HPC discusses student lottery

by Jim Edor

The Hall Presidents Council last night decided to invite Vice President of Student Affairs, Fr. James F. Cavanaugh, to the Provost's Office to discuss the proposed campus lottery. The meeting, held at the Continuing Education Center, lasted two hours and was divided equally between the two topics.

Faculty discuss salary problems

Kurt Heinz
Staff Reporter

The Faculty Senate spent nearly an hour discussing the problem of forcing students off campus last night.

The solution is not simply to hope that a number of students will move voluntarily and that the rest will go quietly once they are forced.

HPC Chairman Pat McLaughlin pointed out, however, that most of the hall presidents did not want to be responsible for forcing students off campus and would prefer to have University administrators make party to this. Phil Byrne, president of Alumni, disagreed. Byrne said that he is happy to get the problem off his chest.

The Finance Committee has agreed to discuss the problem with the administration. Byrne said that the HPC looks into the procedures being used by the administration in admitting freshmen to the University.

The problem is that the university system is too large to be aware of every incident of misconduct.

Washington--Vice President Gerald B. Ford said Tuesday that President Nixon offered to give him information which proved that he possessed no previous knowledge of the Watergate break-in or the later cover-up attempts. Ford told a news conference that the offer was made during a long meeting he had with Nixon Monday, but that he had not yet got around to reading the information.

The vice president said: "I spent time talking to the President about Watergate yesterday and [I] know from our conversation that the President had no prior knowledge of the Watergate break-in or had any part in the veerup.

Washington--Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler responding Tuesday to a fresh round of congressional demands that President Nixon resign rather than face impeachment, restated the Chief Executive's determination to finish his term. He said the President will stay the course because "He knows he has not been involved in any wrongdoing" in the Watergate incident. During his rare appearance at the White House morning news briefing, Ziegler sidestepped most of the questions he was asked about the tapes, but he stressed that Nixon was ignorant of how the 18 1/2-minute gap occurred in a critically important tape. He added that the President does not believe the damage was done deliberately.

Washington--The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said Tuesday that consumer prices shot up 8.8 per cent last year, which means that the nation's inflation rate in 1973 was the severest since price controls were abolished after World War II. The rise in prices was greater than in the previous two years combined, when the administration's price controls were at their firmest. The government said that higher food prices accounted for half the hike and fuels another 20 per cent.

Gulf Oil to purchase circus shows

Pittsburgh (UPI)--Gulf Oil Corporation said Tuesday that one of its subsidiaries, Venture Out in America, Inc., had tentatively agreed to purchase Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows, Inc. from Mattel, Inc. for an undisclosed price.

"Completion of the transaction is subject to several conditions, among them approval of Gulf's board of directors," said a Gulf spokesman. The spokesman said a letter of intent signed by Venture Out included the purchase of Circus World Development now under construction near Orlando, Fla.

SMC menu to improve

The recent $13,000 allotment to Saga Foods from St. Mary's will enable the food service to return to a menu selection similar to last year's, according to Saga.

Most of the money will go towards more meat entrees. There will be unlimited seconds on all choices except steaks served on Saturdays.

Breakfast changes include scrambled eggs and meat three times a week.

"Completion of the transaction is subject to several conditions, among them approval of Gulf's board of directors," said a Gulf spokesman. The spokesman said a letter of intent signed by Venture Out included the purchase of Circus World Development now under construction near Orlando, Fla.

"ONce a week we also plan to have a Monotony Breaker," said Novak. "This will be barrels of shops and dip at the doors." Saga expects to hold large dinners monthly. The first of these is scheduled for February 14, Valentine's Day.

Dr. Edward L. Henry proposed the $13,000 allocation to the Finance Committee of the Board of Regents after a discussion in the advisory council. Dr. Henry said he noticed a number of complaints about the food last fall. This $13,000 will supplement Saga's contract until next fall.

"With the 18 per cent increase in food prices, the quality of food services all over the country has reduced," Henry stated. He believes that with the present allocation the St. Mary's food service's quality will remain high.

Co-exchange dinner tickets are still available. The only exception is Saturday steak night.

New campus apartments to open next school year
by Valerie Zurbis
Campus View, a new apartment building, will be available next September for Notre Dame off-campus students. Located just north of Turtle Creek, the apartments will consist of 96 units: 72 two-bedroom apartments and 24 one-bedroom apartments.

Fisher Sisters, developers of off-campus residence, said construction will probably start in April and should be completed during the summer.

The Campus View apartments are privately owned by Mr. Wilson of the Crestwood Management Company. They are also their own contractors, developers, and managers of the property.

"This project is geared directly to Notre Dame students," commented Mr. Fisher, assistant to Wilson. In addition to a swimming pool and community building, the campus residence will contain the activities the students request, such as pool tables, ping pong tables, and jogging paths.

When rental rates are established, the Crestwood Company will come to the campus with pictures of the room layouts and furnishings.

When will tickets go on sale for Marcel Marceau and when can I purchase them?
Marcel Marceau will be appearing at O'Laughlin Auditorium on Feb. 19 at 8 p.m. for one performance only, which without a doubt should be quite a performance. Ticket sales for Patron Card Holders will begin at 10 a.m. on Jan. 30 at the CAC Office which is located on the 3rd floor of the LaFortune Student Center. Patron Card Holders will then have first shots at tickets for a period of three days, Jan. 30-31, between the hours of 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. General ticket sales will begin on Feb. 1 at the same office during the hours of 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Tickets will remain on sale until all are sold which shouldn't take very long.

I applied for a summer job through the Placement Service here on campus last October. Up until now, I haven't heard hide nor hair from them. Can you find out if I am going to get a job offer?
We checked with the Placement Bureau and found that the alumni clubs, not so much the Bureau, is responsible for finding the jobs needed. The process is a simple one. The placement Bureau collects job requests and then sends them out to the designated areas which the students make note of on their application form. It is then up to the local alumni club to see what they can do about contacting employers in the area, who in turn if in need of help write the student. According to the Placement Bureau, since you applied early, you should have a good shot at getting a job. However, it should be noted that the economy is running into trouble and this could mean a shrinking job market for this summer.

When will the first issue of the Scholastic be out and will it be the football review issue?
The first publication of the Scholastic will be available a week from Friday, Jan. 1, and I do not know when our last issue will be. Yes, the two halls in question will have a Spring Formal on March 30 in the Monroe Room. Members of the girl's dorms on the North Quad will be included if the situation allows. For further information, you can contact Chris Athul in 311 BADIN at 6618.

The Ombudsman Service has officially resumed operations for the Spring Semester. Our hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. If you have any question, problem, or complaint feel free to call the Ombudsman at 7246. Action Express is the last way by which the Ombudsman Service hopes to serve the students.

President intends to stay
by Helen Thomas
Washington (UPI)-Faced with increased demands from Congress and citizens that President Nixon be impeached, the White House Thursday reiterated the President's intention to finish his second term.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon will remain in office until 1976 because "he knows he has not been involved in any wrongdoing" in the Watergate scandal.

The President reacted through his spokesman to a new round of demands that he resign rather than face impeachment.
A number of congressional Democrats, just back from a month's vacation and sounding out their constituents, called for the President to quit rather than subject the nation to the divisiveness of impeachment proceedings.

Rep. George Danielson, (CALIF., a member of the House Judiciary Committee which is studying possible impeachment, said the President should step down now. "I think he should and I do think he will." Nixon, if not sooner than halfway through the impeachment hearings, Danielson said. "When he realizes the strength of evidence and almost total disaffection of the people with him, it might bring about a spontaneous resignation."

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said: "He's got to be impeached." But Meany denied his organization has launched a deliberate campaign against the President. The nation, according to a new opinion poll, was evenly divided whether Nixon should resign. A Gallup poll showed 46 percent said yes and 46 no on that question.

Ziegler, who has delegated press briefings to his assistant for the past several months, came out subdue but fighting Tuesday to defend his chief and express his feelings: "We're going to be on the record as much as we can," he told reporters. Nixon, he said, had more or less abandoned answering the "constant, constant, constant, unsupported charges" against him and in the exercise of proving the "negative." Nixon's determination, he said, is based on the fact that he has not been involved in any of the Watergate coverup of related activities-"that prompts him more than anything else."

Earlier, White House sources conceded that the President agrees with congressional leaders that the sooner the House Judiciary Committee completes its impeachment inquiry the better.

It's That Time
The Numbers Game

The decision by the University to organize a campus-wide lottery is perhaps the fairest way possible to handle the situation at hand. It will hopefully force all students to work fairly. Another definite advantage of the decision is its timing. At least the early notice will give the student the chance to know what their status is.

But the mere fact that a lottery must be held indicates something terribly wrong with the system at Notre Dame. A lottery cannot become an annual affair at a university which advertises itself as a residential school. That statement is no longer altogether true because not everyone has the free choice to spend four years on campus here. And the University should accept the responsibility to inform those new students coming here that after a couple years’ here, they may be facing a housing crisis.

The problems seem to be in admissions rights and the annual computations of the University Priorities Committee will solve the problem. Look at the figures.

But that does not mean that the problem must be tackled now and the priorities committee recommendation should become rule now because the University community cannot tolerate this annual campaign for students. Further, one issue that cannot be ignored any longer is the fate of the students forced off-campus by the lack of beds in the dorms. The Central Staff must acknowledge the fact that most of the students who have been or are going to leave campus this year, have been lured to Notre Dame during a period when the stay hall system was being advertised as one of the University's major qualities; everyone has the free choice to spend four years on campus here. And the landlords know that Notre Dame is putting the students over the barrel, and they will continue to gouge prices until the University does something about it.

The action needed must be quick, decisive and for protection landlords who are being forced off-campus should come under University jurisdiction.

The University should also look into the possibilities of bringing legal action against blacklisted landlords if they insist on gouging in an area where they basically corner the market. The landlords who have been forced off-campus, if blacklisted landlords, and they would lower rents and make promised and needed repairs to stay off the blacklist.

But if the Central Staff won't take forceful action against gougers and rip-off artists who masquerade as landlords, the students who are being forced off-campus know why no action is being taken: Notre Dame is one of the few campuses in the country having to take the problem of the students who are being forced off-campus. Notre Dame dorms also go empty when students find an enjoyable off-campus life.

The necessary actions are obvious. The University must lower the enrollment and protect and aid the off-campus student.

Unfair, Father

dear Editor,

Concerning the letter written in the editorial columns of The Observer on 1-27-74 by Fr. Lally, we would like to get a few things straight that have been grossly misconstrued and misinterpreted. He implied that we, in the lower part of section 7, leveled obnoxious obscenities at O’Halloran. Nothing could be further from the truth. No one has more respect for the Deans, faculty and gentlemen than we do. Not enough can be said of his outstanding service. As a means of repair, on the Friday night before the game, most of the undersigned travelled to the Ramada Inn for the sole purpose of meeting John Wooden, and capturing a glimpse of the great players of U.C.L.A. During our fortunate encounter we congratulated him on his achievements and proceeded to wish him the best of luck on the court. As we shook his hand, we were told that the team had not lost a game against them, to which he replied, “That’s the way it should be.”

There were certain inequities directed toward the cagers during the course of the game by ourselves and other sections. This was unfortunate, but we feel our retroteak. Facing the ugly facts, this does occur during games, but that does not make it excusable, and we apologize to anyone that might have been offended by them.

We can only speak for our own section since it was the focus of Fr. Lally’s attack, but we feel our attitudes are certainly not exceptional. Perhaps the University should present his unfair manner of accusations.

By the way, we don’t need to go to the county jail to watch the cockroach races, they are appreciated in our overcrowded dorms.

Sincerely,

You’re Dammed, Irish

Dear Editor:

You people should be ashamed of yourselves. At a time when the country is experiencing its greatest misfortune of the desire to win, we have the spectacle of the Notre Dame spirit on nationwide TV. Symbolic of this Lord of the Rings phenomenon is the cheerleaders running onto the court to shout hatred at a UCLA basketball player. I couldn’t believe my eyes.

Counter to this was Bill Walton helping a Notre Dame player get up after a fall. He gave you all a lesson in integrity, yet you doubt if any of you learned a damned thing. What apalls me most is the hypocrisy here. It is not an integral part of what should be a university spirit that would allow us the man who aspired to make the team that one of the players on the court be held.

I remind you of some words of wisdom from the Holy Bible: “What would it profit a man if he gained the whole world, but suffered the loss of his immortal soul?”

May it be easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a Notre Dame fan to enter the kingdom of God.

Sincerely,

Robert E. Gordon
Vice President for Advanced Studies

Editor’s Note: Our managing editor is a native of the South and currently living in Dallas. He informs us that Mr. Gordon doesn’t know what he’s talking ‘bout. As a contradiction of “you all,” “all” has no more significance than “you.” We appreciate our correspondents, but we know what we’re talkin’ ‘bout.

Drawing Class

Dear Editor:

Those of us who use the Southern dialect object to your misspelling of Y’awl in the Editorial entitled, “Y’all Come.” Our objection is based on the fact that we are to see the incorporation of such a word by the editors. We object to Y’awl in Webster’s unabridged (parallel with the action on ain’t), because it has never, and will never, appear on the part of all users. We can only conclude that you have been influenced by that mighty ignorant folk.

We’ll preciate yore yelp.

Oil executives claim no extra profits

by William Clayton
Washington (UPI)-Oil company executives told skeptical senators Tuesday that the oil industry is not making any profit bonanza from the energy crisis despite record earnings last year that soared as high as 60 per cent over 1972.

The testimony at the Senate Petroleum Investigating Sub-committee's second day of hearing drew out two statements from Secretary of Energy M. Jackson, D-Wash., the chairman, that the industry's own figures for

Kissinger told reporters he believed the embargo--the primary company profits by holding up a chart showing industry-supplied months of 1973, compared to the same period the year before.

William H. Rehnquist, associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, will head a distinguished panel of jurists presiding at the final argument of the Moot Court competition sponsored by the Notre Dame Law School. The annual argument commenced at 3:30 p.m. in the Memorial Library Auditorium on Saturday, January 26, and is open to the general public.

Joining Rehnquist on the bench for the final argument will be the Honorable C. William O'Neill, former Governor of Ohio and presently the chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, and Circuit Judge John R. Briscoe of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit at Fargo, North Dakota.

All law students at Notre Dame engage in two rounds of appellate arguments before a panel of judges composed of Notre Dame faculty, advanced students and local attorneys. After having successfully completed the second-round of arguments, the participants who attained the highest rankings are invited to argue in a semifinal elimination round. Winners of this advanced competition take part in the National Moot Court Competition and also get to appear in the Notre Dame Moot Court Argument.

The four third-year Law School students participating in this year’s finals are Norum, Leonum of Indianapolis, George McCarthy of Oswego, New York, Robert Halliday of Silver Spring, Maryland, and Thomas Paquin of S. Yarmouth, Massachusetts.

They will debate a hypothetical case involving a new community housing addition which is denied because of the lack of adequate water and sewer systems. A suit is then filed in a District Court resulting in a judgment, which is favorable to the city before the United States Court of Appeals reverses the decision. Halliday and Paquin will be the counselors for the imaginary community, while the counselors for the respondents will be taken by Leonum and McCarthy.

The quality of each of the four participants’ oral arguments will be judged by the visiting jurists and the students with the highest scores are named to receive the Dean’s Award. This award was established in 1960 by former Dean, Clarence Marion. A. Harold Weber, a 1922 Graduate of the school, presents cash awards to the winners.

The man responsible for bringing Justice Rehnquist to Notre Dame is Dr. Francis X. Beytagh, a professor of Law, who also is the faculty advisor for the Moot Court Competition. Beytagh was also responsible for bringing former Chief Justice Earl Warren to the Notre Dame Campus.

"I worked in the Justice Department for a long time. When I did and I got to know him. I just asked him if he would like to come out and preside over the Moot court final arguments," said Beytagh.

Earlier that Saturday at 3:30 P.M., the Student Bar Association is sponsoring a conversation with Rehnquist that will take place in the Student Lounge of the Law School. This conversation was set up by Chuck Nau, a third year Law Student who is also Lecturer Chairman of the Student Bar Association.

Nau wished to emphasize that this conversation is open to both law students and undergraduates. "In the past, these lectures were only open to law students," commented Nau. "But many Law Seminar classes are going to this conversation so the decision was made to open the program up to the entire student body."

This move was also made to promote student interest, because Nau thinks that "many people feel removed from their government, especially the judicial branch. This opportunity is unique in that it gives students a chance to see a person who is instrumental in making decisions in such vital national issues as social reform."

Rehnquist follows George McGovern as the second speaker of national prominence to visit Notre Dame this academic year. McGovern's visit was termed an "overwhelming success." Although he does not expect that response that McGovern received, Nau is hoping for a good turnout. "McGovern became a common name in American households because he ran for President, and was in the National Spotlight. Although Rehnquist is not as well known as McGovern, his position in American Government is an important one and should merit the attention of the Student Body."

Man testifies in Henley's defense

Houston, Texas — A young man testifying Tuesday that second murderer Elmer Wayne Henley saved him from being raped last summer by shooting to death the purported mastermind of a sex and torture murder ring that had claimed 27 lives.

The young man, Timothy Kerley, 26, said in a pre-trial hearing that Dean Corll, 33, the leader of the ring, handcuffed him to a board face down, then argued with Henley and dared Henley, "Kill me, Wayne; kill me, Wayne."

Kerley said Henley, 17, then shot Corll at point blank range to prevent Corll from raping him.

The slaying ended the murder ring's killings at 27, all boys, Henley is charged with six of the deaths and an associate, David Owen Brooks, 18, is accused of four others that took place over a three-year period. Corll was killed last August 8 in a glue-sniffing party that became a sex orgy.

Kerley said the fatal argument between Henley and Corll began when Henley spoke up.

Nixon to remain in office

Although a current was running for Nixon's resignation, strong voices sounded against such action, even from the Democratic party.

Senate Democratid Leader Mike Mansfield refused to join calls for Nixon's resignation.

"I don't think he should resign," Mansfield said. "The President should accept any Watergate wrongdoing."

"I don't think the President would be very wise to resign," Ford said. "It would be wrong to do so, especially if I believe he is not guilty of any wrongdoing and will be exonerated."

ACAPULCO!

EVERYONE INTERESTED IN THE SPRING TRIP TO ACAPULCO, INCLUDING THOSE WHO HAVE ALREADY PAID THE DEPOSIT-GO TO THE MEETING WEDNESDAY, JAN 23 AT 7:00PM IN LAFORTUNE'S FIESTA LOUNGE

Attendance is mandatory! Details of the trip will be discussed.
Students at Notre Dame have entered yet another courtroom in a continuing Law School program of emphasizing the educational value of actual professional experience. The program is sponsored by the State's Courts of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit in Chicago, just one level below U.S. Supreme Court action.

With the encouragement of Chief Judge Luther M. Swygert, two students have appeared before the Court to present oral arguments, a function usually reserved to practicing attorneys. The Chicago jurist and Notre Dame graduate sees a healthy future for the program, which is designed both to help the Court with its load and to give the participating students valuable experience in appellate litigation.

Two Notre Dame professors with extensive experience in appellate work, Assistant Dean Leslie G. Foschio and Francis X. Beytagh, are appointed by the Court to represent indigent defendants in cases pending on appeal. Each case is then assigned to teams of students in the appellate practice program who then correspond with the client, research the law, prepare briefs and motions, and make certain that all filings conform to proper appellate procedures.

Foschio and Beytagh exercise a supervisory role once a case has been assigned to students. They consult with the students and approve the briefs in their final form, but the student determines the approach to be taken much the same as he would in actual practice. In some cases they have recommended that the appeals be dropped because of the absence of sound arguments.

Appeals come in two forms, direct appeals from lower Federal Court convictions and post-conviction relief sought in Federal Courts by state prisoners. Notre Dame students have been involved in a variety of cases, including questions of conspiracy, theft from interstate commerce, attempted escape, illegal transportation of aliens, counterfeiting, illegal search and seizures, and violation of civil rights.

Participating students agree with veteran members of the law profession who believe that appellate work is a good training area for a legal career. Appeals are instituted because somebody has allegedly made a mistake and efforts to mitigate that error tend to assure that the student will not make a similar mistake in handling cases at the trial level. The first Notre Dame student to see a case through the Appellate Court was a practicing attorney in Kansas City by the time it was scheduled for hearing. Philip Cardarella, a 1973 graduate, returned to the Chicago courtroom last October to present final arguments in a case that had a beginning in his senior year. A decision in a second case argued by a current senior, Thomas Paquin of Boston, is pending.

Appellate advocacy is only one of several areas of practical training in which Notre Dame Law School students participate. They have engaged in regular Practice Court activities in the South Bend area for more than a quarter of a century, and Moot Court competition goes back even farther. Some students perform a wide range of legal activities in the offices of county attorneys across northern Indiana and southern Michigan. Others engage in the annual client-counseling competition which will have its national finals on the Notre Dame campus this year.

Rehabilitation Task Force to meet at SMC this Wednesday

St. Mary's will be site of the northern Indiana Juvenile Corrections-Rehabilitation Task Force Monday, January 23. Region I includes the counties of Elkhart, St. Joseph, Jasper, Kosciusko, Lake, La Porte, Marshall, Newton, Porter, Pulaski, Starke, and St. Joseph, shared by Patrick Gallagher, director of public safety, South Bend, and Michael F. Hancock, juvenile court and corrections coordinator, Lake County coordination council.

The group will study programs funded by the State Department of Corrections to determine duplication and to develop better coordination, cooperation and balancing between the state and the local community-based programs. The concern of the Region I group is to develop a heightened awareness of those involved in the state and at the local level.

Guest speaker of the day will be Jim Brown, coordinator of the Governor's Region II Community Corrections Committee from Allen County.

The agenda will include the examination of criminal justice programs in the Region I area of juveniles and courts, which are successful and can be duplicated in other parts of the state. The Task Force previously examined the Saint Mary's Parent-Child Program.

"We realize that this is the type of concerned activity that is not only helping a number of young people, but offers to us model programs for use in other areas of the state," said Patrick Gallagher.

The professionals attending this Region I meeting will be police officers, probation officers, parole officers, educators who are associated with criminal justice planning agencies, persons working in juvenile delinquency prevention and corrections programs. Local participants will include Carrington, chief probation officer, St. Joseph County; Dr. Eugene Campanile, chairperson, department of education, St. Mary; Cappy Gagnon, executive director, Youth Services Bureau; Michael Oyer, chief probation officer, Elkhart Superior Court; John Sherburn, Family and Children's Center, Mishawaka.

Shu's rebound saves Irish, 76-74

by Greg Cergan

Digger Phelps may have gotten a little more excitement than he bargained for—alas a little more than he hoped for. Playing in-inspired basketball, the Kansas Jayhawks almost pulled off the second biggest upset of the college season last night in dropping a ciffhanger to Notre Dame 76-74. In a context marked by more fouls than a Nolan Ryan baseball game, the Irish were nearly done in by a second-stringer who prior to the night’s action had averaged a mere seven points a game. Rick Suttle came off the bench to score 27 points, 15 of those in the near-disastrous second half before an Adrian Dantley layup, a John Steward's 3-pointer and a Rick Fitzpatrick jumper made the margin four. Suttle again capped a jumper shotting the Irish lead to 64-61 with 8½ left to play. A hook shot by Adrian Dantley, however, and two medium jumps by John Finneran seemed to make things comfortable again at 69-63. Both teams traded field goals before the Jayhawks raced back with five straight points starting with a 3. A John Shumate free throw. This cut the ND lead to 72-68 with four minutes remaining.

Shu was then fouled and retired ends of the one and one. Danny Knight then hit a baseline jumper making it 74-69, and after a Jayhawk free shot Knight, at the gift line, hit a 6-footer to bring ND within two with 2:10 left to play. At this point the Irish went into their stall, their "square offense" as it is called, and Dantley eventually went in for an easy layup making it 76-72 with 39 seconds left to play. Kansas coach Ted Owens quickly called a timeout and when play resumed Suttle hit his 26th and 27th points of the night. This made the score 76-74 and it stayed that way as the Irish held onto their lead, the remaining 30 seconds and captured their eleventh win without a loss. KY is now 11-1. Notre Dame also had some trouble with the fired-up Jayhawks in the opening period as they found the KU 3-2 zone hard to crack. However, a jumper by Clay followed by four consecutive points from Gary Kwok put them up by ten, 18-8 in nine minutes left to play in the half. The Irish extended their lead to 14 at intermission, but that was the last of the lead as the Jayhawks staged their second half surge.

Suttle was the high scorer with 22 of his 30 points. Ed Graham ended first in the Notre Dame relay and helm since he became their first in 1970. He handled each team easily last year. The Irish increased their lead to 14 at intermission, but that was the last of the lead as the Jayhawks staged their second half surge.

Icier at home tonight:

meet CCHA's Bowling Green

By John Finneran

Irish hockey fans won't have to wait until Fri-day to see the Notre Dame club in action. Tonight the Irish will begin their brief respire from the NCAA as they entertain Bowling Green in the first game of a home-and-home series with the CCHA club. The two teams will meet again Friday evening on the Falcons' home ice.

The Falcons will bring a three-game winning streak and a 12-13 record into the A.C.C. at 7:30 p.m. This weekend, last weekend, Falcon head coach Ron Mason, in his first year at the school, saw his charges skate off with wins over Colgate 13-11 and Lake Forest 15-4 and 6-4. "Bowling Green has a fine hockey team," Notre Dame's Lefty Smith said. "And, of course, our series with them is important because they are making a serious bid for consideration in the NCAA tournament."

Bowling Green also holds a slight 3-2-1 edge in its series with the Irish. Last season, the two games were as different as night and day. Notre Dame lost at Bowling Green, 9-5, before returning home to rout the Falcons, 9-3. Junior center Bob Dobek leads the Falcon attack. His 29 goals and 38 points are team highs, and the latter mark is within 10 points of the all-time Falcon scoring mark for a season. Already this season, Dobek has scored four hat tricks, two of the four costs of game. Dobek's closest pursers for team honors are sophomore center John Stewart and right wing Mike Bartley. Stewart has scored 19 goals and 26 points while senior captain Bartley has scored 18 and 43. Bartley also achieved the rare 200-point plateau four games ago and needs one more assist to join an even-rarer group; those with 100 goals and 200 assists.

The rugged Bowling Green defense is not noted for its high-scoring frequency. Roger Archer, Al Letch and Kevin MacDonald have scored on goal apiece are 15, and 13 points respectively, but each has accumulated 40 or more penalty minutes, with MacDonald's 82 the team's high. Two freshmen, Al Sarachman and Mike Liut, lend goal, and Sarachman is expected to receive the nod tonight from his coach to start against the Irish.

Although the series will not do anything for Notre Dame in the NCAA standings, Smith hopes the Irish can iron out their defensive deficiencies as they prepare for the league's stretch run.

As a result, Smith can be expected to go with his regular lines and blueline pairings. That means Bill Nyrop will start for center man, and either Mike Bumbacco or Pat Conroy will center for Ray De Lorenzi and Larry Israelsen and either Mike Tardani Mark Kronholm, Don Smith will back up left wing.

Both games can be heard over local radio outlets. WNDU (Campus) will broadcast tonight's game and WNDU (1960) will carry both, with Friday's match also scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. start.

In this week's college hockey poll, Michigan Tech remained in first despite its split with the Irish last weekend:

1. Michigan Tech (13) (16-7-1) 70
2. Minnesota (13) (11-7-0) 64
