Three tickets in SBP election

The Observer

Three tickets for Student Body President and eight candidates for the Board of Commissioners filed nominating petitions by the Tuesday deadline. The election is tomorrow.

The tickets of Dennis Etienne-Mike Geisinger, Rick Gering-Kevin O'Brien and Brian McGinty-McLean submitted petitions with the required 300 signatures. They will campaign for the position vacated by Bob Kersten administration.

"We are running again because we feel we are in the best position to serve the students," Etienne said. Etienne-Geisinger have no definite proposals. "To many things can happen in the course of a year to run on too many promises," Etienne said. "The ticket will concentrate on our past success and their knowledge of the duties of the offices." A procedural Protection Clause must be added to the Notre Dame Judicial Code, to guarantee the rights of all students at Notre Dame," reads a platform point of the Gering-O'Brien ticket. In addition, Gering-O'Brien will push for a revamped Ombudman Service and a "Public Defender of the Student Body," a lawyer or law student to represent students.

Professor Edward Trubac, newly elected vice president of the American Association of University Professors, commented that the increase in the number of candidates may indicate progress in faculty participation.

Concerning the Lewis Hall incident, Rathburn noted that the girl has asked assistance from the AAUP. The matter will be discussed at the springg€r€at meeting.

The fourth point covered by Rathburn concerned the four University priority committees. His first grievance was that they were appointed without consulting any faculty body. His second complaint was that it was originally established without input from the administration.

Also concerning administration dictation, Rathburn noted that the 193-year-old Schlesinger is reper­trious. Rathburn also added that the 17-year-old Ombudman would like to push for complete explanation of the files the university keeps on its students. "We are especially concerned about the comments by some of the people who are running," said McGinty who is running with McLean. The McGinty-McLean ticket points to the wide range of counselling services on campus and hopes to direct the students to more efficiently use them.

"We'd like to have the students have access to their own files," said Bill McLean about his major campaign position. McLean, currently the Student Government Ombudman, would like to push for complete explanation of the files the university keeps on its students.

"We'd like to make sure counselling isn't inadequate, though we are not saying it is inadequate. We will try to sort everything out and get rid of overlap." McLean said.

In addition to the counselling proposals McGinty-McLean will campaign with a number of Research and Development ideas and improvement ideas in the academic areas and off-campus living.

The Gering-O'Brien ticket will push for "Public defender of the Student Body." "We still need a SBP for next year and we feel that our platform can reconcile the splits that have developed over the past months into an effective working system for next year," Gering said.

In addition to their "Student Rights" proposals, Gering-O'Brien have offer a number of suggestions in the area of Off-Campus improvements, improvements in social atmosphere and guaranteed funding for halls, off-campus students and the Student Union.

"We'd like to have the students have access to their own files," said Brian McGinty about his major campaign position. McGinty, currently the Student Government Ombudman, would like to push for complete explanation of the files the university keeps on its students.

The race for the six Board of Commissioner seats is largely unenvolved. Four of the six districts will have only one candidate officially listed but several write-in candidates may campaign actively.

Running unopposed in district three, comprised of Flanner and Grace Towers, is Mike Geiss. In district 5, which includes Berin, Walsh, Badin, Dillon and Alumni halls, only Jude Brenner will be on the ballot. Bob Connolly is the only candidate in District 6, which includes Pasquard, Fisher, Lyons, Morrison and Howard Halls.

In District 2, with Farley Breen-Phillips, St. Ed's and Cavanagh halls, Karen Moty will be the only name on the ballot but Pat Dore has already announced his intentions to run as a write in for this district.

Christopher J. Meehan and Bob Kincaid will campaign for the District 1 seat which is the off-campus vote. In District 4, comprised of Holy Cross, St. Joe's, Stanford, Keenan and St. Mary Halls, Matt Rubik and Ed Rahill will seek the Board of Commissioners seat.

Campus students can vote in their halls Thursday during the meal hours. Off-Campus students may vote all day Thursday in the off-campus office in the basement of LaFortune.

Commenting that faculty input into University governance was "empty appearances of faculty participation," Professor Paul Rathburn stepped down from his position as chapter president of the American Association of University Professors. Rathburn also announced that Professor Dennis Dugan, chairman of the economics department would succeed him in that post.

Rathburn made his announcement of the Lyn Leone show on WDND. Also on the show were Jim O'Halloran and Steve Bullock with Rathburn and Dugan was Professor Edward Trubac, newly elected vice president of the AAUP.

The professors cited ten major areas in which they sought improvement upon faculty rights.

Rathburn commented that the appointment of Fr. Rebeccis Burt­chell as University Provost was done without consulting the faculty manual or any faculty body. Rathburn also commented that the Notre Dame administration has never allowed University government by faculty consensus, commented Dugan. He further noted that budget cutbacks have resulted in total elimination of faculty decision making power.

Trubac and Rathburn concluded the interview with a plea for more faculty representation on the Priorities Committee. "Faculty salaries make up 50 per cent to 60 per cent of the total budget expenses," noted Trubac. Expenses should be distributed proportionately with faculty moderated priorities, added Rath­burn.

The spring chapter meeting of the AAUP will be held at the University Club on May 2. A summary of the year's work will be given and beer and pretzels will be provided. The meeting is open to all faculty and students.

On The Inside

Rathburn resigns from AAUP post

report no. 13: Of 60 women only 24 belong to the teaching and research faculty; of those 24 only 14 are full time. Of those 14 only 9 have chance of tenure; of those 9 only one has tenure and two have received notice of non-renewal.

Concerning the Lewis Hall incident, Rathburn noted that the girl has asked assistance from the AAUP. The matter will be discussed at the spring chapter meeting.

The fourth point covered by Rathburn concerned the four University priority committees. His first grievance was that they were appointed without consulting any faculty body. His second complaint was that it was originally established without faculty participation.

Also concerning administration dictation, Rathburn noted that the 193-year-old Schlesinger is reportedly dictating the 17-year-old Ombudman. Rathburn attributed this to the magazine's critical view of the administration.

Trubac added the sixth point saying that the "salary situation here (at Notre Dame) is dismal." Trubac quoted a 2 per cent pay raise for faculty and compared it to the expected 6 per cent national cost of living increase. The level of compensation for this year is 1 per cent to 2 per cent compared to a 4 per cent national compensation increase, added Dugan.

The eighth point, covered by Dugan, concerned academic freedom. "The myths concerning collective bargaining have been largely dispelled, thanks to Professor Rathburn," commented Dugan.

AAUP policy with regards to collective bargaining is left on a local basis. Dugan noted that the AAUP provides its expertise only when the situation warrants.

Notre Dame administration has never allowed University government by faculty consensus, commented Dugan. He further noted that budget cutbacks have resulted in total elimination of faculty decision making power.

Trubac and Rathburn concluded the interview with a plea for more faculty representation on the Priorities Committee. "Faculty salaries make up 50 per cent to 60 per cent of the total budget expenses," noted Trubac. Expenses should be distributed proportionately with faculty moderated priorities, added Rathburn.

The spring chapter meeting of the AAUP will be held at the University Club on May 2. A summary of the year's work will be given and beer and pretzels will be provided. The meeting is open to all faculty and students.

For party platforms see page 10

Rathburn resigns from AAUP post

commenting that faculty input into University governance was "empty appearances of faculty participation," Professor Paul Rathburn stepped down from his position as chapter president of the American Association of University Professors. Rathburn also announced that Professor Dennis Dugan, chairman of the economics department would succeed him in that post.

Rathburn made his announcement of the Lyn Leone show on WDND. Also on the show were Jim O'Halloran and Steve Bullock with Rathburn and Dugan was Professor Edward Trubac, newly elected vice president of the AAUP.

The professors cited ten major areas in which they sought improvement upon faculty rights.

Rathburn commented that the appointment of Fr. Rebeccis Burt­chell as University Provost was done without consulting the faculty manual or any faculty body. Rathburn also commented that the Notre Dame administration has never allowed University government by faculty consensus, commented Dugan. He further noted that budget cutbacks have resulted in total elimination of faculty decision making power.

Trubac and Rathburn concluded the interview with a plea for more faculty representation on the Priorities Committee. "Faculty salaries make up 50 per cent to 60 per cent of the total budget expenses," noted Trubac. Expenses should be distributed proportionately with faculty moderated priorities, added Rath­burn.

The spring chapter meeting of the AAUP will be held at the University Club on May 2. A summary of the year's work will be given and beer and pretzels will be provided. The meeting is open to all faculty and students.

Three tickets for Student Body President and eight candidates for the Board of Commissioners filed nominating petitions by the Tuesday deadline. The election is tomorrow.

The tickets of Dennis Etienne-Mike Geisinger, Rick Gering-Kevin O'Brien and Brian McGinty-McLean submitted petitions with the required 300 signatures. They will campaign for the position vacated by Bob Kersten administration.

"We are running again because we feel we are in the best position to serve the students," Etienne said. Etienne-Geisinger have no definite proposals. "To many things can happen in the course of a year to run on too many promises," Etienne said. "The ticket will concentrate on our past success and their knowledge of the duties of the offices." A procedural Protection Clause must be added to the Notre Dame Judicial Code, to guarantee the rights of all students at Notre Dame," reads a platform point of the Gering-O'Brien ticket. In addition, Gering-O'Brien will push for a revamped Ombudman Service and a "Public Defender of the Student Body," a lawyer or law student to represent students.

Professor Edward Trubac, newly elected vice president of the American Association of University Professors, commented that the increase in the number of candidates may indicate progress in faculty participation.

Concerning the Lewis Hall incident, Rathburn noted that the girl has asked assistance from the AAUP. The matter will be discussed at the spring chapter meeting.

The fourth point covered by Rathburn concerned the four University priority committees. His first grievance was that they were appointed without consulting any faculty body. His second complaint was that it was originally established without faculty participation.

Also concerning administration dictation, Rathburn noted that the 193-year-old Schlesinger is reportedly dictating the 17-year-old Ombudman. Rathburn attributed this to the magazine's critical view of the administration.

Trubac added the sixth point saying that the "salary situation here (at Notre Dame) is dismal." Trubac quoted a 2 per cent pay raise for faculty and compared it to the expected 6 per cent national cost of living increase. The level of compensation for this year is 1 per cent to 2 per cent compared to a 4 per cent national compensation increase, added Dugan.

The eighth point, covered by Dugan, concerned academic freedom. "The myths concerning collective bargaining have been largely dispelled, thanks to Professor Rathburn," commented Dugan.

AAUP policy with regards to collective bargaining is left on a local basis. Dugan noted that the AAUP provides its expertise only when the situation warrants.

Notre Dame administration has never allowed University government by faculty consensus, commented Dugan. He further noted that budget cutbacks have resulted in total elimination of faculty decision making power.
Washington--High-ranking administration officials said Tuesday that Henry A. Kissinger's call for a "new Atlantic Charter" was meant to signal Western European leaders that President Nixon wants to sign a major peace accord when he visits their countries later this year.

Washington--The United States made public a sharply worded reply to Hanoi's charges of cease-fire violations, accusing the North Vietnamese of "direct and inexcusable" breaches of the three-month-old Vietnam accord. Washington was responding to a note of April 16, addressed to the nations that participated in the Paris conference on Vietnam, in which North Vietnam contended that United States and the Saigon Government had "bravely and systematically violated many essential provisions" of the cease-fire agreement.

Washington--Federal investigators have determined that White House officials were regularly kept informed last May and June of some of the information obtained breaching the illegal wiretapping of the Democratic Party's National Headquarters, sources close to the case said.

Washington--President Nixon met for an hour with Washington lawyer for two presidential aides, H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, in connection with the Watergate case.

Ram Dass then spoke for over two hours to a large crowd on a variety of subjects: his own personal history, raised levels of consciousness, love, suffering, existence, God, and other themes in Eastern philosophy. However, this variety of subjects, for Ram Dass, form one subject, which is that if we recognize the "living spirit" in ourselves and everybody else, we don't have to worry about the particularity that our "role-playing" demands. And one of these particularities is worrying about what he himself was saying. For this reason and also because of the openness of his talk, it is things that must be taken as a whole.

Ram Dass's message is best summed up in a song he sang in the middle of his talk, into which the enthusiastic audience soon joined: "Listen, listen to my heart's sound, I will never forsake you, I will never forget you." He said that the "you" is anybody you want it to be. It's his drug adventures, he went to India where he met his guru and shed his identity to become "Dass" which means "servant of God."

The talk was sponsored by the Academic Commission.

In Library talk

Ram Dass stresses 'living spirit'

by Bill Sabin
Staff Reporter

"It's all just more stuff" said Baba Ram Dass, formerly Richard Alpert, PHD, as both a description of his initial five minutes of silence and a preface to his ensuing talk last night in the Library Auditorium.

Ram Dass then spoke for over two hours to a large crowd on a variety of subjects: his own personal history, raised levels of consciousness, love, suffering, existence, God, and other themes in Eastern philosophy. However, this variety of subjects, for Ram Dass, form one subject, which is that if we recognize the "living spirit" in ourselves and everybody else, we don't have to worry about the particularity that our "role-playing" demands. And one of these particularities is worrying about what he himself was saying. For this reason and also because of the openness of his talk, it is things that must be taken as a whole.

Ram Dass's message is best summed up in a song he sang in the middle of his talk, into which the enthusiastic audience soon joined: "Listen, listen to my heart's sound, I will never forsake you, I will never forget you." He said that the "you" is anybody you want it to be. It's his drug adventures, he went to India where he met his guru and shed his identity to become "Dass" which means "servant of God."

The talk was sponsored by the Academic Commission.

With TWA it pays to be young.

Armed with just your Stutelpass, a pack on your back, you can get a lot more for a lot less with TWA. Here are some ways we help.

Stutelpass.

For a mere $5.20 a night you'll be guaranteed student hotel accommodations (at the least) without reservations in 50 European cities. That includes breakfast, tips, service charges and, believe it or not, even some sightseeing. Pick up your tips, service charges and, believe it or not, even some sightseeing. Pick up your Stutelpass Coupon Books at any TWA office, or see your Campus Rep.

Destination Europe Pack.

A free pack full of everything you need to know about getting around when you don't know the language well enough to ask. Student flights, student tours, Eurailpass application, Britrail Pass application, student I.D. application and more.

Europe Bonus Coupon Books.

Take your boarding pass to any TWA Ticket Office in London, Paris, Rome, Frankfurt, Madrid, Athens or Amsterdam, and you'll get a book of bonus coupons good for all kinds of free things and extras in those cities. Like we said, with TWA it pays to be young. For all the details write: TWA - IT PAYS TO BE YOUNG, Box 25, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Bib overalls.

For doing what comes naturally.

For the earth-oriented student, square back bib overalls in blue denim, Hickory Stripe in sizes 32 to 48.

Blue chambray shirt in polyester-cotton is $6.99. Choose from easy care: S-M-XL.

JCPenney

We know what you're looking for.

J.C. Penney Co., So. Bend, Open Daily 9:30 to 9:00 Sat. 9:30 to 6:30, Sun. 10:00 to 6:00

for more information call

DAN SHEEHAN 282-3610

TWA Campus Representative

"Stutelpass is a service mark owned exclusively by TWA."

Collegiate Notes

Understood all subjects, plays and needs 1ptitner.

Thousands of topics available within 5 weeks of making multiple concuptionary and

Lower Prices Guarantee

60% to 80% off the latest descriptive Mail Order Catalogue with postage free or order forms.

COLLEGIATE RESEARCH

1 N. 15th St. Phila., Pa. 19102

HOT LINE (215) 361-3738
Reservation in Becourt, North Summer Dakota is a place that many attain an honest understanding of St. Lucia, an island off the coast of Americans do not know exists and our less fortunate neighbors in Venezuela. A traditional CILA members will uphold their decision and he said that he has already forwarded the results of the survey to Fr. Jerome Wilson, vice-president of Financial affairs, who will put the boycott in effect. Phaccenda also said that he was pleased with the way in which students, "lived up to this crucial moment issue."
Fr. Terrence McNally, who is the student member of the United Farm Workers, thanked students for their support of the measure saying, "We're happy about the overwhelming support that the boycott received." McNally then added, "We would like to have seen more people that the 53 percent that did vote."
Last August the administration made a decision to support Chavez and buy his lettuce first but if that supply was exhausted they would be forced to buy from other sources to fulfill the student's diet. The students' decision to boycott lettuce now means that the university will only buy lettuce picked by the United Farm Workers. When this lettuce is not available, the university will not buy lettuce from any other union.
The Teamsters Union and the United Farm Workers Union are the two unions which are involved with almost all lettuce growing in the United States. "The Teamsters are not really representing the farm worker," said McNally. "Only the United Farm Workers represents the farm workers demands."

CILA plans to visit five summer project sites

by Michael O'Hare Staff Reporter

The Turtle Mountain Indian Reservation in Bocourt, North Dakota is a place that many of the students that did members of the school will experience this summer. Entering its twenty-Nine years as the Christians volunteer project organization for the students of Notre Dame and St. Marys, CILA (Council for the International Lay Assignments) provides students the opportunity to experience life from perspectives that would otherwise be impossible to attain. The aim of CILA is expressed in its 1973 Summer Project Report, "To attain an honest understanding of our less fortunate neighbors in different cultural settings, so that we might realistically relate to them, thus enabling us to fulfill Christ's commandment of love."

A professor of Psychiatry at Yale, Lifton has conducted extensive research in the field of psycho-history, which is concerned with the relationship between individual psychology and historical change, in addition to the problems surrounding the extreme historical situation of our era. He has published numerous books on this subject, the most notable of which is Death in Life: Survivors of Hiroshima, winner of the National Book Award in the Sciences and the Van Wyck Brooks Award for non-fiction.

Course mix-ups explained

In a letter of apology to Dr. William Liu, chairman of Sociology and Anthropology, Scholastic Course Evaluation Committee attributed the absence of Anthropology course evaluations to a mix-up of assignments. Cluett said that he asked a Sociology major to review courses in both disciplines, but the student only evaluated courses in Sociology.

This mix-up, plus the confusion about courses labelled "M" in the course schedule book, has resulted in some confusion about the status of Anthropology courses. The "M," used in place of a check mark, merely indicates that majors may reserve a space in the course prior to registration. This is done to insure majors the opportunity to fulfill minimum departmental requirements. Remaining spaces are open to all non-majors with an interest in the biological or social sciences.
Collegiate Seminar is described

by William Murphy
Staff Reporter

A summated report of the Collegiate Seminar Program described the term "Seminar" as a 2-semester interdepartmental course in which students, with some exceptions, in the College of Arts and Letters, "either junior or senior year." According to Professor John Osteler, director of the program, "The Collegiate Seminar is not a department in an official sense, but a program." It offers courses where students can work on a "subject of the College of Arts and Letters, extending from the Arts to the University as a whole."

The Collegiate Seminar has been given continuously at Notre Dame since 1960. The ideas of the seminar was to reduce the study of certain great works of western literary tradition to a year, such as the seminar would be an offshoot of the General Program of Studies.

"At its inception," said Osteler, "it was generally welcomed as a great relief from other courses then offered, usually the standard, textbook, lecture type course. The success of the Collegiate Seminar course has led, among other reasons, and particularly within the last half dozen years, to many courses being offered in the Collegiate Seminar style, and hence the unique appeal of the Collegiate Seminar has been somewhat blunted."

Strengths and Weaknesses

One of the major weaknesses of the seminar is that so many other courses are now similar to it and there is an overlapping of curriculum. Another problem, said Osteler, is that the course involves a great deal of time and effort for students in the amount of reading and work necessary to take a course.

"There is also," said Osteler, "some dissatisfaction among students in reading 'Great Books' which they mistakenly assume not to be relevant, usually the standard, textbook, lecture type course. The success of the Collegiate Seminar course has led, among other reasons, and particularly within the last half dozen years, to many courses being offered in the Collegiate Seminar style, and hence the unique appeal of the Collegiate Seminar has been somewhat blunted."

"There is an overemphasis in the various sections given," said Osteler, "when forty sections have to be taught by only a small number of continuing regulars; when the bulk of the teaching staff has to be found in the various departments subject to their good will and availability, when an instructor is assigned to teach the seminar in which he has little interest in it and might even oppose it, and when a large amount of time is spent considering the problems and the status of the College Seminar as a program rather than a department."

Cushing believes that the reading list for the seminar should be a combination of old works with those that are more contemporary. He also stated that he has changed some of the current readings because students in his section had made several suggestions and attempted to show the same basic set of questions present in the contemporary world in the "Great Book". Cushing also felt that the role of the seminar has changed from the time when Professor Raymond Brach was another instructor who has a technical background. Brach, who teaches aerospace and mechanical engineering, came to the program to improve his own liberal education.

Brach believed that the Collegiate Seminar should be required. "There should be no excuse and keep you there. And you'll get together all the ideas the student has assimilated and to compare and contrast them to others views of life," said Brach.

Brach compared the seminar program to a design course he offers for engineering students. "The purpose of the design course," said Brach, "is to have the student bring together all the ideas he has in engineering ideas in overall applications." Brach also felt that the topics discussed in the "Great Books" could also be present in more contemporary works and that he would incorporate such works into the reading list if the students would show examples of the topics scheduled to be discussed.

Possibly the only regular staff member of the Collegiate Seminar Program is Professor Mary Lynne Osterle. Brice believed that the seminar could be improved upon.

"Students must check and balance one another," said Brice. "Students must develop responsibility and stop talking to hear themselves talk. They should instead learn the art of asking intelligent questions about literature. This would make a seminar a more enjoyable experience.

Think Haggar

Pleasant thought. When you see the new line of spring-summer slacks that Haggar has in mind for you, you'll find it easy to think Haggar; great for going double knits in solids and plaid, that wash and wear with no ironing needed.

Ever. What do you think?

from $14

Great Haggar baggies are here, too!

The Executive Suite has no key to the washroom

...but, then, it's designed to stay ahead of the competition.

It's not easy to manage a multi-million dollar plane. You have to put a college degree in your pocket and specialized training in your head before you're ready to travel. The United States Air Force gives you the finest training in the world—Officer Training School and Pilot Training—designed to get you on your way to discovery, as many have before you, that the training and the preparation was well worth the effort to join the fraternity of aviators in positions of real leadership. When you're checked-out for the executive suite, your starting salary will be more than $60,000 annually, putting you in a position to command a company. When you're up at 57,000 feet, you REALLY see the world!
An Tostal begins tomorrow

by Bob Quakenbush

Annually, An Tostal embraces all of the gaiety of spring and unleashes it upon the Notre Dame campus for a weekend of fun and frolic. This year's celebration begins tomorrow at midday in the end of the Irish Wake in the wee hours of Sunday morning.

“Gentle Thursday” is tomorrow, and the An Tostal Committee is praying for fresh breezes and a last blue Indiana sky. However, Patty Lurel, one of “Gentle Thursday’s” coordinators, believes one thing is much more important than perfect weather.

“Not only do we want people to turn out for the events,” Lurel said, “An Tostal is a lot of fun, but it needs people to make it successful.”

Her roommate and fellow coordinator for “Gentle Thursday,” Kathy Keyes, adds, “Not only do we want people to turn out but we hope everyone will enter at least one, if not all, of the events we’ve planned.”

In keeping with the traditional belief that springtime is a time for love, the An Tostal Committee has arranged for a floral delivery service, through which ladies may send tokens of affection to the men of their choice. The deliveries will be made during the noon hour. After that, the pretty-making will begin in earnest.

First, on all-male tables will be served in the dining halls. After that, students may proceed to the South Quad to join in the celebration. The kite flying Spectacle takes off at 1:00 p.m. The entries should be of fine quality since 50 will be awarded to the owner of the “designer of the most original” kite will win $5.

On the north side of Alumni Hall at 2:30 p.m., enonce Art Ferranti will quiz 32 contestants in the annual Trivia Bowl. The St. Mary’s squad will be looking for its first victory ever, as the competition should prove fierce. In case of rain, the contest will be held in the Library Auditorium.

Athletic rivalry continues at 6:00 p.m. behind the Bookstore. The SID-SMU girls’ playoff winner will challenge five victory performers in a Notre Dame basketball classic. The Fighting Irish must wear boxing gloves, so the females plan to turn this handicap to their advantage and capture the championship.

During the students’ dinner, the whirlwind of festivity will move to the North Quad for “Gentle Thursday” evening. The Appalachian Opera, a blue band, will entertain throughout.

Those who enjoy construction can witness the can-stacking and human pyramid contests scheduled for, respectively, 7:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. In between, racing enthusiasts may enter or enjoy the Great human pyramid contests. Racing enthusiasts may enter or enjoy the Great human pyramid contests. Racing enthusiasts may enter or enjoy the Great human pyramid contests. Racing enthusiasts may enter or enjoy the Great human pyramid contests.

The Five Fryer contest has been nicknamed “The Group Groper” by the Committee’s ambassador-at-large, Gregory T. Monto, in the dismay of Patty Lurel.

“It wouldn’t be so bad if he’d just quit referring to me as The Chief Group Groper,” Lurel explained. The “Fryer Fry Frye” contest is highly recommended for those who want to see if love really is blind. The site of the event is on the quad between Cavanaugh and Breen-Phillips Halls.

The Four-drawing competition at 10:30 p.m. is the last competitive event of the evening, and will be held just north of the “Find Your Mate” event.

Throughout the evening, students may visit the last of their winter hostilities at three convenient locations, for at 8:00 p.m. a dancing booth, pie-drawing booth, and jail open for business. Accurate throwing arms should provide many campus poodles, administrators, and athletes with a waisy downfall in the shadow of Breen-Phillips Hall. Further north, those same arms should scam once again and unsmiling faces of will throw pins. To ensure a continuous supply of “targets,” “ex-cons” from the An Tostal Jail will be routed through the pie-drawing booth upon their release (unless they have the 30 cents necessary to “bruce” their way to freedom).

ATTENTION
ALL SOPHOMORES

Sophomores may start placing ring orders April 24, 1973.

9:00 am to 4:30 pm Mon.-Fri.
in office on second floor of HAMMES NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

Wednesday, April 25, 1973 the observer
Welcome, Mr. Dugan

Professor Dennis Dugan in taking on the presidency of the AUU is assuming a responsibility for an organization that is encountering a period of minor crisis. Dugan is inheriting a body that is debating the acceptability of its president's position of minor crisis. Dugan is already well known to women faculty members. But of the president's position of the AUU, there remains considerable room for improvement. As president of the AUU, it will be his responsibility to assure the universe of faculty members that there is a place in the AUU where the position is not in question. The AUU must not be perceived as an organization that is being questioned or doubted.

-Gorner situation-A few weeks ago when Professor Gorner turned down the Sheedy award, he claimed that the administration was despot in nature and that the faculty was not being given its proper place in the University's structure. This is a problem with which Dugan will eventually wrestle. If the Gorner refusal is as important as it seems, Dugan must use the situation as a rallying point for faculty members, a point around which they can build their case for University governance. The AUU is in a position where it must acknowledge that there is discontent within its faculty and make reasonable attempts to cure it.

The AUU hopefully will serve as a forum in the next year, a forum in which problems will be aired, issues argued, and debates encouraged. But beyond this, the AUU must accept the responsibility of channeling the discontent now noticeable in the faculty into action. Hopefully, the action will help better the situation for the faculty at Notre Dame. Though they are not in a truly critical position, there exists room where they can push for improvement.

Dugan is a student government--a government in which the faculty was not being given their due. This is a problem with which Dugan must wrestle. If the Gorner refusal saw the same constitution rejected by the students last night that in a faculty of over 2,000, there remains considerable room for improvement. As president of the AUU, it will be his responsibility to assure the university of faculty participation.

Women faculty-Professor Rathburn, retiring president of the GUSU, pointed out last night that in a faculty of over 750 professors, only one woman has had the privilege of being selected by her peers to stand in a position in which they might attain tenure. Yet, the University lists 45 faculty women, only 14 of which are full-time. Why, then, the discrepancy? And second, even though the University is slowly making an effort to improve the situation, there remains considerable room for improvement. As president of the AUU, it will be his responsibility to assure the university of the AUU's willingness to work on this problem.

-Faculty input-Finally, Dugan is presented with a faculty seriously concerned with their input into University governance. Particularly, Rathburn has noted that there is a conspicous problem getting faculty members to run for the academic council and faculty senate. They feel that the positions are empty, time-consuming, and unrewarding. The University is in a position where it must acknowledge that there is discontent within its faculty and make reasonable attempts to cure it.

The AUU will serve as a forum in the next year, a forum in which problems will be aired, issues argued, and debates encouraged. But beyond this, the AUU must accept the responsibility of channeling the discontent now noticeable in the faculty into action. Hopefully, the action will help better the situation for the faculty at Notre Dame. Though they are not in a truly critical position, there exists room where they can push for improvement.

Jerry Lukas

The Graduate View

You And Your Oligarchy

s. james zafirau

This commentary is specifically addressed to all graduate students. Before I withdraw recently elected as your residential candidate and gave my public and formal support to Bill Lavage, I invited him to him that I would continue to work for certain changes and reforms, central of which was the creation of a truly representative and participatory graduate student government. It has long been a tradition in our society for our leaders to be elected through a direct vote by the people who are taxed (and you are being taxed at the rate of two dollars a year to support them). The GOE officers are being elected indirectly, i.e., by "elected" departmental representatives (in our case the AAUP officers). Thus they are not the GOE officers of your department. Presently, GSU members are established by simply proposing that, in an informal body of 10 or 15 people, is made to ascertain whether or not they are duly elected by the other students. It is purely a matter of practice for those students to be challenged under this framework, such a challenge will have to come from the departmental level student, as you cannot expect most current GSU members to initiate a challenge of themselves.

Each department, by the way, is entitled to one representative for every 250 students in your department. With roughly 2500 graduate students on campus, this would yield approximately 10 to 12 representatives. As you will note, a quorum presently is achieved when only one-half of the twenty-eight representatives are at meetings (one per department, or carry on official business). Even with this liberal quorum policy, you continually have had difficulty in achieving a quorum; and additionally, meetings have been held with much irregularity. About the best attendance this year was for the election, and even then less than thirty of the seventy potentialts showed up. I believe that the turnout with a direct election would yield both a greater percent turnout as well as certainly a greater number of voters.

1. Continue to pay the University of Notre Dame billed GUSU fee of twenty-two dollars per semester for a service without which you cannot vote. Do I get two dollars benefit from this? Should I have a right to directly influence the way in which I am being (and have been) taxed?

2. Straighten out your GUSU representatives at the departmental level. You make sure that they are in an informed position of how you and the student body view the election of the GUSU officers. Do you get two dollars benefit from this? Is it possible to change the officers representing me or primarily your own special interests?

3. Push for a direct election of GUSU officers. This prevents a layer of "elected" bureaucracy which separates you and me from the election of the GUSU officers.

4. You can work for a graduate student referendum calling for the dissolution of the current GUSU structure (this was suggested to me during pre-election discussions as an option by the newly elected officers. And if a quorum presently is achieved when only one-half of the twenty-eight representatives are at meetings (one per department, or carry on official business). Even with this liberal quorum policy, you continually have had difficulty in achieving a quorum; and additionally, meetings have been held with much irregularity. About the best attendance this year was for the election, and even then less than thirty of the seventy potentialts showed up. I believe that the turnout with a direct election would yield both a greater percent turnout as well as certainly a greater number of voters. This is what I am proposing for next year: a direct election of GUSU officers by the entire graduate student body, and I simultaneously call on each graduate student in the interim to give his own departmental GUSU representation another chance.

You can work for a graduate student referendum calling for the dissolution of the current GUSU structure (this was suggested to me during pre-election discussions as an option by the newly elected officers. And if a quorum presently is achieved when only one-half of the twenty-eight representatives are at meetings (one per department, or carry on official business). Even with this liberal quorum policy, you continually have had difficulty in achieving a quorum; and additionally, meetings have been held with much irregularity. About the best attendance this year was for the election, and even then less than thirty of the seventy potentialts showed up. I believe that the turnout with a direct election would yield both a greater percent turnout as well as certainly a greater number of voters. This is what I am proposing for next year: a direct election of GUSU officers by the entire graduate student body, and I simultaneously call on each graduate student in the interim to give his own departmental GUSU representation another chance.

Jerry Lukas

This Time For Sure (?)

Thursday the students of Notre Dame will get another chance to elect a student body president. Already they have voted in one primary, one run-off, been permitted in a resolution of martial law, sat through Constitutions A-D,1 saw a constitution passed by the HPC and saw the same constitution rejected by the hall council. Understandably, most students have a low turn-out today. This unfortunately will come true. And though it's understandable, it is too bad.

As it stands today, Notre Dame still has a student government—a government established in the form that it has existed throughout

doonesbury

garry trudeau

The observer

nile editor: Albert D'Astonio asst. nile editor: Bill Brink pix: Jerome
day editor: where were you?
typists: where were you?
diane: John Flannigan,
howard Halle, Rob Eberly
compographic: Mike Goetz nile controller: Bob Steinmetz

the last tuesday night!!!!!!!

scoop
the power behind nd

david kaminski

water through the condensers to recoup the steam. That's why we had to build the cooling towers by the lake.

"One summer the water got trouble with the lake because it was getting too hot. We used to cool it down when we had only a few generators, but as we had to add more equipment, we had to recoup more water into the lake. During the winter, we really didn't have to worry about the temperature, but during the summer we had to recoup the water through the cooling towers before we let it back into the lake."

25 years of change

As must be obvious, Bob Krauser has seen a lot of changes in 25 years, not only to his job but to Notre Dame. "One thing, 25 years ago you wouldn't be sitting here talking to me. You'd be back in your room with the lights out!" he comments with a smile.

"I remember years ago when a student did something wrong they just kicked him off campus and that was that. Now we have a more formal system."

Just for fun, Bob Krauser adds, "You know, the world keeps going on, the world keeps going on."
Faculty talk on Collegiate Seminar

The members and logs that resulted from the wiretaps were handed with great care in the Republican National Committee, sources said, under the guise of an "unofficial" request.

She testified, according to Anderson's column, that she used a secret special stationery for the following: "the word "Gemstone" printed on the top. McCord, whose decision turns out to be evidence, could not say what the word was "Gemstone" in initiating the mummurhounding Whitehouse scandal,

The memorandum was a "Gemstone" copy of the really retyped wiretap logs went to the office of John Mitchell. The former Attorney General was in charge of Nixon's re-election campaign during the three-weeks-from-late-May to June 17—that the tap was in operation. Mitchell left the campaign two weeks after the Watergate team was arrested inside Democratic Headquarters.

Liddy, who was sentenced to more than six years in jail for his role in the Watergate conspiracy, has refused to talk to federal investigators.

But the grand jury has learned that John Dean Magruder, a referrer, was part of White House and re-ection Committee official, also had access to the "Gemstone" reports. Anderson's column quoted Robert Regan, Magruder's top assistant at the time of the bugging operation, as testifying that he had been telephoned by Magruder shortly before his arrest, and became panic. He publicly said and told to remove a blue file from his office. Gardner later said under questioning that the file was marked "Gemstone".

CILA members plan summer projects continued from page 3) in the South Bend community. A nursing home vacation program has been carried on this year and will hopefully be continued this year. CILA members have also been involved in a Saturday morning project at local Chicoano children. Aimed at recreational and educational activities, this Saturday's project will take thirty-five children to visit the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry. All students interested in participating in this Saturday's trip are asked to report to the union building. The transportation are expected to call Mary Mullaney (225-0080) for more information.

CILA is also sponsoring the visit of Fr. Francisco Morales, pastor of Ciudad Altimirano and coordinator of the Mexican project for the past ten years. Morales will arrive on the following Thursday and stay for one week. The students are encouraged to bring with them the CILA members who are preparing to work in Mexico and speak to classes interested in this project.

Any Notre Dame or St. Mary's students that are interested in CILA and its work are encouraged to contact Mike Magruder (2505), JoeRegan (2877), or Richard Osterle (4387). Notre Dame students interested in working in Mexico this summer are urged to contact Mike O'Hare (2878) immediately.
Spend 270 Days on a Campus Like No Other in the World: Your Junior Year in New York ... at New York University.

Music, art, poetry, theater, museums, libraries, archives, Wall Street, the United Nations, nationhood, Greenwich Village, film and television studies—New York City is an unparalleled source of the educational experience at New York University.

Junior Year in New York study is available at NYU's Washington Square Center, in arts and science, and public administration, and education. For detailed information, clip the coupon and mail today.

A sample of New York

Actors Playhouse, Seventh Avenue between Grove and Bleecker Streets
Amato Opera Theater, Bowery and Second Street
Bill Baird Puppet Theater, Bowery Street near Bedford Street
Eighth Street Playhouse, 32 West Eighth Street between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas
Elgin, Eighth Avenue, near Ninth Street, Film festivals and old favorites
Henry Street Settlement Playhouse, Grand Street
Judson Memorial Church, Washington Square South. An arts center, poetry, and dance
Mercer Art Center, Mercer Street, between 3rd and Bleecker Streets. Theaters named for Lorraine Hansberry, Bernard Shaw, Oscar Wilde, Bertold Brecht, and Sean O'Casey. The Blue Room Cabaret has jazz

Music

Provincetown Playhouse, MacDougal Street between 3rd & 4th Streets. Home of Ruffino Opera
Public Theater, Lafayette Street near Astor Place. Birthplace of (h: home of New York Shakespeare Festival; also has film anthology
St. Mark's-in-the-Bowery, Second Avenue between 10th and 11th Streets
Sheridan Square Playhouse, Seventh Avenue near Grove Street
Theater De Lys, Christopher Street near Hudson Street
Village Gate, center of Bleecker and Thompson Streets
Washington Square Methodist Church, West Fourth Street between Washington Square and Avenue of the Americas. Music, dance, drama, film
Dauber and Pine Bookshop, Fifth Avenue near 13th Street. From print and used books to rare and old books
Eighth Street Bookshop, West Eighth Street. Scholarly, difficult-to-find books, extensive paperback collection
Ontelaunee, Fourth Avenue near 10th Street. Eastern thought
Little Italy: Bonded roughly by Houston and Canal Streets, the Bowery and Lafayette Street, Salamis and warm fresh bread; fresh fruit and vegetables and seafood. The festivals of San Antonio in the late spring and San Genaro in the early fall.

Carnegie Hall, 154 West 57th Street. Concerts, recitals, and performances
Celli Irish Festival of Song and Dance, Cathedral High School, 560 Lexington Avenue, 50th to 51st Streets
New York City Center, 151 West 43rd Street. Dance and music recitals American Institute of CPA's, 665 Fifth Avenue, Room 403. Library offers books on accounting, taxation and rare books on accounting
The broadcasting network libraries. By appointment. At 1000 Broadway near 64th; CBS at 53 W. 57th Street; and NBC at 30 Rockefeller Plaza
Donnell Library, 53rd Street, between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas. Noted for books on the theater; has a regular schedule of films, concerts and lectures Herald Music Press, 28 West 38th Street. Recorders and recorder music their specialty — the only music shop of its kind in the country

Museum of Contemporary Crafts, 85th Street, between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas
Museum of American Folk Arts, West 53rd Street between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas

Museum of Modern Art, theater, between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas
Museum of Native Art, theater, between Fifth Avenue and Avenue of the Americas
Museum of the American Indian, Sixth Avenue near 83rd and 84th Streets
Metropolitan Museum of Art, Fifth Avenue between 80th and 84th Streets
Museums of the City of New York, Fifth Avenue at 104th Street
New York Historical Society of Daughters of the Revolution, Fifth Avenue between 89th and 90th Streets
Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum, Fifth Avenue between 86th and 89th Streets. The building itself a work of art by Frank Lloyd Wright

Whitney Museum of American Art, Madison Avenue at 75th Street. Exhibits of American artists who are still living Lincoln Center, Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, between 62nd and 66th Street. Home of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, the New York City Ballet, the Metropolitan Opera, and the New York City Opera

American Museum of Natural History, Central Park West, 77th Street to 81st Street. Nearly twelve acres of exhibits

The Cloisters, Fort Tryon Park, west of Broadway near 190th Street, Recreation of the medieval world
Hispanic Society of America, Broadway between 155th Street and 156th Street, Gayo's "Duchess of Alba," works by El Greco, Velasquez, Zurbaran and others

American Museum of the Indian, Broadway and 155th Street. Largest museum in the world devoted to the North American Indians
Riverside Museum, 310 Riverside Drive—features Tibetan and Oriental art

New York Historical Society, Central Park West at 77th Street

Wednesday, April 25, 1972 the observer
CANDIDATES GIVE STATEMENTS CONCERNING THEIR PLATFORMS

The three tickets for SOP-SVP which are running for student government about their platforms. They are listed in alphabetical order by the presidential candidates' last name.

Eileen Biggers

For the first time in years, student government has professed some tangible evidence of its existence. It has moved away from simplified political machinery, largely due to the greater number of students interested in what the organization is trying to do. The establishment of a STATE LOBBY to fight for student rights on a state-wide level including the lowering of the drinking age 18. I'm Initiated to serve as Secretary of this organization.

A SURPLUS of student government income is available each year. A budget, a surplus will be a welcome event. This surplus was made possible due to a careful review of the bookkeeping system as well as a thriftily-prepared budget.

A collection of INTEREST monies on the funds kept for student government by the administration. This amounted to over $5,000 and was the first time it occurred.

With this carefully controlled budget, more money was made available to the STUDENT UNION. We make sure any surplus is kept on one of the best programs in years with these funds.

The construction of a BUN STOP near the Bus Stops. This is the beginning of our future.

The film developments made by MCCUP are help relieve some of the hassles of advanced registration.

The sponsoring of the DANCE MARATHON which will be used to raise the thousands of dollars for Muscular Dystrophy.

The elimination of a PARTY service.

An effective and well-managed OHIUSMAN SERVICE.

WSND NAMES NEW MANAGER

By John Colligan
Staff Reporter

Rich Flanagan has been named WSND station manager for the upcoming year. Flanagan, noted for his "oldie shows" has been appointed the AM station programmer and Michael Bridgeman will take charge of the same position on the FM station.

Both Flanagan and Bridgeman have been with WSND for several years. They have been appointed by top Notre Dame athletes as guest stars and to the best job we are able to do.

Rich Flanagan, new manager

A public station deserves more time than a student is able to give, it was Flanagan's thoughts.

Flanagan has been appointed to announce our new budget motel in South Bend. Lovely rooms at low cost: $10.00 single $12.50 double.

Friendly happy atmosphere—Send your friends and relatives

A BEBHY IS HAPPY to announce our new budget motel in South Bend. Lovely rooms at low cost. Friendly happy atmosphere—Send your friends and relatives

A BEBHY INNS OF AMERICA 3082 S. 31st St. (next to the Boars Head)
Private universities in jeopardy

by Tim Traverseld

"The private university is in for the fight of its life!" Phrases such as these are being broadcasted from among college administrators and seem to be dressed in a storm of protest as more and more institutions are combating the ever-increasing costs in higher education over the next ten years.

The nucleus of the problem appears to be the current, critical need for research grants and more importantly, the blatant neglect toward the private institution. These two factors alone will have a pervasive influence upon internal operations such as admissions standards and financial aid.

Within the next decade, survival of independent and sectarian colleges is in serious jeopardy. "I think you are going to see a lot of private universites disappear and change drastically," explained Dan Saracino, assistant director of admissions for Notre Dame, "the buildings will still exist but all of a sudden you discover they have become either a private residence, a hotel or a junior college for adults.

Saracino cited two possible universities which in future years may be faced with this problem. "Schools such as the University of St. Francis and the University of Dayton have had a great number of students transferring from the private schools. Eventually the religious orders will be pulled out."

In an attempt to avoid future financial trouble, many institutions are attempting to merge or consolidate with neighboring schools. It is reported that the present University of Detroit will soon be merged with Walsh College of Wayne State University, located just four blocks away.

Concern has been expressed at Notre Dame as well as other independent institutions about the paucity of the Nixon Administration's financial aid for private education. University President Fr. J. Joseph Alverno, S.J., noted how important members of the university's Foundation Office are attempting to keep up with trends in the student's financial problem and the point to an inactive attitude by President Nixon. "Nixon's lack of interest toward the financial aid for private institutions is of particular significance to the problem," Saracino recently stated.

Alicia Hahn
ND's netters enjoy 7-2 holiday

by John Fineran

The Notre Dame tennis squad found the weather and their play taking a turn for the better over the past week and a half. With an exciting 7-2 record during this time, the Irishmen finally succeeded in putting breathing room between their victory and loss columns, going 3-1-1 for the season.

The victory streak started on a good note against a respectable single opponent in Saturday's twin bill at Ferris State. The teams met at noon on April 12th. At home for the first time since returning from Chicago, the Irish were able to pull off a 4-1-5 victory over the 4-6-5 Ferris State team.

During the second of the two matches, a good victory in doubles was split between John Carlini-Brandon Walsh and Richy Border tandem brothers.

Saturday, March 19th, was a different story. Cincinnati's Carlini-Brandon Walsh pair avenged an earlier defeat in the Central Collegiate Tourney just as the sunshine softened pleasant springtime skies during the Western Michigan (game one) and Cleveland State (game two) contests. Walsh, and Border showed that he is considered one to the top singles players in the country.

Sunday, morning at 10, Notre Dame took the road against four opponents in the annual Insex Tourney. This time the Irish post was no problems with the other three—Ohio State, Ohio State, and Ohio State. Still, Ball — Notre Dame on Easter Sunday. With three singles by George Graves and Freshman Mark Schetter, and a win by the team's #1 singles player, Walsh, the Irish dropped just one tie.

Saturday's competition Notre Dame had come form behind as Ohio State jumped to an early lead. Kevin Schrader and John Longfellow (Brackets 3) scored the only wins in the Notre Dame match. The Buckeyes won 4-3, 3-4, and 2-5.

Thursday, March 20th, the teams meet at the number-four singles. The Buckeyes' John Peckskamp beat the Irish with a walk, and Pete Schmidt hit a grand slam.

The Bearcats' John Peckskamp and Brandon Walsh were a different story. Walsh hit a double down the left field line to drive in Kevin Finn and Tom Hansen's single, an error, and a walk to Kettinger and Bill Meyer. Walsh, apps runners at second and third and an inning later.

Brandon Walsh

WCHA meets on revised officiating, point system

A new method of determining league standings and a new officiating system were the major developments at the Western Collegiate Hockey Association (WCHA) meetings in Minneapolis recently.

The point system used for the past two seasons, whereby a team would score two or four points for a victory, ending on many ties at two points, has now been abandoned. This coming season, teams will earn points on the point system which prevails throughout the NCAA, where two points is worth one for a win and one for a tie (regardless of how many goals the teams play each other. It was also agreed at the meeting that each WCHA team will play 32 league games, 14 home and 18 away.

The officiating system to be used this season will consist of two referees and one linesman. The calls will be made by the referees, who will be a single individual per each league game, will be responsible for calling offside. In place of selecting a WCHA commissioner as an executive committee was to administer the league's business. That executive committee will consist of Professor Frank Remington, faculty representative from Wisconsin; Professor John Trudell, faculty representative from Michigan State; Burt Smith, faculty representative from Minnesota; and Professor Max Schultes, faculty representative from Minnesota.

The WCHA playoff dates appear the schedule on the following are Tuesday and Wednesday March 4-5 and Thursday and Saturday March 4-6.

Rick Eisen bounced back from a poor performance against Illinois State to hit the Wolverines, but was done in by shortstop Jim Smith's seventh-inning error.

Tom Kettles' two-out double put Michigan up in the first, but the Irish tied it in the third on Tom Hanten's single, an error, and back-to-back sacrifices by Roemer and Mark Schmitt. Roemer's sacrifice bunt put runners at second and third and third inning.

Michigan 3, ND 2

This was an even tougher loss, as captain Bob Roemer had tied the score in the top of the seventh. The Wolverines won it via Brian Bailer's game-winning sacrifice fly to center.

At the start of this week, the Irishmen had succeeded in putting breathing room between their victory and loss columns, going 3-1-1 for the season.

Nunsebaum opened the contest with a double down the left field line. Dave Mark Schmitter singled him on an out later. The sequence continued in innings, with starter Kevin Finn on the mound.

Ferris State 14, ND 3

A 250 club this year, Ferris came out swinging for the fences. The Irish need a total of 12 out to defeat the to the Irishmen on Easter Sunday. With three singles by George Graves and Freshman Mark Schetter, the Irish dropped just one tie.

The Buckeyes' John Peckskamp and Brandon Walsh were a different story. Walsh hit a double down the left field line to drive in Kevin Finn and Tom Hansen's single, an error, and Pete Schmidt hit a grand slam.

The Bearcats' John Peckskamp and Brandon Walsh were a different story. Walsh hit a double down the left field line to drive in Kevin Finn and Tom Hansen's single, an error, and Pete Schmidt hit a grand slam.

The Bearcats' John Peckskamp and Brandon Walsh were a different story. Walsh hit a double down the left field line to drive in Kevin Finn and Tom Hansen's single, an error, and Pete Schmidt hit a grand slam.

While the Irish had no trouble with their game, the pitching of Rick Eich came out swinging for the fences. The Irish were able to score two runs and take a 1-0 lead in the top of the seventh. The Wolverines won it via Brian Bailer's game-winning sacrifice fly to center.

Northwestern 11, ND 1

It started as a pitcher's duel between fresh Mitch Stotts (2-0, 7.06) and the Wolverines' Jim Mitchell (4-1, 2.87). Jim Mitchell earlier went 7 1/2 innings of no-hit ball for the Wolverines.

The bottom half of the third inning proved to be ND's downfall as Mike Swallow could find the plate at the end of the inning. The Wolverines scored the game's winning run on a wild pitch and a sacrifice. The final score was 11-1 in favor of the Wolverines.

The Irishmen are now 12-9 overall and 1-1 in the Big Ten.

Sweet 16 selected featuring Paul Simmons and Mike Hings, both veterans of last year's Sugar Bowl, will compete against the Irish, Notre Dame and the St. John's, Clemson, and Fordham teams.

While self-appointed expert of basketball Bob Hoover have not agreed upon a favorite to win Friday's final the consensus in that ND will provide the Irish with some late inning runs to pull away. The Irishmen were able to score two runs and take a 1-0 lead in the top of the seventh. The Wolverines won it via Brian Bailer's game-winning sacrifice fly to center.

31

Bookstore Basketball

Two events will be mounted by the Bookstore Basketball have not gone unseen. The Fat Asses, The 31 freshest home court and Upchurch and the Vomits, The 31.

Bookstore Basketball-third-round scores

at Stepan Center

1

Brackets 2, Edged Geers 11

14.00 Chicago State 21, Schmucks 18

14.00 Stepan 21, Schmucks 18

14.00 Bounds 15, Heavy Bailers 17

14.00 Joe's Bar and Grill 21, Checkered Nuts vs. RA's et al <Bracket 4

14.00 T-Piague 21, Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Mike, Gun and the Vomits, The 31 vs. Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Joe's Bar and the Vomits, The 31.

14.00 T-Piague 21, Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Mike, Gun and the Vomits, The 31 vs. Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Joe's Bar and the Vomits, The 31.

14.00 T-Piague 21, Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Mike, Gun and the Vomits, The 31 vs. Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Joe's Bar and the Vomits, The 31.

14.00 T-Piague 21, Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Mike, Gun and the Vomits, The 31 vs. Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Joe's Bar and the Vomits, The 31.

14.00 T-Piague 21, Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Mike, Gun and the Vomits, The 31 vs. Canucka, Cardiac Heart, Joe's Bar and the Vomits, The 31.