inside:
news briefs........p.2.         smc housing.........p.3.
hesburgh interview.....p. 3.          smc security........p.4.

selective service info....p.4.

Freshmen, et al: Welcome!!
Fr. Hesburgh holds orientation for hall rectors and assistants

by A.T. Darin

Freshmen may take heart in the fact that they weren't the only ones to suffer the ordeal of orientation last week.

Hall rectors and their assistants went through three days of orientation from last Monday to Wednesday.

The main session was a briefing on the administrative promise to rigidly enforce university regulations on drinking and parietal hours. This theme was stressed Tuesday for the resident assistants and reiterated Wednesday for the 31 rectors during dinner with President Fr. Theodore M. Hesburgh.

Fr. Thomas Blantz, vice president of student affairs, said the meeting was not held solely to send a message to the rectors and assistants. It was attended by nearly all rectors and assistants, he said, and it was necessary to allow assistants to question rectors.

He also felt that, with the extra problems of unification between Notre Dame and St. Mary's, more work would be delegated to the halls from his office. He also felt that, with the extra problems of unification between Notre Dame and St. Mary's, more work would be delegated to the halls from his office.

Despite the unification, the meeting was only for Notre Dame personnel.

The reason for the revamping of the rectors' program, according to Fr. Blantz, is to reduce confusion between the information given to rectors and their assistants.

The program included a series of workshops by members of the administration, student government and the Hall Presidents' Council, minority students and "Legalizers at Notre Dame."

Rectors, Fr. Blantz said, will meet bi-monthly with him to continue the headway made during the orientation.

The reason for the revamping of the rectors' program, according to Fr. Blantz, is to reduce confusion between the information given to rectors and their assistants.

He also felt that, with the extra problems of unification between Notre Dame and St. Mary's, more work would be delegated to the halls from his office. The conference on orientation was a chance to inform the hall staff on different facets of university life to which they might be exposed.

Despite the unification, the meeting was only for Notre Dame personnel.

The main session was a briefing on the administrative promise to rigidly enforce university regulations on drinking and parietal hours. This theme was stressed Tuesday for the resident assistants and reiterated Wednesday for the 31 rectors during dinner with President Fr. Theodore M. Hesburgh.
"No new rules, just more enforcement" - Hesburgh

by John Ahwed

Recent statements calling for stricter enforcement of University regulations on drinking and curfew violations "do not represent a crackdown," according to President Fr. Theodore M. Hesburgh.

"Mr. Stephan's letter is a reiteration of the rules set down two years ago when the Trustees first began experimenting with the limited use of alcoholic beverages and female visitors in the residence halls," he added.

In an exclusive interview with the Observer, Fr. Hesburgh stressed the University's status within Indiana state law.

"We have received a letter," he continued, "from the Indiana Attorney General stating plainly the reduction of the legal drinking age to 18, it would make some trustees think there weren't some trustees generous, " he added, "that I personally favor the reduction of the legal age in Indiana:"

Fr. Hesburgh said, "some serious sanctions have to be legislated by the Student Life Council to control violations." Suggesting expulsion from the hall or University as possibilities, he noted, "Some serious violations like grand larceny went unpunished last year."

Echoing the sentiments of University Trustee Edmund Stephan, Fr. Hesburgh said, "students have not accepted the responsibility of enforcing rules which they encouraged the SLC to adopt."

"I have no choice in establishing policy, I am charged with carrying it out. I think this makes the idea of a 'test case' silly.

"In spite of this, Fr. Hesburgh reiterated his confidence in the rules being enforced: "The students got what they asked for, then ignored it."

SMC housing problems minor

by Maria Gallagher

The expanded enrollment situation at St. Mary's has created some housing problems due to the high acceptance and low attrition rate.

However, according to Dr. Mary Alice Cannon, SMC vice president of student affairs, the difficulties are minor and complaints are few.

Dr. Cannon noted Tuesday that it is common for colleges to accept a number of incoming students above their quota, as the attrition rate is usually high enough to even out the enrollment.

But this year's freshman class of 518, the largest to date, was unforeseen by the admissions office and hence the crowded conditions.

Among the problems facing returning students were missing furniture due to late delivery, having to live in offices converted into dormitory rooms to accommodate the overflow, and, in some cases, the necessity to move off campus altogether.

"Approximately 10 freshmen are currently living with relatives and friends in the South Bend area until space can be found for them on campus," Mrs. Kathleen Mullaney, dean of students stated.

We expect to be able to place them soon as some students who pre-registered have not returned," she said.

Mrs. Mullaney added that the students understood the situation and so far she has not received any complaints.

As for housing provisions in the future, Dr. Cannon and Mrs. Mullaney cited the need for expanded facilities to meet the needs of the growing student population, but no decisions can be made as yet due to the merger process.

"All future plans must take into consideration the projected Notre Dame enrollment and all decisions must be the joint product of both campuses," they stated.

On the question of off-campus housing, Dr. Cannon believed that the lack of space would not create an increased interest in off-campus living. "As a matter of fact, a number of students who did so last year have decided to return," she said.

"So far, there have been no requests to extend off-campus housing permission to sophomores. It appears that despite the difficulties, the students seem quite satisfied with everything," Dr. Cannon said.

LEATHER LTD.
has changed...
custom leather jeans - sandals mocs - boots - pottery 118 south main
featuring male jeans
Resident of McCandless and Augustus Halls returning to campus after their dormitory closes will have to sign-in at LeMans and await a security guard escort to their hall door, Security Capt. William Parker said Tuesday.

Students living in Regina and Holy Cross halls will take the tunnel from LeMans, unescorted.

Saint Mary dormitories close at midnight on weekdays and 2 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

The new system is the result of a study during the summer which recommended increased security on campus grounds and to let dormitory directors handle inside problems.

"We're an open campus," said Tuesday.

As a result students open doors for friends who do not follow the sign in procedure after the dormitories close. Often the doors are not locked and anyone can enter.

"If we checked the dorms every 15 minutes, we'd find a minimum of three or four doors open, maybe more," Parker complained.

I don't know the answer, you can't protect people who don't want to be protected. The girls are not aware of what they're doing," he added.

Another problem, according to the security chief, is the no hours policy applicable to upperclassmen.

"It's an impossibility (to protect students). I challenge parents to give them any more protection under the cir-umstances than we do," Parker stated.

In spite of these problems, Parker thinks the system is workable and security will improve with personnel on the outside.

Selective Service certain to drop college student deferments

The following story was released to the Observer by the Selective Service System and will service in Washington, D.C.-ed.

The Selective Service System has clarified expected policy changes on undergraduate student deferments.

College students who were enrolled full-time in the 1970-1971 academic year will be eligible for student deferments in the 1971-1972 school year if they continue to make satisfactory progress in their programs of study, Selective Service officials said. However, young men who entered school for the first time in this summer and those who enrolled as freshmen this fall will not qualify for student deferments if the pending changes to the Selective Service Act are passed by Congress. The House has completed action on the bill and final Senate action is expected in September.

Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, Selective Service Director, said: "Few incoming freshmen students are likely to be inducted in the near future because of the student deferment phaseout. Of the 1,034,000 incoming freshmen males estimated by the Office of Education, approximately 80 percent are 18 years old and only 20 percent are 19 years of age or older."

"The 18 year olds will receive their lottery numbers in 1972, and they will not be subject to induction until 1973, when draft calls should be low. The 18 year old freshmen, however, will receive their lottery numbers August 5 of this year and will be subject to induction next year; at least ½ should have high enough lottery numbers to preclude their induction."

Of those remaining, approximately 50 percent will be disqualified on mental, moral or physical grounds, which means that a maximum of 50,000 men will be directly affected in 1972 by the student deferment phaseout and one-half of those, or 25,000, will probably not be inducted because of enlistments in the Regular, Reserve or National Guard units, participating in commissioning programs or because of procedural delays.

Dr. Tarr said that college students will not be drafted in the middle of a semester or term. "If called while enrolled, they will be allowed to postpone their induction until the end of the semester, or term. If in their last academic year, they will be able to postpone their induction until after graduation."

Dr. Tarr advised incoming freshmen and students who started their program of study in the summer of 1971 or later not to file applications for students deferments even though the current law authorizes granting deferments to students in full-time programs of study.

"If the pending Selective Service legislation does not pass," Tarr said, "it would not be in a registrant's best interest to obtain a student deferment which would extend his liability until age 30. Should Congress change the legislation to provide for deferments for new incoming freshmen, which is most unlikely, applications for deferments will not be jeopardized by delaying their submission until after passage of the new law."

The President's authority for the induction of all men under 26, except for those who have or who have had deferments, expired on June 30, 1971. If Congress does not reinstate the general induction authority, the President could authorize the induction of those registrants who hold or have held deferments.

In this unlikely event, Selective Service officials believe that manpower requirements of the Department of Defense probably could be met by inducting those young men who have recently dropped deferments because they graduated, dropped out of school, or changed their occupation.

Recent college graduates or dropouts would make up the bulk of inductions, the officials said. The officials added that cancellations of deferments probably would not be necessary nor would it be necessary to call those who have passed into the second priority selection group.

Currently, there are approximately six million young men under age 35 with deferments. Approximately 500,000 of these normally lose their deferments during a 12-month period. The largest groups of deferred men are those who have received fatherhood or occupational or student deferments.

NAME
ADDRESS
ZIP
SENT BY
ADDRESS
RENEWAL [ ]

New mailing to start with Sept. 22nd edition.
Bartell named Stonehill pres.

The appointment of Rev. Ernest J. Bartell, C.S.C., director of the Center for Study of Man in Contemporary Society at the University of Notre Dame, as president of Stonehill College, North Easton, Mass., has been announced by Very Rev. William F. Hogan, C.S.C., chairman of Stonehill trustees. The appointment will be effective September 1.

The selection of Father Bartell as president resulted from recommendations of a search committee composed of representatives of the Stonehill trustees, lay board of advisers, alumni, college administration, faculty and student body. The committee was formed in April after the resignation of Very Rev. John T. Corr, C.S.C., who will remain at Stonehill to devote full time to the college's "Development for the Seventies" enrichment and expansion program.

Father Bartell, former chairman of the Notre Dame department of economics, is presently serving as director of an economic analysis of non-public education in the U.S. for the President's Commission on School Finance. He has served as consultant in several economic studies relating to education.

A member of the Notre Dame faculty since 1966, he received a bachelor's degree in finance from the University in 1953, and masters degrees in theology and economics from Holy Cross College, Washington, D.C., and the University of Chicago. He received his doctoral degree at Princeton University, where he taught at both the undergraduate and graduate Woodrow Wilson School levels.

WANTED:

H.L. Mencken W.R. Hearst Horace Greely
Lois Lane or persons of similar repute and stature to work on The Observer, Notre Dame's Student Daily.

OPPORTUNITIES!

Rapid advancement possible.

(Become an editor in 60 days or your money back).

Have a chance to sneer at:

J.T. Burtchaell (Provost),

Edmund Stephan (Trustees Chairman)

and Fr. T. Hesburgh (Celebrity).

WHEN & WHERE:

In front of LaFortune Student Center,

6:45 p.m. Mon. Sept. 13th

---

Rent a Refrigerator for your Room

Just $5 / month ★

- Compact Dimensions - only 20" x 17" x 18"
- Spacious - 2 cu. ft. capacity holds up to 36 cans of cold drinks
- University approved for dorm use
- Free pick up and delivery
- Guaranteed - If one of our refrigerators malfunctions, will be replaced within 24 hrs.
- We pay interest on deposit
- MINIKOOL PROTECTION POLICY - for $1 a term, relieves you of all liability from fire and theft and its free to all who pay a full academic year's rent in advance
- Purchase option. You can buy if you like and 75 percent of your rental payment will be applied toward $89.50 purchase price.

CALL 288-2519 ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Profits go to Sr. Marita's Day School

Monthly price stated is average based on rental for full academic year. A refrigerator may be rented for shorter periods as well, with some adjustment in monthly cost.
The Letter

Give me a ticket for an airplane
Ain't got time for no fast train...

...It is not a thoughtless, pampering, and perhaps even instructive, to speculate upon the emotional machinations of the Board of Trustees as they thrashed out their letter to Student Life Council Chairman William Eagan. We know the letter came in response to what was, for the SLC, an exhaustive survey of student attitudes. Some of the responses shocked the Trustees, others apparently agitated them. As Father Hesburgh said in an interview with Observer News Editor John Abowd, "The Trustees could have cut back (on the parietal hours and drinking rights) - and don't think there weren't some with a mind to." (See page 3 of today's Observer)

Two things apparently bothered the Trustees. The first was that women were in the hall past parietal hours, and no one very much seemed upset about it. Trustee President Edmund Stephan complained that "none of the students questioned would initiate disciplinary action against a hall resident who kept a young woman overnight in his room." (Page 2)

Not like the good old days (. . . Spanish Inquisition, Joe Stalin's reign, et cetera) but apparently a disquieting reality to the Trustees.

Had the Trustees been born and raised to be open-minded, they might have learned an important general principal: students (and people in general) will simply not be a party to the enforcement of rules imposed upon them by outside forces. And, like it or not, the Board of Trustees is an outside force. Few Trustees have graduated from Notre Dame during the past decade; many have never graduated from Notre Dame at all. Many are rich, most are married. None are students. And when the Board of Trustees overruled the only effective legislative body with student representation - the . . . SLC - to establish an infantile and retrogressive parietal policy - it invited the widespread violations currently prevailing.

The Trustees complaint against boozing in the halls makes a little more sense. There, at least, responsibility for the law rests not with the University but with the Cro-Magnon politicians of the Indiana Free State. The University, by rigidly hunting down violators in the hall, sacrifices halls parties and hence an effective means to bring hall residents closer together, but it stays closely within the letter of the law. The fact that most heavy drinkers will escape to Michigan for boozie once the drink - at . .18 law goes into effect (January) apparently bothers the University not one whit; it's legally safe.

Once again, the University attempts to enforce a law that the people involved had no voice in making. Once again, the Trustees are upset that students choose not to enforce these laws themselves ("Forty percent of all residents indicate that they feel little responsibility for excessive drinking by another, unless vandalism or damage results." P. 2)

Since the Trustees insist on the enforcement of these laws be enforced, we recommend that that August body do the job themselves. Hire Pinkerton guards to shoot up parietal violators. Breed and train dogs to sniff out women in the halls. Hire brownskirt goths to take on-the-spot blood tests to detect boozehounds. Distribute chastity belts. When the plot succeeds - when the Trustees finally make Notre Dame men forget about alcohol and sex - the Trustees can turn to similar projects, like convincing George Wallace to join the Black Panthers or turning the Pope into a Holy Roller.

Cut-Rate Security

Good security isn't cheap. If the St. Mary's administration hasn't found that out already, it will. Several guards riding around in jeeps simply can't do the job that a man stationed in each hall can. The doors in each hall have been found open the past couple of nights. Open for the girls, so they don't have to bother sneaking in their boyfriends, open to the creeps and perverts of the of the local community, the only person in the hall that has caused the girls walking home on St. Mary's road so much trouble.

Protecting the girls walking home at night is a good idea. Leaving their homes open to the riffraff is not a good idea. Neither the old nor the new system is an answer to the problem. Good, solid protection of both the dorms and the roads is the only solution.

It will cost St. Mary's money, probably a much greater amount than is now spent on security. The rage and hysteria that would follow an ugly incident would cost St. Mary's much more.

Somehow the money has to be found to maintain both the mobile unit and put a man in each hall. St. Mary's students have a right to protection, and St. Mary's has a responsibility to provide it. To do less could be disastrous.
John Abowd

An intense sense of deja vu develops when reading the recent letters of Fr. Hesburgh and Mr. Stephan concerning University regulations. Once again, it seems a fundamental difference in attitudes (life styles) has been dissected, emphasizing the futility of the students to enforce rules with which we basically disagree. It is not a question, as Stephan suggests, of student demonstrating that they are willing to live up to the Board's regulations; rather it is a matter of accepting the fact that the University cannot hope to enforce regulations no matter how rigid unless students are willing without doing damage to the community far out of proportion to the alleged harm of the violations.

Since the report of the Trustees was based on the Student Life Council survey, much of the blame for Stephan's reasoning probably lies with that board. The study in question was hastily prepared and according to one of its authors probably does not reflect a complete enough survey to be of much value. Still, SLC was charged with preparing a thorough report and clearly reneged on that responsibility.

This too is no at unusual for that rarely brilliant body. SLC business during the past year was conducted with such a deliberate effect that major major proposals that it is not surprising to find the report and the Trustees reaction lacking in scientific rigors. Taking parital violations as an example it seems very unlikely that:
1.) Students are going to stop without an extensive snoffing effort on the part of rectors and resident assistants. The same is probably true of enforcing anti-smoking stipulations while rooms are occupied. We are forced to compare the harms of this program with the dangers of "disorder and disruption," cited by Mr. Stephan.

Students are unwilling to report parital violations because a person's private life, including his sex if any, is his (or her) own business. Many students are unwilling to report any violations because they are not full-time members of the community. For those of us who live here, students, faculty and administrators such insensitivity is useless.

Mr. Stephan has suggested a re-centralization of disciplinary actions, insisting that the Dean of Students have the first jurisdiction in violation of University rules and by demanding a very large percentage of violations. Taking parital violations as an example it seems very unlikely that:
2.) Students are going not to shop from the halls for a very large percentage of the group being regulated. Any enforcement system, in order to succeed, must meet one of two conditions: Either a very small percentage of the group being regulated must accept the rule as the "in the best interest of" the community or if only a very small percentage of the violations can go unpunished (whether or not they are violations), then all seems well. But, as Donches, a very restrained and professional political scientist from Harvard, very clearly, these conditions cannot be met concerning either of the regulations in question.

The vices of Mr. Stephan's centralized enforcement system, I think, are clearly more destructive of the goals we both accept the goals we both accept. Any enforcement system, in order to succeed, must meet one of two conditions: Either a very small percentage of the group being regulated must accept the rule as the "in the best interest of" the community or if only a very small percentage of the violations can go unpunished (whether or not they are violations), then all seems well. But, as Donches, a very restrained and professional political scientist from Harvard, very clearly, these conditions cannot be met concerning either of the regulations in question.

Because of the variety between the halls, it would be virtually impossible to meet any type of uniform enforcement. Students in halls with stricter rectors or resident assistants would naturally resent the inequitable enforcement. This resentment and the accompanying subversion of the rules (resulting from the lack of acceptance of the rules in the first place) would be clearly divisive among students.

Concerning the regulation prohibiting ball parties, the failure to meet the minimum standards of enforceable rules in even clearer. Granted that the social problems of drunkenness are not insignificant, but one ever remembers that students are not pointed to drink or get inebriated as a result of a crackdown on parties. If Mr. Stephan or the SLC state a problem, they have an obligation to solve it. During the football season, especially, those who attempt to enforce this rule are going to meet with mass violation and, inevitably, very inequitable enforcement. The vices of the drunk student which the Trustees have noted are not reduced at all by their action. It appears that the goals of Christian community have been used to disguise a program which extracts this community from legal liability without providing even the most meager of protections to the community. Nor have such make the campus drink such a distinct Notre Dame characteristic.

None of these arguments are new, but neither were any of those penned by Mr. Stephan or Fr. Hesburgh. Unfortunately, we have looked back into an area that many student hoped had been settled. Still, no reasonable Trustee or Administrator can expect any program of re-education to be effective unless it is informed and uniform. The problem of attitudinal differences is resolved. If the Trustees want to promote development of the goals of the University, the community, they can try but it is useless to contend that thorough enough effort we have moved closer to the true Christian community. It is a form of self-delusion in which unfortunately only those who are not full-time members of the community can engage. For those of us who live here, students, faculty and administrators such deception is useless.

Play Ball

There is no possible way to break Notre Dame up into small and edibble chunks. His dimensions are too complex; its potentialities are too abridged with must. Thus, any introduction, whether it comes from a high University potentate - a resident student Haille Selassie, or the pages of this newspaper, is of necessity incomplete. Attempts to portray Notre Dame as a line drawing inevitably fail; at best the show is one-dimensional, and usually, it's simply false.

So there be no attempt here to say that Notre Dame is a Good Place or a Bad Place or a Mediocre Place or a Groovy Place or No High School, as Observers of the past have done; we don't know how it will be and neither does anyone else. Nor will this polemic turn into an instructional guide to Freshmen, telling all who whirled the Holy Grail and how to find the sweet life. Each Freshmen will probably have learned what Every Freshman Must Learn To Be. Part of the Notre Dame Community by the time he reads today's paper - how to change classes, where to get booze, where to pick up girls. Likewise, maidens SMCers will have learned on their Big Siblings to find out the answer to their most pressing problems - how to ward off drunks, how to lead drunks on, and, most importantly, how to walk out of St. Mary's with a big ring on the fourth digit.

Nor will we attempt to argue that Freshmen should devote their time to campus activities on the grounds that those activities are educational and broadening. They aren't. They are challenging, difficult tasks that are seldom rewarded and even more seldom appreciated. The year will cry out for interested and vigorous Freshmen ready to work for student interests as the merger between Notre Dame and St. Mary's begins, but last year cried out for the same and was answered by a crank for more beer, a belch, and a snore. There are important programs to be solved - how to normalize living conditions, how to normalize relations between the two schools, how to normalize the relationship between Blacks and Whites on both Campuses, how to enrich the Academic Environment - but those problems will probably be left to the into the Rock and Gent Farmer, as they get even last year when student government so often looked like a ball bearing rattling desperately in a vacuum. So we can't call for a vigorous commitment from Freshmen; the time augurs against it.

Instead, in this, the first Observer, editorial of the year, we'll draw out the wisdom of the student body as it was demonstrated last year: be cautious, don't speak loudly, don't campaign, don't work for the things in which you believe, don't join organizations, you'll be called a gaper and a flamer and you'll be laughed at. Instead, get drunk on football weekends - tie one on for the Gipper, ignore student politics and student government; if things get worse then they are now - like if Stephan's law is rigidly enforced - close your eyes; if they get still worse, close your eyes tighter. Play Frisbee on the lawn. What the hell. You'll be out of here in four years.

But Don't Bang Up the Halls

One of the few possible good things that might result from Stephan's law as set down to Eagan that we all might eventually get a stranglehold on vandalism. Each hall looks and pleads - now, but it is only a matter of time until a Notre Dame Drum gets his hands on a hall. Vandalism is a habit that the Rock and Gent Farmer, as they get even last year when student government so often looked like a ball bearing rattling desperately in a vacuum. So we can't call for a vigorous commitment from Freshmen; the time augurs against it.

Instead, in this, the first Observer, editorial of the year, we'll draw out the wisdom of the student body as it was demonstrated last year: be cautious, don't speak loudly, don't campaign, don't work for the things in which you believe, don't join organizations, you'll be called a gaper and a flamer and you'll be laughed at. Instead, get drunk on football weekends - tie one on for the Gipper, ignore student politics and student government; if things get worse then they are now - like if Stephan's law is rigidly enforced - close your eyes; if they get still worse, close your eyes tighter. Play Frisbee on the lawn. What the hell. You'll be out of here in four years.

The Staff

Night Editors, Joe Cassini, Jim McDermott
Layout and Headlines, John Abowd, Anthony Abowd, Marty Miller
Features Editor, Rick Smith
Sports Editor, Jim Donaldson

News Editor, John Abowd
Associate Editors, Ed Ellis, Ann Therese Darin
Ad Layout, Steve Dollinger
Night Controller, John Brady
SMC Editor, Ann Conway
Managing Editor, Don Ruane
THE OBSERVER

Chambers meets with R.A.'s

Fr. Thomas Chambers, Director of Student Residence, announced Tuesday that he did not give any new directives to the campus Resident Assistants during their three day orientation program.

Chambers asserted that it has always been the duty of the RA to "keep the good order of the hall," and that neither Fr. Hesburgh nor Mr. Stephan's letter changes these duties in any way.

The Morrissey hall rector feels that the RA "is a part of the team of the hall and should contribute his utmost to maintain a friendly spirit within the hall."

Although the duties are basically similar to last year's, Chambers noted a difference in the fact that RA's are making a special effort this year to be available to the student who needs help. All the Resident Assistants were encouraged, Chambers said, to post a schedule of their hours.

Chambers is in keeping with the RA's contract which reads, "He (the Resident Assistant) should be available to the student a major portion of the evening hours, - at least four hours."

In answer to an inquiry about the RA's whose contracts were not renewed this year, Fr. Chambers pointed out that he bases his evaluations on recommendations from the rectors under whom the Resident Assistants worked during the previous years. In this year's case, the rectors' recommendations were not favorable, and therefore, the RA's in question were not renewed.

Tracey rejected for SLC

Elected to the SLC last spring, Ann Marie Tracey has been refused her seat by the Board of Trustees.

At their regular meeting this summer the board refused to seat Miss Tracey because of the constitutional requirement that SLC members be Notre Dame students.

Acting on a recommendation by SBP John Underman, student representative; Professor Conway, faculty representative and Mr. Jack Detzler, an administration representative, the Board approved the latter portion of the proposal.

Miss Tracey could not be reached for comment on the Trustees' action.

The three SMC members are Missy Underman, student representative; Professor Conway, faculty representative and Mr. Jack Detzler, an administration representative.

In other student government news, the Notre Dame-SMC student governments are working toward their goal of complete merger by the next SBP elections.

According to Ed Ellis, head of Research and Development, "Student government must provide leadership by merging itself if coeducation is to progress."

Ellis is planning to set up a committee to study the creation of a new constitution, necessitated by the merger of student governments. He hopes the new constitution will do the best job of handling the best aspects of the former SMC constitutions.

A new constitution would require approval of the Student Senate and the St. Mary's Assembly. If this method encountered difficulties, it could be placed before the student body for approval.

Three ND students die during summer

Three Notre Dame students died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.

They are:

William F. Spellman, of Jeffersonville, Ind., died of cancer June 5. He was a senior in the College of Arts and Letters and lived at 256 Fisher Hall until he died during the summer, two as a result of accidents and one from cancer.
of muffin-burger moppets and Jesus freaks

At night in the Muffin-burger grill next to Jack Demarest on Broadway, you could see them: the pavement princesses of W. 46th Street, practitioners of harlotry in New York City. As a priest of the neighborhood, I was aware that we often saw people gathering each evening to enjoy the drum-beat of salvation. Basically, the group was composed of about twenty youngsters, very attractive and terribly sincere, who wanted to witness to their faith in Christ in the vilest public context. They could think of no earth, namely, Duffy Square; their zeal was not exactly a compliment to the neighborhood. The adult Christians who made up the group were often not so beautiful as the young people. I think especially of the lady, red-faced and masked with hatred, who screamed of her Christ-joy when a Black polemicist denied her the promise of the Resurrection of the "Lady," he said, to a Louise Armstrong kind of voice, "when you die they gonna bury you. You'll just sit in the ground and throw in the dirt, and you ain't gonna go nowhere because THAT-IS-IT!" Listening to her the village of Vietnam.

Only two blocks away from the Magdalene strip on 46th Street, at the foot of Fr. Duffy's statue in Times Square, was the Jesus corner. Here the Jesus people circulated and took time off from hustling, was the only neutral territory I knew of where I could meet them socially. Only once during the summer did they approach the holy turf of Mother Church: that was a night when the police, as part of their crackdown on Muffin-burger moppets, were in full view, casual and sauntering like the virgins of the Lord's parable. Sometimes I would pause mid-muffin to greet them with a nod as they ran into neighboring stools, hastily and bothered like gladiators; or I would listen to them speaking among themselves in the salty idiom of the sensuous 49th Street parish of Malachy's. As someone has outrageously pause mid-muffin to greet them with a nod as they run. Seeing three of the girls trapped in front of a number, very attractive and shoulder to shoulder, I would listen to them speaking among themselves in the salty idiom of the sensuous woman.

But it was as their pastor, not their voyeur, that I watched their antics and the Muffin-burger, during their coffee breaks when they took time off from hustling, was the only neutral territory I knew of where I could meet them socially. Only once during the summer did they approach the holy turf of Mother Church: that was a night when the police, as part of their crackdown on prostitution, swept onto the street from both directions in an attempt to arrest the girls who had no place to run. Seeing three of the girls trapped in front of St. Malachy's, I wordlessly opened the rectory door and motored them in. Wordlessly they trooped onto the sacrament of sanctuary, where they remained huddled together in silence until the police action was ended; and their sad eyes and false lashes gave them a look like Barnie's.

Without sentimentalizing, I think I rather loved those Muffin-burger moppets. As someone has notoriously remarked, all of us at times these days are playing at the harlots' game, and what the girls are doing on 46th Street is not nearly as bad as what the Government is doing at an even higher price in rebuttal set back my own immortal longings to the level of the village atheist's.

The principle Preacher of the Jesus-people was a hipster leader of the "Last Sunset Band," who grooved on Gospel verses and got more euphoric than a speed freak at the drugshack of that mythology of Times Square: "They call me a freak," he would say, and it's true: I am a freak... but I'm a Jesus-freak. harassment.

And so we say, on a day to day basis, this is a life of not too quiet desperation. Just thought I'd take some of your precious time, I don't really know why I'd the program on non-violence needs copies of the last of the just by schwartz-bart they will be returned at the end of the semester or you may exchange for another interesting book. come to g 129 in the library or the office's flanner hall

Of course, the Preacher was a flower child of Fulton-Malachy's. He was one of those people who once seemingly slumbered in a place like the East Village, where he was a successful tailor at the Velvet Underground. For a while he seemed very sincere, this preacher who allowed himself to be drenched and fingered and crepted. For a time I was deeply moved by the courage of the Sunset Boulevardier who desired purity, purity, purity, purity, even to the hustlers. For whole weeks of the summer I arranged my life so that I could attend the closing moments of the Jesus rally each night, when the Times Square Christians would lift up their hands to the dark skies above Manhattan in the singing of the Our Father.

In the end the Preacher was a great disappointment. Constantly he spoke of the miracles of grace at Duffy Square where, he said, the Holy Spirit was working overtime to sanctify the lost sheep of Gotham. For weeks I watched for signs that Jesus had come to the crosswalk. If he had come, I think I would have recognized Him, for He and I are not completely strange. Jesus did not come, at least not in the way that the Preacher said He would. Nobody got higher on Jesus than on acid; people still got their kicks from champagne, and the dirty book stores and dirty shows and immoral women were as busy as ever with the crowds who had been to the Jesus corner.

One night the Preacher mentioned he thought he should have an impecunious service. "Get me some soul's to baptize," he said. "Get me about four hundred of them. Gonna have to use the pool over at the Time-Life building to fill them all." It was then that I knew the Preacher was dishonest—sincere perhaps in his preaching but in dishonor when his salvation. God know I wanted the Preacher to have four hundred converts, but I was aware that they did not exist. I was too much in need of Jesus-freaking. I wanted to be patient with the Preacher's fantasy, so after that I decided to look for God's-freaking-experience in other parts of the City.

This last night I was in New York, I rode by Duffy Square for a final time. The Jesus-freaks were there, all twenty of them, together with the usual crowd of pimps and beatniks. But the Preacher in whose name the work was carried on had disappeared from the scene. The Preacher was a Jesus-freak, and the work was done for the God's-freaking-experience.

They were there, a small gesture to Manhattan, I decided to stop for tea at the grill that is next to Dempsey's. It's very interesting leading to rub shoulders with the working classes.

The summer's still with us, more or less, I guess, though you might not think so. And anyway it's too early to do any clear and lucid analysis of the present historical mood. Don't really know why I'd want to do such a stupid thing, anyway, you know. "Was your summer?" a thousand times, probably more. "OK". Apparent entrapment in mediocrity leading to overwhelming triteness, or something like that.

And people always come down on me so often for dwelling on it, much as I try to keep it out. So I guess I'll deal with what's happening now and how that might be related, at least, in some abstract, theoretical way to the coming winter campaign. Words are a waste most of the time anyhow. And when you're doing nothing in us, off the cuff way, there's no sense trying to fake it. Even though so much around here lends itself to an expertise in faking.

So if you are new here this is called the features page. And if you're not new here, this is still called the features page. Avoiding cynicism and bitter tirade at costs, hard though that may be. Thus, this page more or less represents a concession of sorts to the arty craftsy arts and letters clique here. So no book concert and film reviews, book reviews, famous and near famous person interviews. And we also sometimes devote space to asking some interesting or worthwhile project or going on about here. Trying above all to let halfway maintain the appearance of civilization, you know.

Ideally, and I often wonder why one bothers wasting time on ideals in these "interesting" times, by E. J. Kinkopf '72

By now all of you frosh and returning vets should have become acquainted and reacquainted with the college grind via that semi-annual travesty called registration. Perhaps you were not made for a life of endless lines, shuffling those pesky IBM cards, and being treated like a person (1) instead of a number of Coach Ara Parseghian sat in his office in the Convocation center shuffling four names, four talents that have been battling since spring practice for the top signal caller job on the '71 Irish squad.

Ara and his aides have been playing musical quarterbacks almost six months now. And one has to believe that the choice will not be made until the Wildcats from Northwestern place their lettered behind Joe Theismann, Etter. Let's see, 1969 season, segment. Those four candidates are running from scrimmage that year for a return of vets should have grind via that semi-annual travesty called registration. And reacquainted with the college shuffling those freaky IBM cards, have been battling since spring job on the '71 Irish squad.

Until that time the four candidates will be doing sprints, rollouts and wobble-8-options in the dreams of Coach Parseghian. Those four candidates are Jim Bulger, Pat Steenberg, Cliff Brown and ah... wait... it's coming back... yea, Bill Etter.

Yea, there are four good Eggers,Etter. Let's see, 1969 season, lettered behind Joe Theismann, for 12 passing and 63 yards in 29 rushing attempts for a 10.7 average, fifth on the team in total offense with 365 yards in 41 plays and the longest run from scrimmage that year with a 79 yard sprint against Navy.

Well where was he last year? No, he didn't pull a Pumpkie Green and split to Israel. Nor did he call it quits and join Hawk Harrelson on the links.

WE HAVE A PROBLEM

The position requires from 3 to 6 hrs. work during the afternoon and early evening Sun. through Thurs. (usually about 4½ hrs). All days are open. You can choose to work one or two days per week. Starting salary is $6.00 per night. Raises are commensurate with experience and ability. If you are interested , please call 283-7471 between 1:00 and 5:00 p.m. Mon.- Fri.

Bill Etter is back and battling

Bill feels that the race this year is wide open, mainly because no one has any real advantage as far as experience goes. "A lot of the sportswriters say Notre Dame has a helluva problem at quarterback. But it's not because of a lack of talent. Any one of the four can get the job done. The experience is the question, reading defenses and poise under fire."

And not only does Etter have to go against Bulger, Steenberg and Brown, but he has another handicap. Bill has been away from the game for a year. The mechanics of his game are still a little rusty.

"I worked to keep in shape, but at first I mentally divorced myself from thoughts about football. Now I'm ready mentally again, but little things, little techniques that used to be automatic, are still a little slow."

The blond moustachiod West him through much of the life."

Bill Etter is in the midst of the battle for the ND quarterback spot retiring. Howe's retirement, announced yesterday by sports columnist Scott Hempel of the New York Times News Service, was caused by the arthritis which plagued him throughout the 1970 season. But despite arthritic condition, Howe was a natural at right elbow, and torn cartilage in his right rib cage, Howe wound up fighting for the top honors. And today.

The Graduate View

The Numbers Game

Last year, when "Theissman For Heisman" was bug on buttons, the ND Sports Information Office did some statistical juggling.

Getting the Heisman on his is a habit to pull off and Sports Information Directors across the country try their best to get the big baffle for their man. That Joe would break the total offense marks of the Gipper and Terry Hanratty by the end of the season was a foregone conclusion. But the end of the season was too late for pre-vote publicity. Everything helps. So, the Sports Information Office readily added Joe's considerable 1690 Cotton Bowl figure (729 yards) to his career totals.

As chief numbers freak I asked Roger Valdiserri if this was to be his lay-out this year. Someone in Roger's office has put in a heavy summer's work and 'Theissman for Heisman' is the result. Mike Pavlin

The net result has been several meteoric rises and falls among the Way back and step into Jersey maybe he'll be able to come all the way back and step into Jersey Joe's retired cleats. If he does, we can get busy scraping those Theissman for Heisman stickers off the bumpers of our cars, and replace them with 'Better with Etter,' or 'Etter is better' or maybe 'This Year We're B'Etter,' or how about......

Gordie Howe calls it quits

After 25 record-breaking, pace-setting years with the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, Gordie Howe is retiring.

Howe's retirement, announced yesterday by sports columnist Scott Hempel of the New York Times News Service, was caused by the arthritis which plagued him throughout the 1970 season. But despite arthritic condition, Howe was a natural at right elbow, and torn cartilage in his right rib cage, Howe wound up fighting for the top honors. And today.

Mike Pavlin

The net result has been several meteoric rises and falls among the Way back and step into Jersey maybe he'll be able to come all the way back and step into Jersey Joe's retired cleats. If he does, we can get busy scraping those Theissman for Heisman stickers off the bumpers of our cars, and replace them with 'Better with Etter,' or 'Etter is better' or maybe 'This Year We're B'Etter,' or how about......

Gordie Howe calls it quits

After 25 record-breaking, pace-setting years with the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, Gordie Howe is retiring.

Howe's retirement, announced yesterday by sports columnist Scott Hempel of the New York Times News Service, was caused by the arthritis which plagued him throughout the 1970 season. But despite arthritic condition, Howe was a natural at right elbow, and torn cartilage in his right rib cage, Howe wound up fighting for the top honors. And today.

The net result has been several meteoric rises and falls among the Way back and step into Jersey maybe he'll be able to come all the way back and step into Jersey Joe's retired cleats. If he does, we can get busy scraping those Theissman for Heisman stickers off the bumpers of our cars, and replace them with 'Better with Etter,' or 'Etter is better' or maybe 'This Year We're B'Etter,' or how about......

Gordie Howe calls it quits

After 25 record-breaking, pace-setting years with the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, Gordie Howe is retiring.

Howe's retirement, announced yesterday by sports columnist Scott Hempel of the New York Times News Service, was caused by the arthritis which plagued him throughout the 1970 season. But despite arthritic condition, Howe was a natural at right elbow, and torn cartilage in his right rib cage, Howe wound up fighting for the top honors. And today.

The net result has been several meteoric rises and falls among the Way back and step into Jersey maybe he'll be able to come all the way back and step into Jersey Joe's retired cleats. If he does, we can get busy scraping those Theissman for Heisman stickers off the bumpers of our cars, and replace them with 'Better with Etter,' or 'Etter is better' or maybe 'This Year We're B'Etter,' or how about......

Gordie Howe calls it quits

After 25 record-breaking, pace-setting years with the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, Gordie Howe is retiring.

Howe's retirement, announced yesterday by sports columnist Scott Hempel of the New York Times News Service, was caused by the arthritis which plagued him throughout the 1970 season. But despite arthritic condition, Howe was a natural at right elbow, and torn cartilage in his right rib cage, Howe wound up fighting for the top honors. And today.

The net result has been several meteoric rises and falls among the Way back and step into Jersey maybe he'll be able to come all the way back and step into Jersey Joe's retired cleats. If he does, we can get busy scraping those Theissman for Heisman stickers off the bumpers of our cars, and replace them with 'Better with Etter,' or 'Etter is better' or maybe 'This Year We're B'Etter,' or how about......
THE OBSERVER

Irish still looking for new QB

by Jim Donaldson

When a coach loses a player of Joe Theismann's caliber you might expect him to be singing the blues but the only tune Ara Parseghian is humming this fall is the Notre Dame Victory March. Theismann, the most prolific offensive performer in Notre Dame history has graduated, along with 12 other monogram winners, but 26 members of last season's 15-man club return.

"We had much improved blocking in last Saturday's scrimmage," Parseghian remarked. "We moved the ball effectively although our passing is not yet what it was last season. Right now our passing game is adequate and improving."

Minor injuries to Etter and Steenberge have slowed the progress of the Irish aerial offense. Etter missed Saturday's scrimmage because of a hip pointer and Steenberge is nursing pulled hamstring and groin muscles.

"Whoever gets the starting nod at quarterback in the Irish offense with Northwesterners Sept. 18 will have a number of experienced receivers and an abundance of talented runners to call on. All-American Tom Gatewood, who set a Notre Dame record for receptions in a season last year by grabbing 77 passes, will return at split end. Talented junior Mike Craney will be back at his tight end spot and this pair will be backed up by a couple of experience pass catchers, senior wide receiver Bill Trapp and John Tereschuck, a junior.

Senior Ed Gulyas, the top ground gainer on last year's team, with 506 yards, heads the ball carrying crew. Larry Parker and John Cieszkowski are likely to join Gulyas in the starting backfield while Bob Minsux, Darryl Dwan, Bill Gallagher, speedy soph Greg Bill and Andy Hult recovered from his shoulder injury that sidelined him last season, are waiting in the wings.

Up front, where starters Gary Kon, All-American Larry Musuraca, John Raterman and Mike Martin have graduated, Parseghian is currently going with Dan Novak at center, John Kondrick and soph Frank Pomarico at guard and Jim Humbert and John Damper at the tackle spots.

Just how effective the Irish offense will be in '71 remains to be seen but there seems to be little doubt that the Notre Dame defense, which boasts a pair of All-Americans and eight honorable mention All-Americans' number 2 club in total defense, will be one of the best in the land. Walt Patutski, 6'5", 255 pound defensive end and co-captain of the Irish secondary was picked for pre-season All-American choice by most of the national football writers. Clarence Ellis, Notre Dame's outstanding defensive back has also been named to just about everyone's pre-season All-America eleven.

"We've got more experience on the defensive team this season than we've had in a number of years," Parseghian said. "Patutski is a tremendous player and a great individual. Eric Patton is one of the premier linebackers we've had at Notre Dame. And we'll have our three deep backs returning for another season."

Ralph Stepaniak and Mike Pomarico with Ellis in the Irish secondary. Patton leads a linebacking crew headed by Rich Thomann, Jim Musuraca, John Raterman, and John Cieszkowski. Joining Patutski in the front line are monogram winners Gulyas, Terry Fuchter and Fred Swendson.

The Irish face a demanding schedule in '71 and they start the season All-American is much the same.

"Sure," said Gatewood, "but it's not that important. And besides, we're after a team championship, not individual honors."

But the Irish have a quarterback problem to solve before they can shoot for the National Title. Pre-season All-American is much the same.

"As I've said before, we're not as concerned with our ranking in September as we are with finishing number one, as we are with

"We've got a lot of seniors on this year's team, and we've been playing for three years without a National Championship. We're hungry this year, and we want the National Title. Pre-season polls don't mean a thing."

Gatewood's own attitude towards being tagged as a pre-season All-American is much the same.

"We want the national title" - Gatewood

by Vic Dary

Tom Gatewood has been the starting split end on Notre Dame's varsity football team for the past two years, and the senior receiver from Baltimore, Md., has accumulated 506 yards, 474 yards and eight touchdowns with 17 receptions in his two years.

Injuries, except for Bill Etter's hip pointer, have been scarce, and the team will slowly working towards its September 18th opener with the Northwestern Wildcats.

"There haven't been any serious injuries. "I've been very pleased with our depth." So far I

"We've got a lot of seniors on this year's team, and we've been playing for three years without a National Championship. We're hungry this year, and we want the National Title. Pre-season polls don't mean a thing."

Gatewood's own attitude towards being tagged as a pre-season All-American is much the same.

"Sure, it's nice," he said, "but it's not that important. And besides, we're after a team championship, not individual honors."

But the Irish have a quarterback problem to solve before they can shoot for the National Title, and the race for the signal-calling position is one that will have a good deal of bearing on Gatewood's effectiveness this season.

"Joe (Theismann) and I worked together well because we had two years to practice together," he said. But this year things will be a little different, I don't have any idea who the quarterback will be, and it may take us a while to getking worked out the way we want it. But the offense will come around with practice—we've got no doubts about that.

"Right now, the defense is probably ahead of the offense, but that's not unusual. It always happens that way. We'll be depending on the defense during our first two or three games, but after that things should begin to even themselves out.

As for Northwesterners, we haven't put in any defense against them yet-and we won't until about a week before the game. They (the Wildcats) play Michigan this weekend, and what we do against them will depend a lot on what they do against Michigan. Their defense may have changed a lot since they played us last year.

The 6'2', 208 pound Gatewood will be serving as the offensive captain for this year's team. (Walt Patutski will captain the defense) and is almost certain to be a first-round pick in the '71 pro football draft. But Gatewood is not yet sold on his career in professional football.

"I've given pro ball some thought," he said, "but that's not the way I've always thought anything. I'm interested in a law career, too, and need to go to grad school if I stay with law. Pretty soon I'm going to have to make a choice. But I haven't made it yet."
8:30 Friday
Stepan Center
1.50 at the door

Presented by Social Commission
& the North Quad

THE OBSERVER

Times Wire

Observer Editor Glen Corso announced late last night that the campus daily would henceforth carry the New York Times service for national and international news. In an unrelated development, Corso also announced that The Observer would be carrying a twice-monthly news supplement, beginning October 28.

The supplemental magazine, which shall be called Monitor, will be headed by Observer Executive Editor T. C. Treasurer. According to Treasurer, the magazine will be "an in-depth news journal, with commentary on books, movies, contemporary music, and ideas."

Tom Bornholdt, a junior from Westchester County in New York, will be one of the Magazine’s two Executive Editors. The other Executive Editor will be announced next Friday.

$429
NOW BUYS
YOU ALL
THE MUSIC

Until very recently, if you set out with about 400 dollars to buy a complete stereo system, you were in for a disappointment: you could not buy a stereo system at or near that price which could reproduce the lowest octave of deep bass. In fact, to get a system which would adequately reproduce the lowest musical tones (including those that are felt). The new Advent speakers are the only loudspeaker that can reproduce the lowest octave of bass. In fact, to get a stereo system at or near that price which could reproduce the lowest octave of bass, you could not spend about six hundred dollars. Until very recently, if you would buy a stereo system at or near that price which could reproduce the lowest octave of deep bass, you could not spend about six hundred dollars.

The new Advent speaker system is the only loudspeaker ic which can duplicate the inaudible sound and reliability than it may realistically substantiate may be commensurate with experience and ability. No previous experience is necessary. If you are interested please call 303-7471 between 1:00 and 5:00 p.m., Mon.-Fri.

The Observer advertising department would like to welcome the students back to Notre Dame and St. Mary's. We would like to remind you that the Observer carries a Classified Advertisement section each day as a service to students who would like to buy or sell an item; are looking for a job, travel opportunities or car; have lost or found valuables; or who wish to publish a "peanuts" personal message.

The rates are listed below and payment must be received before publication. So if you need us, simply mail the message with payment to Box 11 or drop by our office on the third floor of La Fortune any weekday between 1 and 5.

We wish you the best of luck at ND and St. Mary's and hope we can be of service. For questions call 1471.

The Observer advertising department would like to welcome the students back to Notre Dame and St. Mary’s. We would like to remind you that the Observer carries a Classified Advertisement section each day as a service to students who would like to buy or sell an item; are looking for a job, travel opportunities or car; have lost or found valuables; or who wish to publish a "peanuts" personal message.

The rates are listed below and payment must be received before publication. So if you need us, simply mail the message with payment to Box 11 or drop by our office on the third floor of La Fortune any weekday between 1 and 5.

We wish you the best of luck at ND and St. Mary's and hope we can be of service. For questions call 1471.

Fr. Burtchaell announces
administration changes

The Reverend James T. Burtchaell, C.S.C., Provost of the University of Notre Dame, announced the following administrative changes:

- Robert L. Ackerman - Assistant Dean of Students
- William Bartlett - Acting Dean-Director for Education
- Dennis Dugan - Chairman of the Department of Graduate Studies
- Martin Bolz, CSC - Assistant Vice President for Graduate Instruction
- Robert C. Burrell - Director of the Department of Theology
- Lee M. Corbett - Dean of Administration
- Dennis Dugan - Chairman of the Department of Economics
- Robert C. Burrell - Director of the Department of Administration
- Robert F. Grande - Assistant Dean of the Freshman Year of Studies
- Emil T. Holman - Dean of the Freshman Year of Studies
- Francis M. Kobayashi - Assistant Vice President for Research and Sponsored Programs
- William L. Hulse - Chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology
- John Magee - Director of the Radiation Laboratory
- Daniel O. Oserger - Director of Finance and Aid
- Donald Rosenblatt - Associate Registrar
- Thomas Shaffer - Dean of the Law School
- Richard Sullivan - Registrar of the University
- Joseph L. Walter, CSC - Chairman of the Department of Preprofessional Studies

PERSONS

$429
NOW BUYS
YOU ALL
THE MUSIC

power rating system). Its FM tuner is sensitive and selective, bringing in the weak stations as well as the strong ones with astonishing fullness and clarity. The Garrard SL55B automatic turntable com­pletes the system. It has inaudible wow and rumble and such conveniences as a stereo system at or near that price which could reproduce the lowest octave of deep bass, you could not spend about six hundred dollars.

The Observer advertising department would like to welcome the students back to Notre Dame and St. Mary's. We would like to remind you that the Observer carries a Classified Advertisement section each day as a service to students who would like to buy or sell an item; are looking for a job, travel opportunities or car; have lost or found valuables; or who wish to publish a "peanuts" personal message.

The rates are listed below and payment must be received before publication. So if you need us, simply mail the message with payment to Box 11 or drop by our office on the third floor of La Fortune any weekday between 1 and 5.

We wish you the best of luck at ND and St. Mary's and hope we can be of service. For questions call 1471.

The Observer advertising department would like to welcome the students back to Notre Dame and St. Mary’s. We would like to remind you that the Observer carries a Classified Advertisement section each day as a service to students who would like to buy or sell an item; are looking for a job, travel opportunities or car; have lost or found valuables; or who wish to publish a "peanuts" personal message.

The rates are listed below and payment must be received before publication. So if you need us, simply mail the message with payment to Box 11 or drop by our office on the third floor of La Fortune any weekday between 1 and 5.

We wish you the best of luck at ND and St. Mary's and hope we can be of service. For questions call 1471.

The Observer advertising department would like to welcome the students back to Notre Dame and St. Mary’s. We would like to remind you that the Observer carries a Classified Advertisement section each day as a service to students who would like to buy or sell an item; are looking for a job, travel opportunities or car; have lost or found valuables; or who wish to publish a "peanuts" personal message.

The rates are listed below and payment must be received before publication. So if you need us, simply mail the message with payment to Box 11 or drop by our office on the third floor of La Fortune any weekday between 1 and 5.

We wish you the best of luck at ND and St. Mary's and hope we can be of service. For questions call 1471.

The Observer advertising department would like to welcome the students back to Notre Dame and St. Mary’s. We would like to remind you that the Observer carries a Classified Advertisement section each day as a service to students who would like to buy or sell an item; are looking for a job, travel opportunities or car; have lost or found valuables; or who wish to publish a "peanuts" personal message.

The rates are listed below and payment must be received before publication. So if you need us, simply mail the message with payment to Box 11 or drop by our office on the third floor of La Fortune any weekday between 1 and 5.

We wish you the best of luck at ND and St. Mary's and hope we can be of service. For questions call 1471.

Fr. Burtchaell announces
administration changes

The Reverend James T. Burtchaell, C.S.C., Provost of the University of Notre Dame, announced the following administrative changes:

- Robert L. Ackerman - Assistant Dean of Students
- William Bartlett - Acting Dean-Director for Education
- Dennis Dugan - Chairman of the Department of Graduate Studies
- Martin Bolz, CSC - Assistant Vice President for Graduate Instruction
- Robert C. Burrell - Director of the Department of Theology
- Lee M. Corbett - Dean of Administration
- Dennis Dugan - Chairman of the Department of Economics
- Robert C. Burrell - Director of the Department of Administration
- Robert F. Grande - Assistant Dean of the Freshman Year of Studies
- Emil T. Holman - Dean of the Freshman Year of Studies
- Francis M. Kobayashi - Assistant Vice President for Research and Sponsored Programs
- William L. Hulse - Chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology
- John Magee - Director of the Radiation Laboratory
- Daniel O. Oserger - Director of Finance and Aid
- Donald Rosenblatt - Associate Registrar
- Thomas Shaffer - Dean of the Law School
- Richard Sullivan - Registrar of the University
- Joseph L. Walter, CSC - Chairman of the Department of Preprofessional Studies

PERSONS

$429
NOW BUYS
YOU ALL
THE MUSIC

power rating system). Its FM tuner is sensitive and selective, bringing in the weak stations as well as the strong ones with astonishing fullness and clarity. The Garrard SL55B automatic turntable com­pletes the system. It has inaudible wow and rumble and such conveniences as a stereo system at or near that price which could reproduce the lowest octave of deep bass, you could not spend about six hundred dollars.

The Observer advertising department would like to welcome the students back to Notre Dame and St. Mary’s. We would like to remind you that the Observer carries a Classified Advertisement section each day as a service to students who would like to buy or sell an item; are looking for a job, travel opportunities or car; have lost or found valuables; or who wish to publish a "peanuts" personal message.

The rates are listed below and payment must be received before publication. So if you need us, simply mail the message with payment to Box 11 or drop by our office on the third floor of La Fortune any weekday between 1 and 5.

We wish you the best of luck at ND and St. Mary's and hope we can be of service. For questions call 1471.

The Observer advertising department would like to welcome the students back to Notre Dame and St. Mary’s. We would like to remind you that the Observer carries a Classified Advertisement section each day as a service to students who would like to buy or sell an item; are looking for a job, travel opportunities or car; have lost or found valuables; or who wish to publish a "peanuts" personal message.

The rates are listed below and payment must be received before publication. So if you need us, simply mail the message with payment to Box 11 or drop by our office on the third floor of La Fortune any weekday between 1 and 5.

We wish you the best of luck at ND and St. Mary's and hope we can be of service. For questions call 1471.

The Observer advertising department would like to welcome the students back to Notre Dame and St. Mary’s. We would like to remind you that the Observer carries a Classified Advertisement section each day as a service to students who would like to buy or sell an item; are looking for a job, travel opportunities or car; have lost or found valuables; or who wish to publish a "peanuts" personal message.

The rates are listed below and payment must be received before publication. So if you need us, simply mail the message with payment to Box 11 or drop by our office on the third floor of La Fortune any weekday between 1 and 5.

We wish you the best of luck at ND and St. Mary's and hope we can be of service. For questions call 1471.