The ecological outlook is bright for the decade of the 70's according to Congressman Henry Reuss, speaking in the Library Auditorium last night on Ecology and Politics.

Congressman Reuss, of the fifth Congressional District of Wisconsin, is the Chairman of the House Conservation and Natural Resources Committee. He is also a member of the Sub-Committee on Air Pollution.

Congressman Reuss opened his lecture with the encouraging prediction that the decade of the 70's is "changing for the better." It is his belief that our environment is improving because "young people who care about the environment and demand that pollution be stopped. They do this by chiding politicians into passing laws and evolving new ways of living. They find out how to live in harmony with nature instead of fighting it."

The House Sub-Committee works on enforcing pollution laws and "getting laws previously passed" on pollution. One such law was uncovered last year in the congressional hearing in 1899. The law stated that "Whosoever discharges refuse into lakes or rivers shall be guilty of the crime and fined $2500." A second law of this person will receive a sum of half the fine. Congressman Reuss has also been working on kits instructing how to use the Refuse Act, $2500 of these have been distributed. These kits also inform about Industrial Pollution and Congresswoman Reuss wanted to encourage the others' willingness to discuss the issue. According to Dave Fj Pollution, the meeting was good for everyone, "We got them thinking.

He added that the meeting has "opened up lines of communication."

But Imhoff, HC President, said they discussed each others positions and that "what happens now depends on the SLC." Stephan was particularly pleased, saying after the meeting, "This is the first time that group has impressed me as a body."

Judicial Board Changes
He also noted the Trustees' goal of stricter enrollment. "We want to see this thing (parital violations) up. What they (students) want is a coalition of enforcement and If performance up to now doesn't justify this."

The HPC, in its letter, said it is willing to change the bund of board structure "contingent upon the Board's acceptance of the SLC's future decisions regarding parital violations." The change would place a faculty member on each board and improve the SLC to oversee and periodically evaluate and report the work of each judicial body.

We see no reason why violations within a hall could not be handled by these boards... as opposed to being taken directly to the dean of Students."

Nixon recognizes that true community spirit and a strong sense of student responsibility will develop from such a system." said the president. The sessions were mainly questions and discussion by each group to clarify their own positions and to understand the other. Although no progress was made, both were encouraged by the other's willingness to discuss the issue.

(Continued on page 8)

HPC raps Trustee Board

Claims progress 'implied'

by Don Ruane

and Bill Sohn

The Hall Presidents Council Thursday gave Board of Trustees an implied call for stricter enforcement of parital and alcohol rules. HPC has slowed progress towards a campus spirit of hall community. "We feel the conclusion of the Board of Trustees has impeded us progress towards a campus wide spirit or hall community," the council wrote in a letter given to Board of Trustees yesterday.

The letter given to Board Chairman Edmund Stephan, expressed the belief in student responsibility which could be enhanced by close cooperation between the SLC and the HPC.

"We feel the implementation of our suggestions and closer communication and cooperation between the Hall Presidents and the SLC will foster an attitude within the halls that would be more workable from both the Trustees and the student's points of view."

"For true community spirit to exist... students must have a greatly impeded role in the formulation of policy which most fundamentally govern their lives," they added.

First Meeting

Stephan met with the HPC, the first such meeting between the two, in an afternoon session at the Center for Continuing Education. Earlier, the trustee met with several members of the Student Life Council. Stefan Stephan meets with SLC

W. Dennis Dugan

An attempt to clear the air between the Board of Trustees and the Student Life Council was made Thursday when representatives of the SLC met with Edmund Stephan in the Center for Continuing Education.

The discussion centered around Stephan's letter to the SLC Chairman, Professor William Fig.

"Parital rules seem to be the big issue," Eagan said. He added that the SLC must come up with some sort of guidelines and sanctions concerning parital and drinking rules.

SBP John Barkett felt that the Trustees were in a difficult position because they had to consider both the moral and public relations implications of the problem.

Barkett said, "The Trustees are responsible for the University. How they view their responsibilities and how we view ours when violation hours are the question results in two different interpretations."

Barkett also voiced his opinion that most of the Notre Dame students were responsible enough to handle themselves with regard to parital.

Both Stephan and Barkett agreed that the crux of the problem was a generation gap. Further talks are planned to discuss the problem.

Nixon announces pro-Red China vote

by William Eagan

(Continued from page 7)

The sessions were mainly questions and discussion by each group to clarify their own positions and to understand the other. Although no progress was made, both were encouraged by the other's willingness to discuss the issue. According to Dave Fj Pollution, the meeting was good for everyone, "We got them thinking."

He added that the meeting has "opened up lines of communication."

But Imhoff, HC President, said they discussed each others positions and that "what happens now depends on the SLC."

Stephan was particularly pleased, saying after the meeting, "This is the first time that group has impressed me as a body."

Judicial Board Changes
He also noted the Trustees' goal of stricter enrollment. "We want to see this thing (parital violations) up. What they (students) want is a coalition of enforcement and If performance up to now doesn't justify this."

The HPC, in its letter, said it is willing to change the bund of board structure "contingent upon the Board's acceptance of the SLC's future decisions regarding parital violations."

The change would place a faculty member on each board and improve the SLC to oversee and periodically evaluate and report the work of each judicial body.

"We see no reason why violations within a hall could not be handled by these boards... as opposed to being taken directly to the dean of Students."

Nixon recognizes that true community spirit and a strong sense of student responsibility will develop from such a system." said the president. The sessions were mainly questions and discussion by each group to clarify their own positions and to understand the other. Although no progress was made, both were encouraged by the other's willingness to discuss the issue. According to Dave Fj Pollution, the meeting was good for everyone, "We got them thinking."

He added that the meeting has "opened up lines of communication."

But Imhoff, HC President, said they discussed each others positions and that "what happens now depends on the SLC."

Stephan was particularly pleased, saying after the meeting, "This is the first time that group has impressed me as a body."

Judicial Board Changes
He also noted the Trustees' goal of stricter enrollment. "We want to see this thing (parital violations) up. What they (students) want is a coalition of enforcement and If performance up to now doesn't justify this."

The HPC, in its letter, said it is willing to change the bund of board structure "contingent upon the Board's acceptance of the SLC's future decisions regarding parital violations."

The change would place a faculty member on each board and improve the SLC to oversee and periodically evaluate and report the work of each judicial body.

"We see no reason why violations within a hall could not be handled by these boards... as opposed to being taken directly to the dean of Students."

Nixon recognizes that true community spirit and a strong sense of student responsibility will develop from such a system." said the president.
MONEY isn't everything but lack of it is!

PART-TIME WORK
287-8774

CAR NECESSARY

ATTEND FREE

SPEED-READING LESSON

You’ll Increase Your Reading Speed On The Spot!

World Famous. Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics offers you a free glimpse of what it's like to be able to read and study much faster.

You'll actually be taught how to read and study faster during the exciting Speed Reading Lesson. You'll hear what the faculty members at one of America's foremost colleges says about Evelyn Wood, and watch them read fast!

You'll see why President Ken ney invited Evelyn Wood to the White House to teach his advisors and the Joint Chiefs of Staff how to read faster.

For the first time we are offering a Special Speed Reading Lesson to provide you with a glimpse of what it's like to be able to read and study almost as fast as you can turn pages — and you'll actually participate in the techniques that will improve your reading and study speed on the spot!

You'll find this Special Free offer of increased reading speed to be an exciting and unusual experience.

We want you to decide for yourself the value of becoming a Speed Reader. Evelyn Wood Style.

The Governor came here today to meet late this afternoon with legislative leaders of both parties about the selection of a broad-based "totally representative" committee to study every aspect of the Attica uprising, including his own moves such as his sanctioning the deployment of troopers to retake the prison.

The Governor said his aim was the formation of committee "not appointed by me or the legislature."

A good portion of the Governor's comments were devoted to a reiteration of why he did what he did during the Attica crisis which began last Thursday.

Again, he defended his Com­ missioner of Correction, Russell G. Oswald, calling him "a gutsy guy" who had tried by every peaceable means to meet prison demands and avoid bloodshed to the hostages.

The Governor said he did not think the hostages who died of gun wounds were caught in a "crossfire."

Capitol, decision to wrench the facility was any in­ Prison uprising were caught in a troopers' bullets when the nine hostages slain state's assault force but that were confined, he said, he

They had "to storm the top of the passageways where the barricades had been built leading to the area known as Times Square in the middle of the courtyard."

Grad parking asked
by Neal Loughrey

Grad students living in Carroll Hall have not received a response from the University in regard to an on-campus parking proposal they submitted in July. Copy of the proposal was given to Fr. James Riehle, Dean of Students. The proposal was presented verbally to Fr. Thomas Chambers, the Director of Student Residence, and to Arthur Pears, Director of Security. Fr. Riehle's office gave an immediate negative response. "I doubt if he even read the proposal," stated George Henry, a member of the group who drew up the proposal. On Tuesday Mr. Pears stated that Fr. Riehle had taken over the problem. Fr. Chambers and Fr. Riehle could not be contacted on Tuesday for a response to the proposal.

The proposal outlined and diagrammed the available parking space along with a possible parking area near the stadium and nearby abandoned tennis court. This provides parking for thirty cars. The students offered to paint the lots and maintain them during the winter. In the proposal room was provided for emergency vehicles to pass, and the students offered to pay $25 for parking privileges; undergrads pay only $25.

The students need parking spaces for fifty cars. These additional autos could be ac­
accommodated on two vacant fields adjacent to the hall. If this could not be arranged the students proposed that they set up a bus service among them­selves to the parking lots D-1 and C-3 near the Student and tomato Center.

There are two gates located near the hall used only by university vehicles and delivery trucks which students would be able to use.

ATTENTION ENGINEERING STUDENTS

The N.D. Technical Review magazine invites you to purchase an article, report or any degree of general interest to engineers. Something already written for another purpose may be useful. Questions of inquiries contact Ed Young, Est. Farmer (1941) now retired. (No charge.)

Free SPEED READING Lessons!
SUNDAY AND MONDAY
4, 6, and 8p.m.

Center for Continuing Education
Notre Dame Ave.
Across from the Morris Inn

Evelyn Wood READING DYNAMICS

THE OBSERVER
Friday, September 17, 1971

Rocky: Crossfire kills guards

Fr. Charles Weyer, the rector of Carroll Hall, stated that the administration might be trying to avoid a decision because parking has become a problem for colleges across the country. He speculated that the admin­istration may be trying to return to the policy of seniors­only parking.

The proposal outlined and diagrammed the available parking space along with a possible parking area near the stadium and nearby abandoned tennis court. This provides parking for thirty cars. The students offered to paint the lots and maintain them during the winter. In the proposal room was provided for emergency vehicles to pass, and the students offered to pay $25 for parking privileges; undergrads pay only $25.

The students need parking spaces for fifty cars. These additional autos could be ac­
accommodated on two vacant fields adjacent to the hall. If this could not be arranged the students proposed that they set up a bus service among them­selves to the parking lots D-1 and C-3 near the Student and tomato Center.

There are two gates located near the hall used only by university vehicles and delivery trucks which students would be able to use.

ATTENTION ENGINEERING STUDENTS

The N.D. Technical Review magazine invites you to purchase an article, report or any degree of general interest to engineers. Something already written for another purpose may be useful. Questions of inquiries contact Ed Young, Est. Farmer (1941) now retired. (No charge.)

Free SPEED READING Lessons!
SUNDAY AND MONDAY
4, 6, and 8p.m.

Center for Continuing Education
Notre Dame Ave.
Across from the Morris Inn

Evelyn Wood READING DYNAMICS

THE OBSERVER
Friday, September 17, 1971

Rocky: Crossfire kills guards

Fr. Charles Weyer, the rector of Carroll Hall, stated that the administration might be trying to avoid a decision because parking has become a problem for colleges across the country. He speculated that the admin­istration may be trying to return to the policy of seniors­only parking.

The proposal outlined and diagrammed the available parking space along with a possible parking area near the stadium and nearby abandoned tennis court. This provides parking for thirty cars. The students offered to paint the lots and maintain them during the winter. In the proposal room was provided for emergency vehicles to pass, and the students offered to pay $25 for parking privileges; undergrads pay only $25.

The students need parking spaces for fifty cars. These additional autos could be ac­
accommodated on two vacant fields adjacent to the hall. If this could not be arranged the students proposed that they set up a bus service among them­selves to the parking lots D-1 and C-3 near the Student and tomato Center.

There are two gates located near the hall used only by university vehicles and delivery trucks which students would be able to use.

ATTENTION ENGINEERING STUDENTS

The N.D. Technical Review magazine invites you to purchase an article, report or any degree of general interest to engineers. Something already written for another purpose may be useful. Questions of inquiries contact Ed Young, Est. Farmer (1941) now retired. (No charge.)

Free SPEED READING Lessons!
SUNDAY AND MONDAY
4, 6, and 8p.m.

Center for Continuing Education
Notre Dame Ave.
Across from the Morris Inn

Evelyn Wood READING DYNAMICS
Viet election boycott urged for Buddhists

SAIGON, Sept. 16 - The powerful anti-government An Quang Buddhists call today on South Vietnam's Buddhist majority and "All other freedom and democracy loving people" to boycott the unopposed presidential referendum on October 3.

They have thus joined the slowly coalescing opposition to President Thieu's government, and with a still largely unserogorized group of anti-government intellectuals, students, and army veterans.

In another development, police blanketed the area with tear gas, he distributed a statement accusing the government of having imposed an "unpopular, dictatorial regime," on South Vietnam, and calling for a boycott of the election.

The An Quang Buddhist monks were not directly involved in the voting card burning demonstration, but the issuance of their communique today signaled to many the militant faction's open return to the political scene.

With his eyes streaming from the tear gas, he distributed a statement accusing the American government of having imposed an "unpopular, dictatorial regime," on South Vietnam, and calling for a boycott of the election.

The An Quang Buddhist monks were not directly involved in the voting card burning demonstration, but the issuance of their communique today signaled to many the militant faction's open return to the political scene.

Nixon plans post-freeze restraints

New York Times

Washington - President Nixon declared today that he would substitute a program of "strong, effective restraints" for the major industries after the 90-day freeze on wages and prices expires in November.

The American people "don't want high prices followed by a thaw where you can get stuck in the mud," the President told reporters at an impromptu news conference in the oval office this afternoon.

Nixon declined to discuss specifics of the proposal being drawn up in consultation with business, labor, and agricultural leaders and government officials. But his comments left little doubt that he is in favor of a program of voluntary restraints backed up by legal authority to force rollback of price increases the government would consider inflationary.

"Phase two will be strong," the President said. "It will be effective." And although he said it would "proceed in cooperation of both labor and management," he called it "vitally important" that the following program have teeth in it. "You cannot have something that is effective without teeth," Nixon added.

There was no mention during the conference of a program of voluntary restraint similar to that proposed by Representative Wilbur Mills, Democrat of Arkansas, has advocated a single figure without similar restraints on profits.

Nixon also indicated, in response to a question, that he could live with a congressional cut in his program of a 10 per cent investment tax credit.

Nixon also noted the statement that he was in favor of a program that he leaned toward a government-led approach rather than a tripartite hoard and reaffirmed his interest in controls on corporate profits and dividends.

Labor officials, backed by some Democratic members of Congress, have been sharply critical of the President for freezing wages and prices without similar restraints on profits.

The President also indicated, in response to a question, that he could live with a congressional cut in his program of a 10 per cent investment tax credit.

Nixon also noted the statement that he was in favor of a program that he leaned toward a government-led approach rather than a tripartite hoard and reaffirmed his interest in controls on corporate profits and dividends.

Labor officials, backed by some Democratic members of Congress, have been sharply critical of the President for freezing wages and prices without similar restraints on profits.

The President also indicated, in response to a question, that he could live with a congressional cut in his program of a 10 per cent investment tax credit.

Nixon also noted the statement that he was in favor of a program that he leaned toward a government-led approach rather than a tripartite hoard and reaffirmed his interest in controls on corporate profits and dividends.
Nader's Raider stresses involvement in InPRIG

Streaming the importance of unity in success, Nader Raider Joe Highland urged his Grace Hall audience yesterday to join in a concerted effort to make the Indiana Public Interest Research Group (InPRIG) a reality on this campus. The group, which acts basically as a consumer watch dog group, is solely funded and run by students. The money collected is used to finance research projects and to pay salaries of a number of professionals (lawyers, environmental scientists, etc.) who the group hires on a full time basis to investigate and prosecute its findings.

Calling Public Interest Research Groups a "new aspect of education and simultaneously, a way to get necessary things done," Highland stated that many students are now receiving academic credit in Minnesota, Oregon and other states for consumer-related research projects.

The former Student Coordinator of the Minnesota Public Interest Research Group (MPRIG) cited as a reason for the necessity of PRIG, the failure of certain governmental agencies, such as the Food and Drug Administration.

Highland believes that "People have too much faith in the government. They feel that when they buy hamburger, it is good hamburger, otherwise the store wouldn't sell it." This type of reasoning, Highland feels, necessitates the Public Interest Research Group.

Highland cited as examples of student effort the research done by Connecticut students in the property taxes in the city of Wallingford. Students found that "records were being kept in prostitution and drug use that was a vast difference in rates in the city between Industry and homosouls.

Highland pointed out that Ralph Nader considers students "the backbone of his organization." He noted the pending decisions of the courts in Oregon which was totally student initiated. Workers employed at Oregon State University, Highland revealed, are earning up to $4000 less than men in the same positions.

Highland ended his talk by citing InPRIG as a challenge to the students of Indiana. He assured his audience that the organizational road was a long one, but noted the perseverance of the students in Minnesota and Oregon as examples to follow.

ALSAC to collect

The framework of a campus-wide organization to raise money for leukemia stricken children has been completed and will begin collecting funds tomorrow morning.

Aid to Lukemia Stricken American Children (ALSAC), will use all the funds collected in the ten week campaign that will be directed by Omidshahman Paul Dziedzic and Jack Greely.

Lukemia afflicted children, who recommended by a parent, are eligible for free hospital care and medical attention under ALSAC. Since volunteers do most of the organizational work, fully ninety-five cents out of every dollar contributed goes directly to the hospital.

The youths indicated that lukemia was selected by the group because it is the number one killer of children and that ALSAC performs a vital role in caring for their needs.

Funds will be collected on campus before each home football game. A special effort will be made out side the stadium prior to the Navy game on October 30.

Plans are also being formulated to collect donations during Mass that weekend.

Volunteers are welcome to assist in the campaign. More information is available in room 307 of Grace Hall or 7236.

First pep rally in Stepan

by Jeffery Jackson

The arrival of the new football season marks the arrival of the Notre Dame band, cheerleaders, Meat Squad and pep rallies.

The male "yell-kings" will be headed by Kevin Chismire and include Paul Palinski, Joe Cowin, Bob Bonkendorf, Dewey Arbegast, and Charlie Morrison. They will lead the band from Washington Hall on an imaginative, encircling route which will climax with the rally at Stepan Center.

The new N.D. leprechaun, Danny O'Hara and the Maid Squad will escort the band on the traditional march around the campus. Meeting the band at Stepan Center will be the SMC cheerleaders, Minny McCurry, Terri Buck, Anne Stringer, Rooney Frailey, Carol Cullen, Mary Kraft and Anne Cicle Head Coach Ara Parseghian will address the rally followed by co-captains Tom Gatewood and Walt Patulski who will introduce the 1971 team.

FRESHMAN YEAR OF STUDIES

PEOPLE OF NOTRE DAME

Inaugural Lecture

by

Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C.

Monday, September 20, 1971

7:30 p.m. Washington Hall

presented by Student Union
Social Commission and ACC

THE OBSERVER

Friday, September 17, 1971

IKE & TINA

TURNER REVE

FRESHMAN YEAR OF STUDIES

PEOPLE OF NOTRE DAME

Inaugural Lecture

by

Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C.

Monday, September 20, 1971

7:30 p.m. Washington Hall

presented by Student Union
Social Commission and ACC

THE OBSERVER

Friday, September 17, 1971
THE OBSERVER

soul incarnate by LENNY KAYE

ike & tina - artist & audience

never devised or movement; it is filled with any number of teen-age dance variations, something always gripping, shaking, burning through the air with blasting speed.

If you managed to catch the Rolling Stones on any of their cross-country stops last November, you probably know who i am—talking about. On that same show with them was the Ike and Tina Turner Revue, and their success was so overpowering that in many cases, the Stones had to wait patiently backstage in order to let the crowd cool down enough for them to make their entrance. In San Francisco, Ike and Tina left things in such an uproar that the show was delayed a full forty-five minutes. In New York, the response was nearly as great.

The reason behind all this excitement is not too hard to understand. Ike has taken a common formula—girls, music, almost blatant sexuality—and organized all the pieces into a show that never lets up its assault on the audience. When you're not being confronted with the aston shing depth, range, and power of Tina's ever-so-busy voice, you're being overwhelmed with the spectacle of four incredibly beautiful chicks slamming around the stage like pieces of quicksilver, almost in precision, but not quite enough to take away from the spontaneity of their performance.

On record, as you might expect, a bit of this power has been lost. The Turners' best album to date is the partially Phil Specter-produced River Deep, Mountain High (A & M), though it must be said that each of their other albums contains at least two or three cuts that amply demonstrate how Ike and Tina go about making music. In the title song of their latest release, the Hunter Blue Thumb, they manage to get it on in fine shape: when Tina sings the line about getting "you in the sights of my in­have gun," stretching out that single word to unbelievable lengths, almost caressing it before she is finished, the effect is likely to send shivers down even the least likely of backbones.

But if you care at all about seeing them in top form, the last place to catch them is live, where the visual dynamics of their stage show really have room to come across. Tina is one of the most mixed performers who is able to transform the meaning of words simply by saying them, bringing them all within her personal approach to music. For example, when John Lennon does the song "Come Together," he sings it in a way particularly suited to John Lennon: waltz-like, relying on absurd syllable combinations, endowing it with his own vision and personality. But Tina takes the same song and gives it a whole double meaning. "Get to be good-lookin' 'cause he's so hard to..."—never was remotely hinted at in the Lennon version. The effect is pure dynamite.

The Turners round their show with a pair of songs featuring long recitations by Tina, and invariably, they never fail to provoke large-scale response from an audience. The first, Ota Redding's "I'll Be Loving You (A Little Too Long)," is soft, lustful, Tina standing quietly in a dim spot at the back of the stage. Nobody is sitting up, slightly bouncing in time to the music, getting picked off and carried along by the sheer power controlling them on the stage. There's a strobe light going now, and Tina is dancing with the Ikeets, caught in a single frame, crouching, leaning back, talking to her, with hair falling; leaning back, punching at the air, left foot upraised; her hips shifting and angles, face profiled like some Indian Princess... "Too Much!" That kid rolling around in the aisle was still screaming, and of everybody there, he was the one who put his finger directly on the key.

disc this weekend

The RAP Center is sponsoring a free rock concert this Sunday, 19 September. The concert will be at Howard Park, from two o'clock to seven. There will be free refreshments, and the music is free too. Bands featured will include Atlantis, The Brain Police, and Crazed Pork.

The Last Gasp Film Festival of St. Mary's will screen the Fontaine-Nureyev version of Romeo and Juliet today. It will be shown at thirty, seven and nineteen minutes in the Little Theatre. Admission is twenty-five cents and season tickets will be sold at the door.

It's difficult for me to start this column for a number of reasons. I don't know whether to try to be very clever, overly dramatic, or even terrifically sophisticated. I wonder, if you aren't reading this simply because you didn't enjoy dinner, your friend did and you're stuck waiting for him. Whatever the reason, I sincerely wish you'd make allowances for my poor writing style and try to understand the thought behind this little insight.

Very often I could care less about an article written for a person I didn't know, by someone I cared less about and it always puzzled me as to why they were even written. It's apparent to me now, though, why it is. Every now and then, something, or in this case, someone comes along that you really care about, that sends you thinking, caring and doing. Too often, in your mind, this person maintains an anonymity that should be broken. Enough rambling.

Pat Molinaro is a name that unless you frequented the student government office, probably means nothing to you. I'll address myself then to those who have and to those who are simply interested. She's very much a woman in love with her word and the people she associates with. This feeling is returned by all who know her. She's far above the job of secretary she holds, and does in fact keep student government going. She imparts a spirit that is contagious and filling. She expects work from "her boys" and makes sure what needs to be done, gets done. It's very difficult to write about a feeling.

The walls of the office have for years been covered with pictures of the guys associated with it. These pictures come down, as Pat leaves her desk for good. It isn't going to be a really happy day. If I can address this personally, Pat, that, to say it will be the same, goes undaunted—that this is the end of something, something to be gravely missed by those whose privilege it is to know you. It seems so weak to say this, but you'll know what it means by a sincere "thanks."
The first malt liquor good enough to be called BUDWEISER.
Michigan and soft quarterback Kevin Casey without a first down for the first 21 minutes of their loss last December, won by the Wolverines, 21-6.

Northwestern has a dangerous club," Parseghian commented. "We respect them a great deal. They have a good defense and great offensive line." Good, but not great, was Jim Patson's conclusion.

"They outgained and out-first-downed Michigan last Saturday," he continued. "With a quarter-back like (Maurie) Daigneau and receivers like (Barry) Pearson and (Jim) Lash, they have an explosive passing game." Asked if he thought the Wildcats could have an advantage over the Irish because they're from the Big Ten, Patsonaghian remarked, "Yes, there's no question that that's an advantage. But no one's going to come in and win the Big Ten this year. Northwestern has yet to be defense and great offensive teams."

The return of Fred Swenson to the front four has strengthened an already awesome Irish defensive backfield. Co-Captain Walt Pataki, Swenson, Mike Kladish and Greg Ellis in a quadrangle will be a formidable, dangerous punt return specialist, a top 'Cat defensive backfield.

"It's a big conference for us," Parseghian said. "We're probably going to have three or four games this season that will determine the Big Ten champions."

Michigan quarterback Al Robinson is capable of passing for over 150 yards and 15 passes per season last year. After having 17 receptions from the Big Ten's number one defensive unit in 1970, newcomer Frank Bliss (234) junior vines Wilie Hemby (193), Jim McKee (215), Pat Krawoff (210) in the Cats defense will be watching both at the end zone, along with returners John Voorhees and Jack Derning.

Three starters return from the secondary that held opponents to a mere 319 completions per 41 attempts. Co-Captain Phil Bittle and free safety Rich Heilman leads the all-senior combination. Mike Coughlin will be at strong safety while Jack Dustin and Jerry Brown man the corner spots.

The Wildcats do have a weakness, however. Agase has had to rebuild his entire offensive line, from tackle to tackle. And with a good-sized crew comprised of Paul Gary (252) and Dave Gants (240) in the backfield, Donnie Haynes (229) and Tom McTieger at success points, and Dave Dybas (229) at center were Northwestern's defensive front.

The return of Fred Swenson to the front four has strengthened an already awesome Irish defensive backfield. Co-Captain Walt Pataki, Swenson, Mike Kladish and Greg Ellis in a quadrangle will be a formidable, dangerous punt return specialist, a top 'Cat defensive backfield.

"It's a big conference for us," Parseghian said. "We're probably going to have three or four games this season that will determine the Big Ten champions."

Michigan quarterback Al Robinson is capable of passing for over 150 yards and 15 passes per season last year. After having 17 receptions from the Big Ten's number one defensive unit in 1970, newcomer Frank Bliss (234) junior vines Wilie Hemby (193), Jim McKee (215), Pat Krawoff (210) in the Cats defense will be watching both at the end zone, along with returners John Voorhees and Jack Derning.

Three starters return from the secondary that held opponents to a mere 319 completions per 41 attempts. Co-Captain Phil Bittle and free safety Rich Heilman leads the all-senior combination. Mike Coughlin will be at strong safety while Jack Dustin and Jerry Brown man the corner spots.

The Wildcats do have a weakness, however. Agase has had to rebuild his entire offensive line, from tackle to tackle. And with a good-sized crew comprised of Paul Gary (252) and Dave Gants (240) in the backfield, Donnie Haynes (229) and Tom McTieger at success points, and Dave Dybas (229) at center were Northwestern's defensive front.

The return of Fred Swenson to the front four has strengthened an already awesome Irish defensive backfield. Co-Captain Walt Pataki, Swenson, Mike Kladish and Greg Ellis in a quadrangle will be a formidable, dangerous punt return specialist, a top 'Cat defensive backfield.

"It's a big conference for us," Parseghian said. "We're probably going to have three or four games this season that will determine the Big Ten champions."

Michigan quarterback Al Robinson is capable of passing for over 150 yards and 15 passes per season last year. After having 17 receptions from the Big Ten's number one defensive unit in 1970, newcomer Frank Bliss (234) junior vines Wilie Hemby (193), Jim McKee (215), Pat Krawoff (210) in the Cats defense will be watching both at the end zone, along with returners John Voorhees and Jack Derning.

Three starters return from the secondary that held opponents to a mere 319 completions per 41 attempts. Co-Captain Phil Bittle and free safety Rich Heilman leads the all-senior combination. Mike Coughlin will be at strong safety while Jack Dustin and Jerry Brown man the corner spots.

The Wildcats do have a weakness, however. Agase has had to rebuild his entire offensive line, from tackle to tackle. And with a good-sized crew comprised of Paul Gary (252) and Dave Gants (240) in the backfield, Donnie Haynes (229) and Tom McTieger at success points, and Dave Dybas (229) at center were Northwestern's defensive front.

The return of Fred Swenson to the front four has strengthened an already awesome Irish defensive backfield. Co-Captain Walt Pataki, Swenson, Mike Kladish and Greg Ellis in a quadrangle will be a formidable, dangerous punt return specialist, a top 'Cat defensive backfield.

"It's a big conference for us," Parseghian said. "We're probably going to have three or four games this season that will determine the Big Ten champions."

Michigan quarterback Al Robinson is capable of passing for over 150 yards and 15 passes per season last year. After having 17 receptions from the Big Ten's number one defensive unit in 1970, newcomer Frank Bliss (234) junior vines Wilie Hemby (193), Jim McKee (215), Pat Krawoff (210) in the Cats defense will be watching both at the end zone, along with returners John Voorhees and Jack Derning.

Three starters return from the secondary that held opponents to a mere 319 completions per 41 attempts. Co-Captain Phil Bittle and free safety Rich Heilman leads the all-senior combination. Mike Coughlin will be at strong safety while Jack Dustin and Jerry Brown man the corner spots.

The Wildcats do have a weakness, however. Agase has had to rebuild his entire offensive line, from tackle to tackle. And with a good-sized crew comprised of Paul Gary (252) and Dave Gants (240) in the backfield, Donnie Haynes (229) and Tom McTieger at success points, and Dave Dybas (229) at center were Northwestern's defensive front.
Dear Mr. Stepanian:

For the past three years, Notre Dame has placed a great deal of emphasis on the implementation of community life. A sense of autonomy and community has been fostered by both students and administration. We feel that the recent action of the Board of Trustees has greatly impaired our progress toward a campus-wide spirit of community life. Specifically, we feel that the letter sent by you to Dr. Egan had an inherent disregard for the differences of the twenty unique communities on campus. These differences are manifest not only in the physical structures, but also in the halls and the community organizations.

We the halls, presidents, as the elected heads of the twenty individual halls, bring to this letter the force of our personal experiences in the halls, especially those of the past two on the.

We present this letter from the students to you. Although we cannot overlook the repercussions the Board of Trustees’ stand on drinking will have on community life in the halls, we do understand the legal motivation of this decision. However, we believe this to be a simplistic solution to a complex problem. A situation that increases the probability of these “terrible consequences” when the drinking student is linked to an automobile, we feel, the problem we would like to address ourselves to at this time is that of student responsibility in the halls. We feel the implementation of our suggestions and closer communication and cooperation between the Hall Presidents and the SLC would foster an attitude within the halls that would be more workable from both the Trustees and the students’ points of view.

If the students have a voice in the rules under which they are to live, we feel that subsequent student responsibility will be greatly enhanced. This was the spirit on which the Board of Trustees’ stand on drinking will have on community life in the halls. We are not understanding that legal motivation of this decision. However, we believe this to be a simplistic solution to a complex problem. A situation that increases the probability of these “terrible consequences” when the drinking student is linked to an automobile, we feel, the problem we would like to address ourselves to at this time is that of student responsibility in the halls. We feel the implementation of our suggestions and closer communication and cooperation between the Hall Presidents and the SLC would foster an attitude within the halls that would be more workable from both the Trustees and the students’ points of view.

Dear Mr. Stepanian:

For the past three years, Notre Dame has placed a great deal of emphasis on the implementation of community life. A sense of autonomy and community has been fostered by both students and administration. We feel that the recent action of the Board of Trustees has greatly impaired our progress toward a campus-wide spirit of community life. Specifically, we feel that the letter sent by you to Dr. Egan had an inherent disregard for the differences of the twenty unique communities on campus. These differences are manifest not only in the physical structures, but also in the halls and the community organizations.

We the halls, presidents, as the elected heads of the twenty individual halls, bring to this letter the force of our personal experiences in the halls, especially those of the past two on the.

We present this letter from the students to you. Although we cannot overlook the repercussions the Board of Trustees’ stand on drinking will have on community life in the halls, we do understand the legal motivation of this decision. However, we believe this to be a simplistic solution to a complex problem. A situation that increases the probability of these “terrible consequences” when the drinking student is linked to an automobile, we feel, the problem we would like to address ourselves to at this time is that of student responsibility in the halls. We feel the implementation of our suggestions and closer communication and cooperation between the Hall Presidents and the SLC would foster an attitude within the halls that would be more workable from both the Trustees and the students’ points of view.

If the students have a voice in the rules under which they are to live, we feel that subsequent student responsibility will be greatly enhanced. This was the spirit on which the Board of Trustees’ stand on drinking will have on community life in the halls. We are not understanding that legal motivation of this decision. However, we believe this to be a simplistic solution to a complex problem. A situation that increases the probability of these “terrible consequences” when the drinking student is linked to an automobile, we feel, the problem we would like to address ourselves to at this time is that of student responsibility in the halls. We feel the implementation of our suggestions and closer communication and cooperation between the Hall Presidents and the SLC would foster an attitude within the halls that would be more workable from both the Trustees and the students’ points of view.

There’s nothing newer. Come. See.

We present this letter from the students to you. Although we cannot overlook the repercussions the Board of Trustees’ stand on drinking will have on community life in the halls, we do understand the legal motivation of this decision. However, we believe this to be a simplistic solution to a complex problem. A situation that increases the probability of these “terrible consequences” when the drinking student is linked to an automobile, we feel, the problem we would like to address ourselves to at this time is that of student responsibility in the halls. We feel the implementation of our suggestions and closer communication and cooperation between the Hall Presidents and the SLC would foster an attitude within the halls that would be more workable from both the Trustees and the students’ points of view.

If the students have a voice in the rules under which they are to live, we feel that subsequent student responsibility will be greatly enhanced. This was the spirit on which the Board of Trustees’ stand on drinking will have on community life in the halls. We are not understanding that legal motivation of this decision. However, we believe this to be a simplistic solution to a complex problem. A situation that increases the probability of these “terrible consequences” when the drinking student is linked to an automobile, we feel, the problem we would like to address ourselves to at this time is that of student responsibility in the halls. We feel the implementation of our suggestions and closer communication and cooperation between the Hall Presidents and the SLC would foster an attitude within the halls that would be more workable from both the Trustees and the students’ points of view.

There’s nothing newer. Come. See.