Orientation begins... for Notre Dame freshmen

by Jo-Ann Abell
Manag. ed. Editor

An extensive testing program, counseling service and social events highlight the 1973-74 Freshman Orientation program, according to Dr. Emil T. Hofman, Dean of Freshman Studies.

Regarding four tests for credit to Friday night cookouts, the program is the most ambitious to be attempted at Notre Dame, Hofman said.

"In doing many things this year we could never have done before due to the lack of counselors," Hofman said. "And I believe he expected the social events in particular to become more popular than previous years' "mixers."

But, he said, the most important part of the orientation was the testing program. Nearly half of the Class of '77 took the first part of the program. Consisting of the College Placement Test designed to help counselors guide freshmen, the tests were given at special centers in 11 cities in July in addition to the campus itself.

"Freshmen were given three options," Hofman said. "They could either take the tests at the centers, on campus or wait until the day of freshman orientation (Aug. 31) to take them at school."

Early Results

The advantage to this planning is to get test results in as early as possible. The results of students taking the tests in July are already in, Hofman said, and the results of the rest will be ready by Sept. 3, hardly three days after the tests are given. The reason for this need of results is so that special lists of students who did well can be posted Monday, inviting those students to take advanced tests for possible credit. These advanced tests will be administered between 9 and 11 a.m. and 2 and 4 p.m. Sept. 3 in Nieuwland Science Hall.

The second aspect of the orientation program will be the extensive counseling service available to all freshmen.

Consisting of three parts, the service will be available in all areas from academic to personal.

Students will be advised by other students—undergraduates who have gone through a special training program—faculty members in the field each student chooses, and special consultants from each academic department.

Freshmen will be requested to meet with their counselor or an upperclassman counselor from time to time during the year, Hofman added.

Related to counseling and making up the third part of the orientation program will be the social events. "The first thing we learned in this area is that freshmen feel loneliness," Hofman said. He added that the social events planned were designed to alleviate this problem by bringing freshmen together and giving them a sense of belonging and friendship.

"This is the greatest aspect of Notre Dame," Hofman said. "The spirit of friendliness is unmatched anywhere else."

He said among these events will be cookouts every Friday night between Sept. 7 and Oct. 5 in the courtyard behind Brownson Hall, tours of South Bend and picnic trips to the Dunes on Lake Michigan. The cookouts are designed as "more than just a place to get something to eat."

Hofman said Freshmen will be able to meet other students and many professors attending the cookouts.

"This is important," Hofman said concerning the meeting of professors. "It gives the freshmen a chance to meet peers under a different situation than the classroom." The tours of South Bend are also important in the eyes of the Freshman Year Dean.

Designed to give the student a broader perspective of the area, the tours will be conducted at 3 p.m. Sept. 13 and 14 and 9 a.m. Sept. 15. Lasting three hours, the tours will include the downtown area, motel row, various shopping centers such as 100 Center, Town and Country and the new Scottsdale Mall, and various area stores.

Dunes Trip

A third major event set for freshmen will be two dunes picnic trips in October. Scheduled for Oct. 14 and 21, students will board buses at 11 a.m. each Sunday and return at 9 p.m. Activities will include swimming, games and cookout lunches and dinners.

Tickets will be necessary to the cookouts, the tours and the dunes trip. Hofman, merely to facilitate planning and supplies. All tickets will be free for the asking, he said, and will be available the week of the cookout or dunes trip.

Tickets for the South Bend tours should be picked up before Sept. 11. All tickets will be available in the Freshman Year of Studies office in Brownson Hall.

Finally, Hofman said his office has planned an open house for freshmen parents Nov. 3. Set for the morning of the Notre Dame Navy football game, the event will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. in Stepan Center and will include a breakfast and meetings with professors.

Special notices of the event including details will be sent to all freshman parents in October.

Looking ahead to the second semester, Hofman said nothing definite has been planned, but he was many ideas in the works.

Chicago Trip?

He said "we're about to take a number of freshmen to tours of Chicago, similar to the program he ran last year. These tours would include tours of the various Chicago museums and downtown areas."

Hofman also said he hoped to set up a winter carnival-type event at Bessie Park, south of South Bend near the beginning of the second semester.

Special lecturers and lecture series are also on his list of activities.

Orientation begins... for St. Mary's freshmen

Lurel emphasized that expanded co-education at Notre Dame would not effect mixed social activities between ND and SMC and added that "in a few weeks" some event would be arranged to bring the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's women together.

"We wanted to schedule something in the beginning, but there just wasn't enough time," said Lurel.

Orientation will not be extended into the first semester, as last year's was, according to Mrs. Rosemary Doherty, head of the Freshman administration, special education, and nursing programs.

Lurel said that this year's schedule will be basically the same as last year's with the addition of the concert at Saint Mary's Lake and a carnival slated for Wednesday, which will feature games, booths, refreshments, and a band.

The lack of recreational facilities at Saint Mary's has been filled this summer with the installation of a pool, driving range and putting green, resurfaced tennis courts and a more fully-equipped exercise room in the student center.

The 11-foot deep pool, built by the Holy Cross sisters, is located in the Regina South courtyard which will eventually be enclosed by a roof. Temporary dressing rooms are available, but permanent facilities are planned.

Pool hours will be Monday-Friday from 1 to 4 and 5 to 7 p.m. for St. Mary's women, faculty and staff, and Saturday and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. for all. A fee of 50 cents per guest or $1.00 per family will be charged. A "guest" is defined as any person not directly connected with SMC.

Pool parties may be reserved through the student center at a cost of $25 for the hours of 8 to 10 p.m. Monday-Friday and 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Each group must provide its own lifeguard, but the student center will furnish a list of available lifeguards.

The roof will be installed during a 10-day period in September. Contractors have assured the college that the work will be completed as quickly as possible.

The golf range and putting green will not be ready until October. Weather permitting, they will be available from Monday through Friday from 11 to 2 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 4 to 8 p.m. Cost is 50 cents per bucket of balls.

Saunas in the Regina exercise room may be booked through the student center. They are open only to women.

Students then veer off to either students down a hallway, which serving area, in the center of the cafeteria were located.

Directly in front of them as they enter are the new doors which lead over the Labor Day weekend. The renovation, directed by Ellerbe Architects, is in its final stages as workers complete the finishing touches.

The design, which completely alters the flow of traffic within the dining hall. All students are to enter through the main doors which lead into the pay cafeteria, now named the counter.

Students then veer off to either the left or right, where a wrought-iron fence will guide them to the location of the "checkers." These dining hall employees will be sitting approximately in the area where the old coolers to the pay cafeteria were located. The flow of traffic will lead the students down a hallway, which used to be the side section of the pay cafeteria, into the serving area in which the old kitchen used to be located.

As the students walk into the serving area, the center of the room will be a cart containing trays, napkins and silverware. Directly in front of that is a stretch of serving counters containing six areas where students can pick up the hot entrees. On either side of the serving or scramble room are counters, which hold the salads, fruit, doughnuts and other similar items. As the students exit the serving room they will be faced with a huge square area which holds the refreshments. In front of them will be the carbonated items, on the left side of each side of the dining hall, yet the tables are spaced out to eliminate the crowding problem in the hall. Also, along the side walls of each hall, the four-seat tables taken from the pay cafeteria offer the student the choice of eating in large or small groups.

According to Bro. Kieran Ryan, assistant vice president for business, the conveyor belt system disposal takes away a tremendous burden on the halls. Now, a conveyor belt system, running along the wall on the students' part while a traffic pattern is worked out through use of the new facilities. We need your (the students') cooperation and patience to allow for the necessary changes in traffic patterns and for you (the students) to become accustomed to the new, scrapple system of food service," they said. The reno work was accomplished this summer, with work being done under the auspices of Black Construction Co.

Mechanical work was done by Shady Ponds of South Bend. Morris Electric handled the wiring and lighting.

No cost estimate was available for the renovation.

The renovated cafeteria promises to keep students happier.
Starting salaries offered to members of the Notre Dame class of 1973 generally were above the national average, according to Richard D. Willemin, director of the University's placement bureau.

Notre Dame civil engineering graduates received salary offers four per cent higher than the national average reported in the College Placement Council's (CPC) 1973 salary survey. The civil engineers were followed by graduates in accounting, mechanical engineering and metallurgy, who received offers three per cent above the national average.

Salaries offered to this year's Notre Dame class were six per cent higher than last year. Nationally, salaries increased four per cent.

SMC offers three new programs

A business administration major and a joint special education program with Indiana University at South Bend have been added to Saint Mary's fall curriculum. In addition, the nursing program will begin this fall.

The business major was added upon approval of the Board of Regents to answer the increased demand for such a program, and a random questionnaire distributed last fall indicated 97 per cent of students polled favored it. The department curriculum has been enlarged, and it has been retitled Business Administration and Economics. Majors may earn a Bachelor of Business Administration or Bachelor of Arts in Business and Economics degree.

The special education program, recently approved by the Indiana State Teacher Training and Licensing Commission, will give students state certification. It provides for an exchange of professors between the two institutions, and will be honored by NCATE, the national accrediting agency for teacher education programs.

The nursing program has filled its quota of 76 students, according to Dr. Mary Martucci, chairman of the department of nursing. The majority of them are from inside the South Bend area, she added.

The major is structured so that the first two years consist of liberal arts core requirements for a baccalaureate degree, with nursing training beginning in the third year. This enables a student who wishes to change her major after the first or second year to do so without being penalized academically. Graduates in the department will receive both the B.N. and B.S. degree in nursing.

Successful candidates will be premeditated with volunteer work in the community.

The Saint Mary's department of nursing is the only Catholic baccalaureate nursing program in the state.

Notre Dame graduates fare well

The salary increase reflects an improved employment outlook for college graduates. The 1973 Notre Dame graduate found herself in a better "seller's market" than we've seen in recent years," Willemin said. "The number of employers visiting our campus increased one third over last year. One hundred eighty-one employers made recruiting visits in 1971-72, while 287 visited in 1972-73.

Nationally and at the University, graduates receiving degrees from the technical disciplines were in great demand and received the highest salary offers.

Dr. Areson appointed

SMC Counseling Director

Dr. Suzanne Areson has been appointed Director of Counseling at St. Mary's, replacing Dr. Mary Martucci who now heads the nursing program.

In her new position, Dr. Areson will be responsible for personal counseling and vocational testing of students.

Prior to joining the college, Dr. Areson served two years as assistant counselor at Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Mich. She was previously employed at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, training and supervising counselors, and serving on the school of education's advising office. Dr. Areson received her Ph.D. in education as well as her master's in counseling and guidance from the University of Michigan. She holds a bachelor of science degree in psychology from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

Accurate starting salary statistics for 1973 Notre Dame Ph. D. graduates are not available. Data from the Notre Dame and CPC surveys was based on actual offers made by businesses and industrial firms.

On the bachelor's level, chemical engineering led the way at Notre Dame with an average starting salary of $13,388. Mechanical, followed with $12,534, and mechanical engineering with $11,934. Other leading disciplines were electrical engineering, $11,246, civil engineering $11,058, accounting, $10,302, and finance, 10,272.

Notre Dame master of business administration graduates leading the way with a technical undergraduate degree received the highest salary offers on the masters level. The average offer was $15,364-$1,272 above the national average.

A young man with his eye to the future can look to Army ROTC.

Choose Army ROTC. The total time requirements of ROTC account for little in a student's workload and no commitment is made by you until the Junior Year. While you're looking at our program and deciding if we can offer you something, we will be looking at you. If we're both satisfied we can offer each other something, upon graduation you will receive a commission as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army Reserve. Right now chances are good you'll only be required to serve on active duty for 3 to 6 months.

When you go back to a civilian career, you'll have an edge. The management and leadership experience offered through ROTC are not duplicated by any other college courses. And, proves in the concrete, officer experience, these are important assets for any young man looking toward a successful future. Assets which are readily marketable when seeking any position.

Success in a life choice today demands more than ever the right preparation. Education, of course, is essential. But the growing proportion of Americans going to college has lessened the diploma's role as an automatic entree to the best jobs. Employers are demanding something more.

Army ROTC offers "something more" to the college man looking to expand his future. Call 283-6264 or 283-6265 or visit the Army ROTC office Bldg. 5.

Administrative changes made at St. Mary's

by Marla Gallagher
St. Mary's Editor

In the wake of the summer administrative shuffle, three new posts have been created, and two remain unfilled. In addition, five terms have expired on the Board of Regents, and the status of two more is uncertain.

Replacing Don Rosenthal as registrar is Sr. Mary Francesca, C.S.C., who held that post at Dunbarton College in Washington until it closed last June. She holds a bachelor's degree from Dunbarton College, and a master's from Catholic University. Information on her major fields was not immediately available. She also holds an Ed.D. from Columbia University, and was assistant professor of education at Dunbarton.

Sister Anne Mae Golden, C.S.C., takes over as director of admissions, succeeding Sister Raphellita Whalen, C.S.C.

Sister Anne Mae joined Saint Mary's in 1972 as assistant director of admissions. She holds a B.A. in mathematics from Dunbarton, and an M.A. in mathematics from the University of Notre Dame. She taught mathematics for eight years at Cardinal Cushing College in Boston, and served as its academic dean during the 1971-72 school year.

Sr. Ellen Dolores Lynch, C.S.C., will succeed Sr. Basil Anthony O'Flynn, C.S.C., as vice-president for development and public relations. She holds M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in chemistry from the University of Notre Dame, and has published several articles in professional journals relating to her field. For the last twenty years she has taught at Dunbarton College where she also served as secretary for the planning committee and as a member of the advisory committee for the college. Prior to that, she taught at Saint Mary's College, and did research for the Department of the Interior and the American Petroleum Institute. Currently she is a member of the Saint Mary's Board of Regents and chairman of the student life committee.

Sister Basil Anthony will assume responsibilities as vice-president for campus affairs, newly created position.

Sister Basil Anthony has served Saint Mary's in several administrative capacities. She was vice-president for fiscal affairs, and prior to that, dean of students. She holds a master's degree in theology from the College and a master's degree in education from the University of Notre Dame.

Recently she was elected to the Board of Directors of the American Association of University Administrators (AAUA) for a three year term. She was also the general secretary of the Congregation of the Sisters of the Holy Cross for twelve years.

New Positions

Another new position, that of institutional researcher, will be filled by Sr. Jeanette Lester.

With the start of a new academic year and a large number of personnel changes in the Educational Affairs office, Student Affairs seeks to define the Unit's role in the university's educational atmosphere. It hopes to pursue, revise the student rules and regulations and change some internal procedures.

"We're trying to make a short statement of our educational purpose," says Phillip Faccenda, vice president of Student Affairs.

Statement of purpose

The statement, not yet in its final copy, was presented to the hall council at their orientation meetings. It represents a philosophy that asks the rectors and all Student Affairs personnel to be Christian in their dealings with students. This is a staff policy and not something which asks any action on the part of the students," says Dr. Robert Ackerman, director of staff development under Faccenda.

Staff realignments

Student Affairs, under Faccenda's leadership, began forming its policies and goals only since last May when Faccenda's appointment to his present position was made permanent. At that time a large number of staff realignments were also announced. Over the summer the offices for Student Affairs moved to a new location in room 315 of the Administration building.

Faccenda outlined several other areas, in addition to the Christian philosophy, which his staff prepared over the summer.

Revision of Manual

Student Affairs has prepared a draft of their ideas for revision of the Student Manual. This draft will be presented to the Student Life Council (SLC), the committee composed of administrators, faculty and students, responsible for review of the student rules.

"We have submitted a working document of suggestions," states Faccenda, "which we hope will lead to redrafting of the university rules."

This is our ideas, what we think it ought to be," says Ackerman. "We are not trying to pressure anyone to accept them.

Student Affairs have also prepared a draft for revising hearing procedures and other appeals methods concerning university discipline. These suggestions will also go to the SLC for their consideration.

Additionally, the office has outlined procedures for rector orientation and staff education. This will be Ackerman's primary responsibility.

Staff skills

I will hopefully spend the year trying to help the professional staff develop skills to do a good job," says Ackerman. "There are concerns the rectors have, such as counselling, and understanding the personal growth of students that I can help with."

Faccenda hopes to have a free flow of information from his office to the students this year.

"My underlying theme is that everything we do is open. In terms of policies and attitudes we're going to be as open as humanly possible. This will, I hope, eliminate many suspicions," says Faccenda.

An exhibit of ancient and medieval art has opened at Notre Dame's Art Gallery in O'Shaughnessy Hall.

The show includes examples of Romanesque, Gothic and medieval French, German and Italian art from the university's permanent collection. Among the objects being shown for the first time are several first and second century Roman lead figure reliefs. Other objects on display include 12th century Italian columns, two late 13th century German paintings of St. Mary Magdalen and St. Margaret, a fifth or sixth century Byzantine gold filigree earring, and a 10th century bronze cross reliquary.

Among the example of Coptic Egyptian art are several fourth to eighth century textiles and a small carving of a pilgrim.

In conjunction with the exhibit, Rev. Richard Conyers, C.S.C., an art doctoral candidate at the State University of New York at Buffalo, will deliver a lecture on humorous marginalia in medieval manuscripts on a date yet to be set.

The exhibition is to continue through December 30. Admission is free.

One of 1800

You are probably one of the 1800 freshmen now on campus. You are probably a little different than your predecessors except that you're brash and cocky. Maybe you're quiet and intellectual. You might even be in the mold of the famous Notre Domes that have long existed in the shadow of the Dome.

In most ways, you're not terribly different from your predecessors except that you're brash and cocky. Maybe you're quiet and intellectual. You might even be in the mold of the famous Notre Domes that have long existed in the shadow of the Dome.

The greatest difference between us and past classes is that there are far more of you.

It's unfortunate, but for many of you, your first impression of Notre Dame is that you have been squeezed into a tiny, dingy room with an inordinate number of other people. For those of you who have been assigned to the crowded position to bear this, it's really no one's fault. You are actually part of a trend, and part of an apparent trend.

For the past three years, Notre Dame was noted an upsurge in the number of accepted applicants who decide to come to Notre Dame. The admissions office has a formula in which they accept a certain number of freshmen with the idea that a percentage of them will decide not to attend. Generally, there are actually more rooms just as run down and in need of repair than in the past, it's just that more and more of those accepted are deciding to come.

If I could give you the answer to that, but you will learn soon enough that you have to find many of your own answers. There are plenty of people who can and will help you. That's one of the things that will make your time here different. You can ask anyone in your crowded position to bear this, but it's really no one's fault. You are actually part of a trend, and part of an apparent trend.

That's one of the things that will make your time here different. You can ask anyone in your crowded position to bear this, but it's really no one's fault. You are actually part of a trend, and part of an apparent trend.

For the past three years, Notre Dame was noted an upsurge in the number of accepted applicants who decide to come to Notre Dame. The admissions office has a formula in which they accept a certain number of freshmen with the idea that a percentage of them will decide not to attend. Generally, there are actually more rooms just as run down and in need of repair than in the past, it's just that more and more of those accepted are deciding to come.

If I could give you the answer to that, but you will learn soon enough that you have to find many of your own answers. There are plenty of people who can and will help you. There is, as most writers know, nothing better to be had than a glass of wine, a classic film, a Corinna (if you have one stuck, of course), and a good idea at the end of a day. It's the feeling a jock gets when he beats opponents, or a musician weaving something magical out of air. It's a peace flowing out of unrest with oneself, of having beaten some cases. And while for many of them new in an ancient and overwhelmingly predictable world.

They have to be. It's almost an idiosyncrasy in writers to be funny bunch. A lot of them don't want to be, but they are. They have to be. It's almost an idiosyncrasy in a profession which everybody knows is despoiled by alcoholic pretentious thing you'll find anywhere. The people are great and to Observer staffers, and so has a lot more we can't mention.

And while for many of them new in an ancient and overwhelmingly predictable world.

As for myself, I worked for a newspaper this summer, and I didn't see a steak for three months (still haven't), never had a lunch over $1.20 of those that didn't come in a brown bag), never saw a Cadillac parked in the company lot or a reporter whose shoes didn't need reheeling. But I had the time of my life.

Campus journalism is even more dirtball; about the least pretentious thing you'll find anywhere. The people are great and more than a minute away. Take a trip up to the Observer office (second floor, LaFortune) and who knows, maybe you'll get hooked by the word-pushers.

This column concerns itself with current TV and movie happenings and will appear weekly. This will be the second year of its existence, both years being under my direction. I point out the good and the bad of the television shows and movies for the upcoming week so the student who might have an hour to spend on something other than study or sports will have a guide to the best bets on the tube. I will also review movies in South Bend on occasion (when I get a press pass) and inform you of all the trivial tidbits concerning movies and television since I am one of the trivia experts on the campus.

TV Listings

Every week an insert will appear with The Observer which will contain all the TV listings for the upcoming week so I will no longer have to list times. I will also try to have more stills and photos published with the column. My sources are my own knowledge and viewing, wire service releases, and a number of film books and advance schedules from WSBT, WSJV and WNDU.

I will not be reviewing what is on the screen in South Bend this few days will most likely be too hectic for anyone to have time (much less the money) to catch a movie or two at a theater. However, we do have a few good things coming up on the tube worth mentioning.

A Man For All Seasons

Fred Zinnemann's A Man for All Seasons premieres on NBC (WNDU) this Wednesday marking the beginning of the new seasons in movies (and what a new season it will be this fall). The tube will be populated by Sir Thomas More, this six Oscar-copping film centers on the conflict between More and Henry the VIII which finally erupts over Henry's affair with Anne Boleyn (played by Vanessa Redgrave). Despite the pleadings of his wife and daughter (Wendy Hiller and Susannah York), More remains adamant in his interpretation of Church law and is sent to prison. Leo McKern plays Cromwell, Henry's chief lackey, yet a powerful figure.

Orson Welles

The always imposing Orson Welles appears as Cardinal Wolsey and Robert Shaw depicts Henry admirably. Truly an excellent film, some of the best scenes come from More's retribution in his cell as the grain passes and the final judgment scene before the beheadings. The film is taken from the play of the same name by Robert Bolt. It will be repeated early Sunday afternoon so early sleepers can also view it. It is worth it.

The remaining films present a few thrills not too much else. My Son, John, a spars of the McCarthy era of the fifties, features Helen Hayes, Robert Walker and Van Heflin in a terrible film about a mother who fears for her son in a Communist. ABC had a lot of fall reruns this bit of soapy garbage on its Sunday Night Movie. Sonor Beware is a Martin and Lewis hit of slapstick which should be sunk and put out of its misery on Monday night.

The Beguiled is a movie for sadistic blood lovers and Clint Eastwood fans (and what a new season it will be this fall). The tube will be populated by Sir Thomas More, this six Oscar-copping film centers on the conflict between More and Henry the VIII which finally erupts over Henry's affair with Anne Boleyn (played by Vanessa Redgrave). Despite the pleadings of his wife and daughter (Wendy Hiller and Susannah York), More remains adamant in his interpretation of Church law and is sent to prison. Leo McKern plays Cromwell, Henry's chief lackey, yet a powerful figure.

News Retrospective

The Documentary-Specials Dept. has CBS News Retrospective probing the facts behind the fiction of "The Grapes of Wrath" and "Babbit" in a reprise of a 1966 program at 5 p.m. tomorrow on 22. NBC examines the energy crisis in a 4-hour white paper running Tuesday at 7 p.m. Frank McGee is the anchorman. Sailboats skidding over desert sand highlight the National Geographic specials at 7:30 p.m. Thursday on 16. Last but not least, ABC at 7 p.m. will premiere clips of its Saturday morning show and NBC will do the same, including the new Star Trek series at 7:30 p.m. The new series will have all the old series actors doing their respective voices, some of the original writers and will maintain Star Trek creator Gene Roddenbury as its overseer.

The Notre Dame Social Commission is presenting the epic and classic blockbuster Gone With the Wind. The broadcast will take place at The Wind Registration night (that's Tuesday, for all you new Domers) in Washington Hall at 6 and 10 p.m. for $1.50 a person. Hibet, Scarlet, and the Civil War are worth the seeing and reseeing.

Trivia Question: Each week a movie or TV show will be featured in which the title is the answer to a trivia question. Ask your friends what the movie or TV show was. The film series of The Saint in the forties and early fifties?
SMC food service affected

Shortages hit Saga

Price instability and shortages of meat have caused the food service to modify their menu selections accordingly, says Saint Mary's food service director Crawford Caswell.

In a statement for publication, Caswell attributed the widespread food crisis and announced cutbacks in several areas, including steak specials and number of servings.

Effective immediately, all solid meat items such as chicken, pork, and beef will be limited to one serving at dinner only. Two other choices will be available each night with unlimited helpings.

Concerning the elimination of "steak night," Caswell noted, "It's almost impossible to buy beef in any quantity;" therefore, substitutions of shrimp or serving of two solid meat choices will come on the menu.

The second youth was found loitering in the hall on the night with unlimited helpings.

"We'll still serve eggs every morning," although not necessarily fresh eggs if the frozen, pasteurized variety proves cheaper and more readily available. He foresees no shortages in seafood, fresh fruits and vegetables, juices and pickles. He further emphasized that no matter how severe the shortage, Saga will not purchase horsemeat.

"Other than that, we'll use whatever meat is available," he said.

Crime wave thieves nabbed

Two 17-year old South Bend youths were arrested and ultimately found delinquent by the St. Joseph County Juvenile Court this summer after a resident of Lyons- Food and Service Force reported a break-in during an apparent break-in at Lyons Hall.

Ivory Lee Baclawski was sentenced to the Indiana Boys School in Painless, just outside Indianaapolis, after the Juvenile Court found him delinquent, stemming from a charge of loitering in the hall on the University's property. The ruling, which was handed down on July 18, sentenced Baclawski to an in-definite term at the boy's school.

The determination of length is up to the school's authorities and the behavior of the youth.

The second youth was found guilty of burglary, but the sentence, four consecutive weekends, was suspended after the court was satisfied that the two were not involved in the original crime.

According to Director of Security, Arthur Pears, the two were found by the hall resident trying to break into the hall. He apprehended them and held them until security came to the scene. Pears said that the two confessed to and implicated others in a series of break-ins in the past year.

The counts came to seven counts including the theft of one count of their colleges, one count of attempted robbery, one count of entry to commit a felony and one count of assault on a security officer. However, the case each of the counts were insufficient and conviction was sought only on two counts.

The confession of the two cleared up ten recent campus crimes:

- the theft of several hundred dollars of camera equipment from Timberly Hall on Jan. 23, 1973
- the break-in at the Senior Bar on Jan. 23, 1973
- the break-in at the A.C.C. on Jan. 31, 1973
- the theft of the charcoal of Fr. Caswell refuses to buy black market beef, although there is 'lots of it around.'

"The reason we are switching to substitutions is to maintain our quality standard. We will continue to supply only Grade A, government inspected products."

After meat price controls are popular and nutritionally sound stop into my office anytime.

"Even the suppliers can't give you an answer."

SMC faculty holds forum

The faculty and administration of St. Mary's College gathered last Thursday for a day-long Faculty Forum.

Dr. Norbert Hruby, president of Aquinas College, spoke on the problems of a small private college.

The day began with a Mass, followed by the introduction of new faculty members by Dr. William Hickey, vice-president for Student Affairs, Dr. Edward Henry, president of SMC, gave the welcoming address and introduced Dr. Hruby.

A faculty assembly meeting was also held, with departmental meetings, and a picnic for the college faculty, administration staff, and the families on the campus concluding the day's activities.

Not enough bull at Notre Dame

Notre Dame has not gone unaffected by the recent beef shortage and food price increases that are plaguing the country. According to Food Services Director, Edmund T. Price, menus drawn up months ago have already had to be altered.

Bro. Kiernan Ryan, Asst. Vice President for Business Affairs, said that the budget for the dining halls has been upped by 23 per cent over the original figures with 30 per cent of the jump going for meat costs.

Brother Ryan, Assistant Vice President for Business Affairs, said that the budget for the dining halls has been increased by 23 per cent over the original figures, with 30 per cent of the increase going for meat costs.

The only contract that the food services officials have been able to acquire for food supplies is for eggs. Last school year, the egg contract cost the university 27 cents a pound. This year the contract calls for 32 cents a pound.

The two big problems that face the food services are the cost of food and its availability, said Ryan. Price emphasized that the menus had to be altered because certain items are just not available in large quantities.

"We are not compromising," Price said, "but it may be interpreted in some cases as food shortage."

He points out that at one point this summer, food services ordered 500 pounds of beef and received 300 pounds.

"We've got all the beef that we can get out hands on," he continued. "For the first weeks, we're in extremely good shape compared to other institutions."

Ryan pointed out that the reason was that the problem was a big problem and a big solution to the problem at hand is the control of waste. "If we control waste, then our prices are just going to go up."

"We are not eliminating seconds or anything like that," Ryan said. He noted that students should take only what they can eat and then come back for seconds if they want more.

Ryan said that there was a 25 per cent increase in board rates to help cover rising expenses, but noted that it hardly covers the increases.

"35 cents of the new board rates will go for food. It won't even be able to come close to the increase. We'll have to bite the bullet somewhere along the way," Ryan said.

A busy summer at Notre Dame

25,000 men, women and children from all over the world flooded into Notre Dame for the Charismatic Conference. The conference spent a weekend in June at the university and met in prayer sessions at the stadium where football athletes generally exhibit their talents. As is normal to the huge prayer sessions, the people met in group settings, lectures and workshops.

Tours at the University of Notre Dame are held in a more open setting. The tour is open to all students, their families, students of those people involved with Notre Dame. The action was taken by the university to preserve the area for the relaxation and enjoyment of its people.

Rev. Forrestal dies at 84

who served the Spanish-speaking community in the South Bend area as spiritual director for several years, died Sunday evening in Holy Cross House at the University of Notre Dame at the age of 84. He had been ill health since 1989.

Following his ordination on June 30, 1935, at Notre Dame Father Forrestal taught at St. Edwards until 1955 when he became professor of Spanish and Spanish Literature at Notre Dame. He served as counselor until his retirement from teaching in 1983 and as a member of the migrant worker apostolate until 1986. Several articles he authored on the history of the Southwest and Mexico have been printed in state and national publications.

Father Forrestal is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Doyle and Mrs. Bridget Carroll, Country Wexford, Ireland.

There's a new light show on campus and it's playing at the computer center.

For the third time in two years, Notre Dame is installing an improved computer system. The new machine is an IBM model 370-158. The light show is the TV console that monitors the computer's Central Processing Unit (CPU) is fifty percent larger than in the 370-156's CPU (211).

The TV console is the portion of the machine that actually executes the instructions in a given program. Like its predecessor the 370-158 is set up to handle up to seven programs simultaneously. "Multiple programming," as this feature is called in the industry, took the breakthrough achievement in so-called third generation computers like the IBM 370.

Unlike its predecessor the 370-156 has "virtual memory." This feature can be used to increase the capacity of the CPU up to 1000 percent.

Computer center personnel are not certain of the exact improvement in efficiency and capacity that the virtual memory will give the new system. Plans are underway to begin testing its effect after most of the problems in the system have been eliminated.

Pre-fall litany: ‘How good is ND?’

By Vic Dorr
Sports Editor

A summer passes. An autumn takes place. And somewhere in between, just as surely as the seasons mesh into another, college football’s pre-season litany begins.

And contained in that litany is that question: “What about Notre Dame? How good will they be this season?” It always is a legitimate question, and often a question with as many answers as it has askers.

1973’s pre-season litany is re-igniting the Fighting Irish in just that fashion.

Ara Parseghian’s tenth Notre Dame football team may well be considered a pre-season enigma. The Irish will be competitors—just as Parseghian squads always were—but are a year beyond that which is virtually impossible.

The last two games of the 1972 season are two reasons the analysis is so difficult. The Irish were shellacked in both contests. 42-21 by Southern Cal and 26-6 by Nebraska. And still, come in to set 83-1 pre-sea oniti-ive.

It’s easy to say schedule and more talent than a year ago,” offers the caustic Mr. Mount, ND’s graduate.

First, the schedule. While the 1973 season is located in the 1972 season, including a strong schedule and more talent than a year ago, the season’s 8-3 team, including alef starters return from last year’s output, and every team in the nation is a better football team than we were a year ago,” offers the talent is better than last year’s 3-9 Irish squad. Numbers up his throwing arm in anticipation of Notre Dame’s home opener on Sept. 20 against the Northwestern Wildcats.

ND’s graduated defensive co-captain, All-Americans tackle Greg Marx.

Two returning kicking specialists round out the core of Parseghian’s 73 squad. Bob Thomas, who did not miss an extra point try last fall, and who hit on seven of 11 field goal tries (including three from outside 45 yards), and Brian Doherty who pointed for a 38-4 average, both return for their final seasons with ND.

Notre Dame will open its 1973 campaign at home on Sept. 22, against Northwestern’s Wildcats. And that game will have more than its usual season-opening significance. For Parseghian, prior to last year’s debacle in the Orange Bowl, had never been beaten by a margin larger than 22 points, and had never had a long streak longer than one game. I am saddened by the passing of my grandfather, Bob Thomas, who did not miss an extra point try last fall, and who hit on seven of 11 field goal tries (including three from outside 45 yards), and Brian Doherty who pointed for a 38-4 average, both return for their final seasons with ND.
