UAW, Chrysler call for news blackout

By EDWARD LECHTIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETOUR (UPI) — The United Auto Workers and Chrysler Thursday night imposed a complete news blackout on their auto contract talks, just 29 hours away from a possible crippling auto strike Friday night.

The news blackout is traditionally a sign that a breakthrough has been accomplished in the negotiations and they have reached the stage where bargainers are reluctant to make public statements. In past years, a blackout was imposed three or four days before contracts expired.

The negotiations have been under a partial blackout or more than a week as Chrysler and UAW bargainers discussed economic issues on an "off the record" basis.

The total news blackout came after Chrysler reportedly put together a second economic offer containing wage and fringe benefit increases topping the 6.2 percent Phase IV guidelines. Both the company and the union denied the offer had been formally presented.

"There is a great deal of work yet to be done," said Ted Ogar, director of public relations for the UAW in announcing the news blackout at 6:42 p.m. EDT Thursday. Neither union nor company bargainers met with newsmen Thursday.

The new contract the negotiators have been working on since July 18 covers 187,200 U.S. and Canadian auto workers. An auto industry strike at 11:59 p.m. Friday would end two years of labor peace.

The union and company last week set up a "super subcommittee" to discuss the wage question and it met through the day Thursday.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock and his Chrysler counterpart, vice-president William O'Brien, headed their respective teams into the final days. They were not expected to emerge from the bargaining suite at Chrysler's world headquarters in Highland Park until shortly before the contract expires Friday night.

---

At St. Mary's

Farenthold to lead 'equality' workshop

Special to The Observer

The first female vice-presidential nominee will highlight a one-day workshop entitled "Equality: Political Style" Saturday at St. Mary's.

Frances T. (Sissy) Farenthold is scheduled to speak at 10:00 a.m. in the Little Theatre on "A Woman's Place Is in the House." in one of several sessions in the program sponsored by the Indiana and South Bend Political Caucus.

Born in Corpus Christi, Texas, in 1926, Farenthold received her B.A. from Vassar in 1946, and her J.D. from the University of Texas (Austin) Law School in 1949. She has received honorary Doctor of Laws degrees from Hood College (1973) and Boston College (1975).

Farenthold was elected to the legislature for two consecutive terms (1968 and 1970), and ran for governor in 1972. In a field of seven candidates, she ran second, accumulating 46 percent of the vote, surpassing the incumbent governor and lieutenant governor. She also placed second among vice presidential nominees at the 1972 Democratic convention, receiving over 400 votes. She was National co-chairperson of "Citizens to Elect McGovern-Shriver," along with Pierre Salinger and John Douglas in 1972.

The daughter of a prominent South Texas lawyer, Farenthold is not the first politician in her family. Her grandfather, B.D. Tarleton, was a Texas legislator from 1881 to 1886. Her aunt, Miss Lida Dougherty, was the first female school superintendent in Texas.

Among the public appointive offices she has held are the Texas Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights (1969-present); Corpus Christi Human Relations Commission (1965-69); Director of Legal Aid for Nueces County (1965-69); and the Corpus Christi Citizens committee for the Community Improvement (1956-60). She is a member of the Nueces County and Texas Bar Association.

Presently, she is an assistant professor of law at Texas Southern University in Houston; chairperson of the National Women's Political Caucus; chairperson of the Texas Committee for National Health Security; member of the National Advisory Council of the American Civil Liberties Union; member, National Advisory Council Tax Action Campaign; member, Citizens Committee for Justice for Farah Workers, sponsor, American Branch, International Defense and Aid Fund for South Africa, vice-chairperson, National Coalition for Human Needs and Budget Priorities; and member National Board of Advisors, Mental Health Law Project. She was listed in the 1972 Who's Who of American Women.

Sharing the spotlight with Farenthold in the workshop will be representatives from the media and education, as well as politics. Each session will include a panel of women experienced in a particular segment of political activity.

The luncheon speaker will be Julia Carson, a member of the Indiana House of Representatives.

The workshop is open to the public. Admission to Farenthold's speech is $1.00; tickets for the entire day, including lunch, are $10.00. For tickets and more information, contact Rolande Parent, 233-7549.

---

McGovern set for N.D. visit

The Notre Dame Law School Bar Association has announced that Senator George McGovern will deliver the Robert F. Kennedy Lecture Series annual address at Notre Dame on Sunday, November 11 at 8 p.m. in the Stepan Center.

The SBA Lecture Chairman, Chuck Nau, noted that the Notre Dame Student Union Academic Commission has agreed to co-sponsor the McGovern appearance, in an effort to insure the widest possible student participation in the McGovern visit.
Who do I see about registering my car?

Security handles car registration and would be more than willing to square matters away with you. The Security Office is located in the Firehouse and is open for business from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday thru Friday. If you have any further questions, you can reach Security at 831-6318.

Where do the ducks go in the winter?

According to the business office of the Biology Department, the ducks don't go anywhere at all. You see, St. Joseph's Lake is warm all year long, due to the use of water for cooling by the Power Plant and the Laundry Service discharge of warm water. In fact, the ducks nest around the discharge pipe. This is what enables them to live through the cold of the winter months here at ND.

When is the Student Union Ticket Office open?

Union's Ticket Office will be open from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Joe Russo is the newly appointed ticket manager and can be contacted at 831-9632. Presently, tickets are on sale for the Chuck Berry Concert scheduled for Saturday evening, September 22, at 8:30 p.m. in the ACC.

What plays will the ND-SMC Theatre be presenting this season?

This season the ND-SMC Theatre will be offering a run of four plays beginning with Richard III on the evening of October 9th through the 13th in O'Laughlin Auditorium. Thieves Carnival and The Thieves Carnival and The Opera will be in O'Laughlin on April 26th, 27th, and May 2th, 3th, and 4th. Homecoming will be staged in Washington Hall December 4th through the 8th. Until questions about the service, will be handled by the Ombudsman Staff (7638). Remember it still costs 10 cents after 6 p.m. to ride the shuttle bus.

In order to pay for the upkeep of the Center's facilities, a 50 cent fee, per person, per hour, like last year's, will be charged for the use of the pool table. The kitchen facilities will be made available in exchange for an ID which will be returned when the utensils are returned. The $10 deposit on the kitchen and utensils will no longer be in effect.

Student Coordinator Nan Blais along with student workers will staff the Center. The Center will be open the following hours: Friday, 2 p.m. to 2 a.m. (with the exception of tonight); Saturday, noon to 5 a.m.; Sunday, 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.; and Monday through Thursday, 2 p.m. to 11 p.m.

The Observer is published daily during the college semester except vacations by the students of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. Subscriptions may be entered at $10 per semester ($4 per year) from The Observer Box O, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. Second class postage paid, Notre Dame, Ind.

Getting ready to order your Fall textbooks? This fall we've got a special for you! Use your Student Billing Card to call 234-5088 or visit our Campus Bookstore, located in the Student Union Building.

"When the post is late, a fast messenger makes his way to the mill."

FINIS

The Observer welcomes unsolicited manuscripts. Please send them to Michael Smith, SMC.

The Observer reserves the right to refuse to print any letter or article written by faculty members of the University of Notre Dame or St. Mary's College. Contributors should sign their names on all letters and articles.

The Observer is sponsored by the Student Union Committee of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College.

*Student Billing Card
The time is NOW! There is no standing in line! There is NO extra charge!

With a Student Billing Card, residence hall people may make long distance telephone calls with the privacy of their own room phones and get an individual bill once a month. And you can take advantage of Direct Distance Dialing, the modern way to call long distance, within Indiana or out of state.

We'll mail you a Student Billing Card, if you'll call 234-5088. Or you can drop in at our Business Office at 225 S. Main Street. Open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.
Orientation termed success

by Tony Proscio
Staff Reporter

Freshman Orientation Co-chairman, Dr. Emil Hofman, said his committee is "very pleased" with both the turnout and the response for Tuesday's events.

Tuesday's orientation session was a "tremendous success," Hofman said. The freshman board's next step will be a general orientation.

"We feel we made a number of improvements this year," Hofman commented, "and the response seems to show that. We're very pleased with the turnout and with orientation in general."

"We sat down with Fr. Schlaifer and Dr. Ackerman (who advised the committee) to critique the whole program and make recommendations," he said. "There are still a few problems that need to be ironed out."

Among the difficulties, Shipp noted, was the awareness distance between the Carney and eating areas. The lack of volunteers and the position of the stage also posed minor problems, he said.

Dr. Emil Hofman, dean of the Freshman Year of Studies, stressed his satisfaction with the committee's efforts. He also noted the success of co-operative efforts of other campus departments, particularly the offices of Campus Ministry and Student Affairs.

"This year's orientation did a much better job of depicting the nature of the university to freshmen," Hofman said. "It was less stiff and formal than in the past, and showed a wonderful spirit of cooperation among the people responsible."

"In many ways, the Mass was the highlight of the orientation this weekend," he said. It was celebrated by priests in Campus Ministry and was a good example of the cooperation between the Freshman Year office and the other departments on campus. Hofman also cited the close communication between his office and the Shipp-Caruso committee, a Student Government arm.

"The committee has done a tremendous job on the program," the dean added. "It is responsible for much of the success."

-----

world

b Briefs

Washington--President Nixon is considering asking Congress for a temporary 10 per cent tax increase on individuals and corporations, to be refunded in a future year when inflation has been brought under control, the White House said Thursday.

Detroit-The United Auto Workers and Chrysler Thursday night imposed a complete news blackout on their auto contract talks, just 20 hours away from a possible crippling auto strike Friday night. The news blackout is traditionally a sign that a breakthrough has been accomplished in the negotiations and they have reached the stage where bargainers are reluctant to make public statements.

Washington--Congress Thursday rushed through a ban on television blackouts of sold-out home football games and sent the legislation to the nation's No. 1 football fan, President Nixon, for his signature before the 1973 season begins Sunday.

Washington--About 2,500 service station dealers from throughout the nation massed on the Capitol steps Thursday to protest Phase IV price ceilings on retail sales of gasoline.

---

on campus today

5:00 p.m.--mass and dinner, bulla shed
5:30 p.m.--movie, joe kidd, k. of c.
Sat.
10:00 p.m.--workshop, "equality: political style," moreau hall, unc.
1:00, 2:15 p.m.--rugby, rd vs. lincoln park, stepan field
1:30 p.m.--football, shue's mates vs. digger's from versity baseball field
6:7:30, 9, 10, 12:00 p.m.--movie, joe kidd, k. of c.
8:00 p.m.--concert, pure prairie league, stepan
Sun.
1:30 p.m.--admission degree, k. of c bldg.
8:00 p.m.--lecture, "who do men say that I am?" rm.
278, galvin life science bldg.

Start your weekend at . . .

Bulla Shed
(Corner of Bulla and Juniper across from Grace Tower)

MASS AND DINNER

Friday
5:00 p.m.

Love tap.

From one beer lover to another.
Hall Parties

Yesterday's story about the prohibition of hall parties is not something new. This policy was decided during the summer of 1971 at the Board of Trustees meeting. What is going before the SLC this Monday is nothing but reiteration of that ruling.

What makes this story noteworthy is the implication derived from it; namely, that the University will now enforce ruling that has for the past two years been more or less disregarded by a number of halls and students. This is going before the SLC, probably the most wise for everyone to follow their example and wait also. As everyone knows, the SLC is the most powerful student oriented group on campus in that it has a direct line with the administration.

One might misconstrue the facts concerning the raid on Nickies last March 29 if attention was paid only to what Nick said in the article in yesterday's paper. Twenty-six Notre Dame and twenty-four of them were officially charged with being "minors in a tavern." All of them so charged were found guilty and had to pay a fine of approximately forty dollars each. Nickies did check everyone's ID, as do many other bars in this area.

Those arrested now have a misdemeanor on their records. If one had been caught with a phoney ID, it would have been a felony. The two schools did not take any disciplinary action against the students then. But, in light of the directive from the dean of students office, it may be a different story next time. This is printed not with the intention to participate in the festivities (whose rights must be respected also) will be less bothered by any noise than if the party was held three doors down. Their numbers are by no means small on any given weekend either.

Therefore, here is the pitch. The university directive has been policy for sometime now. The only way a "hall party" can be held legally is if the Fisher plan is passed. Make an appearance at the SLC Monday. Follow the rules this weekend. You can still have a good time. The hall party is not the only way.

Art Ferranti

The Nickie's Raid

In fact, the Fisher plan coupled with the directive of the dean of students is not only sound but viable. If parties can be held in basements or in specified non-hall buildings with the "tight control" of liquor distribution, the hall is less likely to suffer damage to any living areas if the party were to get out of control. And those who simply get along. It seems that in everything I read, everyone I meet, and all the things I do there rests one commonality: that it is impossible to get to the graduation ceremony, although I am certain that he wasn't aware of it so as to drift away with it, you've had a bit of the past taken out of you, don't make excuses. Don't kick it around. Who are you trying to kid?

It is important, I think, is keep in mind the fact that I will not be returning with you and the guys back to N.D. I am final year. If you'll pardon the colloquial connotation, and I sense that there is something very transient in the entire situation. That moment you think you have discovered some aspect of life, and have captured it. This is the state of being disillusioned. You feel resourceful as it is constantly strengthened through relationships with others and only occasionally weakened by inconsistency. Then the change comes. It is expected, but you are unprepared, and it is a change in you, all prevous beliefs and visions and forces one to revitalize. This is where I am.

In a sense I think we are all drifting away from circumstances dictating long-term relationships to those in which the irrational, transitional man will predominate. It is not in our place to question. R. D. Laing wrote an interesting passage in Politics of Experience:

"...Don't puff yourself up too much. Remember your place in the hierarchy. don't try to come it, don't shout about, don't posture, don't give yourself airs, don't think you're going to get away with it, you've had a bit of the past taken out of you, don't make excuses. Don't kick it around. Who are you trying to kid? A little humility, a fraction of love, a grain of truth, you've been told as much as you need, you've been quite your share. don't try the patience of the gods...

It seems that in everything I read, everyone I meet, and all the things I do there rests one commonality: that it is impossible to get to the root of anything, but the world being as it is, it is all we can do to simply get along. Yet I continue to believe (as I expressed to you two years ago) that there is somewhere another answer to completing our personality and ease the all-to-frequent moments of loneliness which accompany these prolonged periods of questioning and doubt. Someday I think I shall find her. Perhaps I should follow Rick's example and start accepting applications.

Well, to continue: Fr. Burtchaell made an interesting comment at the graduation ceremony, although I am certain that he wasn't aware of it so as to drift away with it, you've had a bit of the past taken out of you, don't make excuses. Don't kick it around. Who are you trying to kid? A little humility, a fraction of love, a grain of truth, you've been told as much as you need, you've been quite your share. don't try the patience of the gods...

But most of all, Greg, beware of the change. Recognize that what is expected, but you are unprepared, and it is a change in you, all prevous beliefs and visions and forces one to revitalize. This is where I am.

In a sense I think we are all drifting away from circumstances dictating long-term relationships to those in which the irrational, transitional man will predominate. It is not in our place to question. R. D. Laing wrote an interesting passage in Politics of Experience:

"...Don't puff yourself up too much. Remember your place in the hierarchy. don't try to come it, don't shout about, don't posture, don't give yourself airs, don't think you're going to get away with it, you've had a bit of the past taken out of you, don't make excuses. Don't kick it around. Who are you trying to kid? A little humility, a fraction of love, a grain of truth, you've been told as much as you need, you've been quite your share. don't try the patience of the gods...

Greg, I am final year. Try to show nothing but love what you can of love, sincerity, and sympathy and give of yourself to give meaning to your lives. Avoid and meet the encounters in a meaningless milieu. And everyone has their part to play and a contribution to make, if you are only willing to open yourself to the possibility. Take the initiative and I assure you you won't regret having exploited a final opportunity to make college meaningful.

But most of all, Greg, beware of the change. Recognize that what you have established will begin to slip away late in the year no matter how hard you grab for it. Perhaps there will be a wave of radical change. We only need accept it, but I shall miss it very much.

Some wise old sap once said be concerned with the future because it is where you will spend the rest of your life. It is difficult for an anthropologist like myself to strictly adhere to such a philosophy. I will make to conform to present circumstances ..

"...Don't puff yourself up too much. Remember your place in the hierarchy. don't try to come it, don't shout about, don't posture, don't give yourself airs, don't think you're going to get away with it, you've had a bit of the past taken out of you, don't make excuses. Don't kick it around. Who are you trying to kid? A little humility, a fraction of love, a grain of truth, you've been told as much as you need, you've been quite your share. don't try the patience of the gods...

It seems that in everything I read, everyone I meet, and all the things I do there rests one commonality: that it is impossible to get to the root of anything, but the world being as it is, it is all we can do to simply get along. Yet I continue to believe (as I expressed to you two years ago) that there is somewhere another answer to completing our personality and ease the all-to-frequent moments of loneliness which accompany these prolonged periods of questioning and doubt. Someday I think I shall find her. Perhaps I should follow Rick's example and start accepting applications.

Well, to continue: Fr. Burtchaell made an interesting comment at the graduation ceremony, although I am certain that he wasn't aware of it so as to drift away with it, you've had a bit of the past taken out of you, don't make excuses. Don't kick it around. Who are you trying to kid? A little humility, a fraction of love, a grain of truth, you've been told as much as you need, you've been quite your share. don't try the patience of the gods...

...Don't puff yourself up too much. Remember your place in the hierarchy. don't try to come it, don't shout about, don't posture, don't give yourself airs, don't think you're going to get away with it, you've had a bit of the past taken out of you, don't make excuses. Don't kick it around. Who are you trying to kid? A little humility, a fraction of love, a grain of truth, you've been told as much as you need, you've been quite your share. don't try the patience of the gods...
There is a priest working in a parish in midtown Manhattan, who loved to preach sermons on the Gospel story of the Magdalene. "Such has been forgiven her," he would say to the virtuous ladies at Mass. "Because she has loved much." Mary Magdalene never made a novena. She never lit a candle before the Virgin's statue. She never wore scrapulators or said a rosary. But Jesus forgave her sins because she loved much.

The implication was that the virtuous ladies at Sunday Mass, who exhausted themselves with novena-making and eroded their necks to the collarbone by wearing necklaces, were real slouches as lovers; therefore, Christ didn't give a damn for them, and wouldn't, until they did something lively, like becoming prostitutes themselves, until their sins could also be forgiven they had to walk Ninth Avenue at night when the little men, their pimps, are standing in the doorway. Their dirty, evil, prostitute that is not really there, not to perceive a blindness among the religious leaders of my own tradition that they are not only against the Magdalene-preacher, but against me, whom she also suspected among other things, is a politician. Let me tell you of some people a New York sentimentalist met during the summer.

Stanley and Anna

Stanley and Anna came to my door at the rectory one night, asking to be married. Stanley, whom I have known for several years, is thirty-eight years old, and works as a janitor in a New York church. At present he was a religious leader in Times Square. He worked at this trade until he was twenty-one, when, because of a breakdown induced by drugs, he was hospitalized for two years in Bellevue. After his release, he became an alcoholic; and he thieved and prostituted himself to get money for his boozee. Three years ago, he gave up drinking, went to work, and has tried to live the life of a religious man.

During the summer, I attended the wedding between a former nun and a priest who has been dispensed from his vows. The wedding mass was concelebrated by three priests who had been seminary classmates of the bridegroom. As the marriage blessing was read, I thought of Stanley, alone and faithful. As the marriage blessing was read, I thought of Stanley, alone and faithful. As the marriage blessing was read, I thought of Stanley, alone and faithful.

In my heart, I suspect, the virtuous lady is right. I am a chap who is often on the side of the tramps, and is, therefore, grossly guilty of sentimental exaggeration. But right now, after a summer of watching Watergate in Manhattan, I am also a guy who does not want to imagine a goodness in the life of a prostitute that is not really there, not to perceive a blindness among the religious leaders of my own tradition that they are not only guilty of. I must admit, as the story of our involvement in Southeast Asia unfolds, more and more, I grow physically sick with bitterness and shame at the American bishops for failing to denounced that war with anathemas vested with hellfire.

I want to believe in a religion of laws as well as a religion of love, even when it says that priests can marry, but that Stanley can't marry Anna. I want to believe in the Cardinal when he says the morale of the troops is high. I respect Cardinal Cooke as a very good man and an honorable priest, but what business did he have serving as the moral leader of the military and industrial complex?

I am a sentimentalist. Cardinal Cooke, among other things, is a politician. He perhaps, will tell you of some people a New York sentimentalist met during the summer.

During the summer, I attended the wedding between a former nun and a priest who has been dispensed from his vows. The wedding mass was concelebrated by three priests who had been seminary classmates of the bridegroom. As the marriage blessing was read, I thought of Stanley, alone and faithful. As the marriage blessing was read, I thought of Stanley, alone and faithful. As the marriage blessing was read, I thought of Stanley, alone and faithful.

In my heart, I suspect, the virtuous lady is right. I am a chap who is often on the side of the tramps, and is, therefore, grossly guilty of sentimental exaggeration. But right now, after a summer of watching Watergate in Manhattan, I am also a guy who does not want to imagine a goodness in the life of a prostitute that is not really there, not to perceive a blindness among the religious leaders of my own tradition that they are not only guilty of. I must admit, as the story of our involvement in Southeast Asia unfolds, more and more, I grow physically sick with bitterness and shame at the American bishops for failing to denounced that war with anathemas vested with hellfire.

I want to believe in a religion of laws as well as a religion of love, even when it says that priests can marry, but that Stanley can't marry Anna. I want to believe in the Cardinal when he says the morale of the troops is high. I want to believe in the President of the United States instead of the hippie that pickets him. I want to love prostitutes without believing that their sin is less grievous than that of the bishops who supported the Vietnam war. I want to love the virtuous ladies of midtown Manhattan whether they are virtuous or not.

I want to love people without sentimentalizing them.

In the summer of Watergate, in the aftermath of the Vietnam war, I'm afraid that what I'm left with is credibility gaps instead of faith, sentimentality in place of love.
Louie's doing O.K.

by Joseph LaFlare
Staff Reporter

The opening of the "Library" may have taken away some customers from other establishments in the area, but "Louie's" isn't apparently doing just fine.

Louis Rappelli, the proprietor, denies the rumor that his place is dead in school year.

He said, "We used to have about 150-200 people. Now we can seat 150-200 people."

Louie's has added a bar and plenty of room for dancing. There is also a new game room near to the bar. "The food is still here and as good as ever," added Rappelli. A new party room will be opened downstairs in the near future. It will accommodate up to 50 people and be used primarily for clubs and family gatherings.

However, Rappelli was quick to point out that any student could come and rent the room for a night if he or she intended to have a big party.

Rappelli welcomes students back to his newly-remodeled restaurant.

SLC to hold first meeting

by Al Rutherford
Staff Reporter

The Student Life Council will hold its first meeting of the year on Monday, September 17, at 4 p.m. in the Hallway House of Holy Cross Hall. The members will discuss the filling of seats left vacant by departing members. Also the organization of various committees will be discussed. All are welcome to attend.

The SLC is composed equally of administrators, faculty members, students, and alumni. Each group is composed of eight members, six of which are elected by their peers, and two of which are members of all three groups. The administrators, Dean of Students, and the Vice-President of Student Affairs, sit in by virtue of their position.

The Chairman of the Faculty Senate and the Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs fill two of the seats representing the faculty. The students represent the student body and the Vice-President. The elected members of all three groups (student, faculty, and administration) are selected at different times near the end of the school year.

The SLC was originally formed back in the late sixties to act as a buffer zone for confrontations between administration, faculty members, and students.

Last year, the SLC tried to redefine their purpose in the Notre Dame community into one of a leadership role. The SLC took an active part in such issues as off-campus housing and minority students' problems.

The Student Life Council is composed of members of the Student Affairs, sit in by virtue of their position.

Summer of '74

Job search begins

by Terry Kenney
Staff Reporter

While the summer of '73 is still in the minds of many Notre Dame students, senior Jim Clarke and Richard Willemin of the Placement Bureau are already preparing for the summer of '74 and the student summer job program.

Initiated on a national scale last summer, the summer jobs program places students in summer jobs near their homes through the cooperation of the Placement Bureau and alumni clubs throughout the country.

"We have (the) ability to work it better this year," he said. "We will try to place students where they want to work and in what kind of jobs they want to do."

Although he did not know how many of the 500 applicants from last year actually received jobs, Clarke pointed out the successes of various alumni clubs in placing students.

For example, the Denver Alumni Club placed 36 out of 34 applicants, while the St. Joseph Valley Club provided jobs for over 100 students.

The types of jobs varied from factory work in Baltimore to high cooperation in Denver to legal assistance in New York.

Clarke attributed the success of the summer job placement service to the cooperation among students, alumni, and the University Placement Bureau. "The main portion of the program is, of course, to provide summer jobs," Clarke explained. "But we also want to bring students in contact with the Placement Bureau's functions and with the alumni clubs."

The applicant registers with the Placement Bureau which sends the local alumni club information to the local alumni club.

The applicant registers with the Placement Bureau which sends the information to the local alumni club in the area where the student wishes to work. The alumni club then tries to place the student in the type of job desired.

Students may register for this placement service beginning on Monday, September 24 with the Placement Bureau.

Anyone interested in helping to coordinate the summer jobs program should contact Jim Clarke at 234-5523.

Knights of Columbus

Admission degree

Sunday at 1:30

Oct 16

for further information call 7018

First Meeting

Monday at 7 p.m.

The Beggar's Opera

John Gay's ribald musical romp

Apr 26, 27, May 2, 3, 4 at 8:30 p.m.

O'Laughlin Auditorium (St. Mary's)

Thieves' Carnival

Jean Anouilh's merry marquises

Dec 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 at 8:30 p.m.

Washington Hall (Notre Dame)

To subscribe, send $5.50 ($4.00 in Canada) to: ND/SMC, c/o O'Laughlin Auditorium, Notre Dame, Indiana 46720. In Canada, add $1.50 for return of tickets

SPECIAL ENGAGEMENT

THE LAST TANGO IN PARIS

by Michelangelo Antonioni

in association with United Artists

Presented by the Notre Dame University

The Hueniken Auditorium

Friday, September 22, 1973

OPENING NIGHT SHOWING

2nd WEEKEND

Richard III

Shakespeare's bold history

Oct. 9, 10, Nov. 12, 13 at 8:30 p.m.

O'Laughlin Auditorium (St. Mary's)

THE HOMECOMING

Herold Finian's disturbing, bizarre comedy

Mar. 26, 27, 28, 29, 30 at 8:30 p.m.

Washington Hall (Notre Dame)

SALE

20% off on FALL KNIT SEPARATES

19 W. Galaxi Dr. w. South Bend

Jeniffer's

SALE

20% off on FALL KNIT SEPARATES

19 W. Galaxi Dr. w. South Bend

256-0111

Artist Supplies

20% off with this ad

Cards

Books

Magazines

Art supplies

SPECIAL RATE

ALL FOUR PLAYS

Student - Faculty
ND-SMC Staff
$5.50

THE THEATRE

SEASON 1973-74

Richard III

Shakespeare's bold history

Oct. 9, 10, Nov. 12, 13 at 8:30 p.m.

O'Laughlin Auditorium (St. Mary's)

Thieves' Carnival

Jean Anouilh's merry marquises

Dec. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 at 8:30 p.m.

Washington Hall (Notre Dame)

The Beggar's Opera

John Gay's ribald musical romp

Apr. 26, 27, May 2, 3, 4 at 8:30 p.m.

O'Laughlin Auditorium (St. Mary's)
Activities office: a service

by John McEachin

Staff Reporter

"If it can be done, it can be done here," is the confident statement of Prof. Dave Schlaver, referring to the activities office of the ground floor of LaFortune Student Center. Fr. Schlaver, director of Campus Student Activities, works directly with students, coordinating group functions and acting as intermediary between the students and the administration.

"I want to do this myself and I know how frustrating it can be trying to get things done around here," he said. He believes that students can avoid wasted energy and unnecessary frustration by coming directly to him for help in planning activities.

Often students simply do not know where to get information about something like renting an auditorium to show a movie. His office has the necessary information for just about any possible project and can facilitate planning events.

"I try to give some clue where needed, and can act as an advocate for students to the central staff. He sees his primary function as one of getting things done.

Fr. Schlaver worked in the same office last year as director of Volunteer Programs. This year he assumed the job formerly held by Dean Robert Ackerman. "The Office has been well run and I would like to pick up right where Bob Ackerman left off," said Fr. Schlaver.

Fr. Schlaver would like the office to remain open to everyone. He emphasizes the importance of having well-formulated proposals and points out that many times the students are turned down by the Administration because their plans are not thought out well enough.

While he may not always be able to get everything agreed to, what they want, he can make available the cumulative resources of past groups and help them present their case in the best possible manner.

---

Food co-op planned

by Paul Colgan

Staff Reporter

A plan for an off-campus food cooperative is being investigated by off-campus student Rick McCandless. He hopes to make it possible for students to buy food at wholesale prices through the Notre Dame Food Service.

McCandless said that he felt the type of lighting for activity in the northwest path was "upset atmosphere."

"It just wouldn't be able to meet expectations," said McCandless. Rick is also attempting to set up a meal program for off-campus students. The program would allow students to purchase a 5 or 10 meal ticket.

"Pizza and spaghetti need not be a logical supplier for the coop," McCandless said. He feels that the type of lighting for activity in the northwest path was "upset atmosphere."

"It just wouldn't be able to meet expectations," said McCandless. Rick is also attempting to set up a meal program for off-campus students. The program would allow students to purchase a 5 or 10 meal ticket.

"Pizza and spaghetti need not be a logical supplier for the coop," McCandless said. He feels that the type of lighting for activity in the northwest path was "upset atmosphere."

"It just wouldn't be able to meet expectations," said McCandless. Rick is also attempting to set up a meal program for off-campus students. The program would allow students to purchase a 5 or 10 meal ticket.

"Pizza and spaghetti need not be a logical supplier for the coop," McCandless said. He feels that the type of lighting for activity in the northwest path was "upset atmosphere."

"It just wouldn't be able to meet expectations," said McCandless. Rick is also attempting to set up a meal program for off-campus students. The program would allow students to purchase a 5 or 10 meal ticket.

"Pizza and spaghetti need not be a logical supplier for the coop," McCandless said. He feels that the type of lighting for activity in the northwest path was "upset atmosphere."

"It just wouldn't be able to meet expectations," said McCandless. Rick is also attempting to set up a meal program for off-campus students. The program would allow students to purchase a 5 or 10 meal ticket.
Clements shines in last warm-up

by Greg Corgan

Directed by quarterback Tom Clements, Notre Dame, the two teams demonstrated glimpses of returning to top form year-round. The game was between the number one and two units demolished the second and third team 70-0 as what should be the last full scale scrimmage of the preseason.

In search of guiding his squad to the number one and two, Clements was superb in guiding his squad to the number second what should be the last full scale scrimmage as well as his play execution as well as his play conception was a lot better.

Parsley also had encouraging words for the offensive unit as a whole.

"I saw some improvement over last Saturday. We were throwing well. We're evolving but we still need improve more, especially on the second team."

The reason the number one and two units were pitted against the third and fourth teams was simply because Parseghian was interested in seeing how well the first and second teams would perform together as a group.

"Monday's practice was bad," noted Ara Parseghian, in his column "By the Way" Tuesday and Wednesday and today we had a lot more team play. We had our eleven players operating together as a unit."

The Irish Eye

The Irish Eye

To the true aficionado of the sport, the 1973 college football season seemed nothing like a gourmet menu. Last year's fare, which included Nebraska-UCLA and a smattering of other contests across the land, was a mere appetizer.

Not since September 22, will begin the entire college football season. Notre Dame - Northwestern, Southern Cal, Georgia Tech, Stanford - Michigan, and a host of other fare, both old and new, will be played this week from now.

And that enterwise serving, which could be a bowl game two until November 17 in most cases, and will end through December 1 for a few.

But as it has always been, the season is divided into two - a "preseason" weekend which saw few teams in action, and an "entree" weekend, which will see everyone in action, and presumably, something of a chance for us all to see how things are going for this young team. Which will present a tasteful selection of traditional "regional" college football, that we may stop our固定 mindless gridiron battles.

And what better time for The Irish Eye to resume its weekly practice of picking preseason predictions? Each week, this column will predict a winner of our slate of 11 games, including one "upset of the week" as will attempt to preview the outcome of their contests.

Last year, The Irish Eye correctly predicted the results of 108 out of 158 college football games. This year's column has yet to make an incorrect choice, but that is all, as this column will have caged by Monday, but hopefully it will have changed for the better.

California at Alabama: The Golden Bears will tangle with a nameake down in Birmingham, but they better hope to "team up" with a new neighbor, The Bear. The bowl is a bowl memory of his own to erase. Fineran: Alabama; Corgan: Alabama.

Arkansas vs. LSU: Last year, the game was played in Little Rock, the flashbacks as Joe Fergui­son at quarterback, and they still lost, 31-5. This year, the game is played in Tiger Stadium, and the bear is expected to be on hand and play in L.A. Fineran: LSU; Corgan: LSU.

Colorado at Tennessee: Even without Bert Jones, the Tigers in Baton Rouge should be too tough for the away-from-home Buffs. Fineran: LSU; Corgan: LSU.

Duke at Tennessee: Condredge Holloway would be enough to give the Vols a winning edge, but Ten­nessee has Haskell Stanback as well, and that should make things just that much sweeter. Fineran: Tennessee; Corgan: Tennessee.

Rice at Houston: The Cougars have too much of a defense. Just like Uncle Ben's, this one'll be over in thirty seconds. Fineran: Houston; Corgan: Houston.

Illinois at Indiana: (though minus Ben's, this one should still be a winner. Fineran: Illinois; Corgan: Indiana.

West Virginia at Kentucky: The Mountaineers, unsurprisingly, are early favorites to win the Lambardi-Trophy. They should take another step in that Saturday, when they play the Terrapins. Fineran: West Virginia; Corgan: West Virginia.

Michigan State at Northwestern: Two new coaches meet on Dyche Field, and they should be a good one for Northwestern: Michigan State on top. Fineran: MSU; Corgan: Northwestern.

Mississippi State at Arkansas: The Tigers caught fire at mid-season last year, and upset Ole Miss at Oxford. They should be as hot tomorrow, when they open their new season at home in Columbia. Fineran: Mississippi; Corgan: Mississippi.

Oklahoma at Baylor: Never mind that off-season, two-year suspensions. Fineran: Oklahoma; Corgan: Oklahoma.

Purdue at Wisconsin: At last, Alex Agase has what he's been looking for, a solid football program. Solid enough, at least, to handle the Badgers. Fineran: Purdue; Corgan: Purdue.

Richmond at Davidson: The Spiders have a tough game against the Seminoles. Fineran: Richmond; Corgan: Davidson.

Virginia Tech at Kentucky: Charlie Coffey's "bobbies" lost to unseeded Georgia last week, but four uneasy fumbles and a controversy pass interference call hurt them. Tech shouldn't make those mistakes against the Wildcats. Fineran: Kentucky; Corgan: Kentucky.

Virginia at North Carolina State: The Peach Bowl champs have a young team, but they may not even need them against the Tar Heels. Fineran: North Carolina; Corgan: Georgia.

Which team will win South Carolina? The Gamecocks' defense is still a question mark, and the offense is inconsistent. Fineran: South Carolina; Corgan: South Carolina.

Ohio State at Michigan: The Buckeyes are as good as gone, but the Buckeyes are as good as gone. Fineran: Ohio State; Corgan: Michigan.

Tennessee at Georgia: The Volunteers just aren't the same without Mackey, and the Bulldogs have a strong defense. Fineran: Georgia; Corgan: Tennessee.

Utah State at Idaho: The Aggies should have enough horses to get by the Vandals. Fineran: Utah State; Corgan: Idaho.

Kansas at Missouri: The Jayhawks should have enough to stay alive against the Tigers. Fineran: Missouri; Corgan: Kansas.

Texas at Oklahoma: The Longhorns have a good defense, but the Sooners have a solid quarterback. Fineran: Oklahoma; Corgan: Texas.

Washington at Stanford: The Huskies are a good team, but they may not be good enough against Stanford. Fineran: Stanford; Corgan: Washington State.