Compliments of South Bend Tribune

Mishawaka Police and FBI agents Wednesday were investigating the apparent abdication of a 23-year-old Notre Dame graduate student from his Mishawaka home during a burglary there Tuesday morning.

Police identified the victim as Thomas J. Barnard, 23 of 536 1/2 W. Mishawaka Ave.

They said Barnard did not return to his apartment after his wife, Nancy, reported a burglary of their home at 2:40 p.m. Tuesday. They reported that police at the O'Hare Airport in Chicago had found a note in a mailbox there Tuesday night allegedly written by Barnard, saying he had been abducted.

Police quoted the note as saying that Barnard had been forced to rent a car from the Budget Rent-A-Car Firm, 48 N. Michigan St. and had driven to the Chicago airport with his abducted wife.

He then was forced to purchase two airline tickets for himself and the abducted, the note continued. Police added that Barnard described his abductor as "an escape, six-foot tall, dark and slender with short dark hair."

Found Late Tuesday

Police said the note was found during regular collection of the mail at the airport late Tuesday night and was turned over to airport police.

Police in Chicago reportedly traced the tickets to Continental Airlines for a flight to Colorado Springs, Colo. They were purchased by Barnard on a charge card, and he reportedly was accompanied by his room, where he is allowed to drink, over campus grounds, where he is not allowed to have it.

The first area concerned the popularity of a rector who refuses to allow a party to be held in the hall. The second concerned the responsibility lying with a rector who is asked to approve a party where the majorit} of people drinking are underage.

The next topic was the approval of the actual rule on alcohol to be used in the student manual. The rule allows alcohol in private rooms in resident halls and in other rooms in the hall, providing the guidelines established are followed. Large parties in private rooms, and larger parties in living areas of the halls without proper planning are prohibited. Students cannot possess or consume alcohol anywhere else on Campus without the permission of the Dean of Students.

The question of student use of facilities on campus outside of resident halls is not covered in the proposed rules. Dr. Ackerman told the Council that this will be dealt with separately, as it is not an immediate need and there was no draft presently prepared to be submitted to the Council.

The Council then turned to other rules in the student manual that need revision. Dr. Faccenda began the discussion by asking the members of the Council if an idea of what the Student Affairs office had in mind when they drafted the rules. "We gave the students a set new tone to the rules section," he said. "The present rules do not seem to smoothly flow out of our philosophy of an educational program."

Most of the changes in the rules are eliminations of "things that we feel aren't important, or don't reflect major problems in the community," Dr. Faccenda continued.

In many instances the new rules reflect the atmosphere on campus. "For instance," Dr. Faccenda explained, "the rules on drugs are separated into three sections, which represent the delineations we have made on the kind of drugs there are and the differences between them."

"This academic year was as productive as I hoped. "Blacks did not lose their African culture as a result of the slave experience in America," asserted Dr. Scott. "From the point of view of mind and heart, the American and African black are closely related. It is only the material culture which seem to make them different."

"Many Afro-Americans think when they go to Africa they are not accepted. But among the African people, anyone who is not of their language group is considered an outsider."

Professor Scott says this is difficult for Afro-Americans to understand, because in this country wherever a black goes he is recognized as a "soul brother", regardless of whether he is from

(continued on page 7)
SANTIAGO, Chile—The new military junta announced the execution by firing squad of three men who shot at a police sergeant on the day Marxist president Salvador Allende was overthrown.

WASHINGTON—After intense long pressure from the Defense Department, the Senate late Wednesday reversed an earlier decision to order a 40 per cent cutback in U.S. troop strength overseas in the next three years.

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The three Skylab astronauts returned to their native soil Wednesday in surprisingly good condition after their record 59 days in space. "I was a little surprised at how really well off they were," Dr. Robert L. Buchanan, the Skylab crew surgeon, told newsmen when the recovery ship, the New Orleans, arrived here.

The Freshman Learning Resource Center, located in the east wing of Bronson Hall, has reopened, said the Dean of the Freshman Year Office Emil T. Hofman. The center, which originally opened last semester, is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The unoccupied room is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The unoccupied room is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The center is located in the east wing of Bronson Hall. The hours for the center are 1 p.m.-to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 1 p.m.-to 3 p.m. on Friday.

The Freshman Learning Resource Center, located in the east wing of Bronson Hall, has reopened, said the Dean of the Freshman Year Office Emil T. Hofman. The center, which originally opened last semester, is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The unoccupied room is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The unoccupied room is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The center is located in the east wing of Bronson Hall. The hours for the center are 1 p.m.-to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 1 p.m.-to 3 p.m. on Friday.

The Freshman Learning Resource Center, located in the east wing of Bronson Hall, has reopened, said the Dean of the Freshman Year Office Emil T. Hofman. The center, which originally opened last semester, is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The unoccupied room is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The unoccupied room is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The center is located in the east wing of Bronson Hall. The hours for the center are 1 p.m.-to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 1 p.m.-to 3 p.m. on Friday.

The Freshman Learning Resource Center, located in the east wing of Bronson Hall, has reopened, said the Dean of the Freshman Year Office Emil T. Hofman. The center, which originally opened last semester, is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.

The unoccupied room is expected to be in full operation during the college semester.
by Jane Cannon
Staff Reporter

The Academic Affairs Commission at St. Mary's has decided that St. Mary's will hold another 1974-75 academic year before Labor Day, if at all possible. In starting after orientation from August 24-26, Labor Day, but not on Holy Days, classes would result in the students missing only one fall football game (Miami or Notre Dame) have this rule to serve as a major issue seems to be what can be gained by any of the St. Mary's community - students, faculty or administration. However, for the sake of co-exchange, the students did agree that if Notre Dame does begin early, we have no choice but to comply.

Erratum
An Observer ad on Tuesday advertised the price for Nickie's Boilermaker party as $2.50 for couples. The price is actually $3.50.

It was The Observer’s error.

Tonight!!
All the Beer You Can Drink at NICKIE’S
Down the Boilermaker Party!!
Couples $3.50 Stags: $1.50 girls
$2.50 guys
SHOTS 35¢ TEQUILA SUNRISE 50¢
WINE COOLERS 40¢

Keg Roll
Wanted: Men and women team members to compete against Purdue keg rolling team.
FREE: food, beer, party and sleeping accommodations at Purdue Fri. and Sat. for all participants!

Additional prizes for winners.

Sign up: The Library Bar
7pm TONIGHT

Applications are now being accepted for the position of Observer features editor.
Please submit resume and applicable portfolios to Jerry Lutkus
Box Q
The Observer
or come to the office by Friday afternoon.
The Student Life Council met Wednesday afternoon and ratified the Student Manual guidelines presented to them by the Central Staff two weeks ago.

And now, the student body of Notre Dame, which has been living in a state of limbo since the start of this school year, will soon be informed of their rights and limitations as defined by the University.

For the last three weeks, the student body on campus has been watching as the Administration attempted to gain approval for the guidelines on which they worked the entire summer—guidelines which were presented as the work of the entire Central Staff.

The final decision of the SLC, while maybe never in question, was awaited impatiently so that all doubt could be erased concerning student behavior, and as importantly, the direction that the residence halls that are not found existent.

Yet now, even with the passing of guidelines, one member of that Central Staff expresses some concern over the ability of a number of rectors to operate within the guidelines. And that's a fine predicament—things are settled, but they're not.

Just what good is a set of guidelines designed for implementation in our residence halls that are not found workable by the men assigned to operate within the guidelines.

It is becoming increasingly obvious what the problem is here. Notre Dame prepares to define its position with regard to residence living for the third time in four years. The Administration, and in turn, the students, are directionless.

If that seems rash, consider the four years spent here by a present senior. His freshman year was spent in an atmosphere of utter and benign neglect, as parties ran wild and rules seemed non-existent.

Every party was a carefree and light-hearted event. It was obvious that parties can be justified when it faces the curse of traditional standards.

And now, Notre Dame, just where are we going?

Butch Ward

During his junior year, he experienced the return of benign neglect to a degree that depended almost completely upon the hall in which he lived. And finally, September, 1973. The Central Staff has publically announced that the present rules would only be in effect until new, more "concern-oriented" guidelines could be implemented. And since his arrival, an open battle has raged because of misunderstanding about present regulations and the intentions of those designing those new guidelines. Now, senior, where do you stand?

These problems of direction have not always existed at ND. The last generation of Domers knew exactly where they stood, because the Administration made it very clear where those students stood. The rules were clear, there were no questions asked.

This is not a plea for a return to medieval standards. It is obvious that these conditions exist because Notre Dame is desperately trying to preserve a tradition or moral direction while dealing with the needs of the student today. And that is a truly educational process.

It is a plea for direction. Since ND has traditionally been a University dedicated to providing its students with an education geared towards achieving Christian manhood, that definition must originate with the Administration. That demands an Administration united in cause and agreed upon procedure.

That demands hall staffs that are aware of their roles and the purposes behind those roles. That demands a large group of individuals united behind a cause—the total education of the student body.

Perhaps the new guidelines will take Notre Dame towards the realization of that direction. Perhaps they are the result of a newfound direction. But a confused student body continues to see one thing above all else—the very group who presented the guidelines, and now must implement them, is not united.

And now, Notre Dame, just where are we going?

Butch Ward

Dylan Restated

While dreaming, as I'm accustomed to doing, on the floor between my two speakers, I envisioned a wild get-together with many people boogying to an electric Dylan, drinking lemonade, and eating apples at my feet...

"Rainy Day Women 12 and 35) For the Last Time"

They'll say play it straight and play fair
But I would not say that's a crime
Cuz even Kings get lose some of the time
Well they'll bless you with their thoughts and their crosses
They'll tell you how to keep from getting lost
They'll say, God bless and good luck to you
But they'll never really tell you what to do
And I would not think that it's a crime
Cuz even Kings get lose some of the time
Well they'll talk of the straight and narrow road
They'll talk of somewhere that you cannot hold
Then they'll decree you a much better person
They'll tell you all about the one that is certain
And I would not think that it's a crime
Cuz even Kings get lose some of the time

Partly Confused Today Through Tomorrow

(to the tune of Bob Dylan's "Rainy Day Women 12 and 35)"

Well they'll put you in a classroom so clean
They'll show you how to work the machine
Then they'll tell you, you're just not their type
They'll say it straight and play fair
But I would not say that's a crime
Cuz even Kings get lose some of the time

Dylan's lyrics are famous for their poetic license. In this song, the author, P.J. O'Rourke, parodies the spirit of Dylan's original song, "Rainy Day Women 12 and 35) For the Last Time." The parody is a clever take on the idea of being confused and trying to navigate life's complexities. The author, P.J. O'Rourke, uses the format and rhythm of Dylan's original song to create a satirical commentary on the challenges faced by students and the role of education in their lives. The lyrics are filled with references to the struggles and misunderstandings that are common in higher education, with a touch of humor that keeps the reader engaged.
The Arts and Letters Student Advisory Council (ALAC) has been interviewing students to fill five vacancies. Four students will be selected for the advisory council and one for the Academic Council, chief legislative body of the College of Arts and Letters that holds last weekend and the second been established by the selection committee composed of campus.

The advisory council functions as a means for students to review programs and rules in the college. The council gathers information from the students and faculty as well as other universities to use in formulating proposals suggesting new or revised programs. These proposals are then presented to the Academic Council and Arts and Letters Dean Frederick Crosson.

One proposal pending from last year is the pass/fail grading option written under President Neil Rosini. This proposal was accepted by the AL Academic Council and is pending before the Academic Council.

The advisory council functions as the representative body for students in the College of Arts and letters. The general philosophy of the council, according to Randles, is to "liberalize the approach to a liberal education." He wants to give the students more options and alternatives as well as its personal educational objectives. "The days are past when the student can be treated as a child," Randles said.

Overseas winter jobs made available by SOS

Temporary fall and winter jobs are being made available to American students in European factories, restaurants, and ski-resorts, through Student Overseas Services (SOS), an non-profit student organization.

SOS agrees to provide the job working permits, room and board, and travel arrangements, for the students taking advantage of this program. Plans offered for their "voro-as-you-go" trip, include a $300-450 package which consists of "all accommodations, meals, processing, final job placements, basic language instruction, and 60 miles of travel through Luxembourg, France, Germany, and Belgium," plus a round-trip Youth Fare ticket. Also available for $190.00 is all of the above minus the Air-ticket to and from Europe. Working at standard wages, probably will not pay as much as students expect, but SOS guarantees that "a few weeks work earns the lion's share of the trips cost, and a few more weeks earns money for traveling around Europe.

One program that is still in the planning stage is a means to interject a student voice in the tenure considerations of the AL faculty. ALAC wants to find out and explain the tenure procedures so the student has an idea how tenure is given. If the students know the procedures they may be able to exert some influence in tenure decisions.

President Randles hopes to have a productive year but it depends upon the input of the present and new members as well as the support they get from the student body.

by Paul Colgan
Staff Reporter

The Arts and Letters Student Advisory Council (ALAC) has been interviewing students to fill five vacancies. Four students will be selected for the advisory council and one for the Academic Council, chief legislative body of the College of Arts and Letters that includes Faculty and Dependent body as well as students.

The first set of interviews were held last weekend and the second set on Wednesday night. A total of 12 students were interviewed of ALAC President Guy Randles and two members from last year will make the decision. There are presently 14 members on the advisory council.

Randles explained that the criteria for selection to the advisory council are the original theoretical and practical ideas the student has to contribute to the council that they will be able to articulate these ideas in a reasonable and persuasive manner. This "clarity of thought is important because members must be able to present these ideas to Department heads and other Quality for acceptance. They must be able to convince the Academic Council of the merit of their ideas.

The advisory council functions as a means for students to review programs and rules in the college. The council gathers information from the students and faculty as well as other universities to use in formulating proposals suggesting new or revised programs. These proposals are then presented to the Academic Council and Arts and Letters Dean Frederick Crosson.

One proposal pending from last year is the pass/fail grading option written under President Neil Rosini. This proposal was accepted by the AL Academic Council and is pending before the Academic Council.

The advisory council functions as the representative body for students in the College of Arts and letters. The general philosophy of the council, according to Randles, is to "liberalize the approach to a liberal education." He wants to give the students more options and alternatives as well as its personal educational objectives. "The days are past when the student can be treated as a child," Randles said.

Overseas winter jobs

Temporary fall and winter jobs are being made available to American students in European factories, restaurants, and ski-resorts, through Student Overseas Services (SOS), an non-profit student organization.

SOS agrees to provide the job working permits, room and board, and travel arrangements, for the students taking advantage of this program. Plans offered for their "voro-as-you-go" trip, include a $300-450 package which consists of "all accommodations, meals, processing, final job placements, basic language instruction, and 60 miles of travel through Luxembourg, France, Germany, and Belgium," plus a round-trip Youth Fare ticket. Also available for $190.00 is all of the above minus the Air-ticket to and from Europe. Working at standard wages, probably will not pay as much as students expect, but SOS guarantees that "a few weeks work earns the lion's share of the trips cost, and a few more weeks earns money for traveling around Europe.

One program that is still in the planning stage is a means to interject a student voice in the tenure considerations of the AL faculty. ALAC wants to find out and explain the tenure procedures so the student has an idea how tenure is given. If the students know the procedures they may be able to exert some influence in tenure decisions.

President Randles hopes to have a productive year but it depends upon the input of the present and new members as well as the support they get from the student body.

by Paul Colgan
Staff Reporter

The Arts and Letters Student Advisory Council (ALAC) has been interviewing students to fill five vacancies. Four students will be selected for the advisory council and one for the Academic Council, chief legislative body of the College of Arts and Letters that includes Faculty and Dependent body as well as students.

The first set of interviews were held last weekend and the second set on Wednesday night. A total of 12 students were interviewed of ALAC President Guy Randles and two members from last year will make the decision. There are presently 14 members on the advisory council.

Randles explained that the criteria for selection to the advisory council are the original theoretical and practical ideas the student has to contribute to the council that they will be able to articulate these ideas in a reasonable and persuasive manner. This "clarity of thought is important because members must be able to present these ideas to Department heads and other Quality for acceptance. They must be able to convince the Academic Council of the merit of their ideas.

The advisory council functions as a means for students to review programs and rules in the college. The council gathers information from the students and faculty as well as other universities to use in formulating proposals suggesting new or revised programs. These proposals are then presented to the Academic Council and Arts and Letters Dean Frederick Crosson.

One proposal pending from last year is the pass/fail grading option written under President Neil Rosini. This proposal was accepted by the AL Academic Council and is pending before the Academic Council.

The advisory council functions as the representative body for students in the College of Arts and letters. The general philosophy of the council, according to Randles, is to "liberalize the approach to a liberal education." He wants to give the students more options and alternatives as well as its personal educational objectives. "The days are past when the student can be treated as a child," Randles said.

Overseas winter jobs

Temporary fall and winter jobs are being made available to American students in European factories, restaurants, and ski-resorts, through Student Overseas Services (SOS), an non-profit student organization.

SOS agrees to provide the job working permits, room and board, and travel arrangements, for the students taking advantage of this program. Plans offered for their "voro-as-you-go" trip, include a $300-450 package which consists of "all accommodations, meals, processing, final job placements, basic language instruction, and 60 miles of travel through Luxembourg, France, Germany, and Belgium," plus a round-trip Youth Fare ticket. Also available for $190.00 is all of the above minus the Air-ticket to and from Europe. Working at standard wages, probably will not pay as much as students expect, but SOS guarantees that "a few weeks work earns the lion's share of the trips cost, and a few more weeks earns money for traveling around Europe.

One program that is still in the planning stage is a means to interject a student voice in the tenure considerations of the AL faculty. ALAC wants to find out and explain the tenure procedures so the student has an idea how tenure is given. If the students know the procedures they may be able to exert some influence in tenure decisions.

President Randles hopes to have a productive year but it depends upon the input of the present and new members as well as the support they get from the student body.

Shakespeare film draws large crowd: causes fire hazard

An overflow crowd at the "Shakespeare Film Series" produced a fire hazard in the Engineering Auditorium Tuesday night. Crosson said that four fire alarms went off and an estimated audience of over 500 for the 7 p.m. performance and over 600 for the 10 p.m. showing.

The first film of the series, A Midsummer Night's Dream, was termed a great success by Paul Rathburn, assistant professor of English and organizer of the series. "It's amazing that over 1000 students would come to see a film of one of Shakespeare's plays," he said.

A problem was caused because students tried to occupy all floor space and other floor space. Also, there was a huge amount of smoking which is a fire hazard according to Rathburn.

Rathburn urges students not to smoke because of the increased danger with such a large crowd. He also hopes that students would be able to stay out of the aisles as much as possible.

"It's unbelievable there is such a big crowd for Shakespeare," Rathburn said, and he hoped it would continue with the next film.

IMPORTANT MEETING

would you like to go

to ROME
PARTY PARIS
ATHENS?

Art historians do it periodically. If you have declared or are contemplating a major in Art History you cannot afford to miss the meeting Thursday, September 27 at 7:30 in the University Art Gallery. Please be there.

Hans Haus

WHAT'S GOD DOING TODAY?

come and see!!

The Catholic Charismatic Renewal

Special Explanation Session - This Thursday, Sept. 27, 7-7:30 p.m., Butler Blvd. behind Holy Cross Hall (ND)

Mass - Zahm Hall Chapel, Tuesday through Friday - 5:15 pm

Prayer Meetings - Holy Cross Hall (ND), Every Thursday 8:30 - 10:00 pm

All Are Welcome!

When your parents are in town, have them stay in South Bend's NEWEST Hotel

Royal Inn

316 S. St. Joseph

Reservations: (219) 282-2511

WEEKEND SPECIALS AVAILABLE

For dining, visit our JOLLY KING RESTAURANT and afterwards hit the "in spot" in town - THE PURPLE JESTER DISCOTHEQUE LOUNGE.

Dancing under psychedelic lights

Open 11 a.m.-6 a.m. Mon.-Sat.
Buchanan says Watergate a 'grievous error'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 — President Nixon's chief political deputy, John D. Ehrlichman, refused to produce President Nixon's secret political memos, testified Wednesday that Nixon's lawyers to be included with official documents protected by executive privilege.

The 18-year-old girl was cleared of sex encounter charges.

Hall and Farley hall.

Buchanan answered. "People in our campaign make a grievous error and then they went and compounded the error and made mistakes and in the process of this thing, conceivably they committed wroungdeings amounting to crimes and illegallities.

"But, Buchanan said, "by and large the sins were of the head and not of the heart" to assure Nixon's re-election.

"I think they've got a right to a fair trial and I don't think I'm in a position to sit up and moralize or pontificate upon their ethics or their morality," he said of those involved.

Buchanan had been subpoenaed to bring along a number of White House political staff memo.

The prosecution accused the two men of arranging for four other than to claim the men were "liar.

The state would be satisfied if you could sentence them to a conviction."

Wallace and Parker had been suspended from the school at full pay pending the outcome of the trial. It was no indication whether they would return to their jobs. Wallace and Parker said the charges were "lies" in Wallace's office.

Wallace, 30, principal at Fairview for the past 17 years, and the 35-year-old Parker were charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Defense Attorney Dave Alexander, talking to the jury of 10 men and two women in low, intimal tones, said there was no reason for the school to procure for the football player.

"What in the name of God is in it for Mr. Parker?" he asked. "What is the motive? Motive, motive—it is always what you lack for in a criminal case."

Alexander called 18-year-old David Blaylock, a key prosecution witness, a "liar." Blaylock, the Fairview High quarterback, testified that Parker arranged for him to meet the girl in an abandoned church and signed slips excusing him from school for the tryout.

FRANKLIN Tenn. UPI - The principal and the football coach of Fairview High School were acquitted Wednesday of charges that they arranged sexual encounters for high school football players.

A circuit court jury took about two hours to find Coach James Parker innocent. Earlier, Judge John W. Heiderscheid directed a verdict of innocent for the principal, W. W. Wallace.

The prosecution accused the two men of arranging for four other than to claim the men were "liar."

The state would be satisfied if you could sentence them to a conviction."

Wallace and Parker had been suspended from the school at full pay pending the outcome of the trial. It was no indication whether they would return to their jobs. Wallace and Parker said the charges were "lies" in Wallace's office.

Wallace, 30, principal at Fairview for the past 17 years, and the 35-year-old Parker were charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Defense Attorney Dave Alexander, talking to the jury of 10 men and two women in low, intimal tones, said there was no reason for the school to procure for the football player.

"What in the name of God is in it for Mr. Parker?" he asked. "What is the motive? Motive, motive—it is always what you lack for in a criminal case."

Alexander called 18-year-old David Blaylock, a key prosecution witness, a "liar." Blaylock, the Fairview High quarterback, testified that Parker arranged for him to meet the girl in an abandoned church and signed slips excusing him from school for the tryout.

But he said they had been moved to the basement of the Executive Office Building on the advice of Nixon's lawyers.
Today last chance to register for chess tourney

Today is the last day to register for the second annual Observer Chess Tournament. All interested students, faculty and staff members can register before the close of the Observer office at 5 p.m. $2 registration fee is charged. The tournament takes place tomorrow night at 7 p.m. The Observer will carry a pairings for the first round in tomorrow's edition.

Square dance this friday

Notre Dame's first 25-cent square dance this Friday night also marks the first time the art department has helped control the field house since its takeover several years ago.

Boris Grossman, chairman of Zabim, Colette Miller, president of Pave, Patrick, president of the Colorado Club collaborated with the Student Affairs office in

Scott to return to Africa

Chicago, New York, or San Francisco?

For Scott and his three children who travelled with him, the adjustment to life in the University town of Baton was too difficult.

The University itself attracted an international constituency into which they were locally assimilated. Village life, on the other hand, was a more shocking experience for them, not because the villages were peculiarly African, but because village life in general is radically different from the city experience most American's relate to. But the Africans have been visited extensively the rural areas of Nigeria observing first-hand the life style of various tribal groups. As a result of their having seen art and architecture, language and structural entities dating back more than 1,000 years, he hopes that his children will have the opportunity to see the myths that Afro American's culture and history.

In relating his experience in Africa to his position at Notre Dame, Dr. Scott would like to impart his newly-acquired knowledge to the symposia and new courses offered by the Black Studies Program. He would especially like to teach a course in comparing the African and New World experiences. A Junior-Year Abroad in Africa is being planned, and Scott has been called upon to give numerous public lectures.

Would he like to go back? He has already promised his colleagues in Nigeria that his children will return within a few months. "My hope," he says, "is that the Rockefeller Foundation at Notre Dame will still be in operation, and that they will be with us during my return trip.

Rome program

A FEW PLACES ARE OPEN FOR SECOND SEMESTER TO NOTRE DAME AND ST. MARY'S STUDENTS

APPLICATIONS MUST BE IN BY OCT. 15 AT THE LATEST

Requirement: Minimum one semester of Italian with B grade. (Language cont. in Rome) At least sophomore status.

Obtain Information from:

Sister Alma, C.S.C.
Co-ordinator of Off-Campus Programs
Rm. 115 LeMans Hall
Saint Mary's Campus

Black Cultural Arts room opens display

by Ken Bradford
Staff Reporter

The Black Cultural Arts room, located on the second floor of the LaFortune Student Center, has opened for student use. On display in the room are books, slides, fact sheets, and other art and literature relating to minority culture.

Lawson said that others were a more ready assimilate. Village life, because the villages were already marked the first time art and culture was introduced to the Brownell.

Six films starting October 3. Also included in the plans are exhibitions, concerts, student forums, and dances.

Lawson added that the program hopes to bring about a "greater awareness of the black community" at Notre Dame. The program is one of seven films starting October 3. Also included in the plans are exhibitions, concerts, student forums, and dances.

Lawson said that "one of the blackness of the age," he means of presenting the black experience on stage, Lawson added.

Today is the last day to register for the chess tourney.

The tournament winner will be awarded a first place trophy and $2 per cent of the entrance fee. The tournament will award the first two and five per cent of the registration fees respectively and trophies. The tournament will run from October 3.

Applications to the Chess Club have been encouraged by the Chess Club to facilitate all players. In addition, those who own chess clocks are asked to bring them. This game will be not be timed by an official clock, all players must complete three moves per hour.

Chess club organizers have noted that they need volunteers to come to the Rathskeller of LaFortune Student Center, where the tournament will be played at 5 p.m. Friday to set up tables. All spectators are welcome to watch the tournament.

The Chess Club also noted that they noticed their weekly gathering in at 7:30 on Wednesdays in room 327 of the Math Building.

CHEERLEADERS begin fund-raising

by Charles Pittinger
Staff Reporter

The cheerleaders will begin their annual fund-raising campaign Thursday night, Sept. 27, at the Student Center Basketball Exhibition one of the co-captains. Since the school offers no financial aid to the group, it is up to them to earn enough to cover the expenses of all activities.

As previous years, Sunnyside Beverage Company has agreed to donate several bags of beer to the Senior Bar, with the stipulation that the other groups and forums will be mixed drink specials.

In addition plans include a movie, The Love Machine, to be shown Friday, Sept. 28, at 7 p.m. in the Engineering Auditorium.

Cheerleaders to return to Africa

Scott is on his second tour to Africa.

Chicago, New York, or San Francisco?

For Scott and his three children who travelled with him, the adjustment to life in the University town of Baton was too difficult.

The University itself attracted an international constituency into which they were locally assimilated. Village life, on the other hand, was a more shocking experience for them, not because the villages were peculiarly African, but because village life in general is radically different from the city experience most American's relate to.

But the Africans have been visited extensively the rural areas of Nigeria observing first-hand the life style of various tribal groups. As a result of their having seen art and architecture, language and structural entities dating back more than 1,000 years, he hopes that his children will have the opportunity to see the myths that Afro American's culture and history.

In relating his experience in Africa to his position at Notre Dame, Dr. Scott would like to impart his newly-acquired knowledge to the symposia and new courses offered by the Black Studies Program. He would especially like to teach a course in comparing the African and New World experiences. An Junior-Year Abroad in Africa is being planned, and Scott has been called upon to give numerous public lectures.

Would he like to go back? He has already promised his colleagues in Nigeria that his children will return within a few months. "My hope," he says, "is that the Rockefeller Foundation at Notre Dame will still be in operation, and that they will be with us during my return trip."
'Kelly's Heroes' shine in opener

by John Fineman

There were several bright spots on Notre Dame's opening 44-0 shutout of Northwestern last Saturday. The most visible, led by linebacker Tom Clements, enjoyed an outstanding day, but it was the defense which gave Clements the excellent field position he enjoyed most of the afternoon.

As every Notre Dame follower knows, defense was a problem in 1972. The front four suffered more than its share of injuries during the campaign, a many in fact, that it necessitated the using of several of Coach George Kelly's linebackers up-front in the area commonly called "the pit." Couple this fact with another one: Notre Dame lost two linebackers—Jim O'Malley and Jim Musuraca—to graduation and then another—Tom Devine. It is easy, therefore, to see why there was concern about the 1973 linebacking crew.

Saturday's shutout has dispelled this concern. With a quick look at after Notre Dame's defensive team, was tackle Mike Northwell's game earned this among the stalwarts of the Irish defense. Mike Farley, a 6-3, 234 pounder to throw five bad passes. He's a solid-long player and very reliable. His greatest asset is his willingness to throw his body at all offensive line and the deep defensive line) and the deep linebackers have a great deal of real estate to cover."

Notre Dame's outstanding

Fanning: lineman of the week

by Jim Dunahue

Last Saturday, Irish football fans witnessed a long awaited event, the return of defensive football at Notre Dame.

Among the stalwarts of the Irish defensive team, was tackle Mike Fanning. His performance in the Northwestern game earned this defensive player award and United Press International's Midwest lineman-of-the-week tribute.

"It seems hard to realize how I could be singled out," he says without false modesty. "I told me that there were always five of our men in the Northwestern backfield all day."

However, Mike is a happier football player this season. After two games last season, Fanning had played his way out of the starting lineup. What explains the sudden turnaround?

"I feel more comfortable at defensive tackle," explains Fanning. "I think Kelly and the coaching staff have made a team effort. I feel comfortable, I can slip blocks, that good quickness and an above-average knowledge of the game."

Against N.U., the 6-6, 254-pounder raked up seven tackles, sacked N.U.'s quarterback twice and twice nailed running backs behind the line of scrimmage. Fanning penetrated the offensive line at will, forcing Mitch Anderson to throw five bad passes. The tremendous pressure of Fanning and company destroyed the timing of Northwestern's offense.

But the 44-0 win over the Cats is history now, and the ND gridirons have to keep at play Saturday's clash at Purdue. The Irish still remember their last visit to West Lafayette. On a rainy day, Northwestern scored 27 points to the Irish 26.

"The only thing we have to worry about is letting down," said Fanning. "It's too easy to become complacent."

However, Fanning and the Irish are looking forward to a successful season. "If we play the way we did in the opener and avoid injuries, we'll do fine," says Mike.

Junior tackle Mike Fanning was named Midwest Lineman of the Week for his outstanding performance against Northwestern.

Two Irish linebackers, Jim Musuraca (47) and Drew Mahalic (45) engulf a Michigan State ball carrier in last year's 19-0 victory. Musuraca has graduated, but Mahalic and a cluster of others are back for the '73 campaign.

"Drew is a combination of the two. He can be physical. He also possesses the quickness being a quarterback in high school, Mahalic is the fastest runner in the team to be a finesse-type backer. And because he has the greatest amount of playing time, Drew is more knowledgeable," Kelly continues.

"The toughest thing for all of them is that they must learn the pass responsibility," Kelly said. "They are expected to play run first, then pass in the secondary, it is just the opposite." They are in the no-man's land between the forcing unit (the defensive line) and the deep contain (the secondary). The linebackers have a great deal of real estate to cover."

Irish booters still winless, downded by Goshen, 2-1

by Hal Manger

The Fighting Irish soccer team dropped a close home match to Goshen Tuesday, 2-1.

The game, originally scheduled to be played under the lights on Cartier's artificial surface was moved to 4 p.m. because of Goshen's conflicts and was heavily attended by boisterous Goshen fans.

Notre Dame kicked off and showed good hustle and determination through most of the first half. They drove well on the nets and made some fine defensive plays.

Nick Gosch, from his goalie spot, made a leaping one-handed block at the left corner of the goal midway through the first forty-five minute frame to keep a shoutout in tact. Mike Farley consistently came up with headers from his fullback spot that thwarted Goshen's charges.

At about ten minutes into the second half, Goshen scored its first goal. They shot at goal amongst many ND and Goshen players. Nick Gosch battled it away but was knocked down in the scamp. Phil Hens kicked in the point. The second Goshen goal was scored four minutes later by Fred Driver. With twenty minutes left in the game, a Notre Dame direct kick hit the right upright of the goal and bounced wide. Two minutes later the Goshen goalkeeper made a spectacular save at the corner of the goal to keep the score at 2-0.

The Irish kept kicking at the Goshen goal but to no avail. Zimmer feels his squad is improving the second term as a game "encouraging" and said, "we're much improved. But the team must move the ball faster and make the shots at goal."

The Irish will look for their first win at Purdue-Calumet Saturday.