North Vietnam forces continue to swell strength.

By Douglas E. Koechlin,

Columbus, Ohio, May 1—As the two leading contenders for the Ohio Democratic Presidential Primary worked hard today to pry out the last possible vote, their campaign strategists riled over what they agreed had become an increasingly tight race.

In their late-hour efforts, Senators Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and George McGovern of South Dakota were fighting to secure their dwindling time to corral the blue-collar workers who make up a large part of the vote in the heavily industrialized Northern part of the state.

The importance and closeness of the Ohio Primary, one of the four scheduled tomorrow, seemed central in Humphrey's decision to spend the day here rather than split the time with Indiana.

The Minnesotian is in a head-to-head race with Gov. Governor C. Wallace of Alabama, who is not on the Ohio ballot, in Indiana's election tomorrow. Other candidates, however, are to be held in Alabama and Washington, D.C.

Humphrey camp grim

Jesse T. George, Humphrey's Ohio campaign coordinator, spoke today of the race here against Wallace's bid.

"It's going to be very, very close," he said.

The Minnesotian is in a head-to-head race with Gov. Governor C. Wallace of Alabama, who is not on the Ohio ballot, in Indiana's election tomorrow. Other candidates, however, are to be held in Alabama and Washington, D.C.

McGovern support up

With little time to win over the voters in Ohio, McGovern's campaign aides here have been described as "a lot of people." They did not decide to make an all-out effort here until a week or more after he won the Michigan primary April 4.

After he defeated Sen. Edmund S. Muskie defeated Wallace in Maine, McGovern aides in Columbus have been working to keep the same in Pennsylvania, leading the Maine Senator to withdraw from active campaigning, the Ohio primary became essentially a two-man struggle.

Quinquagenary area with a population of 200,000 in Hindish Province on the coast of central Vietnam has fallen under enemy control in the past two weeks. Both South Vietnamese and American officials conceded that the loss of the area had destroyed years of work on pacification programs and that Vietnamization had failed a crucial test. Washington—The White House said that on the basis of a series of exchanges between President Nixon and Soviet Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev, the first stage agreement limiting strategic arms would be broader than had been anticipated. There was also a hint that a key issue, concerning submarine-launched missiles, was near resolution. Washington—Small businesses and government units with 60 or fewer employees were exempted from wage and price controls by the cost of living council. The council's action affects about five million small concerns, which are responsible for about 20 percent of the nation's annual sales. It also frees about 19 million workers from wage controls.

Hunt, Coccimiglio, Yates elected

by Jim Dixon

Jim Hunt, a former Democrat as well as the current candidate for a three-year sentence for burning draft records in 1968, was elected Friday as President of the senior class for the 72-73 school year. Hunt received 46.7 per cent of the 668 votes cast by prospective seniors. Steve Castellano, running for Vice-President on the same ticket, was also unopposed, garnering 39 percent of the vote. Completing the elected slate is Secretary Chris Mosca who received 15.5 per cent and Treasurer Mike McClure who received 46.6 per cent of the vote. The upcoming juniors elected Miko Coccimiglio to the office of President of their class, giving him 48 per cent of the 300 votes cast. Other elected officers include Jim Lorge, Vice-President, and Vic-President with 62 per cent of the vote, Pat Kaiser who took the spot of Secretary with 24 per cent and Skip Francesconi, Treasurer with 60 per cent of the votes. The sophomore officers were elected on a split ticket, with the present freshman class President. Dave Yates getting 41 per cent of the vote and the Presidency. Of the 560 votes cast Greg Garrison received 36 per cent to make him Vice-President, Art Gilloon picked up 47 per cent as Secretary and Pete Fleming 43 per cent to become Treasurer.

Europe is a four letter word:

Your freedom-machine is too precious to take chances with. So why not give it the best care you can? One way is using Standard gasolines.

Standard's Lead-Free Amoco®, the new car gasoline, not only helps cut down on air pollution, but tests prove it can double the life of your muffler and tail pipe compared to fully leaded gasolines. Makes your spark plugs last longer, too.

It's a fact—more drivers in the Midwest care for their cars with Standard gasolines than any other brand. And they keep coming back. Isn't that the truest test of quality?

You've got a lot of money in your car. And it means a lot of personal freedom to you. So take good care of it...with Standard.

You expect more from Standard and you get it.
Small businesses exempted from controls

by Philip Coelho
(C) 1972 New York Times

Washington, May 1—The Administration exempted millions of small businesses and local government workers from compliance with its economic stabilization program.

The council announced that all business or government units with 60 or fewer employees need not comply with wage and price regulations.

The decision affects five million small concerns and about $10 billion in annual sales, or 30 per cent of total annual sales.

Tuesday's announcement also meant that 1 million workers, or 26 per cent of all payroll employment, will be exempted from wage and price controls. The number was already exempted as low wage workers earning $1.50 an hour and to continue support for Moscow's allies in the present context of world tensions, reflected the evident ambiguity of Soviet and Kremlin leaders later this month.

The article, published in the monthly magazine, in effect setting the stage for the construction industry or medical services in its action in exempting small business.

UN inquiry into Russian annexations urged

by Linas Sidrys

Recently a petition was circulated among the Russian-speaking people requesting the United Nations Human Rights Commission to investigate the Russian occupation of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia and to request the United Nations to investigate the Russian annexation in these three countries. These countries, according to the Lithuanian human rights activists, are no longer free from Soviet occupation. The Russian authorities are not permitting them to build new churches, even in cases when two churches are destroyed at the same night. Other churches are converted into museums and storehouses.

A clear picture of the Lithuanian-Russian conflict can be realized from the trial of Simas Kudirka. This Russian sailor had jumped from a Soviet trawler to seek political asylum aboard the U.S. Coast Guard vessel, because he disapproved of the bureaucratic, ignorance, and red tape. Kudirka was returned to the Russians. The following is taken from the UN, as reported by the Los Angeles Times and the Washington Post.

Chairman of the Human Rights Commission to request the United Nations to investigate the Russian occupation of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia and to request the United Nations to investigate the Russian annexation in these three countries.

All violation of human rights is considered by the UN to be deplorable; however an analogy to an isolated incident was made by the UN. "The following is a letter from Dr. Leslie Martin, assistant professor of English and director of the Committee on Academic Progress in the College of Arts and Letters. In the letter Martin takes a direct and personal approach in discussing the Committee's structure and the reasons for its existence."

"...the College of Arts and Letters is evolving a complex structure, the Committee on Academic Progress. In the letter from Dean Martin, assistant professor of English and director of the Committee, he discusses the reasons for its existence."

"I have profited from the intellectual and personal companionship of the Committee's students and advisors. I have profited from my sense of shared responsibility for the present semester."

"...the Committee's concerns about the charges of unfairness and the validity of the nomination process..."

"...the implications are obvious and dismal. Only 25 percent of the regular English faculty appears able to respond, and only 66 percent of the nominations will involve freshmen. Although the English faculty has in the past proven an excellent resource for the Committee, the submissions of judgments produced only 135 candidates. In sum, their recommendations are discriminatory in excellent, but their quantitative output (and that in terms of candidature) is less than 8 percent of the enrollment of the College."

"...the implications of the statistics for the autumn semester, 1971-72, shows an almost identical percentage for the location of gifted students' suggestions of the Committee's candidates, which was 15 percent. If 31 CAP advisors on duty, 15 (40 percent) are members of the English Department. A candidate, however, should be aware of the Committee's students are English majors. The chairperson of the Committee is a member of that faculty."

"In terms of locating the College's "gifted" students, the Committee on Academic Progress from necessity relies largely upon the only department still actively engaged in teaching freshmen and sophomores. The faculty members of each department are to be played by a large department which serves the intellectual needs of freshmen."

"...the Committee's work is an organized, effective program for evaluating and improving the various departments' curriculum; for conducting interviews and careful appraisal of all recommendations that are spontaneous; for building a body of standards which is an organized, effective program for evaluating and improving the various departments' curriculum; for conducting interviews and careful appraisal of all recommendations that are spontaneous; for building a body of standards..."

Meet the new boss...

"...I believe in letting a thousand flowers of creativity bloom on this campus..."

"We want to let a thousand flowers bloom on this campus, and we want to work together as a team..." -Dr. Edward Henry, President-elect

St. Mary's College

Dr. Edward Henry blasted out from the O'Loughlin Auditorium Friday, leaving a trail of rhetoric in his wake. The president-elect used more similes and metaphors than a fledgling poet in his recital of promises from long ago. Not only were the ideas and proposals unoriginal, but his manipulation of cliches, supposedly heavy with symbolism and meaning to the students. It is impossible to refer to intelligent students who want answers as "a thousand flowers". You have to wonder, where have all the flowers gone? To Notre Dame or elsewhere, if they're fed up enough. When will the administrators ever learn?

The speech's tone and content hardly redeemed it. Dr. Henry was once described in an Observer editorial as initially moving with "FDK-like efficiency," but Friday's convolution had neither the soothing nor the moving effect for drowsiness caused by healthy young digestion and the grim condition, simply and instantly taking the clock in hand, and, using physical force, make the clock tell us the instant it is 2 o'clock in the morning. An hour magically cropped out of the day at this point would surely work its magic behind Daylight Saving Time is something that hasn't gotten to many people like standard time all summer long, too, and for those people who want to keep February where it would improve life for the generality of humanity. The ideal spot would be immediately after the month of August {so that midnight, January 31: People born in February and skiers would probably object. Some applications of the magic need not be confined to the clock.

We say to the clock. We are tired of it being dark by Going to unqualified conclusions..." -Dr. Henry

"New majors are already under consideration," we are told. This stirs our interest, but we are only left frustrated when we are not told exactly what majors. And so on. Perhaps it's an opportunity for a politician to speak in terms that won't commit him, but Dr. Henry is no longer a politician. St. Mary's needs an administrator who is willing and unafraid to commit himself. It certainly would have given students some hope to hear some plain facts instead of the same old run-around. After Friday's speech, no one would call Dr. Henry a morale-builder.

In a press conference on March 13 immediately after his appointment to the presidency, Dr. Henry stressed the need for reconstruction of the Board of Trustees, and the inclusion of students and faculty on the Board, in an attempt to "implement community government." However, on Friday, he only suggested, "I hope to convince the corporation...to include more laywomen and men as well as nuns, representing all walks of life..."

Fine! But he didn't specifically commit himself to faculty membership. Here we go again, on the ambiguity merry-go-round. Those laywomen and men could be just more outsiders, unfamiliar with the real problems of St. Mary's.

Many thanks for a semester of hard work and fun to the staff that has all together. Have a nice summer..."
Fred and I walked into the Link just as darkness was falling. We showed our ID to Larry and went into the main room. I went up to the bar for a pitch of Coors and two paper cups and went to the booth where Fred was sitting, and put on the glasses of beer before setting myself.

Fred lit up a cigarette and I realized that I had left mine in the car, so I bummed one of hers. She stuffed it into the corner of the booth.

"Hey, hey, tropical heat wave's a-coming through, and God damn it the barber is taking his time. Look at that balding man wearing a nylon windbreaker and nodding his head and bumping his fingers at the mouth of our booth."

"Oh, hello, Delmar," Fred said. Dancing Delmar presumed and put his hands flat on the booth and began what was a move.

"Hey, hey, tropical heat wave, coming through, heard it all on the evening news, tropical heat wave's a-comin', bro."

"No kidding," Fred smiled. "When it's coming, Delmar?"

"Tonight, yes, it's coming tonight, that tropical heat wave, we'll get our fish."

Dancing Delmar began to dance again, and Fred poured his glass full of beer. He picked it up without missing a beat, and drank and began what was a move.

"Hey, hey, tropical heat wave, coming through, heard it all on the evening news, tropical heat wave's a-comin', bro."

I glanced at the booth just as spring, tropical heat wave came through, and was able to see. Yes, yes, we'll all go swimming, yes, yeah!"

"Yeah, yeah, tropical heat wave!"

"Delmar danced slowly away, turning and waving at us.

A bearded, black-haired freak came in from the bar area and sat next to Fred, across from the booth from me. "Hello, people, what's out?"

"Tropical heat wave," I answered dryly.

"Oh, Pete, this is John the Baptist, Foo."

We shook hands. "John the Baptist?"

"Ask him, well, it's a long story, John jumped up and grabbed an empty cup on the booth and began what was a move.

"It's a long story, ask him."

I opened his eyes and nodded my head, and he nodded back.

"Thanks, I suppose it's because I'm basically a hero of the Wasteland, a hero of the Wasteland of a mass consciousness."

"I find that quiet that I don't revel in that sort of thing."

And there was an old man sitting in the booth, a man who said of a John LP, 'Elton John, superstar'-pretty stupid, I tell you.

"It's just a quiet that I don't revel in that sort of thing."

There was a passage marked in the Gideen of the Wasteland, the Honeymooners, the same germ-free seat.

You remember who, among the gypsies of the Wasteland, did what? Or with plans for ending the Kingdom.

And there was a passage marked in the Gideen of the Wasteland, the Honeymooners, the same germ-free seat.

"Delmar, this is John the Baptist, Pete, this is John the Baptist, and here, take this."

"Yeah, it was with the vibrations of the stars and my whole body I have been given the vision of truth and my heart has been turned to the general gloom, the Fisher-King, that I mean, to compare my playing with his 15 sacrellas,"

"Sure, I suppose it's because I'm basically very quiet that I don't revel in that sort of thing."

It's true knowing some history. I know what I'm capable of and I'm capable of much more than I have ever gotten at being John the Baptist.

"There's no reason for me to get big-headed. I hate it when things get blown out of all proportion."

The superstar, err, that is, John will be in concert in front of the school next week, according to the formula of the myth, the perfect album, and I carry it around like a contemporary wasteland, even in the garden spots of a Southern springtime. It is not a very understood experience, its history dates back to when the phenomenon was first incidentally discovered. Since then it has become the subject of many groups, but no real understanding of it has developed.

The accidental discovery came in the form of a experiment with a hypnotist in hopes that he could cure her smoking habit. While hypnotized she would recall events from her early childhood and great-grandparents. Each time she was back, she described things about her family and relatives that she had never even considered before. However, she did recall regression that had been taken before, but this time the hypnotist experimented and asked her to recall her life further. Suddenly she felt herself in the name of Birk—Murphy. Indiana and Ohio: a study in inconclusiveness

by Robert M. Smith

(C) 1972 New York Times

New York City, May 11--Although he thought he had only three days to do so, Richard W. McLaren wrote to the Senate Judiciary Committee to make a request to the Justice Department to the Senate to stop the Canteen Merger. He identified these factors as shortness of time, a lack of evidence, and that the companies had stolen his issues.

In a memorandum to Mitchell submitted April 7, 1969, McLaren--now a Federal District Judge in Chicago--called a preliminary injunction to stop the合并 is a "necessary". The request was to prevent the companies from giving up Canteen while keeping other Canteen products. In the recent hearings McLaren testified that a merger of Canteen and I.T.T. would give up Canteen while keeping other Canteen products.

At one point in the memo, McLaren wrote, "If sentiment is ever to take action to prevent the consummation of the merger, the Justice Department report concerning the I.T.T. antitrust violation in the acquisition of Canteen..."

The memo has been made available by the Senate Judiciary Committee in connection with the Senate Judiciary Committee's investigation of the Canteen-McLaren deal. Senator Warren E. Magnus, the father of Senator Robert W. McLaren, has been appointed to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

In the section titled "Conclusion," McLaren wrote, "We believe that this merger would achieve a competitive advantage. Canteen's position as one of the largest in the world in the vending field, and as a leader in the industry, makes it difficult for the merger to be effective at competitive prices."

The Senate investigation of the Canteen-McLaren deal is a study in inconclusiveness. It is a story of how two of the largest and most powerful organizations in the United States could not agree on a merger.

If you think Kodak is just pretty pictures, you ought to have your chest examined.

When a chest x-ray shows that you have a potential killer like TB or cancer, it's not a pretty picture. But it's an important picture because it can help the doctor detect and catch the killer in time.

When doctors are out to catch these potential killers, they want the sharpest, clearest x-ray films they can get. And that's why people at Kodak spend so many hours creating new and better x-ray film equipment. Already, the results include convenience for the patient, economy for the hospital, an even more useful tool for the radiologist—and, most important, reduced radiation exposure.

Researching and creating better x-ray films is good for our business, which is why we went into them in the first place. But it does our society good, too—which isn't a bad feeling. After all, our business depends on our society—so we care what happens to it.

More than a business.

Huskie Invitational
by Eric Kinskopf
The Notre Dame tennis team, captained by senior singles champion, and one of the brunches of the Irish team, outdistanced an eight-team field in winning the annual Indiana Tournament at DeKalb, Illinois on the Northern Illinois campus last weekend.

The victory marked the third straight title for the Irish, as the boys have either won or shared the championship each of the last three seasons. This achievement was particularly sweet for the Irish as they avenged earlier losses to Indiana.

Trading the points were taking place throughout the weekend. The greatest of them was the doubles action after being ousted in the first round of championship play.

Consequently, the Irish were extremely pleased with the overall performance of their side. "I have said we did very well. We put five out of six of our singles players into the finals of fairly tough competition. And those who did not as rational as playing on the front of Indiana came through. We're finally beginning to round into shape, not a little a little that earlier loss to Cincinnati."

The doubles pairs were based on a team point scoring system because of a lack of time due to inclement weather.

Each team was awarded six points for a championship or two for a consolation, depending on the individual crown.

Two points were also awarded to the undefeated teams in the consolation brackets.

The Irish won the tournament with 60 points, followed by Indiana State with 25. Miami of Ohio got third with 20, Illinois State 14, Ball State 9, Indiana 5 and Northwestern 8.

The victory will not be counted in the Irish spring slate, which stands at 10-3. Today's scheduled match with Indiana University has been postponed indefinitely due to weather for the Hoosiers' final examinations.

Booie wins two in Ohio
by Tom McKenney
The Irish soccer team posted a pair of victories over the weekend in Ohio, edging Cincinnati, 2-0 on Friday and trouncing Miami, 5-1 on Saturday.

Jafar Moghadan provided Notre Dame with its margin of victory against Cincinnati, thwarting a home second half penalty kick, while Jeff Noonan scored two goals to lead the Irish past mid on a soaked, slippery field in Oxford.

Bob Donovan gave Notre Dame an early advantage Friday night in Cincinnati's Astro-Turf stadium, driving in a rebound of a Mike Machin shot. Jeff Noonan upped the Irish lead to 2-0 with a second half tally but the Bears closed the gap to 3-1 before halftime on a penalty kick.

Another penalty kick enabled Cincinnati to tie the score in the second session but Moghadan's boot secured the Irish win.

The ND booie had an easier time with Miami as captain Bruce Graves, Tom Shriver and Moghadan joined Noonan in scoring the Irish goals.

"We're missing some fine players and a lot of experience at positions that are recuperating from injuries, may win a starting berth next season," Shoults said.

"I'd have a hard worker and he was very good but I don't know if we'll be so lucky once, I don't know if we'll be so successful," Shoults said.

"We hope that Mars will be our leader," Yonts continues. "He's a hard worker and a fine competitor. But at the other three spots, we lack experience."

Freshman Kevin Nosbusch and junior Dick Maciag are fighting for the line of being Irish's running mate at tackle. They have plenty of size but little playing time.

The Ethiopian slimming sweeps at the end spots. "Freshman Mike Fanning looks like the top prospect to date, ranking just ahead of Tom Frunstien, Jeff Heim, Tom Fine and Gary Haydau.

"But, he's a hard worker and he was very good but I don't know that we can put people out there that are consistent. They are progressing fairly well but I don't know that we can put people out there that are consistent. They are progressing fairly well and we expect much improvement to come in the fall when our workouts become more exacting.

At least George Kelly has plenty of material with which to build his linebacking corps. In addition to the veterans, Ambrose and O'Malley, no fewer than nine players are fighting for starting berths. Pat McGraw, Drew Mihalic, Stearn Smith, Gary Potempa, Mike Webb, Greg Collins and Brian Clemente, as well as Tom Sullivan and Tom Donovan who are recuperating from injuries, may win a starting berth next season.

"I know that we can put people out there that are capable," Yonts replies. "The Irish Slimming is a good line of our players are lacking game experience, but not that much."

Kyle Russell and O'Malley at the left and right ends and some of his other prospect. "Sullivan was doing well before he hurt his knee and Devine is recovering, too. McGraw is having his best spring and on paper it looks like an all-state line up. But we haven't been able to get it going in the secondary yet," Shoults said.

"We've got pretty good speed this year, although we don't have a big, strong back like Stearns. But, we're a young team, we're not as big."

Ruggers lose 2 in tourney
by Eric Kinskopf
It just hasn't been a good season for the Notre Dame rugby club this spring. Since winning the Gator Bowl over spring break the Irish have dropped four straight contests including two shutouts.

Most recently the Irish rugerers were victimized by Navy and Army on the national stage, scoring two touchdowns, one last Saturday against the University of California at the Stanford Stadium.

U. of California was third with 90, Michigan State, 66, Notre Dame, 50, Ohio State, 60, Michigan, 60, Michigan State, 60, Indiana University, 50 and Northwestern 58, U. of Detroit, 50, and Wayne State, 50.

Next weekend, the Irish will try and knock out the Indians as they compete in the Northern Intercollegiate Championship.
ND trackmen fare poorly
by "Lefty" Ruselmam

Members of the Notre Dame track team went to meet three different locations over the weekend, but turned in generally subpar performances.

The bright spot in Saturday's event was the Penn Relays in Philadelphia, where freshman Greg Cortina placed third in the shot put even with a throw of 59 feet, 2 inches. Greg also took first place in the discus throw with a toss of 151 feet.

The shuttle hurdles team, which competed in the Drake Relays at Des Moines, Iowa, had a disappointing afternoon. The foursome of John Gower, Tom and Mike McMannon, and Pat Mullaly failed to qualify for the finals. However, Tom McMannon did get as far as the finals in the 110-yard high hurdles but fumbled the fifth leg.

Team captain Eli Polessi also failed to qualify for the finals and discus events, but he could not place in the shot put. His best throw with the disc was 55 feet, 6 inches, while his best discus toss was 140 feet.

Despite the 15th place, the Irish gave the Golden Dome fans a little 1972. Then, it was
