Chisholm describes Watergate affair ‘blessing in disguise’

by Jeanne Murphy
Staff Reporter

"Americans do not recognize that Watergate is a blessing in disguise," exclaimed Congressman Shirley Chisholm as she addressed a full house in Washington Hall last night.

Mrs. Chisholm, Democrat from Brooklyn, expressed the need for all Americans to become involved in politics. She blamed today's political, economic and social problems on the apathy and gullibility of Americans; adding that it was the apathy of the people which brought the president and the vice president to office.

"Our priorities are mixed, out of control, and you people sit back and don't ask questions and you wonder why things are happening," Mrs. Chisholm asserted.

"It was the apathy of the people which brought the Watergate scandal according to Congresswoman Chisholm. She called the scandal a "blessing in disguise." It revealed to America a corrupt subverting process of democracy.

"In the result of Watergate, we have been called for political reformation executed by the people of America. "People have to participate in elections and look at the candidates and issues," she stated.

Chisholm spoke about the state of affairs and Watergate calling the scandal a "blessing in disguise" because it revealed to America a corrupt subverting process of democracy. As a result of Watergate, she explained, the political system had been changed.

Government Interests

The root of today's economic disaster, according to Congressman Chisholm, is in the unique privileged relationship between the nation's corporate interests and the government. The domination of lobby and government in the source of unemployment, inflation, the world recession, and the high cost of living, according to Chisholm. The cost of living in America has doubled during the previous administration, she claimed.

"There is little sign that this aloof administration has concern over the employment situation," she asserted. "It shows disregard for the consumer, the worker and the unemployed.

"The administration should recognize that there is a clear indication that the administration does not care for human beings. After vetoing important acts, such as the Minimum Wage Bill which would have set a weekly salary at a minimum of $88, she feels that the administration is involved with corporate interests and not the interests of the people.

Unlike the present administration, Mrs. Chisholm commented that she spoke here as a "people's politician" rather than a "professional politician." What do people need, more concern to the people of the country than to business interests.

But she offered herself as an alternative to the present situation and ran for the presidency in 1972 and was not elected. She commented that it would be too much at this time for the nation to grasp having a woman president, nevertheless black.

"Our priorities received a mandate, he told us," she stated. "If he received the mandate, then he is fulfilling those concerns. We get what we deserve," she continued.

Mrs. Chisholm expressed a disappointment in the failure of the Minimum Wage Bill which she worked very closely on. The Bill was not passed because of Congress, because of inflation. She strongly objected to this reason in lieu of the fact that Congressmen were attempting to raise their salaries to $52,000 a year.

Chisholm spoke about the state of affairs and Watergate calling the scandal a "blessing in disguise" because it revealed to America a corrupt subverting process of democracy. As a result of Watergate, she explained, the political system had been changed.

Government Interests

The root of today's economic disaster, according to Congressman Chisholm, is in the unique privileged relationship between the nation's corporate interests and the government. The domination of lobby and government in the source of unemployment, inflation, the world recession, and the high cost of living, according to Chisholm. The cost of living in America has doubled during the previous administration, she claimed.

"There is little sign that this aloof administration has concern over the employment situation," she asserted. "It shows disregard for the consumer, the worker and the unemployed.

"The administration should recognize that there is a clear indication that the administration does not care for human beings. After vetoing important acts, such as the Minimum Wage Bill which would have set a weekly salary at a minimum of $88, she feels that the administration is involved with corporate interests and not the interests of the people.

Unlike the present administration, Mrs. Chisholm commented that she spoke here as a "people's politician" rather than a "professional politician." What do people need, more concern to the people of the country than to business interests.

But she offered herself as an alternative to the present situation and ran for the presidency in 1972 and was not elected. She commented that it would be too much at this time for the nation to grasp having a woman president, nevertheless black.

"Our priorities received a mandate, he told us," she stated. "If he received the mandate, then he is fulfilling those concerns. We get what we deserve," she continued.

Mrs. Chisholm expressed a disappointment in the failure of the Minimum Wage Bill which she worked very closely on. The Bill was not passed because of Congress, because of inflation. She strongly objected to this reason in lieu of the fact that Congressmen were attempting to raise their salaries to $52,000 a year.

Chisholm spoke about the state of affairs and Watergate calling the scandal a "blessing in disguise" because it revealed to America a corrupt subverting process of democracy. As a result of Watergate, she explained, the political system had been changed.

Government Interests

The root of today's economic disaster, according to Congressman Chisholm, is in the unique privileged relationship between the nation's corporate interests and the government. The domination of lobby and government in the source of unemployment, inflation, the world recession, and the high cost of living, according to Chisholm. The cost of living in America has doubled during the previous administration, she claimed.

"There is little sign that this aloof administration has concern over the employment situation," she asserted. "It shows disregard for the consumer, the worker and the unemployed.

"The administration should recognize that there is a clear indication that the administration does not care for human beings. After vetoing important acts, such as the Minimum Wage Bill which would have set a weekly salary at a minimum of $88, she feels that the administration is involved with corporate interests and not the interests of the people.

Unlike the present administration, Mrs. Chisholm commented that she spoke here as a "people's politician" rather than a "professional politician." What do people need, more concern to the people of the country than to business interests.

But she offered herself as an alternative to the present situation and ran for the presidency in 1972 and was not elected. She commented that it would be too much at this time for the nation to grasp having a woman president, nevertheless black.

"Our priorities received a mandate, he told us," she stated. "If he received the mandate, then he is fulfilling those concerns. We get what we deserve," she continued.

Mrs. Chisholm expressed a disappointment in the failure of the Minimum Wage Bill which she worked very closely on. The Bill was not passed because of Congress, because of inflation. She strongly objected to this reason in lieu of the fact that Congressmen were attempting to raise their salaries to $52,000 a year.

Chisholm spoke about the state of affairs and Watergate calling the scandal a "blessing in disguise" because it revealed to America a corrupt subverting process of democracy. As a result of Watergate, she explained, the political system had been changed.

Government Interests

The root of today's economic disaster, according to Congressman Chisholm, is in the unique privileged relationship between the nation's corporate interests and the government. The domination of lobby and government in the source of unemployment, inflation, the world recession, and the high cost of living, according to Chisholm. The cost of living in America has doubled during the previous administration, she claimed.

"There is little sign that this aloof administration has concern over the employment situation," she asserted. "It shows disregard for the consumer, the worker and the unemployed.

"The administration should recognize that there is a clear indication that the administration does not care for human beings. After vetoing important acts, such as the Minimum Wage Bill which would have set a weekly salary at a minimum of $88, she feels that the administration is involved with corporate interests and not the interests of the people.

Unlike the present administration, Mrs. Chisholm commented that she spoke here as a "people's politician" rather than a "professional politician." What do people need, more concern to the people of the country than to business interests.

But she offered herself as an alternative to the present situation and ran for the presidency in 1972 and was not elected. She commented that it would be too much at this time for the nation to grasp having a woman president, nevertheless black.

"Our priorities received a mandate, he told us," she stated. "If he received the mandate, then he is fulfilling those concerns. We get what we deserve," she continued.

Mrs. Chisholm expressed a disappointment in the failure of the Minimum Wage Bill which she worked very closely on. The Bill was not passed because of Congress, because of inflation. She strongly objected to this reason in lieu of the fact that Congressmen were attempting to raise their salaries to $52,000 a year.

Chisholm spoke about the state of affairs and Watergate calling the scandal a "blessing in disguise" because it revealed to America a corrupt subverting process of democracy. As a result of Watergate, she explained, the political system had been changed.

Government Interests

The root of today's economic disaster, according to Congressman Chisholm, is in the unique privileged relationship between the nation's corporate interests and the government. The domination of lobby and government in the source of unemployment, inflation, the world recession, and the high cost of living, according to Chisholm. The cost of living in America has doubled during the previous administration, she claimed.

"There is little sign that this aloof administration has concern over the employment situation," she asserted. "It shows disregard for the consumer, the worker and the unemployed.

"The administration should recognize that there is a clear indication that the administration does not care for human beings. After vetoing important acts, such as the Minimum Wage Bill which would have set a weekly salary at a minimum of $88, she feels that the administration is involved with corporate interests and not the interests of the people.

Unlike the present administration, Mrs. Chisholm commented that she spoke here as a "people's politician" rather than a "professional politician." What do people need, more concern to the people of the country than to business interests.

But she offered herself as an alternative to the present situation and ran for the presidency in 1972 and was not elected. She commented that it would be too much at this time for the nation to grasp having a woman president, nevertheless black.

"Our priorities received a mandate, he told us," she stated. "If he received the mandate, then he is fulfilling those concerns. We get what we deserve," she continued.

Mrs. Chisholm expressed a disappointment in the failure of the Minimum Wage Bill which she worked very closely on. The Bill was not passed because of Congress, because of inflation. She strongly objected to this reason in lieu of the fact that Congressmen were attempting to raise their salaries to $52,000 a year.

Chisholm spoke about the state of affairs and Watergate calling the scandal a "blessing in disguise" because it revealed to America a corrupt subverting process of democracy. As a result of Watergate, she explained, the political system had been changed.
WASHINGTON - The Senate Monday approved a 50 per cent increase in federal aid to the school lunch program with provision for even more money if food costs keep increasing.

The measure was rushed through as an emergency legisla- tion to help schools, some of which have been forced to cut the quantity or quality of their meals or even drop them. The vote was 81-4.

Voting against the bill were Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, Carl T. Curtis, R-Nebr., Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., and Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz.

The bill exceeds the adminis-tration budget request of $1.5 million by $100 million, and could face a veto.

The House has passed a bill to raise federal aid to the school lunch program 25 per cent. A compromise measure will have to be worked out.

The Senate bill would raise from 8 to 13 cents the federal contribution for each student participating in the school lunch program, from 40 to 45 cents for needy children who get free lunches, and from 16 to 35 cents for those who get reduced-rate lunches.

The measure also would provide 8 cents per pupil in the school breakfast program plus an additional 15 cents for the reduced-price breakfasts.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., proposed raising the per-pupil contribution from the 16 cents approved by the House and the Senate Agriculture Committee, and his amendment was approved 52 to 34.

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., handling the bill, said after the vote, "I hope the bill can be saved in conference and can be made acceptable to the Presi-dent.

Gas stations protest price guidelines

By United Press International

Hundreds of gasoline station operators kept their pumps closed Monday to protest Phase IV gasoline price guidelines. These national leaders threatened even more severe shut-downs which would put "the public on horseback," if their government does not grant relief.

The Cost of Living Council, under pressure from President Nixon for a speedy decision, prepared to review the gas guidelines and consider whether to increase the price levels.

A meeting of representatives of retail gasoline associations in 41 states stopped short Sunday of endorsing a national protest but decided not to oppose local action.

"If immediate action is not taken, the government's restric-tions on us may result in a 20th century version of the Boston Tea Party," said Charles Bisnette, president of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers. "The public may be on horseback."

A leader of the boycott movement for Phase IV gasoline in Califor-nia, where the protest was in its fourth day following a weekend of estimated 50 per cent participation, said service station operators were getting pressure from major oil compa-nies to resume sales.

The California protest was sched-uled to end after Monday night.

The protest centered on Phase IV rules allowed wholesalers to increase prices but keeping retailers at January levels.

John T. Dunlop, the Cost of Living Council director, said last week his council would review the situation. Mon-da-y, a spokesman for President Nixon said he had instructed the council to speed up this process.

WHAT'S GOD DOING TODAY? come and see!!

The Catholic Charismatic Renewal

Special Explanation Session - This Thursday, Sept. 27, 7:30 pm. Butler Bldg - behind Holy Cross Hall (ND)

Mass - Zahm Hall Chapel, Tuesday through Friday - 5:15 pm

Prayer Meetings - Holy Cross Hall (ND), Every Thursday 8:30 - 10:00 pm

All Are Welcome!!

SENIOR CLASS TRIP

OPEN TO ALL ND-SMC STUDENTS

3 DAYS 3 NIGHTS

In fabulous MIAMI BEACH!

for ND-Miami football game

ONLY $16

NOV. 29--DEC. 2

Non refundable deposit due SEPT. 28

deposits collected at ND travel bureau

QUESTIONS? CALL JERRY 232-3876

the observer Tuesday, September 25, 1973

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Senate Monday approved a 50 per cent increase in federal aid to the school lunch program with provision for even more money if food costs keep increasing.

The measure was rushed through as an emergency legislation to help schools, some of which have been forced to cut the quantity or quality of their meals or even drop them. The vote was 81-4.

Voting against the bill were Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, Carl T. Curtis, R-Nebr., Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., and Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz.

The bill exceeds the administration budget request of $1.5 million by $100 million, and could face a veto.

The House has passed a bill to raise federal aid to the school lunch program 25 per cent. A compromise measure will have to be worked out.

The Senate bill would raise from 8 to 13 cents the federal contribution for each student participating in the school lunch program, from 40 to 45 cents for needy children who get free lunches, and from 16 to 35 cents for those who get reduced-price lunches.

The measure also would provide 8 cents per pupil in the school breakfast program plus an additional 15 cents for the reduced-price breakfasts.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., proposed raising the per-pupil contribution from the 16 cents approved by the House and the Senate Agriculture Committee, and his amendment was approved 52 to 34.

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., handling the bill, said after the vote, "I hope the bill can be saved in conference and can be made acceptable to the President.

Gas stations protest price guidelines

By United Press International

Hundreds of gasoline station operators kept their pumps closed Monday to protest Phase IV gasoline price guidelines. These national leaders threatened even more severe shut-downs which would put "the public on horseback," if their government does not grant relief.

The Cost of Living Council, under pressure from President Nixon for a speedy decision, prepared to review the gas guidelines and consider whether to increase the price levels.

A meeting of representatives of retail gasoline associations in 41 states stopped short Sunday of endorsing a national protest but decided not to oppose local action.

"If immediate action is not taken, the government's restrictions on us may result in a 20th century version of the Boston Tea Party," said Charles Bisnette, president of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers. "The public may be on horseback."

A leader of the boycott movement for Phase IV gasoline in California, where the protest was in its fourth day following a weekend of estimated 50 per cent participation, said service station operators were getting pressure from major oil companies to resume sales.

The California protest was scheduled to end after Monday night.

The protest centered on Phase IV rules allowed wholesalers to increase prices but keeping retailers at January levels.

John T. Dunlop, the Cost of Living Council director, said last week his council would review the situation. Monday, a spokesman for President Nixon said he had instructed the council to speed up this process.

WHAT'S GOD DOING TODAY? come and see!!

The Catholic Charismatic Renewal

Special Explanation Session - This Thursday, Sept. 27, 7:30 pm. Butler Bldg - behind Holy Cross Hall (ND)

Mass - Zahm Hall Chapel, Tuesday through Friday - 5:15 pm

Prayer Meetings - Holy Cross Hall (ND), Every Thursday 8:30 - 10:00 pm

All Are Welcome!!

SENIOR CLASS TRIP

OPEN TO ALL ND-SMC STUDENTS

3 DAYS 3 NIGHTS

In fabulous MIAMI BEACH!

for ND-Miami football game

ONLY $16

NOV. 29--DEC. 2

Non refundable deposit due SEPT. 28

deposits collected at ND travel bureau

QUESTIONS? CALL JERRY 232-3876

The observer is printed daily during the college semester except Christmas. No withdrawals by the students of University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $4 per semester (4/4 per year) from The Observer Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. Second class postage paid, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556.
Kissinger wants real peace beyond armistice

by Bruce W. Nunn
United Nations UPI

Henry A. Kissinger, making his first public appearance as Secretary of State last Monday, the United States seeks not merely an armistice among the superpowers, but a true peace entrenched in the United Nations.""Parliament of Man to make it a reality.""

The United States has made its choice,"" Kissinger said in a 20 minute address to the U.N. General Assembly, packed with foreign ministers and ambassadors for the occasion. ""My country seeks true peace, not simply an armistice. We strive for a world in which the rule of law governs, and fundamental human rights and the birthright of all.

""Beyond the bilateral diplomacy, the pragmatic agreements and the dramatic steps of recent years, we envisage a comprehensive, institutionalized peace—a peace which this organization is uniquely situated to foster and to anchor in the hearts of men,"" Kissinger said. ""This will be the spirit of American foreign policy. This attitude will guide our work in this organization.

""We pledge to strengthen relations with the Soviet Union and China, to bolster the uncertain peace in Indochina, and to promote conciliation in European self-determination. Other goals were economic development and human dignity in Africa and partnership in the Western Hemisphere.

""Weary a dark blue suit and white shirt for his maiden speech since assuming office two days ago, Kissinger told the membership not to suspect any superpower plan to dominate the world, in reference to the growing detente between Washington and the Kremlin. ""Relaxation of tensions is justified by some as merely a tactical interlude before renewed struggle,"" he said.

""Others suspect the emergence of a two-power condominium. And as tension between the two original blocs has eased, a third grouping increasingly assumes entries of a bloc of its own—the alignment of the non-aligned."

Kissinger in the past has been less than enthusiastic about the United Nations and its work and many of the delegates and ministers were carefully watching his speech as a guide toward his future policies.

However, he told the assembly: ""We will never abandon our allies and friends. We will work for peace through the United Nations as well as through bilateral relationships. ""Despite our disappointments, my country remains committed to the goal of a world community. We will continue to work in this Parliament of Man to make it a reality."

Entry fee is $2.00

Observer will sponsor chess tournament this weekend

by Denny McLean
Staff Reporter

The chess champ of Notre Dame will be determined this weekend at a tournament sponsored by the Observer. The tournament is open to anyone belonging to the Notre Dame community and an entrance fee of $2.00 is required. Registrations are being accepted at the Observer office in LaFortune between 1:00 and 4:00 Monday through Thursday.

The first round will commence Friday at 7:30 p.m. First round pairings will be available in Friday's Observer.

Student's with USCF ratings will play each other in the first round. Play will proceed according to the five game Swiss system. Participants are required to bring their own chess boards, as there are not enough to facilitate all players. In addition, those who have a chess time clock are asked to bring that. Although every game will not be timed by an official chess clock, all players must complete 3 moves within one hour. Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded to the top four finishers. Prizes will be disbursed by the Chess Club, with the trophies being given only by the Observer and Student Government.

Not only will these prizes be awarded, but a great deal of importance will be attached to the top student winners in forming the Notre Dame Chess Team. The team will compete in several chess meets here against such schools as Indiana, Purdue, Ball State, and Cathedral. They will also play in the Midwestern Collegiate Chess Tournament.

Looking for a ride to Purdue?

rent a Pinto for $5 a day and 5' a mile from Jordan Ford

Shuttle bus makes minor route change

by Joe LaFlure
Staff Reporter

The shuttle-bus service has not changed much from last year. With the exception of a minor route change on late buses, it virtually the same. The schedule is as follows:

Mon. - Thurs.: 7:40 a.m. - 12:30 a.m.
Fri: 7:40 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Sat: 12:00 p.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Sun: 12:00 p.m. - 12:30 a.m.

All buses leave St. Mary's every hour on the hour until 9:00 p.m. and every 15 min. later.

""The route change was implemented primarily because of security problems,"" according to Mr. Timothy Poley, Asst. to the Coordinator of Analytical Studies. After 6:00 p.m. the East Gate is closed and the buses must enter and exit through the Main Gate. From there, they proceed up Notre Dame Ave., across Angela Blvd., and down U.S. 31. ""The amount of service provided is the same, although the cue is a little longer,"" said Poley. Shuttle buses still stop at all points on campus. THEY ALL STOP AT THE Groton, the library circle, and the bus shelter, no matter what the time.

""If the student who does not have a back-to-back class would ride the local bus and not the express, we would certainly speed service up,"" said Poley.

On Friday and Saturday nights, a second bus is added and service from each campus is every 15 min. There are also special morning buses on home football Saturday. After 6:00 p.m. and in weekends, there still remains a small charge of 10 cents. Mr. Poley would like to hear from the students about the quality of service. You may call 6392 or drop in at Room 320 Administration Building.

THE WINERY

2426 LINCOLN WAY WEST — MISHAWAKA, INDIANA
TELEPHONE 259-9446
INDIANA'S LARGEST WINE SHOP
DOES HAVE CHEESE!

English Stilton
Port Salut
Camembert
Gourmet Swiss
Goat Brie
Tilsit

10% discount on cheeses until Oct. with ID

JOHN O'HANLON '65
BANK AMERICARD
MASTERCHARGE
Quickly, Some Rules

Time is beginning to run out on the SLC. Despite the fact that they are meeting twice a week in an effort to iron out the new parties regulations, time is getting short.

The students have been remarkably patient in waiting for the SLC to produce the new guidelines, yet reports of Monday's meeting seem to indicate that little was really done and while the SLC talks about this important issue, misconceptions grow, patience begins to set in and students are getting less and less of an idea about where they actually stand.

The SLC is to be congratulated for the complete manner in which they have approached this question, but it is coming to the point where the students will soon walk rather than being answered.

The most important result of yesterday's meeting was the discussion of attitudes. It seems to many who are not directly involved in this decision-making process that the over-riding attitude here has been negative. It has been largely discussed as to what you cannot do and negative talk alienates and makes adherence to new regulations all the more difficult.

The discussion in the body is refining the piece to more and more specifics and this is a good result of the already long-proceedings--vagueness is a quality that must be written out of the document.

Particularly encouraging was the SLC's talk that some of the decision-making here must be left to the rector, a move that is in line with what should be the philosophy of the ND dorms.

The work being done by the SLC is excellent. The discussions and revisions are going to result in a very good document, but it is time for them to get on.

The patience of the students has been admirable in this matter, but you really cannot expect them to wait too much longer for something definitive.

Jerry Lutkus

The Student Squad

The reasons given by Robert O'Brien about the why the band failed to march around the campus prior to Friday's rally seem rather shallow.

For a few years now, the "narrow walkways" and low hanging wires never prevented the band from beginning their march at Washington Hall, proceeding across the Main Quad to the South Quad and then over to the northside of campus and into Stepan Center.

The major reason for the discontinuation of the march seems to be problems that the band has been having with the Meat Squad. The squad, originally formed to protect the band members, has gotten considerably out of hand in the last year. Their absence Friday was abundantly noticeable.

No longer did students have to keep one eye open for a descending drunken marauder in a "Meat Squad" shirt. Band members have talked about the roughing up that many students have received in the course of the march because Meat Squad members have gotten carried away.

Now, the squad is no longer involved with protecting the band. Yet, in Friday's march to Stepan, both the Irish Guard and band members seemed to do a commendable job in protecting the marching musicians.

It is a shame to destroy a great tradition like the band canvassing the campus because of a rowdy group who did not do their job. The most sensible alternative is evident.

Once students were requested to remain off the field at halftime, they responded admirably. It seems to follow that if seriously requested to watch the band and aid in their protection along with the Irish Guard and the band reserves, they would respond in the same manner.

Don't let a great Notre Dame band tradition be allowed to die because of some rowdies. Let the students take the responsibility of watching the band. The wires and narrow walkways that they have avoided for years will continue to be avoided without injury.

Jerry Lutkus

Last Point

Of Billie Jean, Libbers and Mike

Last week was not a good week for the average Notre Dame chauvinist. Take for example the experiences of Mike during Billie Jean week.

Early in the week, Mike walks into his almost entirely male finance class expecting to hear the usual, "Is there gonna put money in to get money out?" lecture. Instead, Mike hears his finance professor harrangue, "You dummys are not going to get jobs when you graduate because you don't take women seriously enough to meet their competition." Next stop is mid-week lunch, where Mike reads an Observer headline proclaiming something about feminist jocks. Apparently, some Notre Dame libbers, with the domestic name better (as in sewing and Rossi), is forming a local Ms. Tennis team. Mike immediately recognizes this as a threat to the Victory March with the "as her loyal sons go marching on ..." lyrics. Cringes cringes as he sings the fight song to himself, this time adding "as her loyal sons and daughters to marching on . . ." However, late in the week, Mike's fortunes improve when he finds a sily, self-appointed, Sissy Fahren­hold feminist who is so libby she abrades in his ear that she'll bet Billie Jean will win. Of course, Mike, spotting a sucker when he sees one, puts all his bets on her including his roommate whom he mortgages for a few chips of credit from the libby.

Thursday evening comes, but to Mike's amazement, Bobby Riggs isn't beating Billie Jean at all. In fact, the situation is so serious Mike is spending his entire evening dealing with his financial affairs by exhorting Bobby Riggs to stop putting him on. As the evening wanes, Mike begins to reason. "I'd like to see her try and play Rod Laver! Boy, would he beat the bra back on that broad!"

After the match, like Roosevelt after Pearl Harbor, Lincoln after Bull Run and Washington after Valley Forge, Mike moves to reassert his assertiveness, this time without Bobby Riggs. Amidst brasses North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.

First, Mike defaults on his bet and keeps his roommate. He broods with a "Lady Lay" across the North Quad chants notifying him he is currently number two and to the background music of "I am Woman!" blaring from a B-P room, in­​repared Mike joins in a united counter-offensive designed by the same sex who had planned Saratoga, Gettysburg and Normandy.
Western has joined many other schools in having its officers become sworn deputies of the county. Members of the force, including the old vets, undergo standard police training. Officers retained from the old department had to pass a basic course along with the rookies.

There are two divisions in the department, safety and security. Safety handles fire protection and industrial and maintenance checks. Security is formed by 17 patrolmen and their captain along with two plainclothes detectives and their captain. In addition, there are 10 dispatchers and 15 engineers. Service is a student aid function available for students who are injured or otherwise in need.

Student patrols are also utilized and a student clerk is in the security office all the time.

WMU

To trace the transition from large college to small, it may be best to look at a medium size school first. Western Michigan University has an enrollment of 21,000 on a 370 acre campus. While being one of the four largest schools in Michigan, it is small enough to promote a close student relationship.

On Western, says she thinks the police have been an everyday occurrence, whereas at DePauw it assumes a position of a major campus crime.

WMU changed its security format in order to become a more efficient force. According to director Keith Shel-eler, the idea is working. "We are not a police agency," he asserted, adding that the change was upon the recommendation of administration and student body alike.

Youthfulness and education are the keys to the new WMU police force. "The majority of our people have completed at least four degrees," said Sheeler. In addition, incentives for obtaining college degrees and credit are built into the officers' salaries, already the highest in the country. The average age of the department is in the 30's, but that age is high because several members are retainees from the previous department. Most of the recruits were hired because of a, among other things, their youth.

On the lighter side, Sheeler feels that the department is doing a good job. "They're getting back to Boone's Farm," he says.

Chadwick L. Vaughan, 37, who is Western's police officer, says he thinks the police are doing a fine job. However, the general attitude among students may be that the police are not fair and the change may be for the worse.

The worst crime on campus...

"Depending on how you look at it, it's either dope or student riff-..." Beth declared.

Bail State

With 18,000 students on 900 acre campus, Ball State University is a little smaller than WMU. The security departments are almost identical, though. Once again, the shift is to a younger staff, the mean age being 35. There are 31 sworn officers in the force, along with several clerical staff members.

For the past 16 years, Thomas Osborne, 54, has been the head of the department. He spent 10 years as an Indiana State Police officer and received a certification in police administration from Indiana University before acquiring his present position.

Osborne's job is not an easy one with 34 dorms on campus. Only six men are assigned to each night shift and so no other building guards are provided, so all dorms are locked at night. Osborne has proposed using students to man the dorms, but that idea has taken no action.

Half of the student body are commuters, so traffic is a big problem at the school. Police try to cope with the large number of cars, but they are not always successful. Because of this, according to Mike Myers, relations with the students are poor.

"The police are paranoid... they think the students are out to get them," declares Myers, a junior. "Other than the traffic situation, he feels, the two groups get along. "The police know a lot more than people think," he adds. "But for the course that students don't hate them..."

Myers said that rape was "big" on campus, but not reported that often. He and Osborne both agree that theft is the most serious offense.

Vandalism is the major problem on campus. As Robuck sees it, the problem is with both students and townspersons. He also noted that bike theft is a frequent event. Last year, $2000 worth, mostly speed-bikes, were taken at Valpo.

DePauw

DePauw University has a force similar to Valpo's. In their four man department are two former policemen, a graduate of the National Crime Prevention Institute, and a current police administration student.

Observer Insight

Grover Vaughan, 52, is the director of security at DePauw. After spending 5 years as an Indiana State Trooper, he came to the school in 1965 and has been director since. In his first year he was the only man in the department, but over the years he has built his force to the present 29 men.

All members of the security force are sworn peace officers but carry no guns. They make random patrols in a radio-equipped car and call the Greencastle police in case of trouble. Maintenance shifts also do fire and safety checks in dorms and other important buildings as a departmental function.

Almost all of the 2500 students live on campus in one of six dorms of 25 Fraternity or sorority houses. Of these 29 residences under Vaughan's care, only the four women's dorms are locked at night by university direction. Several groups of apparatus, including small buildings, are locked at night.

 Vaughan feels that the majority of the petty thefts are committed by the students themselves. He also feels that drug use on campus is declining, but that smoking marijuana is still the most common offense.

Cheryl Wheaton, a junior at DePauw, is interested in the police and says they turn their backs on a lot of people. She feels that drug use on campus is declining, but that smoking marijuana is still the most common offense.

Cheryl feels that the department is understaffed and spends too much time on trival things. However, she says that in time of trouble, the police are still "the people you call."
Off campus food co-op is still only an idea

by Kurt Heinz
Staff Reporter

Plans for an off-campus food co-op are still very much up in the air according to organizer Rick Nauman.

The off-campus senior had originally hoped to set up a co-op with the Notre Dame food service, whereby students could buy food from the dining hall comissary. However, after meeting with Mr. Robert O'Brien, director of the marching band, there were several reasons for this break in old policy.

Foremost among the reasons was the general safety and well-being of the band members. The narrow walk-ways and the abundance of low strang wires were a major concern in cancelling the march. Band Members have added burden of marching while carrying an instrument. Besides avoiding the previously mentioned obstacles, the marchers must concentrate on the music and the cadence.

In essence, Mr. O’Brien cited the band’s marching blind. The possibility of unintentional damage as a result of the hazard was also a very real concern. If an accident occurred and the instrument was damaged, there is little or no chance of repair before the next game.

Another reason for the omission was the over-seas behavior of the band members. Originally, the band group was composed of members from the University’s Circle Home Singers Society. The Society disbanded several years ago, and since that time the band has been under the authority of the Office of Student Affairs.

O’Brien cites safety reasons in cancelling traditional march

by Mike Dewey
Staff Reporter

As many students noticed, the Notre Dame Marching Band did not make its traditional march at the pep rally held at Stepan Center last Friday night.

According to Mr. Robert O’Brien, director of the marching band, there were several reasons for the break in old policy.

Foremost among the reasons was the general safety and well-being of the band members. The narrow walk-ways and the abundance of low strang wires were a major concern in cancelling the march. Band Members have added burden of marching while carrying an instrument. Besides avoiding the previously mentioned obstacles, the marchers must concentrate on the music and the cadence.

In essence, Mr. O’Brien cited the band’s marching blind. The possibility of unintentional damage as a result of the hazard was also a very real concern. If an accident occurred and the instrument was damaged, there is little or no chance of repair before the next game.

Another reason for the omission was the over-seas behavior of the band members. Originally, the band group was composed of members from the University’s Circle Home Singers Society. The Society disbanded several years ago, and since that time the band has been under the authority of the Office of Student Affairs.

The major function of the Squad was to clear a passage for the band as it was marching. Over a period of months, it became clear that the Squad was ineffective in its performance.

For that reason, then, the band will have no further use of the Band Squad.

Mr. O’Brien stated that the general student reaction to the change is now being studied. The possibility of instituting a new tradition may be discussed at a later date.

The band members at the Northwestern game gave Mr. O’Brien a mixed reaction. The band members are grateful to the student body for staying off the playing field during their halftime change in tradition is now being studied. The possibility of instituting a new tradition may be discussed at a later date.

At the Observer's request, O’Brien was able to do a short interview today.

The three said no to the co-op plan because of faculty concern. They also indicated that the food co-op would have no idea how much of a saving could be involved.

To date, Nauman has done all of the organizing himself.

"I need to get a response on this," said Nauman. "I need to know how many are involved and I also need one person who would be willing to take on the ordering as a full time job. I am still very much open to idea input."

Nauman said that students interested to call him at 233-3945.

Nauman said that students interested to call him at 233-3945. Nauman has said some have ideas of the offering of the food co-op. With no idea how many would be interested.

The only advise Nauman could offer off-campus students was to buy some of their food from Simon Brothers, a local supplier who, he said, will sell to anyone. Until Nauman can determine interest in efforts, it looks as though Simon Brothers, high-priced supermarket food and the struggle will continue to be the only recourse to off-campus students.

Applications are now being accepted for the position of Observer features editor. Please submit resume and applicable portfolios to Jerry Lukus The Observer

Box Q or come to the office by Friday afternoon.
Student union will issue listing of local talent

by Valerie Zurblis
Staff Reporter

Did you ever wish you could have a live band at a big party you were throwing at reasonable prices? Or perhaps you have some hidden talents you would like to share with others and get monetary benefits? If so, Dave Bennett should be able to help you find the perfect entertainment for your party.

Bennett, working for the Student Union, is compiling a directory of local and on-campus talent. He will also help you book their services. This is part of a project that the Student Union has been working on for several years. Through the directories, the Student Union is trying to increase the amount of music and entertainment on campus.

Another service offered by the Student Union is a directory of private parties, or "home study speed reading," that will be offered to students off-campus. The program is based on the theory that reading is a mechanical process and can be taught. Students can improve their reading speed and comprehension by following a specific training program. The program is designed to teach students how to improve their reading skills and to help them achieve their academic goals.

"Quiet security weekend at ND" by Janet Denefe
Staff Reporter

The Notre Dame campus experienced a "quiet and peaceful weekend," according to the Notre Dame Observer. The campus was unusually quiet, with no appointments or weekend activities. The quietness was due to the lack of music and entertainment on campus.

"Home study speed reading will be offered to students" by Patrick Harline
Staff Reporter

An unusual method of increasing reading speed and comprehension, Project Learn, will soon be offered to ND and SMC students, according to Mr. Bruce Hughle, director of Project Learn, and Mr. Julian Powell, local dealer.

The home study program, which has been used in various sections of the country for the last five years, is based on the theory that the primary component of reading comprehension is the thinking process rather than eye movement. The theory is based on work done by Dr. Russell G. Stautler, Professor of Education at the University of Delaware and consultant for the Delaware and New Jersey reading enhancement programs. Dr. Stautler contends that proper training in disciplined thinking is the key to more efficient reading.

The Learn Project makes use of recorded tapes and of reading workbooks to teach "sequential skill development." Mr. Corley said, "We teach students to first set a goal for reading a particular piece and then survey the general ideas before concentrating on the most important sections." According to Mr. Powell, some thirty thousand people have completed the course and most have been able to double their reading speed. Powell represents the South Carolina dealers which wishes to expand the programs to campuses around the country. His corporation's home office is located in New Jersey.

"Chisholm urges people to participate in politics" (continued from page 1)

Another campaign "is the State of Life in America," sponsored by the National Right to Life Committee and the Law School.

"Silddhatha is an exquiste movie" by Alex Reed
Synopsis: Kilimanjaro
A NOVEL by HERMANN HESSE
A FILM BY CONRAD RACKS
at 6:15, 8:00, 9:00

"Listed and Found" by Valerie Zurblis

Lost class ring: '74 Wed night near gym, barracks or Dillon. Please return reward. Marty 8683 301 Stanford.

"Personals" by Janet Denefe

Personals for '74 include: Looking for '74 classmate to join us to tour England, Scotland and Wales. Contact Mike Hess 912, SMC phone 3273.

"Quiet security weekend at ND" by Janet Denefe
Staff Reporter

The Notre Dame campus experienced a "quiet and peaceful weekend," as far as the security concerns, according to Arthur

"Home study speed reading will be offered to students" by Patrick Harline
Staff Reporter

An unusual method of increasing reading speed and comprehension, Project Learn, will soon be offered to ND and SMC students, according to Mr. Bruce Hughle, director of Project Learn, and Mr. Julian Powell, local dealer.

The home study program, which has been used in various sections of the country for the last five years, is based on the theory that the primary component of reading comprehension is the thinking process rather than eye movement. The theory is based on work done by Dr. Russell G. Stautler, Professor of Education at the University of Delaware and consultant for the Delaware and New Jersey reading enhancement programs. Dr. Stautler contends that proper training in disciplined thinking is the key to more efficient reading.

The Learn Project makes use of recorded tapes and of reading workbooks to teach "sequential skill development." Mr. Corley said, "We teach students to first set a goal for reading a particular piece and then survey the general ideas before concentrating on the most important sections." According to Mr. Powell, some thirty thousand people have completed the course and most have been able to double their reading speed. Powell represents the South Carolina dealers which wishes to expand the programs to campuses around the country. His corporation's home office is located in New Jersey.

"Chisholm urges people to participate in politics" (continued from page 1)

Another campaign "is the State of Life in America," sponsored by the National Right to Life Committee and the Law School.

"Silddhatha is an exquiste movie" by Alex Reed
Synopsis: Kilimanjaro
A NOVEL by HERMANN HESSE
A FILM BY CONRAD RACKS
at 6:15, 8:00, 9:00

"Listed and Found" by Valerie Zurblis

Lost class ring: '74 Wed night near gym, barracks or Dillon. Please return reward. Marty 8683 301 Stanford.

"Personals" by Janet Denefe

Personals for '74 include: Looking for '74 classmate to join us to tour England, Scotland and Wales. Contact Mike Hess 912, SMC phone 3273.
Gary Diminick: little man in a big Irish backfield

There is a little man at Notre Dame, a freshman running back from Carmel, Ind., who has turned the Fighting Irish football team upside down.

His name is Jim Reinhart, and he is 5-foot-9, 175 pounds. He is the shortest player on the Notre Dame roster and one of the few who can run away from a defender.

Jim Reinhart was born in Shamokin, Pa., and is the son of Paul Reinhart, a former Carmel basketball star. He played football and basketball in Shamokin and was a three-sport star.

When Jim entered Notre Dame last fall, he was not expected to make much of a contribution. He was not even on the varsity roster.

But during the Notre Dame-Fordham game last Saturday, Jim showed the Fighting Irish coaching staff that he is a valuable asset.

Jim had 147 yards rushing and a touchdown, and账ked the Fighting Irish to come back against Tulane.

Jim is a hard worker and a great writer. He is a great guy and a great inspiration to all of us.

The Irish, who are now 4-1-1, will face the University of Michigan next week.

Blarney Stone(d)

Pottusri Why is football the most popular sport in the nation today? Probably because of thesport's great ability to supply its fans with the unexpected—be it on the pitch, or off.

Notre Dame fans have suffered through the unexpected last two seasons.

First Southern Cal in 1971, then Missouri last season hung defeats on the Irish. A year ago, Notre Dame suffered a defeat in the Irish-Michigan game, which gave the Trojans a chance against Walt Patulski and Co. Last season, the Tigers came out of Mobile, Ala., with an 8-0-0 record, and everyone knew the Tigers were going to beat Patulski and the Irish.

College fans got another taste of the unexpected last Friday night when Texas, an overwhelming choice among the experts, showed a different side of the Longhorns.

The Irish were expected to lose, but instead they won.

Saturday, against Northwestern, Jim Reinhart gained Irish ballcarrier gaining 73 yards in four attempts, including a 38-yard touchdown.

That move was evidence that Jim is not the system. He is the system.

The Irish are 4-1-1, and Jim Reinhart is a big reason.

Jim Reinhart is a big reason.

J.L. Gary Diminick, seen here squeezing through an even smaller hole in last year's game against Navy, a game in which he returned the punt 92 yards for a touchdown.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.

"In college, you learn to use your speed for 10, 15, or 20 yards. But you also have to learn to use what is in front of you. You have to have to use your blockers.