HPC to assume fund collection for United Way

by Bob Radziejewicz
Staff Reporter
Responsibility for this year's United Way campaign will be undertaken by the Hall President's council, according to Chairman Bob Howl.

Last year the United Way campaign was conducted by a campus-wide drive through the mail. In co-ordinating this year's student drive thorough the HPC, Howl expressed hopes for a more direct involvement on the student level and an even greater success in fund-raising. Tom Sudde, regional director of development for the United Way, addressed last night's meeting, explaining that he felt that the HPC was "the best body to co-ordinate this year's drive."

"The goal we're shooting for this year from student contributions is $2,000.00," Howl explained. "That comes out to something like 40 cents per person. The idea is not to take money out of the students' pockets. In fact, I look at it as a challenge to be creative and innovative in fund-raising for the United Way."

Howl then went on to suggest selling shamrocks or sponsoring hot dog stands at home football games as a potential means in raising funds.

Suggested avenues of discussion include having a law student discuss the fund drive until next week's meeting, when John Mazza, now a first-year law student who had served on the Student Government Council, is expected in the next day or two, according to McMachena.

The accused of his legal rights. Howl decided to table further discussion until next Friday night's pep rally.

"Just as we have in the past," Howl added, "we're going to have a fund collection at the Stepan Center following Friday night's pep rally."

On The Inside

John H. Powell Jr., chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission spoke in the Notre Dame Law School Lounge yesterday on the progress that has been made in the last nine years.

Referring to inequalities that manifested before the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which created the EEOC, Powell stated, "It was a step in progress in terms of the fundamental issue of where we were a little over ten years ago, I must say we've come a long way."

Powell, who was once general counsel of the Civil Rights Commission, was appointed chairman of the EEOC this January. He pointed out that a 1972 amendment to the 1964 act gave broad powers to his commission to eradicate causes of job discrimination based on race, religion, sex and national origin.

In recalling the days when job abilities and training were "particularly irrelevant if you were a woman or a member of a race," Powell said that advancement in these qualifications are a reaction to the enforcement of minority employment rights.

"But while there is a considerable amount of hypocrisy in the concern now being expressed for job qualifications, it is progress," Powell stated.

In discussing the purpose of the EEOC, Powell said "America's most important asset is its multi-cultural, multi-racial people. When everyone has an opportunity to compete anywhere their abilities and aspirations carry them, this nation will truly deserve to be called the 'Leader of the Free World.'"

In this spirit, Powell asserted that he is determined to make the "Commission the cutting edge in the national effort to eliminate employment discrimination."

Powell remarked upon a variety of other subjects, ranging from Indians to the Nixon Administration. Powell said that the Indians are the most oppressed minority group in the country. "Not enough has been done by any agency," including the EEOC. However Powell said that a task force is being planned to investigate their employment situation.

When asked about the effect of the Nixon Administration on the civil rights policies of the previous two Administrations, Powell said although he had publically disagreed with the former president's position "on housing and other things, we cannot say that the Nixon administration, at least in some very important aspects, turned back their policies."

Under Nixon and a Democratic majority in Congress the EEOC budget increased 58 million and gained direct enforcement authority. Powell added that the jurisdiction of the agency now covers 75 percent of the work force, or 65 million employees would be made according to the individual needs of the hall.

The session included an announcement that Dillon, Howard, and Morrissey halls are sponsoring a free concert in Stepan Center following Friday night's pep rally.

Hall Judicial Council seen as alternative

by Bill Gonzhebach
Staff Reporter

The Student Government Judicial Office is developing a Hall Judicial Council to act as an advisory group and as an alternative disciplinary hearing office for university disciplinary violations. Brian McGinty, Student Government Judicial Coordinator, outlined the development and goals of the new council yesterday.

"The first thing we have to do is develop hall judicial boards in each and every hall," said McGinty. The Hall J-Board would elect a chairman who would be the hall's representative to the Hall Judicial Council.

"Some of the halls have good J-Boards, but in other halls they are falling apart. Some of the rectors and assistant rectors just don't want them and in some halls, the J-Boards have been left out of the hall's constitution. We need good hall J-Boards before we can do anything," McGinty declared.

Once formed, the Council comprised of the hall representatives and the Judicial Coordinator would be a unified group to speak to the Administration about discretion or needed change in the judicial process.

"If I went to the administration by myself to complain about the judicial process I would be laughed out of the place," McGinty insisted.

"To start, the Judicial Council would act like the Hall Presidents' Council. It would have no real power or acting authority. We would simply be a student representative group that raised matters," said the judicial coordinator.

"However, we hope to prove we can handle problems, so that possibly in the spring we could ask the Student Life Council to rewrite the judicial code to give us more authority," McGinty observed.

The new authority would hopefully include the power to act as an alternative disciplinary hearing group.

"When a student is charged with the violation of a university regulation, he has the alternative of seeing Mr. Macheca, Dean of Students or Dr. Facenda, General Counsel. We hope that in the future the Judicial Council will act as a third alternative - or disciplinary hearings," said McGinty.

The student has a poor record in university disciplinary action. The Dillon and Lewis Hall incidents are examples of this. We hope to aid the student as an advisory council or as a third alternative for disciplinary hearings," said McGinty.

McGinty noted that last year students in some halls had a decision had been reached on their case. "It's too late for them, I can only really help before the case is heard," he said.

"We hope that present disciplinary problems are personal and they are best handled by the counseling of Mr. Macheca and Mr. Facenda. However, there are students who need aid and we want to offer them advice and a true alternative - disciplinary hearing," said McGinty.
Assembly allocates funds

by Marjorie Irr
Staff Reporter

The SMC Student Assembly voted Monday night on proposals to reallocate funds for two campus organizations and entertainment for the SMC Founder's Day.

The International Student Club was allocated $400 to sponsor cultural events which benefit the whole student body. In a letter of request to the assembly, the club proposed events such as an International Night. The event, which will involve all SMC students, will give international students an opportunity to discuss their countries and customs.

Off-Campus and Day Students have been granted $500 this year and an amendment also passed legislation which will include this expenditure in the Student Government budget for the coming years. One of the events being planned by the Off-Campus and Day Students Organization is an October dance.

The proceeds of the dance will be donated to CARE, but immediate funds are needed to pay for a band and other expenses. The allocation will also help to sponsor activities which will help SMC's three hundred off-campus and day students become more involved in campus life.

To review programs

AA Board convenes

By Theresa Stewart

The Alumni Association Board of Directors will do more than watch the game this weekend. An analysis of the goals and objectives of the board, a review of Association and Alumni Club programs, and an update on current University matters are planned for the four day meeting which opened today.

Paul C. Holowczak, assistant director of Alumni Association, said, "We want to dispel the myth of Alumni involvement in only football parties. The alumni are an active group concerned about this University."

The 19 members of the Board of Directors, representing different geographical regions of the United States, will convene at the Center for Continuing Education for sessions concerning the Alumni Association and a general briefing on campus affairs by six executive administrators of the University.

In the absence of an executive director, the Board's review of the Association's goals and objectives will be more critical than usual," Holowczak explained. He referred to the Alumni Association as a state of transition since a replacement for James D. Conney, former Executive Director, has not been selected.

The President of the Association, Richard W. Murphy, will be in charge of the meeting.

During the weekend, the Alumni Board will review the Association's many programs. The June Reunion, the Annual Fund, the Student-Alumni Relations Group, the Senior Class and many other activities of the Association will be considered. A self-analysis of goals and objectives of the Alumni Board will also be considered.

Besides the general briefing by six ND officials on Friday afternoon, Fr. Theodore Hesburgh, president of the University; Fr. James Burtchaell, Provost; and Fr. William Lenney, Indiana Provincial Superior will be guest speakers at the various luncheons and dinners during the weekend.

Tours of the campus, daily Masses, luncheons, and dinners will also be provided for both Alumni Board members and guests.
SMC newsletter to link community

by Diane Smits Staff Reporter

A newsletter will be chief means of communication between students and faculty and the SMC Career Planning and Placement Office, according to Karen O'Neil, the office's new director. At a meeting yesterday with appropriate SMC students and faculty, O'Neil discussed the purpose of the newsletter and the aims and objectives of the Planning and Placement Office.

The goal of the newsletter will differ with each class. For the freshmen, the newsletter will serve as a guide in self-evaluation and analysis. The sophomore section of the newsletter will deal with the connections between various majors and corresponding career fields. Specific careers and job identification will be the central theme for juniors and seniors. The seniors will focus on job-getting and skills.

The seniors attending the meeting favored the newsletter as the best means of imparting the information that the Planning and Placement Office had to offer. They did not feel meetings would be as effective, since many students have heavy demands already placed on their time.

This does not mean, however, that the Planning and Placement Office has entirely ruled out meetings or group sessions as a method of counselling students. O'Neil said, O'Neil described several possibilities, including group pre-interview sessions. These sessions would be held one to two days before a group of seniors is scheduled to be interviewed by prospective employers.

Julian Bond to speak tonight

by Maureen Flynn Staff Reporter

The Student Union Academic Commission will sponsor an appearance by Julian Bond, Georgia leader, who recently announced his candidacy for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination, in the Memorial Library Auditorium tomorrow night. In fourteen years of public life Bond has compiled an impressive list of accomplishments. In 1960, he founded the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

In 1966, he was first elected to the Georgia House of Representatives, but was defeated in 1968 in his campaign for a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives. In 1970, Bond was again elected to the Georgia House, but was defeated in the 1974 primary.

The organization will be named the Southern Elections Fund, a non-profit organization. The group will provide financial and organizational aid to progressive candidates in the South.

In 1960, when Bond was first elected to the Georgia legislature, there were fewer than 100 black elected officials in the South; today, there are over 1000.

"We are changing the color of Southern politics," claims Bond. "The way to do that is not to go after the big jobs but to concentrate on the little ones closer to the people. If enough blacks can be elected at the grass roots level, it's bound to have a major impact on politics at the top."

In accord with this, Bond has pledged to arrive at the 1976 Democratic convention with a sizeable block of support, "at least enough to influence the nomination."

Bond has also directed his energies towards curtailing violence by advancing education for blacks and urging a new foreign policy for black Africa.
Confrontations: Rectors or the Dean?

This Monday's clarification of the recent alcohol directive seems at first glance to be an appropriate and wise reaction to a very difficult situation. The directive to comply with Indiana Supreme Court decisions, issued in late August by Dean of Students John Macheca, ruled that no student under the age of 21 would be allowed to drink on campus. At that time, both Dean Macheca and Brother Just, vice-president for student affairs, emphasized that disciplinary action would be possible, be confined to the hall staff. The clarification agreed upon Monday places most of the burden and responsibility for enforcement, as predicted, on the staffs of the residence halls. It stresses non-disciplinary action as the main thrust of which minor violations of the alcohol directive will be handled.

In light of the complexity of the directive, and the difficult implications presented by the Indiana Supreme Court rulings, this clarification is the most sane means by which each individual violation can be judged. There is no better safeguard against abuse inherent in the interpretation of the rules, by either students or administrators, than the involvement of the hall staffs.

It will take a great effort of understanding and compromise for the office of Student Affairs and the hall staffs to reach an agreement on the handling of violations. From the side of the Student Affairs office, it will appear to be of the utmost importance that violators be handled with a sense of responsibility that will set an example for future cases. From the standpoint of the hall staffs, it will be of the utmost importance that violators be handled as individuals, and members of the hall community, with more regard to the preservation of the sense of hall community than to so-called "office action." It is hoped that the office of Student Affairs, and particularly Dean Macheca, will take a step back in these matters and allow the residence hall staffs to be the predominant judicial body.

In the past, Dean Macheca has taken an active interest in certain disciplinary cases that may have been better handled within the hall, rather than by the Dean's office. For example, last year's Sorin Hall incident, concerning an illegal party, may have been better handled in the hall than in the Dean's Office. This is judged by hindsight, though, and similar judgement may not have seemed feasible at the time.

In commenting on the clarification, Student Body President Pat Memmel says, "As long as the students understand these, there should be no problems."

And, in the future, prove to be the most important understanding of all will be Dean Macheca's interpretations of his role within the framework of these clarifications.

The international Student Advisor's Office on campus, located in the basement of LaFortune is also a home away from home for the International Student. The ever-busy, informal, cozy and friendly environment of the office is the major interface to the campus and South Bend environments. Unlike the average American campus student, the average international student undertakes a trip abroad for the sole purpose of educational endeavors within an institution such as Notre Dame; the basic reason for this is the economic limitations of the international students. Hence, the "cultural impact" is far greater in dimension, and Father Dan O'Neill, the International Student Advisor, secretary Betty Fitting and Carol Nolen, through various orientation activities, the host-family program and get-togethers, help tremendously in helping one adjust to an alien environment.

When the Americans landed on the moon, the act demonstrated two things, namely: superior space technology, and the words "spaceship earth" were used for the first time by the great Guru Bucky Fuller. In other words, you and I are on board a spaceship, right now.

On board a spacecraft, the crew lives in harmony with each other and with the spacecraft itself. Similarly, the American and international students can interact, leading to an overall better visualization of each other's customs, cultures and curiosities. This global village, the spaceship earth, has been guillotined into two distinctly transcending human created "boundaries." The boundaries between the haves and the havenots. The nations of the rich and the nations of the poor. The technological nations versus the non-technological nations.

In his 1965 State of the Union message President Johnson said: 'We were never meant to be an oasis of liberty and abundance in a worldwide desert of disappointed dreams.' I am reminded of the old Eastern fable of the man who was condemned to bell. Because in one of his few actions of generosity he had spared a spider, the Lord let down to him a single spider thread. He grasped it, and began to be lifted up. All hell grabbed for his feet and began slowly to rise with him. In terror that thread would break, he kicked off the hangers-on, and the resultant jarring shock snapped the thread. Perhaps America must lift the world to find its own salvation.

The spaceship earth has now become a complex and complicated web of knowledge explosion. It is not the question of America alone lifting the world to find its own salvation. Every nation on spaceship earth must lift the world to find its own salvation. Through coordinated effort it can be done. Homecoming tickets on sale

by Bob Radniewicz
Staff Reporter

Homecoming '74 begins its annual swing today when the first of three ticket packages is placed on sale by the Student Union, according to Social Commissioner Rich Guiltinan.

This year Homecoming weekend is set for October 12-13, when the Rice Owls fly into South Bend for Saturday afternoon's contest with the Fighting Irish. This special weekend will be kicked off Friday night, Oct. 11, when the Student Union presents Gordon Lightfoot in concert at the ACC following the pep rally.

The festivities continue Saturday night with a Homecoming party hosted by the Student Union in St. Joseph, Michigan. "The theme of this year's party is 'Cabaret.' That's the type of atmosphere you'll find at the old abandoned amusement park on Lake Michigan, Silver Beach Ballroom, Saturday night," Guiltinan said.

The party, for couples only, will have two bands playing, wine, cheese, and beer will also be served. The Social Commissioner further noted that 12 buses will be used for transporting the couples to and from the party. Guiltinan then explained the three package deals that the Student Union will be offering for Homecoming '74.

Offered in the first package are tickets for the Gordon Lightfoot concert Friday night and the "Cabaret" party on Saturday night. The package which includes two concert tickets and one party bid (for the couple), offers a two dollar discount on the party bid.

"This package will go on sale Wednesday, Sept. 26, at 8:00 p.m. in the LaFortune ballroom," Guiltinan said. "There will also be a limit of 150 concert-party packages, on a first come-first serve basis.

Tickets for the Friday night concert, without the special S.U. deal, go on sale Wednesday afternoon.

Will there be Gordon Lightfoot tickets available at the Student Union ticket office?

Tickets for the Gordon Lightfoot concert will be on sale at 8:00 a.m. in the Student Union ticket offices in the LaFortune ballroom. Your I.D. is required and there is entitled to a discount. This package deal will go on sale at 8:00 a.m. in the LaFortune ballroom, "If one student is present, they won't be able to determine the total number of packages available until late Wednesday night. I can only say that the Student Union will place all tickets on sale Thursday morning, one package per student," Guiltinan affirmed.

Referring to the Homecoming scandal last year in which some football tickets were reserved for student government officials, the Social Commissioner explained how this year's distribution of football ticket packages will be handled.

"First of all, no preference to Student Government or Student Union officers will be given. All tickets given to the Student Union for the Rice game will be sold, beginning Thursday morning. They (the tickets) will go on sale at 8 a.m. sharp, not one minute before," Guiltinan declared.

"Also Bill McLean and his ombudsman staff will help maintain single-file order in the ballroom, which should ensure a fair system for the ticket allocation," he added.

The final package offered by the Student Union includes only Homecoming party bids, which will be sold at $6.50 per couple. These separate "Cabaret" tickets will be available Friday during regular Student Union hours.

Guiltinan added that 100 bids, excluding the other two packages, go on sale at S.U. offices in LaFortune.

Concession stands hit record high number

A record 92 groups are opening concession stands for this year's home football game, according to Dr. David Schlawer, Director of Student Activities.

Thirty-one residence halls plus 35 other campus clubs and organizations will participate at 16 sites on campus. Last year 36 groups operated stands at 12 sites.

Everything from hotdogs and hamburgers to the Knights of Columbus steak sandwiches and the handmade pillows sold by law school student and campus visitors will be on sale for students and campus visitors at home game weekends.

Schlawer noted to attract attention to the multitude of stands "there should be a gimmick. Do something different." WSNF will broadcast live from their food stand. The cheerleaders will also promote their cutouts andMiscellaneous CONCESSION STANDS

Ohio State has regained the top position in the latest AP and UPI collegiate football polls. Coach Woody Hayes' Buckeyes demolished Oregon State 51-10 last Saturday. In the UPI poll (in which Oklahoma is not ranked because of NCAA probation), the first two teams are identical to the first poll of coaches, while the Irish got 13, with Alabama and Michigan receiving each one.

Bowl heroics history for Weber

By Pete McHugh

December 31, 1973: Third down and eight, the ball on Notre Dame's 10-yard line, less than three minutes left in the game. The Irish lead Alabama 24-23. Quarterback Don Cl Canton faked back into his own end zone and launches a pass. The receiver is on the sideline and in the arms of tight end Robin Weber. Notre Dame has a first down down on the Alabama 10-yard line. Dining at the Sugar Bowl! Notre Dame has the national championship!

From the obscurity of the bench and the shadow of all-American players who have gone on to All-American status, Weber has done it all. The national spotlight and Notre Dame football history with that now famous catch of Tom Clements' audacious aerial. The game-clinching reception, only Weber's second of the season.
