hall is Notre Dame's haunted hall. It is haunted by the Ghost of the Gipper, who, deep and sensitive soul that he was, came back here to prepare for the musical career he never had by playing the piano at night. Or maybe it's haunted by the young woman who, in 1942 hanged herself when rejected by her young love and who spawned a rash of University cover-up maneuvers. He allegedly hangs around now at night.

Or perhaps it is haunted by the old priest who used to steal money from the poor house at Sacred Heart and, who after dying found Sacred Heart too envious to haunt, what with Orestes Brevonman and all.

Or perhaps it is haunted by the frustrated actor who took his role too seriously and jumped off the balcony. Who knows?

In order to chart the Ghost's comings and goings this Halloween, the drama department invited several of its members, as well as WNSD's Frank Devine, and This Correspondent.

The Characters: Any first name is listed randomly to protect the people, but in reality because I never learned their last names.

L. Franklin Devine: crafty, perceptive, and reasonably intelligent, Devine has nonetheless managed to keep his position of power in WNSD. Devine deftly managed the whole procedure for a 3 AM broadcast to eight people on WNSD.

George T.-: does not believe in Ghosts, poltergeists, walking skeletons, or Santa Claus. Does believe in getting on the radio.

Bob W.-: resident historian. One of three people who knows all about Gip and his ghost. One of who cares.

Chris H.-: Resident mystic. Nice kid. The other day our ouiji board told her where her key was. I wish I had a ouiji board like that. I've lost eight.

Loooo M.-: Surrogate mystic. Tells of a friend who had a ouiji board which "almost made love to her," I had no idea Parker Brothers provided such services.

Mark G.-: Looks a little like Tim McCarry with a beard. Talks a little like Richard Nixon. Afraid to ask him what his politics were. Does a nice Ouiji Board.

Kathrine R.-: Accused by Ouiji Board of being a Werewolf. Other than that, nice kid.

Several Rabble: diverse personalities too numerous to categorize.

Cast of thousands of Ghosts. This Correspondent: (T.C.)

ACT I

Scene I

L. Franklin Devine: Well, we are here in Washington Hall.

Rabble: Snap out the Ouiji Board! L. Franklin Devine: ...for WNSD, and this is Frank Devine...

Rabble: Get a pin for the Ouiji Board! L. Franklin Devine: ...for WNSD, the voice of the Fighting Irish, and we're here at Washington Hall.

Unidentified Rabbie: I've got a nail.

L. Franklin Devine: We've got to be the pin that comes with it. I must have been the pin!

L. Franklin Devine: I know what the Ouiji Board is haunted by the old Gipper. Unidentified Rabble: None of this happens.

Franklin Devine: I'm Frank Devine, known and flown with.

L. Franklin Devine: Here we are at Washington Hall. We're now down here on stage, right next to the Ouiji Board.

L. Franklin Devine: Your Ghost is working.

L. Franklin Devine: I'm Frank Devine, and I'm here for WNSD at Washington Hall. We're now down here on stage, right next to the Ouiji Board.

L. Franklin Devine: Let me take a one side of the Ouiji Board.

Kathrine R.-: I'll take the other side.

L. Franklin Devine: This is Frank Devine.

Rabble: What's it say? What's it say?

L. Franklin Devine: ...and we're here on the stage of Washington Hall.

More Rabbles: Stuff.

Ouiji Board: MYPT AVUOWN

JOIHOI AHVEEVO

Chris H.-: Is anyone writing this down? Mark: I will hold it.

Ouiji Board: MONWIEN

ANDFEPUP0IN AINNIE AX

Chris H.-: It said AX? (Every one added faint.)

L. Franklin Devine: Is it a cryptogram?

Remaining Rabble: Why don't you ask?

L. Franklin Devine: What do you have?

Lost: Are you a cryptogram?

Ouiji Board: MSXXX TYO FR42UN

HINDL LKMMHBI

Lost: Why don't you talk so we understand you?

Ouiji Board: MCOYINGOK OIP LNHBEIH ALKHD NONALN 10K PPC

L. Franklin Devine: I think it's a hootie spirit. Lost: Are you a hootie spirit?

Ouiji Board: NOTTER FIH70Y

L. Franklin Devine: Here we are at Washington Hall, and I'm Frank Devine.

Katey: What are you here for?

Ouiji Board: W-A-R....

Unidentified Rabble: None of this stuff.

Ouiji Board: L-O

L. Franklin Devine: I know what the last two letters will be.

Ouiji Board: RR-D (more rubble faint.)

This Correspondent: Revive the rubble!

Rabble: What happened? What happened?

By Frank Devine

Did you ever have such a good time that you really didn't want to talk about it? I remember being seven or eight years old and coming home from Swiss Family Robinson or Son of Flubber and having your parents ask how was the movie. You'd mumble something like "Aughhh, it was okay." Not because you didn't like it, but because it was so much fun. And besides how do you retell the good feelings you got when you laughed too hard or when Gabby and Chuck threw the flattened popcorn boxes at the screen and the usher came down the aisle with his flashlight but walked by you and ignored the other way? So you just mumble that the show was okay and hope that they don't pursue it.

The Second City Touring Company was here Saturday night with a Revue called "Cooler by the Lake." In fact, it was one of those good things that was so much fun that you hesitate to talk about it. Five guys and two girls, aided by a piano player, an upright, and six ice cream parlor chairs made us laugh Saturday night not only laugh, but laugh at the same time, an event all too rare during the summer months.

The Second City Company is one of the centers of genuine theatrical creativity in the United States today. Their brand of improvisational theater revue at first appears almost like any other series of revue sketches. But there seems to be a very important difference. While most black-out time arrives after some point in order to make the audience laugh, it seemed that the Second City made us laugh in order to make some point. The revue is aimed at a particular audience, young, educated and middle class. Many of the laughs were "in" things. Stories which would have sailed right by non-members of the group. The audience was drawn into the action by this sense of shared experiences - the products of the suburban PTA, the suburban Group). They were able to play the situations in which they live. The Second City made it reasonable to speak English; to speak English; to speak English; to speak English.

Although there were the Nixon and Agnew sketches, the brunt of most of the sketches were the members of the audience - the products of the suburban middle class, and we laughed at ourselves. The members of the cast were all extraordinarily talented. This isn't at all surprising when you consider some of the Second City alumni, Allen Adler, Barbara Harris, Jack Burns and Avery Schrieber among a myriad of others. The last's names hastily mumbled during the curtain call may be familiar in a few years as names like Elaine May or Shelly Ber­man (all members of the Second City's predecessor, the Compass Theatre group) who are able to play the audience as a finely tuned instrument is played by a skilled musician.

The laughs and sketches were of here and now. They were about smoking dope, about the South Border cops, about people at home who go to the PTA, about the all too sophisticated Catholics who were out the Church and take up astrology, about my parents and the baby, and how middle aged I myself - and I laughed and I pondered and then I laughed even harder.

The Second City was over at O'Laughlin Saturday night - it was okay.
The execution of plans being developed by the Student Union may dissolve the Hammer Campus Store Monopoly. The union proposals include a discount campus store and a record co-op, both of which will hopefully be open next semester.

The purpose of the projects, according to Rob Browning, Social Services Commissioner, and Bob Poli, Student Union Manager, is to sell, at discount prices, the articles needed by all students, thereby making it possible for the students to avoid paying the higher prices asked by the campus bookstore and by local merchants. The lower prices in the Student Union Stores would be possible because the Union is not anticipating any profit from sales; the only cost added to wholesale prices will be to cover the wages of the store workers.

Plans for these facilities began last summer, when the Associate Director of the Student Union contacted several major companies, requesting information regarding wholesale prices and policies. In September, a representative from the Colgate-Palmolive Company arrived on campus to confer with Student Union officials and since then, planning has moved forward rapidly. The plans are not yet finalized, and although the Union hopes to have the store in operation when the second semester begins, no absolute opening date has been set.

The store is to be open four hours a day, in the Fiesta Lounge of LaFortune. Toothpaste and other toilet articles will be sold, as well as class notebooks. Other merchandise may be added, depending on student response and other factors such as space, manpower, and bookkeeping facilities.

A second Student Union enterprise, a record co-op, was inspired by the record co-op set up in Lyons Hall. The Student Union co-op will retain the name of the college as a larger-scale version of the Lyons venture. Like the discount store, the record co-op will be located in the Fiesta Lounge, where the record collection will be displayed for browsing and purchase. Space conflict with the Student Union Ticket Office may delay the co-op's opening, set for sometime within the next two weeks.

While the stores will be operated and financed by the Student Union, they will be open to nonstudents as well as students. An expanded merchandise line, as well as larger store areas, may be introduced to both stores if the initial venture is successful.

University Arts Council is budgeted to receive less than it asked for because of the uncertain future of the old-fellowship, suggested Weber.

The requests of the Student Drug Information Center and the Student Inmates organization were turned over to the Mardi Gras Charity Chest. One of the more controversial allocations involves the Afro-American Society. Their request was cut to $4300 because, at least partly, according to Weber, many of the requests were "not specified." One of the doubtful requests included "emergency needs." On the other hand, MECHA was the only organization to be suggested to get an increase over their requested budget. The increase was due to the plans of making the discount store into a regional clearinghouse to provide information to Mexican-Americans, said Weber.

The requests of St. Edward's and Stanford Halls were turned down. The Academic Affairs Commission faces a cut of $2000.

With available funds totaling $54,000, there will be about $11,000, unless new cuts are made by the Senate. This deficit compares favorably with the debt last year of $29,000 and the year before's $56,000.

At the meeting tonight in LaFortune Amphitheatre, beginning at 7 p.m., the Senate will be given an overview of each group's activities and needs. The senators will be given an opportunity to make their priorities and question a representative from each group.
The OBSERVER

How to come back by really trying

by Joe Passiato

Observer Sportswriter

The situation in one area of sports might have had a dreamrupt: a young man strives for athletic success throughout his athletic career, seems just on the verge of attaining it and then is struck down by adversity. Naturally, the hero in the movie is always able to somehow recover from his unfortunate fate and climb the long ladder back to the top. But, how many people in real life are capable of coming back after such an unfavorable turn of events? People with this kind of dedication, fortitude, and self-confidence are not too hard to find nowdays. This is why athletes like Greg Marx seem to command just a little bit more respect, from their fans, from their coaches, and perhaps most significantly from their fellow athletes.

For Greg, who fulfills his dreams at right defensive tackle, the path of recovery was anything but easy. "I was in shock for a year," says Greg. "I had just been made the starting right tackle the day before. I was starting quickness his fractured right leg broke in two places.

"It happened on Sunday, September 7, two weeks before last season's first game against Northwestern." Greg admits that this first game was quite important to him, for in the process of trying to react to the whole situation, "I had just been trying to make the team I was going to play with and start. I thought it would be great if I could play with the best of the best there is. But when I did pretty well last fall and because of a couple of injuries, my starting breaks were scheduled to start as a sophomore. But, it was quite a letdown not to be able to play."

The bememoth sized (6'5", 255 lbs), but quiet Greg, thought of himself as being a natural at his behemoth sized (6'5", 255 lbs), but quiet Greg, thought of himself as being a natural at his position. But he was anything but. Greg "thought of himself as being a natural at his position. But he was anything but. Greg

Marx

Greg Marx (No. 75 in dark) and friends demonstrate what is meant by the containing defense against the run.

Editor's Note: This letter appeared in the LANTERN in rebuttal to Jim Eggert's column which has been reprinted at right with the permission of Mr. Eggert and the LANTERN.

Sports Editor:

It was good to see Sports Editor, Jim Eggert, rushing to the defense of the Ohio State Athletic Department in his article in last Friday's edition of the Lantern titled, "Take Your Ball and Go Home". We wouldn't want to push our athletic department to the point of not wanting to play at all, too would we? But, as Eggert's article clearly states, we couldn't agree more.

Inconceivable to me is the fact that Eggert would support such an old fashioned decision. Here is a man, who as a sports writer, should be interested in the promotion of championship contests between great athletic teams. Instead, he rushes to Woody Hayes and Joe Parseghian with a pat on the back for turning down a possible post season game with Notre Dame, and at the same time tries to hold Irish coach Ara Parseghian up to ridicule for making such a suggestion. Just what implication Eggert was trying to make when he said one has "to wonder" about Parseghian, is not clear. If he is attempting to defame Par­ sagehian, why in the world should he "wonder" just where Eggert's head is at?

Eggert also wonders how Parseghian figures he rates a game with Ohio State. "After all," Eggert writes, "I don't see the Irish in the top two." Perhaps it would be interesting for Eggert to note that America's number one football weekly, "The Football News", which boasts a staff of some of the most knowledgeable football writers anywhere, ranks Notre Dame number one, with Ohio State and Texas a close second and third in that order.

Now that Ohio State has finally come out of the stone age by permitting the Buckeyes to play a 10 rather than nine game schedule, Parseghian was merely trying to give Ohio State a change to put this new policy into effect this year rather than waiting until next year. True, it would probably be an unprecedent and unconventioned move to add a tenth game for the end of this season at this time, but it would not be illegal, nor could it be a losing venture financially, considering a game of that stature would fill any stadium, and would also draw more money from broadcast rights.

However a game like this is also a necessity for the Ohio State football program. Ohio State has ended all possibilities that it could be played. So Ara, do take your football and go home. However don't think you have to prove anything to any­ one by playing Ohio State. You can be content that Notre Dame and Michigan State are on your schedule and in no need the excuse that the schedule was completed 10 years earlier to justify playing weak teams, because the slate played by the Irish is always one of the toughest played by any college team in the country. In the eyes of the rest of the country it will continue to look like Ohio State is trying to avoid playing really tough games because of the decision not to play Notre Dame. The top sports columnists in the country with Ohio State is number one, according to the defense of the Ohio State Lantern, and would also draw more money from broadcast rights.

"I am not saying that the Buckeyes are better than Notre Dame. I am saying that Ohio State has not been able to settle everything once and for all. This is why college football is different from neighborhood ball. Two schools can't pick up teams and decide to play on any given Saturday."

If the Buckeyes lose this first showdown with Notre Dame, then Ohio State has finally revealed the truth, that they are not number one in the country, and need the excuse of the decision not to play Notre Dame to prove they were Number One. Ohio State is not forty years old, nor is it the only school in the country with a football program. "If I were Ohio State's football coach, my motto would be great if I could get a game with Notre Dame," said Greg Marx.

I'm surprised that Parseghian would even think it a possibility to schedule a game for the end of this season. He's been in football for a long time and he knows better than anyone, "I'd like to challenge them (Ohio State)". The first two statements are to be expected. Whether the fans of Texas, Michigan and other schools realize it or not, they are recognizing the Buckeyes as the best squad of college football players in the country - and rightly so.

But Mr. Parseghian, sir, what makes you think your team has any more of a right to play Ohio State than any other major college power?

Sure, every one would like to see Ohio State play Notre Dame. The Buckeyes have a 26-game unbeaten streak and the Ohio State athletic department has only one football coach in 95 years. This doesn't mean anything to those fans, who know what the real story is. This reticulation will be printed in tomorrow's OBSERVER.

Voice from the crowd

"I'd wonder who the Buckeyes are and they don't have to prove a point to whether Notre Dame's de­ fe nding season and a Number One ranking is brought up and the Buckeyes aren't even considered for not even considering the challenge. A "Championship Bowl" at the end of the season is something to think about, pitting the two top ranked teams for the national championship. But that isn't for Hayes or Weaver or even for the Buckeyes, it is for the Ohio State Athletic Association and the individual conferences to work something out. Until they do, the national championship will have to be decided by some other system."

Even if a "College Super Bowl" were to be played this year, Notre Dame wouldn't be included as it stands now. After all, I don't see the Irish as one of the top two.

So, Mr. Parseghian, take your ball and go home. You don't have to play your bucks now. If you try hard enough, maybe you can get a game up for 1982 or so.

UP Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) - The United Press Intern...
Demos gain in gubernatorial elections

The Democracy had registered a net gain of only two seats, but were expected to add as many as 4 to 11 more. The Democrats made major gains in the statehouses all over the nation. Democrats beat incumbent Republicans in Florida, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Ohio, Minnesota, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

In Florida, Republican Governor Claude Kirk fell to Reuben Askew, a Democrat. In Pennsylvania, Notre Dame graduate Thomas Brockdick, a Democrat, beat to incumbent Governor Milton Shaup. Brockdick was at least partly the victim of a tax increase enacted under current Governor Raymond Shaffer, a Republican.

However, in Ohio, Notre Dame graduate John Gilligan, a Democrat, swept to a big victory over Republican John Cloud. Cloud was the victim of a financial scandal that involved members of his ticket.

In Arkansas, Republican incumbent Governor Winthrop Rockefeller was also a victim of the Democrats. The GOP also lost the statehouse in Minnesota, where Wendell Anderson beat Douglas Head.

In Maryland, where Agnew fought hard to return his state to the GOP fold, Governor Marvin Mandel, a Democrat, won easily over his Republican foe, C. Starey.

Budget reduction reviewed by HPC

A series of plans were discussed for upsetting the HPC’s budget cut at Monday night’s meeting of the Hall Presidents’ Council.

Earlier this year, the University Finance Committee reduced the HPC’s budget from $2000 to $500. John Barkett, president of the HPC, said he did not know why the cut was made but added that the number of other organizations’ budgets were also reduced. One solution suggested was to assess all hall members for a charge of $.50. However, it was rejected in favor of a motion that the hall presidents go individually to the Student Senate to request more money. Buzz Imhoff, president of Badin Hall, commented that funding requests should be made by the entire council, feeling that the council should have a more powerful effect than the individual hall presidents. Imhoff’s suggestion was tabled, however, by Barkett.

Fritz Hoefler, newly appointed executive coordinator of the HPC, stressed the importance of receiving the additional financial aid. He said that of the $2000 appropriated to the HPC last year, only $700 had been spent.

This week, the HPC’s budget included an $1,500 cut in the budget. The proposal was also discussed at the meeting Monday night was the possibility of having a combined workshop between the HPC and the hall rectors.

Weekend set for parents

Plans for the upcoming Parent’s Weekend have been finalized under the direction of Chairman Greg Caruso. The weekend schedule includes the Pitt game, a catered dinner, and the Sergio Mendez concert.

Parent’s Weekend, officially known as the Sophomore Weekend, was created by former V.P. for Student Affairs Rev. Charles McCarough, to give the Sophomore class another activity of its own. The Senior class has the Senior Fellows’ Award and the Senior Banquet; the Junior class has Junior Parent’s Weekend, while the Sophomore class has only the Sophomore Literary Festival in the spring.

At the present time, 1600 plans are available to attend the Saturday night dinner at the Thunderbird Restaurant of Mitsuwaika at Stepan Center. Father Heshburg will attend the dinner and address the guests. A concert featuring Sergio Mendez and Brazil ’66 will follow at the ACC at 8:30 P.M.

Caruso emphasized that much work has gone into the preparation for the weekend and so far it is running smoothly. Over the summer, postcards were sent out to parents with information on football, concert and dinner tickets. The Ticket Office made 14,000 tickets available for the Notre Dame-Pittsburgh game on November 7, and 750 motel rooms were made available.

The reservation of football tickets is a departure from past policy, because this game is reserved only for parents of students. Formerly, tickets for all home games were made available to contributing alumni.

Sergio Mendez and Brazil ’66 were chosen for the concert because they are a group that “appeal to the old and the young.”

Sophomore Class President Steve Palusco said he was satisfied with the plans for the weekend, as was Caruso. For the first year, he said, “I hope it sets a precedent.”

You ask for it...

Shirts, Sleeves at 1/2 PRICE

No doubt about it…we have a select group of these famous button-down and wide-spread collar, long sleeve shirts priced at exactly one half price! Choose from a fine selection of stripes and colors. Use your Campus Shop account, nothing could be easier.

CHECK WHAT WE HAVE IN STOCK

Flair Shirts

Leather jackets

Sleeves, too

Sweaters in all styles

Sportscoats

Gloves pleated

Read this and believe it …

Buy your apparel now and

PAY NEXT SUMMER

You pay 1/3 in June, 1/3 in July 1/3 in August with no interest or carrying charge.