Brother Just to fill vacancy

Faccenda resigns to Trustees

by Butch Ward and Terry Keehey

Meeting on campus Friday, the University Board of Trustees approved the resignation of Brother Just Paczesny as Associate Director of Student Academic Affairs. Paczesny, who served as rector of Alumni Hall for two years as Vice President for Student Affairs Philip Faccenda and appointed Brother Just Paczesny C.S.C., as Faccenda's assistant. Paczesny, who served as rector of Alumni Hall this year, will assume his duties as vice president on June 1. His appointment comes at the recommendation of University President Fr. Theodore Hesburgh.

In one other action, the Board of Trustees approved a $250,000 plan to renovate LaFortune Student Center. It also rejected a proposal to the University bylaws. The Faculty Senate that would permit the election of a University President under the Indiana University of the Holy Cross Fathers.

The Trustees referred the report of the Committee on University Priorities (COUP) to committees for consideration and implementation of specific proposals.

The plan for renovation of LaFortune renovation is the plan prepared by the student LaFortune Renovation Committee in conjunction with the Offices of Student Affairs and Business Affairs.

The Trustees also approved the conversion of the Student Agencies Building, which was previously occupied by the Student Government. The construction of dining facilities for the "Jr. suite" below the current serving counter and above the pool room.

The moving of student media offices (The Observer, the Scholastic, and the Dome) to the third floor, the conversion of the Finta Lounge into office space for Student Union.

The conversion of a "Commons Room" for advanced students.

Dr. James Frick, vice president for public relations and marketing, noted that the Trustees wanted to approve only a limited proposal for LaFortune renovation.

They were proceeded with caution because of the tremendous money involved," said Frick. He noted that Trustees may continue with future renovation plans if the approved proposals prove effective.

The Board is willing to do whatever is prudent to do make LaFortune a useful, habitable facility," he said.

Plans for LaFortune renovation are scheduled to begin immediately under the authority of the Office of Business Affairs.

The Board of Trustees reviewed every aspect of the COUP report. They considered the specifics of the report to the various committees of the Trustees.

"Not extensive time could be given to the COUP report in the time allotted," explained Frick. "The Trustees felt they need to consider it.

The Trustees voted to reject the amendment as proposed by the Faculty Senate to open the office of president to individuals outside the Holy Cross priors' community.

They recommended that the by-laws to the University, as they presently exist, be retained, and that recommendation will go to the Fellows of the University.

Final decision on this proposal rests with the Fellows of the University.

Faccenda said that he accepted the position last spring on the condition that he would step down pending the location of a suitable replacement, will retain his position as General Counsel to the University.

Both Brother Just and Father Hesburgh expressed their praise for Faccenda with the Trustees with Brother Just citing his intention to continue the work already begun by the departing Vice President.

Hesburgh added in his recommendation of the present rector of Alumni Hall for the Student Affairs position that he was confident of Brother Just's ability to give student affairs "the leadership it constantly needs."

No announcement was made concerning changes to be made in either the present Central Staff or the present Central Office. However, Brother Just said that those changes will be announced as of June 1.

The South Bend native and 1949 alumnus of Notre Dame returned to the campus last summer to join Faccenda's two-year effort to create a residence hall in the Student Services head spot. He cited an image distinction as one of the main challenges facing his office.

"We must make it clear that the whole of Student Affairs is not centered in the Dean of Students Office," he said. "It is important for all the departments within the Central Staff to form a distinguishable identity."

Brother Just announced the present formulation of a Student Handbook that will include not only rules and regulations, but also sections devoted to the "how-to's" of student life. He reassured the purpose of the student affairs office as being one of devotion to the students of Notre Dame.

"It is our responsibility to make sure that the students are well informed. We will make sure that students have all the tools they need to succeed," said Frick.

Another important concern of his office will be the improvement of personal contact between himself and those who serve on hall staffs. This concern, which grew during the Faccenda administration, was cited as integral by the new Vice President if Halls are to gain a collective identity.

Brother Just began his teaching career at Holy Trinity High School in Chicago and since that time has served as principal at Reitz Memorial in Evansville, Ind., Holy Trinity, and most recently at Marquette High, Michigan City just prior to his arrival at Notre Dame.

He also served for nine years as Religious Superior for the Brothers of Holy Cross, and for three years as the Assistant Superintendent of the Archdiocesan School system in Chicago.

Academic Council to hear ammendments

by Fred Gravely

Academic Council led by Christopher Nedeleo.

The purpose of the open hearing was to discuss and decide which of the proposed amendments to the academic Code compiled by University Provost Fr. Burtchaell and the College Deans would be officially presented to the Academic Council on Monday. Proposals rejected today by the College Deans can be brought up as amendments at the full Council meeting.

In addition to the requirements for honors, this amendment Monday to give students six class days to decide on additions and deletions in course schedules. Students representatives will oppose this, with a proposal to lengthen the period to seven days.

Deans rejected the proposal to the Academic Council which states that no cuts are allowed on the class days immediately before and after vacation breaks.

Two amendments were proposed to the Academic Council which states that the classes must be held in the College of Arts and Letters Science to 18 hours. The Academic Code proposed by Fr. Burtchaell and the College Deans now states that students must pay extra for a full hour over a prescribed course load of seven.

Dean Crossen will present the opposition to the proposal in an effort to avoid a "Commons Room" for advanced students who so request may be exempt from the final." This would eliminate the requirement that a senior must have a "B" average to be exempt from on final and leaves it up to the discretion of the professor.

Policy concerning the academic Code were discussed at an open meeting yesterday by members of the Academic Council Executive Committee, the Academic Council, and student representatives to the Academic Council led by Christopher Nedeleo.

Eight honorary degrees

Park chosen commencement speaker

Dr. Rosemary Park, professor of education at the University of California Los Angeles (UCLA) and former president of Barnard College in New York, will be the speaker at the 129th Commencement Exercises next Sun- day (May 18) at the University of Notre Dame.

Dr. Park, who has been a trustee of Notre Dame since 1971, will also be receiving a doctor of laws degree. She received her BS and AM degrees from Radcliffe College and her PhD from the University of Cologne, Germany. She then joined the faculty of Connecticut College, where she eventually served as president from 1947-1962. She was president of Barnard College and dean in Columbia University from 1963 to 1967 and served as vice-chancellor for educational programs and planning at UCLA from 1967 to 1976, when she returned to teaching.

Six others will be receiving honorary degrees. There are:

- Dr. Richard D. Braver, professor emeritus of mathematics at Harvard University.
- Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, president of the Metropolitan Applied Research Center in New York City and professor of psychology of the City College of the City University of New York.
- Patrick K. Haggerty, chairman of the board of Texas Instruments, Inc., Dallas, Texas.
- Dr. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross, international consultant in the care of dying patients and their families.
- Dr. Kenneth Park, professor emeritus of mathematics at Harvard University.

The move comes as a result of the disappointing warehouse storage site for storage pick-up, the Student Union has not broken even financially.

"Eight now we stand to lose $5,000 or $6,000," said Golden. "If we lose money on this thing, it’s going to come out of Student Union funds for next year," he warned.

Golden cited the problems associated with the Student Union storage. He noted that for the first time, student storage is under the authority of Student Union, unlike previous years when the Senior class took the responsibility.

Also this year for the first time, the Fieldhouse is unavailable for storage.

"We didn’t have the Fieldhouse this year," Golden said. "Not even two weeks ago we got the place for storage downtown.

Golden, who along with student Union Director Pat Burke and Associate Director Ray Cary, is running the summer storage, wanted to thank Arthur Pearse, Fr. Riehle, the HPU and the Com- buddah service.

"These individuals and organizations were really important and I’d like to thank them publicly," Golden said.

Student Union storage pickup will continue through Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at sites behind the Bookstore and between Keenan and St. Edward’s Halls.

New business dean named

Dr. Yusaku Furuhashi, chair- man of the department of marketing at Notre Dame, has been named acting dean of the College of Business Ad- ministration.

Dr. Furuhashi, who joined the Notre Dame faculty in 1961, will serve while a search committee continues its search for a replacement for Dean Thomas T. Park.

Philosophy professor chosen to receive the 1974 Sheedy Award

Prof. Michael Louis of the philosophy department has been named to receive the Sheedy Award for Excellence in Teaching for 1974. He was chosen by student- faculty committee at the College of Arts and Letters. Prof. Louis had taught at Notre Dame for six years and took his PhD from the University of Chicago in 1968. His main fields of teaching and scholarship are in metaphysics, the philosophy of logic and the history of philosophy.

The Course Evaluation booklet recently stated that "no one who wishes to take advantage of the great human resources present in our faculty here at Notre Dame ought to miss Prof. Louis’ interpretation of the main currents of Western thought."

The proposed codification of the hearing board of the Dean's Committee Academic Code deserve immediate including: maxim um credit hour limits, qualification for the Dean's List, and student leaves of absences.

Faccenda took the job, intending to serve recognizing as if it were his life's work. Among the many things he worked on was a revision as unneeded inclusion of this proposal. This is imperative that the following recommended amendments to the Academic Code are seriously considered for the benefit of the students as well as the faculty and administration.

Proposal: The Dean's List and graduation honorsshould be raised from 3.25 to a 3.4 average. Originally, it was presented as a raise to 3.5.

Recommendation: If you have no choice but to be agreeable; it is better to be more amenable than less.

If this sounds cynical, be patient. It is the result of ten years of mixing; ideologies, politics and the real world. You see first we are students. Which means we must get: grades, into graduate school, along with our girl friends, eventually a job and incidentally a meaningful education. But we deal with people who do not play our political game on a part-time basis. This can create a conflict of interest for a priest on welfare—depends on handling situations and us correctly. Synopsia: If I was the crusade we may pass Emil T., if they lose its the Bengal mission. So have ploy, why know you, could be assistant manager around here sometime.

Proposal: An allowance within the Code for a provision concerning student leaves of absence after the provision's approval by the Academic Council.

Recommendation: A defined policy for student leaves of absence and its immediate inclusion within the Academic Code. This would serve as a direct informational aid for the student and insure his re-admittance if forced to leave for personal reasons. The program under consideration is comparable to the "pour out" policy endorsed by Fr. Hesburgh.

Tomorrow the entire Academic Council will meet, to decide on the proposed Academic Code and the student amendments to that Code. The proposals and recommendations listed are of major importance to the students and the entire universitv. If the Council will allow itself to approach all the proposals with an open-mindedness in character, then results are possible. May everyone keep in mind that the education Notre Dame offers is ours.

To Be Continued?

In his ten years as Vice-President of Student Affairs, Faccenda has performed more than was expected in his job at the University. He has made the Student Affairs office workable, and raised it to the prominence that it now holds.

The torch now passes to Brother Just. He has a number of obstacles to contend with. Among them are the recent ruling on alcohol liability in Indiana and question of human sexuality and paralelts on campus.

Brother Just has displayed his skills in being able to communicate with the students. The proposed 17 hour limit in AL and Engineering, especially, could stymie a student's academic pursuit. To an academic concern was followed in the decision for a pre-labor start, it should not here either.

Academic Council Proposals

With the resignation of Dr. Philip Faccenda as Vice President of Student Affairs made official by the Board of Trustees, Notre Dame faces a man of rare dedication and service.

Regardless of the situation, Dr. Faccenda did a great service in trying to serve only in a temporary capacity. During his time in office, he worked with dedication as if it were his life's work. Among many things he worked on was a revision of the role of the Student Affairs office in the University. Thought some feel it were overstepped his bounds defining this role, he always attempted to deal fairly with students, and tried to established a consistent system of justice.

The Observer
A new rule prohibiting premarital sex, carrying a maximum penalty of expulsion from the on-campus community, was passed by a divided SLC on Monday. The rule now goes to Fr. Hesburgh for ratification.

The new provision was passed as a result of a resolution adopted by the Student Judicial Code which simply states that "the University believes that sexual union should be reserved for marriage." The new rule reads in part:

"As a University in the Christian and Catholic mission, it is our duty to bear witness to a religious and moral point of view to preserve the faith and virtue of our community."

The student members of the SLC brought up the need for rule revision in the last meeting in April because of the concern shown by the Academic Code about the meaning of the present rule which the administration used to suspend a student in the Dillon case.

Debate circles around three main proposals: an initial student position that only if an academic philosophy he stated without penalties for violation, the compromise position which finally passed, and an administration position which stated that "sexual activity outside of marriage is not condoned on this campus and is subject to disciplinary action."

Mike Goetsinger, one of the student representatives on the subcommittee which reported the proposals, explained that "the students would really prefer no rule at all but we are willing to compromise."

However administration members did not think the compromise went far enough, Fr. Schlaber called the maximum penalty being of offense-off-campus "realistic and proportional." The "cruelst" he said, "is putting down rules and penalties for a violation of a life philosophy."

Toohey also criticized the "arbitrary removal of students from the control of the hall staff."

In an interview after the meeting Toohey explained that the problem should be left up to the hall staffs with the Dean of Students and Campus Ministry entering only as general supervisors. "This is something of a jurisdictional dispute between Campus Ministry and the Dean's office," Toohey said.

"I feel that penalties like being asked to leave the hall should be given by hall staffs only in the most extreme cases," he explained, also stressing the "need for mutual trust between students, hall staffs and the central offices."

The SLC passed the compromise proposal on a 9-4 vote. Several members feared as Roos said, that "Hesburgh may very likely veto this revision." If he does so, the present rule will continue to remain in effect.

Alumni Association proposes more undergraduate housing

by William Murphy

Staff Reporter

The Board of Directors of the Alumni Association is urging on-campus housing for undergraduates during the Alumni Senate meeting held here last week. The Alumni Board disagreed with the report of the Committee on University Priorities (COP), which stated that availability of housing for undergraduates was not a priority for the University endowment fund rather than used for physical expansion.

The Board asked for the support of the University Trustees in seeking additional on-campus housing to eliminate overcrowding and provide living facilities for all undergraduates who desire them. The Alumni Board also passed a resolution stating that the University's highest and most distinctive mission should be to understand and adhere to its Catholic charater. Among these same lines the Board agreed that the University maintain a predomintly Catholic faculty and Student Affairs staff.

The Alumni Senate, which is composed of representatives from the various Alumni clubs, also made several recommendations for consideration by the Alumni Board. Among these recommendations were:

1) an evaluation of the efficacy of Campus Ministry,
2) establishment of a program to enable alumni to donate a year of their time to work on special projects at the University,
3) Alumni group ticket preference for sporting events and concerts,
4) encouragement of Alumni Club sponsorship programs.

Finally, the Alumni Senate applauded the work of the COP over the previous year, adding that the Senate recommended that the report be updated every 3 to 5 years with results to be communicated to the entire University community.

The Senate called for a continuation of COP's academic work with the University and stressed that the University should only undertake new disciplines on a selective basis.

Initial proposals reviewed by Academic Council accredited program at the University. The standard would be set 10 percent higher in all colleges except Freshman Year, which varies from semester to semester. During the discussion of University withdrawal and re-admission policies Chris Nedeau recommended that the Academic Council discuss a "stop-out" program at the Monday meeting.

This proposed stop-out program would allow a student the opportunity to leave the University for a specified period of time and receive a "leave of absence" stating him from the responsibility and uncertainty of being-admitted to the University. One other matter was tabled for future discussion by the Academic Council. The policy concerning grievances committees and honor councils within the University will be discussed at an early meeting of the Council next fall. As it now stands there are honor councils within each of the departments.

Nedeau has proposed that as each case of violations of academic codes and guidelines arises an ad hoc committee be formed. Among its members would consist of the dean of the college where the offense occurred or his delegate, the three faculty members from different colleges, the department chairman of the department where the offense occurred, and one student.

ND student wins 1974 Honda from local radio station

Special Projects Editor

First, "Too high!"

Then, "Too low!"

And finally, "Jerry Zuoza, you have won yourself a 1974 Honda!"

It was 10:40 a.m. last Thursday morning, May 9, when Jerry guessed WRBB's high-low mileage as 11-5.1.

"We were all up late that night studying and doing last minute practice problems," said Jerry, a Holtwood Hall senior, explained. "So we figured we'd listen and then start narrowing it down."

"Two of my friends, Kevin McKinnan and Steve Beez, came in the room with me and helped in the selection," recalled Jerry.

Jerry will be presented with his CT 70 Honda on Monday, May 12.
Letters to a Lonely God

where all the music will be laughter

reverend robert griffin

Sometimes I feel Him as a friend who stays with me without speaking, like a silent guest seated at my table. The graduation goodbyes are said. His eyes are constantly searching my face, counting teardrops and remembering smiles. He knows that I am conscious of His scrutiny; and that He doesn't mind if I play to Him as to the gallery of a theatre, showing Him how difficult He makes life for His demands that winds of the morning. But in tones like the voice of obedience to the bored, swollen men of the gallery of a theatre, showing Him how free, you don't have to drink coffee instead, and wonder whether the very old—even then it had always for prayer, and loneliness is a problem of God's life also.

"Be a decent chap; don't whine," God says, adding the comfortable words: "I never said I didn't love you."

Losing one's friends in the great silences of life makes the goodbyes bring, seems hardly like a kindness from anybody's heaven, but loneliness is the predicament in which man and God perceive their need of each other. That is why God always waits, when goodbyes are said, to pick up the pieces for Himself, moving like a campfollower, into the back of our life. Loneliness in His love, we are sheltered as orphans might be sheltered.When they have no home...

Like nearly everybody else, I will leave Notre Dame for the summer, feeling very lonely alone, very lonely after saying temporary goodbyes to undergraduates, and the more permanent farewells to the friends of fishermen, He never said honky-tonk, the crazy rhythms of the City have an inner city sin.

Luck and the rejection letters

by maria gallagher

Luck is the name of the employment game for graduates and undergraduates alike at this time of year, and if the Senior Bar's rejection of Ruth's application for a teaching position received a rejection letter on fine stationary, no Doctor Gallager, my applicant for a teaching position received a reply to "Dear McCandless." Her name is not Kathy McCandless. One Notre Dame student, Antonio N., was rejected also, and I do know that the college received a pretty distinguished bunch of letters.

Love poem

I burn no candle at your altar and incense never knew the hair and skin and eyes my hands and spirit knew so well when the wind and music called to us and made us dance in the twilight of our innocence and the memory of loving so child-like and so unadorned.

But God gave me happiness in you and made me hear the laughter of a thousand hearts so let's have our piece in the storm join hands and run with innocence and tears of joy backwards towards the setting sun and love again

The legend, at center, is covered with light which suffices her lips as the figure of emotion comes brimming forth from the breaking beat behind the voice that impels the spirit to dance or cry

The yellow-brick road has reached the hill as the greatest of tragedies stands at the crest

Dear... Since you failed to correctly answer our sports trivia question "What was Babe Ruth's favorite drink?" we are turning you resume with regrets...

Finally, many Notre Dame seniors may rely on the following letter to "get their foot in the door."

Dear... Thank you for your interest in the company. Although you have no experience as yet in the business world, we will be happy to have you train for a position in which we can see your talents and interests. Your educational background is solid and you ambitions are high.

See you at graduation.

One of Notre Dame's few contemporary legends, English professor, Frank O'Malley, was born to a family of preachers. He was a small boy and had bad health, and thus, he was sent to Sacred Heart Cathedral, yesterday morning as hundreds, both on campus and off, mourned the passing of a very special professor.

Dr. O'Malley died early last Tuesday morning after a short hospitalization. He left behind a legacy that was recognized by many. The people of duLac, especially its students, knew him to be a very special professor.

Dame: the people of duLac, especially its students. His influence was unique from the others. He was more than just a professor; he was an individual who influenced his students from the inside out.

Clinton, Massachusetts. He came to Notre Dame in 1928 to teach English. He was a freshman who had been teaching for a year and a half. Bettina O'Malley had been teaching for a year and a half. But it wasn't simply the freshmen Frank O'Malley wanted to teach. He wanted to teach all of his students, and he did.

In 1934, O'Malley moved to the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester, Massachusetts. He worked as a teaching assistant and completed his master's degree in English in 1938. O'Malley was a man whose influence at duLac that was to last for 40 years. He was unique from the others.

To enumerate those people Mr. O'Malley found to be important to his teaching career, he started with his own spiritual and even physical well-being, "The mind of the individual soul, Mr. O'Malley saw his own role in the development of his students. He learned, but how you applied it to your own life."

"The spiritual and moral education of students came before the students' personal and physical well-being." said English senior Joe Runde, who served as Mr. O'Malley's life: the in-class teacher and out of it. He knew the barrier to that simplicity was his own growing preJudices, his problems.

"He often told me his whole emphasis on simplicity and the importance of the English curriculum is the mind of the individual student. That's the way we all feel about it."

by Joseph Abell

Prevail our actions, we beg you, O Lord, by Your intercession; that we may execute our every prayer and deed may in You ever have their beginning, and once begun, may by You be brought to completion.

Translated from the Latin by Frank O'Malley

words to Frank O'Malley

What have you done? You lie so still! You strain belief in our mortality. We can't believe the swift, the swift, the swift, the ghost, the light, and the fleet, has now been exercised.

Our scholar gypsies, you haunted the conscience of all our paths and corridors. You sharpened with light the shadow that was cast on what we yearned for in dome and spire.

You christened writers of indiscriminately visionary words, the baptized and unchristianized alike, wiser multitudes of the young longed on.

You gospelled four decades of rich and poor men's songs showing where the soul is. And each day you knotted them threads to whip the money-changers from the temple door.

When did you first surmise that yours must be the gift of loneliness? When 'did you discover that he who is loved by all is loved by no one?'

For seeing, as you did, each suit of spirit how did you decide? Or did you? His face, a man, a more, decide to make nothing but himself his own.

There were we scarce we could endure the fury of that indifferent love that smiled or glowed in your eyes.

Forgive us if we found it hard to quite forgive you in your relentless understanding of yours.

But we salute you now as then, with the same pangs when once, though you always keep, incensed, and warm, between yourself and us.
The power of the media, or rather the power of ABC-TV, exhibited itself all too conspicuously last week as Rome Arledge, president of ABC, Sports announced that Notre Dame will open its 1974 season against Georgia Tech on Monday night, September 9, in Atlanta.
By virtue of the schedule change, the Irish will have an open date on Nov. 9, when the game had been previously scheduled. Also as a result, members of the football team will have to return a week earlier, on the fourteenth of August in order to prepare for the opener. The Irish were originally slated to begin the season on September 19 against Northwestern in Evanston. Ara Parseghian looked at the situation realistically.
"Since we play the game on September 9, we'll open up fall practice seven days earlier. The rules say we can have 28 practice opportunities before the opener. What that means is that we can have one practice for every day our kids are in school and two for every day they're not. So six weeks before the school starts August 28, it means we'll be permitted seven days of work. This means the kids will have to stay in good physical condition in the summer. This could be an advantage for us, if we play the game on September 9, that will give us an open day after our seventh game."
Notre Dame stands to benefit considerably from the Monday night proposition. The school is rumored to be receiving an additional $250,000 by virtue of the schedule shift.
ABC's national television season of NCAA football will begin September 7 with Texas in Austin.
The following week Stanford will be at Penn State, with Arkansas vs.
Texas on Oct. 19, and LSU at Alabama on November 3. There are also four scheduled doubleheaders being worked on as part of the national television schedule.
Included in the twin bills are Ohio State and Michigan and UCLA vs. Southern Cal on Nov. 28
while on Nov. 29, Alabama will face Auburn and Texas will battle Texas A&M. The Notre Dame-USC game on Nov. 30 will also be part of a doubleheader. All other games will be played Monday prior to the televising date.

It must be nice to know that you can't lose. But, there must be frustrating to realize that you can't win either.
Such is the situation with Notre Dame's annual Blue-Gold Football Game. This fall, as in the past, the question was not who would win, but how and by how much.
And of course the big questions always have to do with the progress of the veteran players and the situations of the vacant positions left by graduating seniors.
As a result of last Saturday's scrimmage action, the coaches can well afford to be pleased with the quarterbacks' performances.
Rick Clements, who was 8 of 11 through the air on the afternoon, led three of the scoring drives, while back-up QB Frank Allocco also directed three, and Slager again displayed
how and by how much.
