Nixon to meet Soviets at Moscow summit talk

Washington- A costly program of "pacification" and other unconventional warfare strategies for Cambodia that will protect South Vietnam's southern flank as America withdraws its troops from Indochina is said to have been designed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, according to sources in high military circles. There have been budget gimmicks to augment the funds Congress will be asked to provide for the plan.

Washington- A constitutional amendment prohibiting discrimination based on sex was overwhelmingly passed by the House by a vote of 354 to 23. The amendment, favored by women's rights advocates, no longer includes provisions for women, only for draft evasion. The fate of the amendment in the Senate is uncertain and if passed, must be ratified by at least 38 states.

Cancan was said if there was danger of someone being hurt. The disturbance, O'Brien felt, was definitely not caused out of malice, but rather out of thoughtlessness-thoughtlessness for the people who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was disturbed for those who spent many formance was.
Dr. Ackerman, new ass't. dean of students comments on his job

by Larry Dailey

Dr. Robert Ackerman feels that his appointment as the new Assistant Dean of Students is a "reflection of the university's concern towards the development of the student's life outside the classroom." Asked his impression of the role of an assistant dean of a modern university, Ackerman first explained that his position is "not a universal title, since not everybody does the same thing."

Although realizing that he is considered a disciplinarian, Ackerman commented, "I look upon myself as more of an educator and counselor. Acting within these two fields, I feel that I can fulfill my responsibilities towards discipline, since it is an important part of the outer class life of the student." Dr. Ackerman also confessed that he enjoyed "all aspects of university life" and feels that "Notre Dame is at a threshold" in its history. Since he completed his doctorate in the area of student development, Ackerman considers himself professionally trained and hopes to "bring a new perspective to campus life."

He hopes "to bring a new perspective to campus life."

Even though he has been on the campus for only six weeks, Dr. Ackerman has already demonstrated his enthusiasm towards student campus life. Along with members of the hall judicial boards, Dr. Ackerman has undertaken the publication of a manual for members of all hall judicial boards.

Debaters win

The Debate Club captured two trophies over the weekend at the University of Kentucky's annual tournament but failed to win first place.

Seniors Tom Gies and Mike Connor advanced to the semi-finals as a team before losing to a 2-1 decision to the eventual tournament winners.

They argued the affirmative side that present investigative agencies of the welfare program is unfair and violates human rights. The topic for this year is that greater controls should be imposed on the gathering and utilization of information about U.S. citizens by government agencies.

The team of Senior Tom King and Junior Jack Keeney was undefeated in the sex preliminary rounds and reached the quarter-finals, where they lost the 2-1 decision. There were teams from 31 colleges and 17 states in the tournament.

Last week Dr. Ackerman participated in a "rap session" with students concerning parietal, and has also written his interpretation of the Trustee's interest students showed in events occurring on campus. They are always willing to work on problems and also listen to views of others.

Dr. Ackerman also added that he was very impressed with the first Student Life Council meeting "where students exhibited concern and did so in an absolutely commendable manner in a difficult time. In no way, did it resemble a mob."

Because Dr. Ackerman feels that every administrator should teach at one point in his career, he has announced that next semester, in conjunction with the Dept. of Education at St. Mary's College, he will teach a course entitled "The American College." Ackerman hopes to give the college student a look at the "university institution and how it developed in the United States."

"I have a great love for the university as an institution and I hope to show my feeling to the students.

Sophomore Parents Weekend Buffet Dinner Saturday Oct. 30 after the Navy game featured speaker 'DIGGER' PHELPS tickets will be on sale Oct. 11 thru Oct. 15 in the lobby of the Dining Halls

PRICE: $50 those who have already purchased their tickets may pick them up at this time

Washington, October 12- President Nixon said today that he would announce next week his selections to fill two vacancies on the Supreme Court, and he held out the possibility that one of the nominees would be a woman.

Nixon told a news conference that Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, Democratic whip in the Senate, was "Definitely on the list" of persons who were being considered for the court along with "at least two women."

At the same time, however, the President apparently sought to discourage speculation that Byrd was in line for one of the vacancies created by the retirements last month of the late Justice Hugo L. Black, and Justice John M. Harlan.

The President said that what he described as "doe stories" that Byrd was certain to get the nomination and then that he was out of the running were both wrong. "I don't rule out Senator Byrd," he said, but then later he explained that the Senator was being considered "as a result of several of his colleagues recommending him."

White House sources earlier said the list of potential candidates had been narrowed to 10 or 12 persons, and secretly they sought to dampen speculation that Byrd was at the top of the list.

****

*****

Livingston TAYLOR

Saturday, October 16 8:30 pm in the ACC Tickets $4.50, $3.50, $2.00 at The Student Union Ticket Office and Dining Halls presented by Student Union Social Commission and ACC

WASHINGTON - Nixon narrows court choices

President Nixon said today that he would announce next week his selections to fill two vacancies on the Supreme Court, and he held out the possibility that one of the nominees would be a woman.

Nixon told a news conference that Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, Democratic whip in the Senate, was "Definitely on the list" of persons who were being considered for the court along with "at least two women."

At the same time, however, the President apparently sought to discourage speculation that Byrd was in line for one of the vacancies created by the retirements last month of the late Justice Hugo L. Black, and Justice John M. Harlan.

The President said that what he described as "doe stories" that Byrd was certain to get the nomination and then that he was out of the running were both wrong. "I don't rule out Senator Byrd," he said, but then later he explained that the Senator was being considered "as a result of several of his colleagues recommending him."

White House sources earlier said the list of potential candidates had been narrowed to 10 or 12 persons, and secretly they sought to dampen speculation that Byrd was at the top of the list.

*************

WANTED:

*************

Student Union needs a secretary from October 27 through December 18 Mondays and Wednesdays only.

1 to 5 PM. $1.60 per hour

Come to 4th floor LaFortune or call 7752.
2 hall commissions merge

by Ann McCarry

The Academic Commissions of Farley Hall and McCandless Hall have merged in an experiment in the area of hall life. This merger was proposed by Chris Singleton, of Farley, and Miss Mary Kay Tobin, of McCandless, because the Farley program had been operating for several years and that the residents of both halls could benefit greatly from such a relationship.

Miss Tobin and Singleton agreed that a true community feeling was definitely lacking at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. Both student bodies have wrong impressions of the students on the other campus. These impressions lead to grave misunderstandings.

Realizing that misunderstandings of this type are detrimental to both coeducational plans and the personal development of individuals, Singleton and Tobin proposed this experiment to their hall councils. Both the Farley and McCandless councils agreed to the plan in late September. Though this program is academically oriented, it is hoped that a close relationship will develop between the two halls. Singleton and Tobin intend to accomplish this by starting at the hall level with discussion on topics of general interest. Lectures and meetings are planned at both halls to acquaint students with the atmosphere of dorm life on both campuses.

"The biggest problem," according to Chris Singleton, "is that there are no 'stay halls' at Saint Mary's, as there are at Notre Dame. Each year we'll be working with a new group of girls. This means an annual regeneration of interest in the program."

This type of program has been tried in the past and has not met with much success. The other major problem is that the students fail to cooperate to a great enough extent. To really be successful, the experiment has to be fully supported by the residents of both halls, which are approximately equal in size.

At the present time, the program for the year is just being organized. However, a series of lectures, "The Future of Notre Dame," which will feature such speakers as Edmund Stephan, chairman of the board of trustees, and Emil T. Hoffman, on the Big Band Era.

ND/SMC bus scheduling complaints are explained

On October 11, the Observer presented several complaints concerning the shuttle buses to Mr. Timothy H. Poley, assistant to the coordinator of analytical studies. The following are these complaints and the responses they received from Poley's office.

Complaints have been received stating that the shuttles are running late.

On October 12, the Observer presented several complaints concerning the shuttle buses to Mr. Timothy H. Poley, assistant to the coordinator of analytical studies. The following are these complaints and the responses they received from Poley's office.

Complaints have been received stating that the shuttles are running late. Often, the shuttles do not run. A case in point is that of a student who picked up hitching back to SMC alone at 11:30 a.m. because the shuttle had failed to appear. He was later to curry.

Poley responded that, as far as his office and the bus company knew, there was a shuttle operating at this time. He was later to curry.

Poley responded that, as far as his office and the bus company knew, there was a shuttle operating at this time. He did suggest, because there are so many new drivers this year who are unsure of the campus and the schedule, that the failure of the bus to appear was perhaps due to a misunderstanding on the part of the driver.

On Friday and Saturday nights two shuttles are run, as opposed to only one on weekdays. One of these buses goes home at 3 a.m., the other at 11 p.m. The 3 a.m. bus puts up the garage sign after it leaves St. Mary's. The problem is that the bus does not return to Notre Dame before going to the garage. The sign is put up for the benefit of those students who board the bus at the Grotto, planning to ride it around Notre Dame and then back to St. Mary's. This bus goes only to the library before going to the garage, leaving students traveling to SMC farther away than when they started.

A new bus is scheduled to leave St. Mary's between 5:30 and 6 p.m. to alleviate overcrowding on the 6:15 bus. The problem at this time Poley stated was not that the bus was not showing but that, because it was so quickly filled to capacity, the drivers were leaving ahead of schedule.

The neighborhood study needs more tutors

The Neighborhood Study Help Program needs tutors to work in the South Bend schools one or two afternoons a week from 12:45 P.M. to 2:15 P.M. Transportation will be provided. Volunteers are also needed from 6:30 to 8:15 in the evening center two days a week. (Monday and Wednesday or Tuesday and Thursday). Interested contact Tom Reid at 7027, John Rampf, 1447, M. J. Griffin, 5841, or Kathy Kaye, 5724.

The tilE OBSERVER

Wednesday, October 13, 1971

THE DUCHESS OF MALFI

October 15, 16, 21, 22 and 23 O'Laughlin Auditorium, Saint Mary's 8:30 pm sharp
Ticket Reservations - 284-4141 or at O'Laughlin Box office

The development of the program depends on student interest. "You can't really tell yet what will grow out of the program," said Miss Tobin. "We're not setting our expectations too high. I just hope that the program is mutually beneficial for McCandless and Farley and that some good friendships can develop."
The Budget;

A good job, almost

Among a number of wise budget decisions made by the Student Senate the other night, one foolish move robbed the students of one of the most valuable services offered them.

By refusing to grant the Scholastic money to publish the Course Evaluation Booklet, the Senate eliminated one of the most valuable publications on campus. The Booklet, in the past, reviewed most of the Notre Dame Arts and Letters courses, thus covering the largest college in publications on campus. The Booklet, in the past, reviewed most of the Student Senate could not even see a partial allotment.

The Scholastic was willing to devote time and effort to the task of publishing the booklet, all they asked of the Senate was money to finance it. Instead, it was suggested that they cut one-seventh of their scheduled issues to produce it. This is obviously impractical.

Even if a smaller allocation had been voted, the Scholastic might have found a way to produce the booklet for less cost...but the members of the Student Senate could not even see a partial allotment.

Luckily, a far less plebian mood prevailed when the Senate voted to allot $5,000 to the off-campus-hall life fund. Bold and imaginative programs put together by hall governments and the off-campus office won't suffer for lack of finance. In the process the sagging concept of hall autonomy was given a boost.

The increased allocations for the Mexican-American and Afro-American Societies were wise and generous decisions. Both organizations set forth year-round programs which justified the monies they requested.

Though the Student Union recurred far less than it originally asked for, the money looks to be well spent. The mood prevailing the Union this year is a sign from grandiose mass events and towards more informal affairs, and that's a good thing.

Though the Student Union's Cultural Arts Commission's original budget request was almost equal to the $37,500 allotment received by the entire union, their program of events should be equal if not better than last year's.

It's probably too late to save the Course Evaluation Booklet this year, but the Senate managed to learn from it's mistakes of last year, when it voted the halls a paltry sum. The situation had better be different next time.

---

THE OBSERVER

AN INDEPENDENT STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Business Manager
James Jendryk

Executive Editor
T.C. Treanor

Editor-in-Chief
Glen S. Corso

Ad Manager
Bill Bauerk

Founded November 3, 1966
Business 200-1471

Notre Dame, Indiana
News 385-225

Wednesday, October 13, 1971

The Budget;

A good job, almost

---

Foreign Affairs

Odyssey among the spooks

Monte Carlo, Monaco -- The spinoff of the cold war in the human spray blown bitter and thither by ideological gouts. This is typified by dissidents who flee communist lands in search of freedom, by draft dodgers seeking to escape the United States Armed Forces abroad, and American Black Revolutionists in foreign havens and by defectors from rival diplomatic or espionage establishments who for different reasons abandon their native lands.

One of the most puzzling of these instances is that of Jozsef Szall, Hungary's senior career ambassador and most recently special advisor to the foreign minister. Szall had been invited abroad last year, spent a considerable time under interrogation by Italian security representatives in Rome, where he had been long envoy, and early this year was flown to the United States by the Central Intelligence Agency whose voluntary guest he remained for weeks.

Szall, his wife and 12-year-old boy benefited from the hospitality of a C.I.A. safe house near Washington during which time the family acknowledged it was amply treated. They visited Washington theatres and museums but were isolated from direct contact with friends or non-C.I.A. officials.

However, although the C.I.A. offered to facilitate the Szall's permanent admission, the ambassador remained uncertain that he would be able to return to Hungary. He was afraid of a heretically liberal sort. The increased allocations for the Mexican-American and Afro-American Societies were wise and generous decisions. Both organizations set forth year-round programs which justified the monies that they requested.

Though the Student Union received far less than it originally asked for, the money looks to be well spent. The mood prevailing the Union this year is a sign from grandiose mass events and towards more informal affairs, and that's a good thing.

Though the Student Union's Cultural Arts Commission's original budget request was almost equal to the $37,500 allotment received by the entire union, their program of events should be equal if not better than last year's.

It's probably too late to save the Course Evaluation Booklet this year, but the Senate managed to learn from it's mistakes of last year, when it voted the halls a paltry sum. The situation had better be different next time.

---

THE OBSERVER

AN INDEPENDENT STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Business Manager
James Jendryk

Executive Editor
T.C. Treanor

Editor-in-Chief
Glen S. Corso

Ad Manager
Bill Bauerk

Founded November 3, 1966
Business 200-1471

Notre Dame, Indiana
News 385-225

Wednesday, October 13, 1971

The Budget;

A good job, almost

---

Foreign Affairs

Odyssey among the spooks

Monte Carlo, Monaco -- The spinoff of the cold war in the human spray blown bitter and thither by ideological gouts. This is typified by dissidents who flee communist lands in search of freedom, by draft dodgers seeking to escape the United States Armed Forces abroad, and American Black Revolutionists in foreign havens and by defectors from rival diplomatic or espionage establishments who for different reasons abandon their native lands.

One of the most puzzling of these instances is that of Jozsef Szall, Hungary's senior career ambassador and most recently special advisor to the foreign minister. Szall had been invited abroad last year, spent a considerable time under interrogation by Italian security representatives in Rome, where he had been long envoy, and early this year was flown to the United States by the Central Intelligence Agency whose voluntary guest he remained for weeks.

Szall, his wife and 12-year-old boy benefited from the hospitality of a C.I.A. safe house near Washington during which time the family acknowledged it was amply treated. They visited Washington theatres and museums but were isolated from direct contact with friends or non-C.I.A. officials.

However, although the C.I.A. offered to facilitate the Szall's permanent admission, the ambassador remained uncertain that he would be able to return to Hungary. He was afraid of a heretically liberal sort. The increased allocations for the Mexican-American and Afro-American Societies were wise and generous decisions. Both organizations set forth year-round programs which justified the monies that they requested.

Though the Student Union received far less than it originally asked for, the money looks to be well spent. The mood prevailing the Union this year is a sign from grandiose mass events and towards more informal affairs, and that's a good thing.

Though the Student Union's Cultural Arts Commission's original budget request was almost equal to the $37,500 allotment received by the entire union, their program of events should be equal if not better than last year's.

It's probably too late to save the Course Evaluation Booklet this year, but the Senate managed to learn from it's mistakes of last year, when it voted the halls a paltry sum. The situation had better be different next time.

---

THE OBSERVER

AN INDEPENDENT STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Business Manager
James Jendryk

Executive Editor
T.C. Treanor

Editor-in-Chief
Glen S. Corso

Ad Manager
Bill Bauerk

Founded November 3, 1966
Business 200-1471

Notre Dame, Indiana
News 385-225

Wednesday, October 13, 1971

The Budget;

A good job, almost

---

Foreign Affairs

Odyssey among the spooks

Monte Carlo, Monaco -- The spinoff of the cold war in the human spray blown bitter and thither by ideological gouts. This is typified by dissidents who flee communist lands in search of freedom, by draft dodgers seeking to escape the United States Armed Forces abroad, and American Black Revolutionists in foreign havens and by defectors from rival diplomatic or espionage establishments who for different reasons abandon their native lands.

One of the most puzzling of these instances is that of Jozsef Szall, Hungary's senior career ambassador and most recently special advisor to the foreign minister. Szall had been invited abroad last year, spent a considerable time under interrogation by Italian security representatives in Rome, where he had been long envoy, and early this year was flown to the United States by the Central Intelligence Agency whose voluntary guest he remained for weeks.

Szall, his wife and 12-year-old boy benefited from the hospitality of a C.I.A. safe house near Washington during which time the family acknowledged it was amply treated. They visited Washington theatres and museums but were isolated from direct contact with friends or non-C.I.A. officials.

However, although the C.I.A. offered to facilitate the Szall's permanent admission, the ambassador remained uncertain that he would be able to return to Hungary. He was afraid of a heretically liberal sort. The increased allocations for the Mexican-American and Afro-American Societies were wise and generous decisions. Both organizations set forth year-round programs which justified the monies that they requested.

Though the Student Union received far less than it originally asked for, the money looks to be well spent. The mood prevailing the Union this year is a sign from grandiose mass events and towards more informal affairs, and that's a good thing.

Though the Student Union's Cultural Arts Commission's original budget request was almost equal to the $37,500 allotment received by the entire union, their program of events should be equal if not better than last year's.

It's probably too late to save the Course Evaluation Booklet this year, but the Senate managed to learn from it's mistakes of last year, when it voted the halls a paltry sum. The situation had better be different next time.
the duchess of malfi

a power struggle ending in blood and destruction

Lighting has been designed by Richard Margolin, technical director for the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Theatre. Sound has been co-ordinated by Robert Gruska, costumer for the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Theatre, has designed costumes in the late 16th century style inspired by the effluvium. Major characters are costumed in colors tending their humor.

The Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Theatre opens its 1971-72 season with John Webster's "The Duchess of Malfi". Portraying major roles are (above, left to right) Maribeth Felce, as Virginia; Grace Hartigan, as the Duchess; and James H. Hawthorned, as Ferdinand. On the left, Hawthorne and Hartigan go through one of the play's intense scenes.

Russell Baker

hair on the potomac

(c) 1971 New York Times

Note the iron-fisted quality of that opening paragraph, for example. Its trip-hammer power. Its bluntness. Its utter lack of grace. Five periods in a mere twenty-one words. It is a paragraph with hair on its chest. Hair all over its face. A tough Washington paragraph.

In Washington, of course, we don't talk in paragraphs as tough as that.

No sir. When we talk in Washington, we like to let on that we're a bunch of pushyfooters. "Oh, yes, good citizens," we say, "we shall implement that for you just as soon as the input process of the game plan has received maximized minimization at the sub-cabinet interagency comagreement review level, with the proviso that coordination has been fully internalized in consonance with the effluvium plug."

You see the point. Pushyfoot talk shows that we are cool, contained, and don't know what we are talking about.

But underneath all the syllables, we are thinking in tough paragraphs. Tough.

Paragraphs

The kind of tough paragraphs that only the truly tough-minded can think in for longer than three rounds without collapsing in mental exhaustion. Because we are nothing here if not tough-minded. These people will tell you we are tough-minded here in Washington. They are soft-nosed.

They are coddlers. They come back without the coonskin. They would let the country become a joke. America has become number one. "America is no longer number one. America has become number two."

America is playing in a tough league. A league that's in full bloom every year. Keeping America number one requires men tough enough to mountrep the yen, fake the Chinos out of that nibe, nabe the scorekeeper in Saigon, throw the bomb against the North Vietnamese and jail or shoot anybody in the stadium who wears the game plan.

Some people, don't it? That's because it is mean. It's got to be mean. Because we are tough-minded here in Washington. W Where the name of the game is masochism.

That's masochism, baby. Never forget it.

And wipe that smile off your face.

kite flyers

Needed to fly kites at the Urbchins' Mass Sunday, October 17 at 11:00 a.m. Contact the Kite Master Room 110D Kenesaw. Telephone: 7066

what's happening at iusb

theater iu presents shaw

"Arms and the Man." George Bernard Shaw's satire on the romantic view of life, will begin a six-performance run at Indiana University at South Bend Thursday, October 14.

Directed by John W. Yarb, the first play of the season by Theatre IU at South Bend will be presented in the UISB Theatre at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and again on October 22 and 23. A matinee performance at 2:15 p.m. October 23 will close the run.

Directed by John W. Yarb, the first play of the season by Theatre IU at South Bend will be presented in the UISB Theatre at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and again on October 22 and 23. A matinee performance at 2:15 p.m. October 23 will close the run.

Directed by John W. Yarb, the first play of the season by Theatre IU at South Bend will be presented in the UISB Theatre at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and again on October 22 and 23. A matinee performance at 2:15 p.m. October 23 will close the run.

Directed by John W. Yarb, the first play of the season by Theatre IU at South Bend will be presented in the UISB Theatre at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and again on October 22 and 23. A matinee performance at 2:15 p.m. October 23 will close the run.

Directed by John W. Yarb, the first play of the season by Theatre IU at South Bend will be presented in the UISB Theatre at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and again on October 22 and 23. A matinee performance at 2:15 p.m. October 23 will close the run.

Directed by John W. Yarb, the first play of the season by Theatre IU at South Bend will be presented in the UISB Theatre at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and again on October 22 and 23. A matinee performance at 2:15 p.m. October 23 will close the run.

Directed by John W. Yarb, the first play of the season by Theatre IU at South Bend will be presented in the UISB Theatre at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and again on October 22 and 23. A matinee performance at 2:15 p.m. October 23 will close the run.
and in the stands during the fourth quarter, will probably never be equaled for me. Before showed what they are made of. many more watching television, least a very active minority, deal to the caped beer slayer through the marching band, onto the field to gawk at the rallied a thousand more in back with the interest of a normal person watching the activities of the insane.

Yes, we all owe the people who represented us on the field at halftime a great debt for having the talent and courage to do what most of us were too inhibited to do. Even the ABC commentators were impressed as evidenced by the continuous comment that; "I've never seen anything like this." They even went so far as to call it "happening in South Bend." It's just too bad the band didn't leave the field so that the more representative group could have had greater freedom of motion.

It's also a shame that the other minus one was not cover by the television cameras. Imagine the pride we would have all felt if television audiences could have seen the mini-skirted girls being passed up into the stands on the hands of sensitive, emotionally mature young men. Such an activity would normally constitute assault, it's all part of the traditional Notre Dame mentality that the national event of Saturday. Besides, we all know the girls love it.

Thank you beer slayers, gaping students, and everyone who was passing people into the stands for showing the nation exactly what Notre Dame is really like. After Saturday's display, there might be a change in the faces of the scholars and honorable men (remember, the television cameras did not focus on the remaining students in the stands) which desires to expand and exercise our mature abilities into the areas of drug-use, alcohol, and sex managed to destroy the group. I'm a good part of the half-time show for many of the spectators, and showed the grossest rudeness to the members of the band. This was supposedly done under the guise of "school spirit" but in reality had little to do with athletic pride. It could have been worse. At least students didn't bother the Michigan State Band. There is no excuse, however, for students to rush onto the field while the half-time show is in progress to play grab-ass, belly bounce, form pyramids, and carry certain signs which have nothing to do with athletic prowess. These coarse activities made it impossible for many to enjoy the show because they couldn't hear it well or see it properly. These activities and the band are a disgrace to Notre Dame.

It's obvious that these diversions show little respect or courtesy for the efforts of the dedicated Notre Dame Bandmen who spend approximately five hours a week (after classes) to memorize their music, learn their formations, and polish their technique.

These same bandmen, regardless of the weather or circumstances involved, have always voluntarily come to the rescue when needed for a multitude of jobs. The student body owes these bandmen a sincere and heartfelt apology.

A special note to "Beeslayer" who found it necessary to fly through the band's ranks: If, dear fairy, you get near that ground you by breaking both of your legs of the Alumni or the remaining students in the stands)

The Notre Dame Student Body are rank exhibitionists, which will discredit themselves, and perhaps bask in the reflected glory which the team generates. Is this what you want to do? Can this group of exhibitionists be so naive that they do not know that by conducting themselves in such a manner - and in such a hurry - they get out of step and comfort to the legions who hate Notre Dame and who leap at any opportunity to criticize? How long do these sweet students have to be exposed to Notre Dame before they get the message that the plan is something special - something not to be lightly considered and something not to be cheated? The Alumni have some news for you! show difficulty is to be accepted at Notre Dame and how high the standards are getting to be. Somebody has been kidding somebody. Either the University has been so high in the legs of the Alumni or the plans have been smoothed like the Admissions Office - because, let's face it, there was no CLASS exhibited on the field at half-time last Saturday - except by the guys in blue.

That business of going on the field is mostly phoney anyway. Past generations of Notre Dame have cleared national championship football teams in that stadium without once ever putting one shoe on the grass. That was back in the dark ages when Notre Dame men wore shoes and covered their knees with shirts. - would remind you, back in the days when Notre Dame won national championships - can there be a moral there?

No person of reason can find much fault with youthful enthusiasm or a little hell raising on campus in the heat of a football season. That is part of the whole business of college life. On the other hand, a certain amount of responsibility is expected to be shown in tempering that enthusiasm, especially at Notre Dame. The people who shamed Notre Dame at half-time last Saturday just don't understand the meaning of responsibility or ethics. Fortunately there were far too many who stayed in the stands and were probably as disgusted at the rest of us by the display. Unfortunately the image of Notre Dame has been tarnished far more by the TV viewers than it was not that of the whole student body is the stands but of the unwashed on the field. Even old pro Bill Fleming of ABC was so shocked he had to struggle to find the right words to describe it. There will no doubt be a hard core on campus who will take great comfort in knowing that they created something of a stir on National TV. It will lift this depression and whose minds are either so weak or so perverse or so unfeeling could do with a firm hand.

The rest of you who showed up for good looks or part in "Operation Shame Notre Dame", are certainly to be commended by all those who hold Notre Dame dear. Keep it up the good work - help get rid of the chaff on the campus and keep up a real old time support for the team - it pays off. Those of us who were very best we have ever had.

Smith A. Funk N.D. 1968

Whose halftime?

will undoubtedly be many people calling du Lac the Harvard of the Midwest.

Cultural Arts Commission Popular Film Series Presents

The Fox

Oct. 14 and 15 7:30 & 9:30 p.m. Price $1.00

Engineering Auditorium Popular Series card will be sold in Dining Halls Thursday and Friday

LEATHER LTD. has changed...
custom leather-jeans-sandalas mocs-boots-pottery 116 south main featuring male jeans

LEATHER LTD.
The Notre Dame lacrosse team opened its 1971 fall season Sunday with a 7-6 loss to Michigan, their second Midwest club champs, at Ann Arbor. The Irish were hurt by the loss of All-Midwest attackman Ed Hoban, who suffered a shoulder injury in the early minutes of the game.

The team opened the scoring at 1:17 in the first quarter with a goal by midfielder Jim Lepley. Michigan tied the score later in the first quarter, and went on to score twice more for a 3-1 lead midway through the second period. Michigan's second goal with forty-five seconds remaining in the half made the score 3-2 at halftime.

Ruggers win

The Notre Dame rugby team chalked up their second win of the fall season by defeating Kent State, 20-14, Saturday at Kent. The Irish built a 6-0 lead in the first half on a try by Joe Deloise and a conversion by Tom Davis. The Irish also won their team, 2-1, and also a varsity golfer, and freshman Mike Kistner.

There is one thing that bothers the Kahuna though. All this education stuff has seemingly passed him by. And that makes the Kahuna feel rather unwanted, just like Withnut A Stitch and Wonderous Wilma. A young man, who works down at Soldier's City, and after hours of evenings at the Stadium, and after hours of无效, got a frenzy trying to rip off my clothes.
Pirates defeat Orioles, 5 - 1

For a while, though, it appeared possible that Blais would pitch and lose. While he was keeping the Orioles hitless until the fifth, his team mates were resorting to their old trick of getting men on base and leaving them there, an expensive trick against a bunch of opportunists like the Bird.

He did get benefit of a fast lead, when the Pirates finally started to hit the ball. They got on them delivered by Jim Buss, chief southpaw for Baltimore: They came out swinging. They hit the first ball.

This time, Dave Cash opened the inning by hitting the fast ball high to left by a young, 23-year-old Cuban left-hander who hadn't pitched in eight days. He showed it. Al Oliver followed with a grounder wide of first base. That was all.

But his throw to the bag went behind Cuellar for an error while Cash made it to third.

The error proved costly at once when Roberto Clemente got a grounder to Dave Johnson at second for a forced out on Oliver while Cash scored. When Willie Stargell walked on four pitches, the strategy worked. It was a singing line drive by Bob Robertson and threw to second for a double play.

That made it 4-0, but that was all the comfort the Pirates gave Blass in return for his stylish pitching.

Blass said he was "aware that he had a no-hitter going into the fifth, and when Brooks Robinson lined a one-out single to left, he was aware that the tying run was on base. But two grounders got out of him then. That's all.

He got it wild when Manny Sanguillen led with a single to right. When Brooks Robinson bunted it, the second strikeout and two grounders got him out. And finally, in the bottom of the sixth, he got another single batter: one more out.

He got it when Manny Sanguillen led with a single to right. It was a double with a head-first slide behind Rattenson's left hand. He was ruled safe. His teammate, a catch-up single down the left-field line and just like that it was 2-0 Pirates.

But as that was as close as Baltimore got, in the seventh, Robertson drilled a three-run homer into the right field seats and he had a 1-0 lead that stood up to the end.

Irish ranked sixth seventh

Oklahoma's 42-7 throttling of Texas last Saturday raised more than Souper spirits, it also boosted Oklahoma to a number two ranking in both wire service polls, behind the defending national champion Nebraska Cornhuskers.

The Fighting Irish, despite their 4-0 record, remained seventh in the AP poll and dropped from fifth to sixth in the Coaches.

Oklahoma received 40 first-place votes and 1,066 points from the nationwide panel of 55 coaches who make the AP selections while 18 of the 55 first-place-ballots elected seven first-place ballots and 888 points while moving up from fourth to third.

Michigan slipped to third, eight points behind Oklahoma. Notre Dame remained fourth, Georgia jumped from tenth to eighth, Penn State remained ninth and Texas fell to 10th.

In the UPI ratings, 31 of the 35-member Board of Coaches picked Oklahoma as the number one. Nebraska amassed 345 points while the Sooners, who vaulted into the runner-up spot from the seventh position, totaled 285 points and received three first-place votes.

Third-ranked Michigan got the other second-place vote and was just four points behind Oklahoma. Alabama climbed from sixth to fourth, Auburn dropped a notch to sixth from fifth, Notre Dame remained fifth, Georgia jumped from tenth to eighth, Penn State remained ninth and Texas fell to 10th.

In the Coaches poll, 30 of the 35 picked Oklahoma as the number one. Nebraska amassed 345 points while the Sooners, who vaulted into the runner-up spot from the seventh position, totaled 285 points and received three first-place votes.

Michigan slipped to third, eight points behind Oklahoma. Notre Dame remained fourth, Georgia jumped from tenth to eighth, Penn State remained ninth and Texas fell to 10th.

HIDEAWAY LOUNGE 122 W First Street Downtown Mishawaka, Ind.

For Your Dancing & Entertainment

We Present The Fabulous

LOST

Lost between Bookstore and Post Office. Please telephone local hobo ahead, give me your color. Zero. 1927.

Lost - 25 cents coin.

Please telephone Notre Dame windbreaker between library and gymnasium. Reward $5.

Please call Ralph 337-654.

Classified ads paid for in cash when ordered. Orders accepted 5 days before. Ads in by 8:00 a.m. on day before publication.

WANTED

ONE 1960 VNRDS- VNRDS

FOR SALE: 6-Band, Valiant, or best offer. 233-9787.

FOR SALE: 40 first-place votes and 1,066 points from the nationwide panel of 55 coaches who make the AP selections while 18 of the 55 first-place-ballots elected seven first-place ballots and 888 points while moving up from fourth to third.

Michigan slipped to third, eight points behind Oklahoma. Notre Dame remained fourth, Georgia jumped from tenth to eighth, Penn State remained ninth and Texas fell to 10th.

In the UPI ratings, 31 of the 35-member Board of Coaches picked Oklahoma as the number one. Nebraska amassed 345 points while the Sooners, who vaulted into the runner-up spot from the seventh position, totaled 285 points and received three first-place votes.

Third-ranked Michigan got the other second-place vote and was just four points behind Oklahoma. Alabama climbed from sixth to fourth, Auburn dropped a notch to sixth from fifth, Notre Dame remained fifth, Georgia jumped from tenth to eighth, Penn State remained ninth and Texas fell to 10th.

In the Coaches poll, 30 of the 35 picked Oklahoma as the number one. Nebraska amassed 345 points while the Sooners, who vaulted into the runner-up spot from the seventh position, totaled 285 points and received three first-place votes.

Michigan slipped to third, eight points behind Oklahoma. Notre Dame remained fourth, Georgia jumped from tenth to eighth, Penn State remained ninth and Texas fell to 10th.

HIDEAWAY LOUNGE 122 W First Street Downtown Mishawaka, Ind.

For Your Dancing & Entertainment

We Present The Fabulous

LOST

Lost between Bookstore and Post Office. Please telephone local hobo ahead, give me your color. Zero. 1927.

Lost - 25 cents coin.

Please telephone Notre Dame windbreaker between library and gymnasium. Reward $5.

Please call Ralph 337-654.

Classified ads paid for in cash when ordered. Orders accepted 5 days before. Ads in by 8:00 a.m. on day before publication.