"Sterilization best method"

Wood: Population dilemma

Sex without babies" was the topic of a lecture last night in the English auditorium given by Dr. H. Curtis Wood. Dr. Wood, author of the book Sex Without Babies, and Medical Consultant of the Association for Voluntary Sterilization, said, "For quite a few years I've been convinced that the population problem is the most serious problem that humanity has ever faced. Nearly all the most serious and economic problems can be related, in some way, to the population problem. "One day," he said, "don't like to think that there are too many of us; we simply have too few babies."

He cited one statistic that noted that, if the population continues at its present rate, it will have one billion people by 1990.

"As a public health obstetrician for over thirty years," he said, "I have come to the conclusion that all babies should be wanted."

The "better method" that Dr. Wood advocated for is voluntary sterilization of children.

The performance art was a public seminar on "Violence and Social Change" held in the Center for Continuing Education Tuesday, April 30. Esfahd Ahmad, one of six persons charged by the government for plotting to blow up heating tunnels andkidnap presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, is among the speakers scheduled for the seminar.

The Blum Festival will be a two day affair, with workshops during the day and activities at night. The Folk Festival, revived this past year, will be expanded to a year round event, and an attempt will be made to bring in some professionals for next year. Brinkman noted that there will be three permanent music festivals on campus. The Collegiate Jazz Festival will be run as it has been in previous years, but now will be under the control of the CAC instead of the Social Composite. The Blues Festival will be a two day affair, with workshops during the day and activities at night. The Folk Festival, revived this past year, will be expanded to a year round event, and an attempt will be made to bring in some professionals for next year.

Brinkman stated his commission will consist of eight basic festivals. One festival will remain unchanged, the Spiritual Cultural Festival. A new program for next year is a year long Literary program. It will attempt to bring poets, novelists, and playwrights to the campus, Brinkman said. Included in the program will be symposiums and seminars upon individual authors, or periods.

Brinkman noted that there will be three permanent music festivals on campus. The Collegiate Jazz Festival will be run as it has been in previous years, but now will be under the control of the CAC instead of the Social Composite. The Blues Festival will be a two day affair, with workshops during the day and activities at night. The Folk Festival, revived this past year, will be expanded to a year round event, and an attempt will be made to bring in some professionals for next year.

"These various changes are a result of a meeting held a few weeks ago between faculty and students on the future of the arts at Notre Dame. We decided that because of the tremendous expansion of the arts in the past few years and the desire to allow as many as possible to participate in the arts at Notre Dame, a restructuring of the CAC was in order.

"We want to get as many people involved as possible," Brinkman said.

"Our aim is to eliminate the present cliquish set-up and open the Commission to everyone."

SMC presidential search shows little progress since summer

by Ann Therese Darin

Observer Associate Editor

When Monsignor John J. McGrath, president of St. Mary's, died early last summer, one of the first acts of the newly-appointed acting president, Fr. Alva Peter, was the creation of a presidential search committee, composed of students, faculty, alumni, administrators, and Board of Trustees members.

More than 100 candidate interviews last summer, the last one relatively the same position as it was last summer — no president — and the prospects look slim according to members of the search committee.

Observer Insight

Originally the Board of Trustees requested three candidates for consideration. In judging these candidates, the Board planned to evaluate them on their academic stature, administrative experience, interest which do what the Board is getting, however, seem to be two different things.

Before the joint ND-SMC trustee meeting in Florida, the presidential search committee and the Board had separate discussions, one each from Albany College and the State University of New Albany, the University of Michigan and St. John's University in Minnesota.

Since then, two of the candidates have notified the committee that they no longer are interested in the job because they want to be full college presidents and not share the authority and regulation with Fr. Theodore M. Hendrich.

Although the withdrawals reduce the list of official candidates to two, another result from the Florida meeting to be one of the Board of St. Mary's candidates have notified the committee that they are no longer interested in the job. So far 14 candidates have notified the committee.

Publicly, the only comment she has made came at the All-School Convention to discuss unification March 25. When questioned on the search for a president, Sr. Alma replied, "It may be someone from the faculty or some outsider who will be on leave from another university." She added that her own contract expires in July.

Another administrator, which the search committee regards as possible candidates is Dr. William Hickey, acting chairman of the art department. Mary students, faculty, and administrators believe that Dr. Hickey would be a good choice. Continued on page 4

Why and How: The FBI Must Change

The late charge by Senator Edmund Muskie that the Federal Government had established surveillance units at Earth Day rallies is a serious one indeed, and if correct it has implications altogether unpleasant to contemplate.

Muskie made the contention in a Senate speech two days ago. Though he refused to disclose the source which led him to allege that the FBI secreted in its files between forty to sixty reports on Earth Day rallies, it appears unlikely that the Senator would manufacture the report himself, or accept the report from an irresponsible source.

The fact that Muskie’s charges have been reinforced by charges from House Majority Leader Rep. Hale Boggs (D., La.), that the FBI had tapped his phones and the phones from other representatives tend to add a special measure of credence to the criticism. The FBI has acted outside the limits it must have to functional and beneficial in and to a free society.

What, then, is to be done? In the past forty-five years, the influence of the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been both dynamic and good. The Bureau withered the death-grip organized crime had on this nation’s economy. When the quote-unquote red menace in this country was ecology, the war, and racism, fringed with ineffectually caterwauling synocrats, the FBI has shown an increasing inclination in the late 60’s to become ideologically inbred and insensitive, and a civilian intelligence board monitor the activities of all intelligence-gathering organizations. We suspect the idea is a good one. Organizations like the FBI tend to become ideologically inbred and insensitive, and a civilian monitoring board would be more responsive to the good public need for privacy.

The FBI has shown an increasing inclination in the 60’s and 70’s of becoming a power unto itself. J. Edgar Hoover runs the organization so tightly that no Attorney General can claim he exerts any type of control over it. The one thing which could partially force him to relinquish this tight grip over the Bureau’s affairs is responsible criticism from persons with unimpeachable sources of information. A monitoring board could act in this fashion and act effectively. We sincerely hope Sen. Muskie moves beyond his pall of rhetoric and translates his words into a bill mandating the creation of such a board soon.
but if any one has the world's goods and sees his brother in need, yet closes his heart against him, how does god's love abide in him?

Commentary on VIOLENCE IN A CHANGING WORLD

Friday, April 16, 1971

Markosek, Siemion, Loring win election

Dave Loring, a junior history major from Park Forest, Ill., was elected president of Keenan Hall last night. He collected 191 of the 202 votes cast to easily defeat three other candidates.

Loring ran with Dave Kamiński, a freshman from South Bend. A hall senator for the past two years, he will succeed Tom Blumer.

Joe Markosek, a junior from Pittsburgh, defeated Sophomore George Block in the elections at Farley Hall last night. Markosek succeeded Rich "Ders" Anderson by collecting 119 votes to Block's 86.

In the vice-presidential elections, Bob Kelly, a Palatine, Ill., sophomore, received 146 votes to easily defeat Sophomore Dan Curtin, who received 72 votes.

St. Edward's Elections

In an election at St. Edward's Hall, Marty Siemion of Valparaiso, Ind., won the presidential race, defeating John Mazza by a 54 vote margin.

Siemion ran on a ticket with Brian Hurley, who won the vice-presidential election.

Both Siemion and Hurley had experience in hall government, Siemion having served as academic commissioner for the hall last year, and Hurley working as a section leader.
Irish teams face busy weekend

Since Coach Ara Parseghian began conducting Spring drills three weeks ago, the attention of Irish football fans has centered on the quarterback position. This week, the starting quarterback candidate for the upcoming season will be announced.

Tom Pagna, our Backfield coach, who served as Theismann's backup last season, appears to have a slight edge on sophomore Jim Bulger and freshman Cliff Brown, who are pressing him for the starting job.

"Every day there is a constant evaluation our players," Pagna continued. "We've got to go with the man that gets the job done. Based on what we've seen, Pat's experience makes him the front-runner. He's the man to beat out.

While the quarterback question may not be resolved before May 19th, the situation could change. It is certain that the coaching staff will decide just which one man is going to be the starter by the end of Spring practice. It is important that the quarterback question by settled before workouts begin in earnest next August.

"If we try and resolve the position before May 1st, we might be in a tough spot," Pagna said.

"The halfback spot is even more solid, with at least a half-dozen candidates vying for the starting job. The other backfield positions are not as questionable as the quarterback spot. The '71 Irish will boast a number of good runners.

Lacrosse team handed first loss

A lethargic showing in the first half proved to be the demise of the Notre Dame lacrosse team's hopes of winning the NCAA championships. After trailing the Michigan State team by two goals in the first half, the Irish were unable to overtake the Wolverines despite a 3-1 run in the second half. In the second half, the Irish were unable to score after the reversal of play in the first half. In the second half, the Irish were unable to score after the reversal of play in the first half. The Michigan team scored six unanswered goals in the second half.

Tennis

The Notre Dame tennis team, idle since hosting the Irish Indoor Invitational Tournament March 25 through 28, will be back in action this weekend, playing four matches on the road.

"No, Dr. Durbin, coach of the golf team, expressed his point of view with the team's showing, "If we can resolve the position of the Big Ten teams were pretty strong, but I hadn't expected Miami University, Ohio University, and Ball State to be as tough as they were. However, all three schools keep their golf courses open over the winter and have a little bit better weather to work with."

Jim Donaldson's performance was outstanding, scoring the second highest score of 75-49. The Notre Dame team finished in the following order, Chiz, O'Leary, 2nd place, Joe Donaldson, 3rd place, Bob Bettigalia, 4th place, Mike LaFrance, 5th place.

Fr. Durbin evaluated the team's performance by saying, "The boys' scores right now are as bad as they'll be all season. I expect steady improvement from here on out."

The team will get an opportunity to improve on last weekend's showing, this Monday when they take part in the Mid-American Invitational tournament to be held at the University of Miami, Ohio. The field will consist of teams that competed in the Ohio State tourney of last week.

Track

The Notre Dame track team, coming off a second place finish in last weekend's triangular meet at Toledo, is expected to be in action this weekend.

"In every case, the Irish will also bring along "B" and "C" teams to team on the Blues.

Hickey would be ideal for the job because he is experienced with the situations at St. Mary's and Notre Dame.

As a faculty member, he, his proponents feel, would take a serious interest in the honoring of rank and tenure and the merging of departments. As president, he could act as a spokesman for the faculty in negotiating their contracts with Notre Dame, something the faculty thinks is very important.

Dr. Hickey's supporters also believe that his work on committees in the college will also be an asset if he decides to become a candidate. His experience at Notre Dame (he received his degrees here) may also prove valuable in working with Fr. Hesburgh, who, one representative on the search committee revealed, has interviewed several of the candidates himself.

Although Dr. Hickey has not responded to the committee's invitation to submit his credentials, he said yesterday that he is giving the idea serious thought.

Now that St. Mary's and Notre Dame are planning to merge, the Board's chief concerns seem to have been raised.

Hickey would be ideal for the job because he is experienced with the situation.
