Bias charged in Despres appointment

by Jim Eder
Contributing Editor

Charging that the University had practiced religious discrimination in selecting the new chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, six members of the department's Committee on Appointments and Promotions (CAP) resigned from that body last week.

Despite the unanimous CAP recommendation endorsing acting chairman Dr. Richard Kurtz, University President Fr. Theodore Hesburgh appointed Dr. Leo Crosson to the position of department chairman, the resigning professors said.

Despres was ranked fourth. Kurtz, Boss Building Steps, that the watchful eyes of the security police will be "heavily concentrated on this week's, "cautioned Paczesny. "We have doubts about it," said Fr. Terrance Lally, Vice-President for Student Affairs. "I want it to work. I hope it works out." Paczesny, who gave initial approval to the project, clarified his position. "I've qualified that I didn't like the idea of it just going up to Kubik's and Shula's. But it is a wonderful opportunity for students to go out to the shopping mall and some of the pizza places in town." "I'm optimistic about it," said Fr. Terrance Lally, Vice-President for Student Affairs. "We'll play it week by week. If it doesn't work out it will be cancelled." The "Quickie" is scheduled to have a south and north loop. The south route will encompass the Student Affairs office role as assuring that the students are adequately serviced and the program is followed. A deficit is expected on the run, but, "It is the students' money," Lally emphasized that it was up to the students to make the Quickie work and support it. "It may even help eliminate the demolition derby up to Michigan," he stated.

From the Student Affairs viewpoint the bus service is not intended as a support to the "Quickie," a new Friday night shuttle bus service organized by the Social Commission and the Ombudsman service. "It is an opportunity for students to show responsibility," stated JUST PACESEN, Vice-President for Student Affairs. "We'll play it week by week. If it doesn't work out it will be cancelled." The "Quickie" is student-initiated and student-run. Lally saw the Student Affairs viewpoint the bus service is not intended as a support to the "Quickie." It is a wonderful opportunity for students to go out to the shopping mall and some of the pizza places in town." "I'm optimistic about it," said Fr. Terrance Lally, Vice-President for Student Affairs. "We'll play it week by week. If it doesn't work out it will be cancelled." The "Quickie" is scheduled to have a south and north loop. The south route will encompass the Student Affairs office role as assuring that the students are adequately serviced and the program is followed. A deficit is expected on the run, but, "It is the students' money," stated Paczesny. He suggested that if the fares were raised to $1.25 each way, instead of $.75 for the ride and only $.40 for the return, the shuttle bus could be self supporting.

The resigning CAP members blasted the procedure used in making the appointment as "heavily concentrated on this week's, "cautioned Paczesny. "We have doubts about it," said Fr. Terrance Lally, Vice-President for Student Affairs. "I want it to work. I hope it works out." Paczesny, who gave initial approval to the project, clarified his position. "I've qualified that I didn't like the idea of it just going up to Kubik's and Shula's. But it is a wonderful opportunity for students to go out to the shopping mall and some of the pizza places in town." "I'm optimistic about it," said Fr. Terrance Lally, Vice-President for Student Affairs. "We'll play it week by week. If it doesn't work out it will be cancelled." The "Quickie" is scheduled to have a south and north loop. The south route will encompass the Student Affairs office role as assuring that the students are adequately serviced and the program is followed. A deficit is expected on the run, but, "It is the students' money," stated Paczesny. He suggested that if the fares were raised to $1.25 each way, instead of $.75 for the ride and only $.40 for the return, the shuttle bus could be self supporting.

The attitude in the Student Affairs office is cautiously optimistic towards the "Quickie," a new Friday night shuttle bus service organized by the Social Commission and the Ombudsman service. "It is an opportunity for students to show responsibility," stated JUST PACESEN, Vice-President for Student Affairs. "We'll play it week by week. If it doesn't work out it will be cancelled." The "Quickie" is scheduled to have a south and north loop. The south route will encompass the Student Affairs office role as assuring that the students are adequately serviced and the program is followed. A deficit is expected on the run, but, "It is the students' money," stated Paczesny. He suggested that if the fares were raised to $1.25 each way, instead of $.75 for the ride and only $.40 for the return, the shuttle bus could be self supporting.

The attitude in the Student Affairs office is cautiously optimistic towards the "Quickie," a new Friday night shuttle bus service organized by the Social Commission and the Ombudsman service. "It is an opportunity for students to show responsibility," stated JUST PACESEN, Vice-President for Student Affairs. "We'll play it week by week. If it doesn't work out it will be cancelled." The "Quickie" is scheduled to have a south and north loop. The south route will encompass the Student Affairs office role as assuring that the students are adequately serviced and the program is followed. A deficit is expected on the run, but, "It is the students' money," stated Paczesny. He suggested that if the fares were raised to $1.25 each way, instead of $.75 for the ride and only $.40 for the return, the shuttle bus could be self supporting.

Though many seem to have had a hard time awaiting the Irish home-opener, the long rest is finally over. The 1973 National Champions go after their 14th consecutive victory at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow, and of course, the cheerleaders will again be selling rumpsticker before the game. (Photo by Zenon Bidziinski) world briefs

TOKYO (UPI) -- An earthquake jolted central Japan today, rocking office buildings in downtown Tokyo and halting bullet trains linking Tokyo and Osaka. The Meteorological Agency said the tremor registered four on the Japanese scale of seven.

ANKARA (UPI) -- Turkish farmers will begin planting okra, poppy seeds on about 50,000 acres in October under new government measures designed to keep the crop from becoming a source of heroin, Agriculture Minister Korkut Guz said Friday.

NEW YORK (UPI) -- A nationwide retail census Thursday showed that nearly 30,000 gas stations went out of business across the nation during the past year, reflecting the country's continuing tight-money economy and the pressures of the energy crisis.

undergoing renovation

Senior Club to have new look

by Mark Jahnke Staff Reporter

The Senior Club will have a new look this year. Presently undergoing major renovation, the name signifies a change in the atmosphere to be found there. The upstairs will be converted into a coffeehouse, while the downstairs will feature a bar area.

Senior class members are working to get the club open by early October. This will happen as soon as the many repairs and changes are completed. Downstairs, a new stand-up bar is being installed, along with new flooring and ceiling tiles.

Some walls have been knocked out for extra room, so that tables can be added. There is also a penny arcade being built in the back.

Upstairs the Senior Club will offer a new, relaxed atmosphere. Tables and chairs will be supplied, and a small stage has been constructed to provide entertainment. Wine and cheese will be served, along with a variety of other items.

The rooms upstairs are now being paneled, carpeted, and are having acoustic ceiling tile installed. Unlike the standard style of rooms upstairs, the upstairs will have a new look for extra room, so that tables can be added.

The Observer is published daily during the college semester except vacations by the students of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $3 per semester ($4 per year) from The Observer Box G, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. Second class postage paid, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556.

Senior Club to have new look

by Mark Jahnke Staff Reporter

The Senior Club will have a new look this year. Presently undergoing major renovation, the name signifies a change in the atmosphere to be found there. The upstairs will be converted into a coffeehouse, while the downstairs will feature a bar area.

Senior class members are working to get the club open by early October. This will happen as soon as the many repairs and changes are completed. Downstairs, a new stand-up bar is being installed, along with new flooring and ceiling tiles.

Some walls have been knocked out for extra room, so that tables can be added. There is also a penny arcade being built in the back.

Upstairs the Senior Club will offer a new, relaxed atmosphere. Tables and chairs will be supplied, and a small stage has been constructed to provide entertainment. Wine and cheese will be served, along with a variety of other items.

The rooms upstairs are now being paneled, carpeted, and are having acoustic ceiling tile installed. Unlike the standard style

NOW AVAILABLE AT THE NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

by Patrick Chellung

ONE FOR THE GIPPER

George Gipp, Knute Rockne, and Notre Dame

Warm, nostalgic, and rich in anecdote, One for the Gipper will delight old admirers of Knute Rockne as well as George Gipp and enthral those to whom this colorful, bygone era is relatively unknown territory.

...$7.95

also available

PARESHGIAN AND NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL

by Ara Parseghian and Tom Pagna ... $9.95

by Richard Sullivan

ONE FOR THE GIPPER

George Gipp, Knute Rockne, and Notre Dame

Warm, nostalgic, and rich in anecdote, One for the Gipper will delight old admirers of Knute Rockne as well as George Gipp and enthral those to whom this colorful, bygone era is relatively unknown territory.

...$7.95

also available

PARESHGIAN AND NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL

by Ara Parseghian and Tom Pagna ... $9.95

by Richard Sullivan

Nixon irritated at denial of privileges

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Richard M. Nixon is very irritated, by what he considers a "begrudging attitude" in the government to deprive him of the special privileges afforded other former presidents, an administration source said Thursday.

"He feels everyone is giving him a hard time," the source commented in the wake of a Senate subcommittee vote refusing to provide Nixon with government-financed maid and butler service. The maid and butler service was scratched as part of the subcommittee's decision to cut by more than half of a requested $850,060 in federal funds to finance Nixon's return to private life.

The source said Nixon, who has been hospitalized with a blood clot in his lung, was in a "very irritable" mood and particularly resented those efforts to limit his privileges as a former president simply because he resigned in the middle of his tenure.

Nixon views this as a "begrudging attitude," the source said, and he was particularly upset that Marine authorities had only just given him permission to use the golf course at Camp Pendleton, the mammoth base near his estate in San Clemente, Calif.

by Ara Parseghian and Tom Pagna ... $9.95

by Richard Sullivan
Renovating the old...
for a new atmosphere

Renovations begun during the summer months have left unfamiliar surroundings for familiar faces. Improvements have included new Psychology Dept. quarters in the Wenninger-Kirsch building; a new auditorium in Hayes-Healy building; new student offices in the LaFortune Student Center; Placement Bureau rooms in the Administration building; and improved art studies in the Fieldhouse.

The LaFortune Renovation and the Psychology Building remain incomplete. Although the Psych building is scheduled for completion in October, the LaFortune renovation's completion time table has not been released. Monies for the LaFortune Renovation were appropriated by the Board of Trustees last May.

Photos by Paul Joyce
Calley's attorney blasts Army

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — An attorney for former Lt. William L. Calley Jr. lashed out at Army officials Friday for continuing to hold him in custody, saying they had "one set of rules for draft dodgers and deserters and another set for one who willingly served in Vietnam."

U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott overturned Calley's My Lai murder conviction Wednesday and ordered him freed "forthwith" from the Army disciplinary barracks at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., where he is serving a 10-year sentence for slaughtering 22 persons while leading his troops in a sweep through the Vietnamese village March 16, 1968.

Pentagon officials, however, formally requested Solicitor General Robert H. Bork Friday to seek a stay of Judge Elliott's order. Bork said a decision likely would not be forthcoming until later in the day.

The court order was mailed to Ft. Leavenworth from Elliott's courtroom in Columbus, Ga., and the Army has taken the stand it cannot act on the court decision until the order is in the hands of Ft. Leavenworth authorities.

"The court decree called for the Army to release him (Calley) forthwith and we hoped they would release him forthwith," said Kenneth Henson, one of Calley's attorneys.

"Within a matter of three hours they released 145 convicted deserters from Leavenworth Prison pending a hearing to determine how they would qualify under the President's clemency program," Henson noted.

"I feel that Mr. Calley should be afforded equal treatment at least," Henson said. "They've got a different set of rules—one set for draft dodgers and deserters and one set for one who willingly served and willingly obeyed orders."

Calley contended throughout his court-martial that he merely was obeying orders when he and his men opened fire at My Lai, which had previously been pinpointed as Viet Cong stronghold. He initially was sentenced to life imprisonment for his role in the massacre, but this sentence was reduced to 10 years through the military appeals process.

The 31-year-old ex-soldier sought further relief in civilian courts after exhausting his appeals route in the military. Elliott, in striking down Calley sentence, said: "If there ever has been a case in which a conviction should be set aside, this is it."

The judge said Calley had been the victim during his trial "unrestrained and uncontrolled" prejudicial publicity, that the charges against him had been improperly drafted and that he had not been given the right to confront unfriendly witnesses.

In addition, Elliott contended in his 132-page ruling that the U.S. Supreme Court had decided the Calley case when it held that former President Nixon had to turn over the Watergate tapes to congressional investigators. Nixon had claimed executive privilege, but the high court ruled that the need to get at the heart of the evidence in a criminal proceeding took precedence.

Calley had asked for hearing transcripts from a House Armed Services Committee that investigated the My Lai affair, claiming they were vital to his defense. The committee refused to turn them over on grounds of legislative privilege.

"If we substitute the word "legislative" for the words 'presidential' or 'executive,' we see that the Supreme Court in deciding the Nixon case also decided the Calley case," Elliott ruled.

Army tickets sought for youths

by Chris Meehan
Staff Reporter

Dan Novak, chairman of this year's football ticket exchange program, announced yesterday that Notre Dame students will have the chance to share the excitement of the football season with South Bend youths. Students are asked to loan their tickets to the Oct. 19 Army game to children involved in the Neighborhood Study Help Program, the Logan Center, Big Brothers, Sr. Martha's Day School and various other organizations.

Novak, a co-ordinator of the Neighborhood Study Help Program, said he expects that around 400 tickets can be used for that program while 300 and some more tickets will be distributed among the remaining students. The exchange program will operate the same as last year's exchange.

The exact dates and other information will be announced at a later date. At that time, there will also be a call for monitors and drivers for the day of exchange.

An overwhelming response followed this appeal last year and Novak hopes that the response this year will be similar. Anyone interested may call 283-1794 for further information.

The Texas Instrument SR50

Now In Stock Exclusively at Ayres'

Texas Instruments' newest slide rule calculator is now available at Ayres', the first store in the area to sell this calculator over the counter. The SR50 has many features and takes up set of any number up to the generous 12 character LED display.

Other features include:

- Full algebratic functions
- Full trigonometric functions including arc sin, hyperbolics, and degrees to radians switch
- Full statistical functions including factorials and summations
- 12 Character LED display, 10 digit monitor plus sign, and 2 digit exponent plus sign
- Reciprocal Key and Pi Key
- Full memory
- AC adapter/charger and vinyl carrying case. Come by and see this calculator today. 149.95
Controversy surrounds Despres appointment

(continued from page 1)

Kurtz has recently charged that Crosson's letter to him was "filled with half-truths." Despres, according to Kurtz, was a student in General Program at Notre Dame when Crosson taught in that department. "The Dean must have known that Despres was a Catholic before he appointed him," said Kurtz.

One of the two professors who spoke with Crosson after the appointment also accused the dean of having "distorted the facts." The professor, who wished to remain anonymous, said that although he and his colleague did raise the issue "Crosson quite openly admitted to us that Despres' being Catholic was one of the factors involved in his appointment.

Crosson refused to comment on the appointment of Despres yesterday. "I don't feel it would be worthwhile rehearsing the matter," he said.

"I don't mind the University trying to establish and maintain a Catholic community," said Kurtz, "but using Catholicism as a measure of professional capacity enforces me." Kurtz claimed that religious preference is a violation of civil rights.

Kurtz also contended that when Crosson chose a Catholic, and four are Catholic and nine are graduates of Notre Dame.

"The University is not only favoring Catholics but inbreeding ND graduates as well," Kurtz said. He believes that this was another factor contributing to the appointment of Despres.

Academic Manual Violations

In addition to accusing the administration of exercising religious discrimination, the CAP members contested the selection process used in appointing the new department chairman. Hesburgh, however, upheld the procedure used by Crosson in nominating Despres for the post, claiming that the CAP members had misunderstood their provisions of the Academic Manual.

The University President conceded that the CAP is the sole committee in the department with legitimate authority to make recommendations to the dean concerning appointments, tenure, and promotions. He pointed out, however, that this provision of the manual does not apply to the selection of department chairman.

"The selection process for the chairmanship is given in the Academic Manual, Article II, Section 9, "Hesburgh, "And there is no mention whatsoever of intervention by the Committee on Appointments and Promotions.

"The responsibility of consultation with the faculty rests with the Dean," he continued, "and while this consultation is specified as formal, its method is clearly left up to the Dean, who in this case chose a double strategy, that of individual consultation with all faculty members and the use of a search committee."

Hesburgh also suggested that by making recommendations for the chairmanship the department as a whole and the CAP members in particular attempted to undercut the authority of the dean. "Actually there were two attempts within the Department which were made attempt to hedge the discretion of the Dean: first, the departmental faculty was publicly canvassed, and secondly, the Committee on Appointments and Promotions made a formal recommendation."

"Legally, these are inappropriate politically, they seem to be intended to force the hand of the Dean," Hesburgh charged. "If they can be taken at face value, simply as advisory recommendations, then the Dean is entirely within his rights if he accepts them, but he is not obliged to follow them," he explained.

The former CAP members sent a second letter to Hesburgh, responding to his charges that they had "hedge the discretion of "Crosson. "You ignore the fact that in this case not only was a Chairman selected but a new appointment to the faculty was made of a Full Professor in a particular area of specialization and immediate tenure was granted," wrote the six professors.

"Article III, Section 4 on the Procedure for Appointment and Promotion, and Article IV, Section 6 (Subsection a) on the function of the Committee on Appointments and Promotions make it clear that every recommendation for appointment or tenure is made only on the basis of past performance."

The "enlarged" Search Committee voted 5-to-2 in favor of Despres over Kurtz, when each committee member was asked to express his first choice for the chairman. The committee, however, also ranked the four candidates by a weighted vote. Each committee member listed the candidates in order of preference, giving 4 points to first place, 3 to second, 2 to third and 1 to fourth. Despres and Kurtz tied in this weighted vote.

These two ballots were used by Hesburgh in defending Crosson's decision to choose Despres. "As a matter of simple fact," wrote Hesburgh, "the report of the Search Committee indicates that Despres was chosen as chairman received the largest number of first-place votes. In the matter of weighted votes, he would have tied with another candidate, but the prior fact is certainly one way of deciding a tie, and besides, there were a number of other factors that were seriously considered.

Hesburgh noted in his letter to the former CAP members.

The University President would not expand on the other factors considered. "I believe that it would be inappropriate to go into all of these reasons at this point, but the reasons do exist and they are important for the health and well-being of the department and the College," he wrote.

The CAP members questioned the validity of the Search Committee vote. "Even if one overlooks the question of the legitimacy of using this departmental committee for this purpose and the appropriateness of placing on the committee an outside member, the split vote in the Search Committee (5-2 including the outside member's vote) hardly warrants overruling the unanimous recommendation of the six-man Committee on Appointments and Promotions and the 14-to-1 Department...." (continued on page 11)
A Touch of Class

Tomorrow, a national champion is coming home.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame are returning victorious from their Big Ten loss at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow with trophies, record books, and two victories, towards a second national championship.

But most of all, this is the time bringing home that quality given to them by all of us to help them achieve their goal—that touch of class.

Everyone associated with this university, from our lowliest freshmen to our most revered alumni possess a touch of class. It is meant to be flaunted but to be fulfilled. It allows achievement but demands devotion. It is a classic hallmark of our tradition.

The Irish begin their home campaign Saturday. They will again look to the Notre Dame family for their inspiration and their class.

Let us, the students, premier tomorrow that touch of class for 1974 by acting prudently before, during and after the games.

Socially, a tense situation exists. But with responsible expressions of judgement to the varsity team, our most revered alumni, and our most adored Notre Dame team, we can best represent that touch of class for 1974.

A classy champion.

Scalper's Delight

Need tickets for the Purdue game? There's plenty of supply available only if you're willing to pay the scalper's price of $20-25. And if you're really lucky, you might get a student ticket for $10.

This is the situation as the opening game approaches. The demand for football tickets far exceeds the supply of seats available: A student has a boyfriend or girlfriend, or family or friend visiting for the weekend. The student is hard pressed to come up with tickets, but only if they have the money. For professional and student scalpers, the setting is perfect.

The Observer's classified ads section is full of student willing to pay 'top dollar' for student activity on campus. The answer lies in developing areas on campus, towards coming on the field to the crowd and towards supporting the players on the field we can best represent a champion.

To compound the complete disregard they have for the other members of the community, they're selling tickets which they received FREE from parents or friends, or better yet for their position on the varsity football team.

It's unfair, its lowly and it has to stop!

Al Rutherford

A 'Quickie' Solution

It is ironic that on the first football weekend of the year, when the social life on campus is supposed to be at its peak, that the campus 'Quickie' shuttle is beginning.

As a separate entity, the 'Quickie' shuttle is a good idea. It is cheap, will service spots most frequented by Notre Dame students on weekends, and seems to be very well organized by the Graduate Student Union and the Student Union Social Commission.

The idea for the bus is an indirect evolution from two strict past from conceptions of off-campus shuttles, with two very large and distinct differences: the bus runs on weekends, not class days, and is not oriented directly towards student residence areas.

The 'Quickie' bus is a means of transporting students away from the University, towards a place which provides a more desirable social atmosphere.

This is an absurd commentary on what has become an absurd situation. Why have we failed, in response to the presence of alcohol on campus, to develop a way of life on weekends that does not hold alcohol as a primary factor? What will it take to impress upon us that 'finding new and more creative ways of socializing' is more than just a game that the SLC plays?

The answer lies in developing areas on campus which can serve as central points for student activity on campus. The 'Nazi', a coffeehouse in LaFortune, is a step in the right direction, as was the square dance. The dance being held in Stepan center this weekend seems to be a start in seeking a solution.

These events, however, precluding the use of alcohol. Alcohol has not really been abolished on campus. As the SLC clarification has well shown, reasonable use does not necessarily invite 'confrontations'; reason being what we are striving for in the first place.

So, here we are, shipping ourselves into South Bend, into Michigan, as a response to the fact that we don't know what to do with ourselves without a little hooch while on campus. That's really poor, because the result is we're merely carrying the problem with us.

A realistic assessment of the situation will have to be made soon. It will take the co-operation of the SLC, the HPC, Student Government, The Ombudsman Service, and the students (who will soon tire of the long bus rides), and that assessment must come soon.

Fred Graver

left in the lurch

Hugh Harman

There is a bit more to say on the subject of grad life, than I've said here, though sometimes I doubt whether I am the ideal spokesperson. Besides being the vestigial arm of the grad student political process, the Graduate Student Union has been charged with the improvement of the lives of grad students which, by definition, is against the law. And secondly, although the idea of half halls parties would seem to be applicable to grad halls, it doesn't quite work. The idea of a real (i.e. halfway alive) hall party at Brownson (or especially at Lewis is laughable. Carroll Hall has had my vote of past (as recent as September, 1973)!!) but there is a reluctance on the part of the rectors to have any parties ever because of fear that such involvement would cause Carroll to become ensnared in the politics of Macheca, Burtschi, and the Administration.

Consequently, meeting undergrads, especially if no classes are held with them, is more of a matter of chance and usually works (if at all) on the basis of friends of friends (i.e. the stereotypical jock) approach.

Besides being the vestigial arm of the grad student political process, the Graduate Student Union has been charged with the improvement of the lives of grad students which, by definition, is against the law. A task which on the surface might not appear too difficult at all. Still, being a member of their constituency, I often hear from the GSU they have to fight a year at a time: at the beginning when we are charged for dues being a member of their constituency, the Graduate Student Union has been charged with the improvement of the lives of grad students which, by definition, is against the law. And secondly, although the idea of half halls parties would seem to be applicable to grad halls, it doesn't quite work. The idea of a real (i.e. halfway alive) hall party at Brownson (or especially at Lewis is laughable. Carroll Hall has had my vote of past (as recent as September, 1973)!!) but there is a reluctance on the part of the rectors to have any parties ever because of fear that such involvement would cause Carroll to become ensnared in the politics of Macheca, Burtschi, and the Administration.

Consequently, meeting undergrads, especially if no classes are held with them, is more of a matter of chance and usually works (if at all) on the basis of friends of friends (i.e. the stereotypical jock) approach.

However, there are graduate students who would care to be a part of the undergraduate community. The undergrad life here at Notre Dame revolves around the dorms, in the subsequent exclusion of both grad and off-campus students. Because of this it is very difficult if not impossible, for the graduate to become at least half-way integrated into the student community. The (male) grad who would like to meet, for instance, undergrad women or (graduate women for that matter) are frustrated. The main device for off-campus interaction here at Notre Dame is the half-hall parties (which were until the new alcohol rules) to which non-half hall members are (rightfully) uninvited, although the idea of half halls parties would seem to be aplicable to grad halls, it doesn’t quite work. The idea of a real (i.e. halfway alive) hall party at Brownson (or especially at Lewis is laughable. Carroll Hall has had my vote of past (as recent as September, 1973)!!) but there is a reluctance on the part of the rectors to have any parties ever because of fear that such involvement would cause Carroll to become ensnared in the politics of Macheca, Burtschi, and the Administration.

Consequently, meeting undergrads, especially if no classes are held with them, is more of a matter of chance and usually works (if at all) on the basis of friends of friends (i.e. the stereotypical jock) approach.
Sometimes, in the months when I am lucky, I am able to attend one of those discussion groups where Seniors are the only ones present. The groups don't last long; I can hardly keep track of all the Senior discussions and don't ask me back again: what insights can be expected from a group that doesn't know whether he is seminarian or colloquing? Anyway, I sit as the ponderous patron on shabby furniture at the back of the room or the attic of Walsh, trying to look and sound like a sharpie who has been left behind together with a supply of shit to his shit together (the idiom is not mine!), or whatever in hell it is that people get together in these days when they are trying to appear the sharper image.

The students, being bright, young minds from Cleveland or Omaha, are generally friendly and interested. I can find someone in the group who has had at least a love affair with the world and who is capable of talking to them of the Civil Rights Movement, as though I were also among them. They don't suggest the Emancipation Proclamation. The anti-war movement? Well, it can be done so, but the anti-war movement was mostly supported by nuts and fanatics; and they gaze at me with an unfocused fanatic and-or nut looks like these days. I am not sure that I don't want to touch that one myself. World hunger? Yes, agree, that is really sad, but we've never really known what it is to be hungry," except for bad nights in the dining hall. Atomic annihilation? That is, of course, a stark problem, if you want to talk about it. So: better not think about it. Watergate? Oh, God, they're so sick of hearing about that. The watergate of those who have fathers who are Republican lawmakers. If you are going to play political games with Watergate in your discussion, what about the sex scandal at Chap­

You sit there, feeling sick, because for ten years, my mother has consisted in a passion for causes. Here, seemingly, is a generation without causes. What is a cause anyway? Whatever it is that people get together for these days when they are trying to appear the sharper image.

The students, being bright, young minds from Cleveland or Omaha, are generally friendly and interested. I can find someone in the group who has had at least a love affair with the world and who is capable of talking to them of the Civil Rights Movement, as though I were also among them. They don't suggest the Emancipation Proclamation. The anti-war movement? Well, it can be done so, but the anti-war movement was mostly supported by nuts and fanatics; and they gaze at me with an unfocused fanatic and-or nut looks like these days. I am not sure that I don't want to touch that one myself. World hunger? Yes, agree, that is really sad, but we've never really known what it is to be hungry," except for bad nights in the dining hall. Atomic annihilation? That is, of course, a stark problem, if you want to talk about it. So: better not think about it. Watergate? Oh, God, they're so sick of hearing about that. The watergate of those who have fathers who are Republican lawmakers. If you are going to play political games with Watergate in your discussion, what about the sex scandal at Chap­

You sit there, feeling sick, because for ten years, my mother has consisted in a passion for causes. Here, seemingly, is a generation without causes. What is a cause anyway? Whatever it is that people get together for these days when they are trying to appear the sharper image.

The students, being bright, young minds from Cleveland or Omaha, are generally friendly and interested. I can find someone in the group who has had at least a love affair with the world and who is capable of talking to them of the Civil Rights Movement, as though I were also among them. They don't suggest the Emancipation Proclamation. The anti-war movement? Well, it can be done so, but the anti-war movement was mostly supported by nuts and fanatics; and they gaze at me with an unfocused fanatic and-or nut looks like these days. I am not sure that I don't want to touch that one myself. World hunger? Yes, agree, that is really sad, but we've never really known what it is to be hungry," except for bad nights in the dining hall. Atomic annihilation? That is, of course, a stark problem, if you want to talk about it. So: better not think about it. Watergate? Oh, God, they're so sick of hearing about that. The watergate of those who have fathers who are Republican lawmakers. If you are going to play political games with Watergate in your discussion, what about the sex scandal at Chap­

You sit there, feeling sick, because for ten years, my mother has consisted in a passion for causes. Here, seemingly, is a generation without causes. What is a cause anyway? Whatever it is that people get together for these days when they are trying to appear the sharper image.

The students, being bright, young minds from Cleveland or Omaha, are generally friendly and interested. I can find someone in the group who has had at least a love affair with the world and who is capable of talking to them of the Civil Rights Movement, as though I were also among them. They don't suggest the Emancipation Proclamation. The anti-war movement? Well, it can be done so, but the anti-war movement was mostly supported by nuts and fanatics; and they gaze at me with an unfocused fanatic and-or nut looks like these days. I am not sure that I don't want to touch that one myself. World hunger? Yes, agree, that is really sad, but we've never really known what it is to be hungry," except for bad nights in the dining hall. Atomic annihilation? That is, of course, a stark problem, if you want to talk about it. So: better not think about it. Watergate? Oh, God, they're so sick of hearing about that. The watergate of those who have fathers who are Republican lawmakers. If you are going to play political games with Watergate in your discussion, what about the sex scandal at Chap­

You sit there, feeling sick, because for ten years, my mother has consisted in a passion for causes. Here, seemingly, is a generation without causes. What is a cause anyway? Whatever it is that people get together for these days when they are trying to appear the sharper image.

The students, being bright, young minds from Cleveland or Omaha, are generally friendly and interested. I can find someone in the group who has had at least a love affair with the world and who is capable of talking to them of the Civil Rights Movement, as though I were also among them. They don't suggest the Emancipation Proclamation. The anti-war movement? Well, it can be done so, but the anti-war movement was mostly supported by nuts and fanatics; and they gaze at me with an unfocused fanatic and-or nut looks like these days. I am not sure that I don't want to touch that one myself. World hunger? Yes, agree, that is really sad, but we've never really known what it is to be hungry," except for bad nights in the dining hall. Atomic annihilation? That is, of course, a stark problem, if you want to talk about it. So: better not think about it. Watergate? Oh, God, they're so sick of hearing about that. The watergate of those who have fathers who are Republican lawmakers. If you are going to play political games with Watergate in your discussion, what about the sex scandal at Chap­
Wearing tall, black shakos, flashing red doublets, and the Irish kilt and cape, the Irish Guard leads the band with their high stepping precision marching. Mr. Robert O'Brien, the band director, characterized the group as "the prestige unit which most typifies the spirit of the Fighting Irish."

Formed in 1961 by then band director H. Lee Hope and Fr. Kenagh, the group has remained a close-knit, intensely spirited division of the band. The guard is an integral part of the band with its formations and routines, yet even there it remains a privileged class.

One must at least six feet two inches tall to join the Irish Guard, and with the furry black shakos perched on their heads, the group towers awesomely over the crowd. The rest of the uniform is patterned after a Scottish or Irish military garb.

A regimented cape is fixed by the shakos, a polished stone pin from an Irish mountain range, to a papal red doublet. The spora, a horse hair ornament originally designed to carry food and ammunition, is worn in front over the traditional Irish kilt. Black shoes with white spats finish the uniform.

In addition to these, Mr. John Pyfe, the guard drillmaster, wears a short bladed claymore and a sword. A sword is fixed by the shakos, a polished stone pin from an Irish mountain range, to a papal red doublet. The spora, a horse hair ornament originally designed to carry food and ammunition, is worn in front over the traditional Irish kilt. Black shoes with white spats finish the uniform.

Their colorful garb makes the guard the center of attention for fans, but Terry Cavanaugh, the guard captain, said that the attention of 60,000 people does not bother him. "You're nervous at first waiting in the tunnel for the pregame, but once you get out on the field you don't think of anything. You're always concentrating on what the step is and where your next move is."

Their regular practice sessions are not too regimented, but on football Saturdays the group turns into emotionless, precision marchers. "This is especially tough on Saturdays," mentioned Cavanaugh, "when you have families coming to examine the group." Any guard member who smiles under examination forfeits the right to march in the next game. "You try to think about your mother or something," said Cavanaugh.

The twenty-three years of the Irish Guard have been a constant struggle to make the group more Irish and more embodied with Notre Dame tradition. The first kilt was that of the Black Watch Scottish military group. Next the guard adopted the plaid of the Scottish family McNeil of Barra.

In the 1980s O'Brien and Pyfe collaborated in producing Notre Dame's own trademarked Irish plaid in blue, gold, green, black, and red. The colors symbolize Notre Dame, Ireland, and Catholicism. The kilts themselves are sewn in Scotland. The new kilts arrived last fall and will be worn for the first time at the Purdue game.

The Irish Guard marches in full regalia at home football games, the away game of the band trip, and other special events. Last year the group led the parade down Bourbon Street in New Orleans at the Sugar Bowl and marched in the St. Patrick's Day Parade in St. Louis.

The new "rookies" of the guard must endure a rigorous initiation before being accepted into the full fraternity of the guard. Last year new members had to do such things as shave their arm pits, but "zap" comics, and catch a fish from St. Joe lake. One of the rooks caught a three inch carp, but it died before the presentation. To save his neck, he explained that its name was Fido and he had taught it to play dead.

Many people play an integral part in the Notre Dame community and are never given proper recognition. One such person is Tom Burke, drum major for the University of Notre Dame Marching Band.

Burke's primary duties are to direct the band, lead marching and organize formations for the halftime shows of home football games. "I think to provide the leadership necessary to have a great band, on and off the field," said Burke.

This year's drum major was chosen after a series of auditions last spring. The job of drum major is a staff position with the Notre Dame band. Burke puts in between fifteen and twenty hours weekly on band practices, organizational meetings and chairing meetings of the show committee.

Burke acknowledged the fact that he has a lot less free time this year, than in the past. He cited the fact that there are no specific number of hours that he must dedicate to the band. "There are simply a number of tasks that I am responsible for carrying out, and I am trying to have an effective marching band," he said. He feels that it is all a matter of scheduling time effectively and setting proper priorities.

Previewing this year's band, Burke noted that not only is it the largest in history, but it has the potential for being the finest ever. "I really hope that band members will want to work with me instead of for me," he said.

He noted that enthusiasm is an important element in the success of the band. "I hope the band will want to do a good job instead of having to do a good job," he said.

As well as musical and leadership abilities, the drum major must keep himself in good physical condition. Tom's biggest responsibility during the summer was to keep in good shape. "I did a lot of running and basically tried to keep healthy," he admitted.

After graduating, Tom plans to enter the field of engineering. Before becoming drum major, Burke played trumpet for two years with the Notre Dame band. In high school, he was in the band all four years, two of which were spent as drum major.

Mr. John Pyfe is a native Scotman with an accent so heavy that one can hear both r's in sporrns. He came to the group in 1960, after having served in the Scottish Army during World War II, and whipped the group into its present professional form. When he arrived, the guard was so bad, "They had string holding the plaid and they wore old army spats up to the knee."

The Irish Clog, a dance step performed by the group, was inspired by an old Scottish dance known by Pyfe. O'Brien wrote the tune Danny Boy ( Gaelic for victory dance) for the step.

One measure of the closeness of the Irish Guard was seen when the member s all donated blood when Mr. O'Brien underwent open heart surgery several years ago.

Marching for the guard is not always a pleasure. Traditionally in a rookie's first march, the kilt is pinned through his flesh as an aid to concentration. One of the worst chagrins for the guard occurred in New York one day when the field was a quagmire of mud. The guard ran out of the tunnel and three members promptly slipped and fell into a huge puddle.

Precision marching demands a concentration that is difficult to sustain. Tim Jordan, a second year man, remarked what other members did to concentrate. "What Jim (Donnelly) always thinks about is getting back in step with everyone else."

Tom Burke provides it

Position requires leadership

Many people play an integral part in the Notre Dame community and are never given proper recognition. One such person is Tom Burke, drum major for the University of Notre Dame Marching Band.

Burke's primary duties are to direct the band, lead marching and organize formations for the halftime shows of home football games. "I hope to provide the leadership necessary to have a great band, on and off the field," said Burke.

This year's drum major was chosen after a series of auditions last spring. The job of drum major is a staff position with the Notre Dame band. Burke puts in between fifteen and twenty hours weekly on band practices, organizational meetings and chairing meetings of the show committee.

Burke acknowledged the fact that he has a lot less free time this year, than in the past. He cited the fact that there are no specific number of hours that he must dedicate to the band. "There are simply a number of tasks that I am responsible for carrying out, and I am trying to have an effective marching band," he said. He feels that it is all a matter of scheduling time effectively and setting proper priorities.

Previewing this year's band, Burke noted that not only is it the largest in history, but it has the potential for being the finest ever. "I really hope that band members will want to work with me instead of for me," he said.

He noted that enthusiasm is an important element in the success of the band. "I hope the band will want to do a good job instead of having to do a good job," he said.

As well as musical and leadership abilities, the drum major must keep himself in good physical condition. Tom's biggest responsibility during the summer was to keep in good shape. "I did a lot of running and basically tried to keep healthy," he admitted.

Before becoming drum major, Burke played trumpet for two years with the Notre Dame band. In high school, he was in the band all four years, two of which were spent as drum major.
A small but great marching band

by Thomas O'Neill
Staff Reporter

What is the 1974-75 Marching Band like? Well, according to Nic Catrambone, president of the Band, it is "unique".

"The Band is actually a social organization," according to Catrambone. "There is a sense of family in the Band. Parties and informal gatherings are frequent and there is an element of enjoyment in everything we do."

The quality of the shows is improving, Catrambone explained. A greater variety in performance is emphasized. For instance, for the first time in its history the Band performed a song and dance routine at a home football game last year. A unique presentation of "The Entertainer" is planned for the Purdue game tomorrow afternoon.

The Notre Dame Marching Band has been known for being stricter with its members than most other bands. The music for each show must be memorized beforehand so the marcher can concentrate on movement and performance.

There is a two hour rehearsal for the Band every day plus "sectional" practice where each marcher practices with his section. The Wednesday before the Home Game is "Our Night", one night when the Band will stay out until it knows the entire show.

Catrambone compared the ND Marching Band to the Notre Dame football team. "We don't really have bands," he said. "They have armies. When they pour out onto the field you can't tell if 20 marchers are making mistakes, he noted, but because we are so small, each one of our members has to outmarcb 20 members of the other band. And we do it."

The Faculty Director of the Band is Dr. Robert O'Brien, who has served in that position for 2 years. He is affectionately called "O-B" by Band members, and he is known among them for being both strict and personal with individual marchers.

"He keeps a constant standard of performance," according to Catrambone. "his strong point is organization, but he is nevertheless extremely persuasive. By the first homgame of every year he knows us all by our first names. He is the best thing we've got."

There are two major parts within the Band framework, Catrambone explained. There is the administrative part which is headed by the Band officers. They are responsible for planning Band trips like the one planned for the Michigan State game, as well as picnics and banquets, keeping attendance and managing dues. They are also responsible for the spiritual attitude of the Band.

The other part is the Core Band, "the band within a band." They are upperclassmen and the best marchers with display leadership abilities. They are responsible for freshmen and other new Band members. Tom Burke, Drum Major, is in charge of the Core Band.

"But beyond all this, ' Catrambone continued, "beyond all the responsibility, strictness and organization, the Band must be the most bizarre organization for fun and friendship. Our favorite tradition, for instance, is the pre-rally which is exclusive to the Band. We all first have a few drinks in a friend's room and then get dressed up in the craziest rags we can find. Then we get a cigar and soak it in rum, each of us, then get together, smoke them and play "number seven" (i.e. "In Heaven There is No Beer"). And then we just raise hell till the rally."

"We're a small, but great marching Band," he concluded, "and being in the Band is truly a unique and valuable experience."

The Notre Dame band is larger than ever with 157 members, 35 of whom are women

The ND Marching Band is larger than ever this year with 157 members, 26 of whom are women. Women were first admitted to the Marching Band in 1972 when eight women joined.

"The admission of girls to the Band has made a great impression. The Band used to be a collection of dirtballs," according to Catrambone. "But since the women joined us we have had a good time instead of a drunken row."

The ND Marching Band is larger than ever this

Oldest in Country
First appearance made in 1846

by Ellen Silberg
Staff Reporter

The Notre Dame Band, the oldest college band in the country, is enjoying its 128th year of existence. Its first documented appearance was the commencement exercises of 1846. When the football team made its home debut against Michigan in 1872 the band was there and has been highly visible ever since.

This long, proud tradition does not prevent the band from being one of the most innovative marching units in the country. The Band of the Fighting Irish was the first to include pageantry, precision drill and "picture" formations in its halftime and pre-game shows.

The group was part of the initial experimentation with electronic equipment such as walkie-talkies and amplified instruments. Their most recent experimentation has been with the first one-headed marching drum and hi-stepper drum carry. This latest development allows the drummer in performing Notre Dame's famous and difficult hike-step routine.

There is an old legend that says those students who did not make the football team immediately tried out for the band so that they could still travel and see the country, Knute Rockne, for example, played flute for Notre Dame in 1916.

The band is, in fact, one of the most traveled groups of its kind in the country, because its extensive performance during the football season, the band performs at many civic functions and dedications. It has also been the logical national choice to lead countless St. Patrick's Day parades.

The band played a benefit concert for the victims of the Chicago Fire in 1871. It has also been on hand at the Circle to play for Notre Dame Students leaving to serve in every war since the Civil War. Besides its reputation for technical innovation and travel, the band is famous for the music it plays. The "Notre Dame Victory March" was first performed in 1908. Since then it has become one of the most copied and paraphrased college songs of all time. "Notre Dame, Our Mother", the school's alma mater, was composed by a former bandmaster and band director, the late Joseph Casasanta. Casasanta directed the band from 1919-42 and composed several other school songs including "Hike, Notre Dame" and "When Irish Rack's Go Marching By."

The band continued its innovative tendencies when, in 1929, the all-male tradition was waived and women from St. Mary's College were incorporated into the marching unit. This co-educational aspect was, of course, enlarged when Notre Dame admitted its first women undergraduates in 1972.

With its deserved reputation for technical innovation and musical excellence the Band of the Fighting Irish will undoubtedly remain an important aspect of the Notre Dame tradition.
The Student Government Budget Committee decided Wednesday on cutbacks of funds to campus organizations. Student Government, Student Union, and the Hall President's Council received the major share of the allocations with eighteen other clubs receiving shares. We are mainly concerned with making the students aware of where the funds are being distributed,' stated Mike Schnaus, student government treasurer. Schnaus gave four guidelines for this allocation of funds. The strictest guideline was the Student Government's refusal to substitute club parties and social activities because in the past, much of the club's allotted money was spent carelessly. Another guideline parallel to the first was the number of club members and how, in general, to handle their internal finances. Clubs appealing their budget allocation are to submit their appeal to Mike Schnaus before 5:00 p.m., Monday, Oct. 7. The Student Government received a mild increase because it has been more active compared to last year,' said Schnaus.

The following is the official allocations:

BUDGET ALLOCATIONS 1974-1975

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Organization</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Student Union</td>
<td>$49,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student Government</td>
<td>23,125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HPC</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hall Life Fund</td>
<td>8,500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>An Testament</td>
<td>4,500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>International Students</td>
<td>1,500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MECHA</td>
<td>1,500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Neighborhood Study Help</td>
<td>1,200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Society of Ujamaa</td>
<td>1,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WSND AM-FM Circle K</td>
<td>300</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gymnastics Club</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Finance Club</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Red Cross</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baltic Club</td>
<td>150</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pre-Law Society</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bowling Club</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sailing Club</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lacrosse Club</td>
<td>100</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fellowship of Christian Athletes</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AIESEC</td>
<td>50</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Total $83,000

---

THE LARGEST SPORTS ISSUE EVER PUBLISHED

Esquire presents the biggest, most comprehensive all sports issue ever, a virtual Olympics in print. Match wits with the experts and find out what you really know about sports. Learn who the best coaches are in our high schools, colleges and among the pros. Find out who's who in the Sports Establishment in which Esquire puts 514 sports personalities in their proper places.

For these and many, many more exciting sports highlights enjoy features by Bobby Riggs, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Cannon, Gay Talese, Irwin Shaw, Roger Kahn and a wealth of other outstanding authorities. Don't miss Esquire, now on sale.

---

21 organizations receive funds

by Louie Luna

Staff Reporter

The Student Government Budget Committee decided Wednesday on cutbacks of funds to campus organizations. Student Government, Student Union, and the Hall President's Council received the major share of the allocations with eighteen other clubs receiving shares.

We are mainly concerned with making the students aware of where the funds are being distributed,' stated Mike Schnaus, student government treasurer. Schnaus gave four guidelines for this allocation of funds. The strictest guideline was the Student Government's refusal to substitute club parties and social activities because in the past, much of the club's allotted money was spent carelessly. Another guideline parallel to the first was the number of club members and how, in general, to handle their internal finances.

Clubs appealing their budget allocation are to submit their appeal to Mike Schnaus before 5:00 p.m., Monday, Oct. 7. The Student Government received a mild increase because it has been more active compared to last year,' said Schnaus.

The following is the official allocations:

SMC housing director named

by Patty Conkey

Contributing Writer

Nanette Blais has replaced Karen O'Neill as director of housing at St. Mary's. Blais is now director of placement.

"But having arrived here, I have made no definite plans to change anything. I have vague ideas on changing the room selection procedure, but most do some research first," Blais commented.

Blais, a resident of Bourbonnais, Illinois, graduated from SMC this year, with a liberal arts degree in French. "I think this job will provide me with a great opportunity to be creative. I'm interested in having a good time and dealing with people," she said.

"This job also offers me the chance to be of service to every aspect of the community. The housing office is very versatile and encompasses every aspect of the community: parents, alumni, students, faculty and administrators," Blais explained.

For the next two weeks Blais will be researching the room selection process and familiarizing herself with the office. "My first project will be preparing for room changes in November. This will involve transfer students, students returning from Europe, as well as students requesting room changes," said Blais.

"This is a BIG appetite? visit:

Azar's BIG BOY RESTAURANT
52860 U.S. 31 North
TRY OUR COUNTRY FRIED CHICKEN
(SPECIALS ON TUESDAY AND THURSDAY)
Phone 272-9720 for carry-out service
A Notre Dame graduate is waging a one-man war on the steps of the two campus dining halls. His battle cry: "A penny is equal to three bowls of porridge, a dime is equal to thirty bowls of porridge, a nickel is equal to three major overseas relief organizations was the ideal of Fr. Sondej developed a statistical model of global poverty. He noted that the driving force in his work with these organizations was the ideal of Fr. Theodore Hesburgh, Notre Dame President and noted spokesman on human rights, on "the role of interdependency among world nations." It was also during his undergraduate stay at Notre Dame that Sondej developed a statistical knowledge and awareness of the world's social problems. Statistics strikes me," he explained.

"It's something when one realizes that out of a world population of 3.8 billion, 2 billion are malnourished, 2 billion are illiterate," he added. "They really is something when one considers dialogue is necessary in the fight to alleviate poverty." Sondej expressed a hope that "this country will develop a sense of awareness of other countries." He emphasized that a distribution of wealth among all nations will "eventually come about." He is Al Sondej, a 1974 graduate with a degree in sociology. In eleven days of campaigning this spring, he has reached and been told the reasons for an hour and a half about the changes in departmental spokesman," he explained that he consulted the faculty through the Search Committee. "I did not meet with all faculty, because as in the other departments where a search committee was set up, that committee selected a departmental spokesman," he wrote. Crosson also pointed out that he spoke with two members of the CAP for an hour and a half about the appointment. Kurtz, however, noted that this discussion took place five days after the appointment was announced.

"I define dialogue as discussing the issues before a decision is reached and being told the reasons for the decision before it is announced," said Kurtz. "What Crosson considers dialogue is defending a decision that has already been made," he charged.

The Heart Fund anticipates other fund-raising events such as another football game, a fashion show and a bike-a-thon. Saturday's event is sponsored by the First National Bank and station WSB. Anyone who wishes to contribute to the Heart Fund can make their donations at the Heart Fund office at 3010 Mishawaka Ave., South Bend, Ind. The purpose of the meeting is to assign stations to the volunteers and establish route procedures for the collection of money.

"A penny is equal to three bowls of porridge, a dime is equal to thirty bowls of porridge, a quarter is equal to hundred bowls of porridge, a dollar is equal to thousand bowls of porridge." Sondej responds: "I would have to go back and learn a skill to go overseas. If anything is needed overseas, it is money. People are needed badly there, but so is money. Likewise I am doing here.

The moneys collected by Sondej go to three organizations: Catholic Relief Services, CARE, and UNICEF. He emphasized that the important feature about these three agencies is that each of them strives to help the poor help themselves. He noted that the Catholic Relief Services feeds over 10 million people every day. It feeds pregnant mothers at special health clinics, children at school and men working at construction projects like irrigation ditches and public buildings. CARE feeds over 28 million people daily all over the globe, while helping to teach skills to the unemployed and family planning to married couples. Currently this organization is working with the victims of the six-year drought which has plauged such western African nations as Chad and Niger.

Currently, in his own way he is making a dent in the problems of poverty and hunger. Moreover, in his own words he is making an imprint of selflessness and charity upon the Notre Dame community.

Choice of dept. head disputed

(continued from page 3)

Heart Fund to solicit volunteers off campus

The Heart Fund anticipates other fund-raising events such as another football game, a fashion show and a bike-a-thon. Saturday's event is sponsored by the First National Bank and station WSB. Anyone who wishes to contribute to the Heart Fund can make their donations at the Heart Fund office at 3010 Mishawaka Ave., South Bend, Ind. The purpose of the meeting is to assign stations to the volunteers and establish route procedures for the collection of money.

"A penny is equal to three bowls of porridge, a dime is equal to thirty bowls of porridge, a quarter is equal to hundred bowls of porridge, a dollar is equal to thousand bowls of porridge." Sondej responds: "I would have to go back and learn a skill to go overseas. If anything is needed overseas, it is money. People are needed badly there, but so is money. Likewise I am doing here.

The moneys collected by Sondej go to three organizations: Catholic Relief Services, CARE, and UNICEF. He emphasized that the important feature about these three agencies is that each of them strives to help the poor help themselves. He noted that the Catholic Relief Services feeds over 10 million people every day. It feeds pregnant mothers at special health clinics, children at school and men working at construction projects like irrigation ditches and public buildings. CARE feeds over 28 million people daily all over the globe, while helping to teach skills to the unemployed and family planning to married couples. Currently this organization is working with the victims of the six-year drought which has plauged such western African nations as Chad and Niger.

Currently, in his own way he is making a dent in the problems of poverty and hunger. Moreover, in his own words he is making an imprint of selflessness and charity upon the Notre Dame community.

Choice of dept. head disputed

(continued from page 3)
mast votes" wrote the six CAP professors.

Lack of Dialogue

Kurtz charged that there has been a "lack of dialogue" between the administration and the departmental chairmanship. He contends that Crosson's claim of having come across a single professor he was never consulted by the dean. In a letter to Kurtz Crosson explained that he consulted the faculty through the Search Committee. "I did not meet with all faculty, because as in the other departments where a search committee was set up, that committee selected a departmental spokesman," he wrote.

Crosson also pointed out that he spoke with two members of the CAP for an hour and a half about the appointment. Kurtz, however, noted that this discussion took place five days after the appointment was announced.

"I define dialogue as discussing the issues before a decision is reached and being told the reasons for the decision before it is announced," said Kurtz. "What Crosson considers dialogue is defending a decision that has already been made," he charged.

The Heart Fund anticipates other fund-raising events such as another football game, a fashion show and a bike-a-thon. Saturday's event is sponsored by the First National Bank and station WSB. Anyone who wishes to contribute to the Heart Fund can make their donations at the Heart Fund office at 3010 Mishawaka Ave., South Bend, Ind. The purpose of the meeting is to assign stations to the volunteers and establish route procedures for the collection of money.

"A penny is equal to three bowls of porridge, a dime is equal to thirty bowls of porridge, a quarter is equal to hundred bowls of porridge, a dollar is equal to thousand bowls of porridge." Sondej responds: "I would have to go back and learn a skill to go overseas. If anything is needed overseas, it is money. People are needed badly there, but so is money. Likewise I am doing here.

The moneys collected by Sondej go to three organizations: Catholic Relief Services, CARE, and UNICEF. He emphasized that the important feature about these three agencies is that each of them strives to help the poor help themselves. He noted that the Catholic Relief Services feeds over 10 million people every day. It feeds pregnant mothers at special health clinics, children at school and men working at construction projects like irrigation ditches and public buildings. CARE feeds over 28 million people daily all over the globe, while helping to teach skills to the unemployed and family planning to married couples. Currently this organization is working with the victims of the six-year drought which has plauged such western African nations as Chad and Niger.

Currently, in his own way he is making a dent in the problems of poverty and hunger. Moreover, in his own words he is making an imprint of selflessness and charity upon the Notre Dame community.
BUSINESS EXCHANGE CLUB MEETS

by John Kerrard
Staff Reporter

Seventeen members attended AIESEC's first general meeting Wednesday night in room 120 of the Haynes-Healy Center. AIESEC stands for the International Association of Students in Economy and Commerce, translated from French.

An organization of Notre Dame students tied to the national organization in New York, AIESEC coordinates the exchange of foreign and American students interested in serving an internship in business abroad.

Linda Vanderwert, Midwest Manager of the national organization, gave a talk about AIESEC from the national viewpoint. Brought up at the meeting was a report by Jim Quinn, Director of Finances, forming the group of future financial projects which includes hot dog stand at home football games.

Plans for a luncheon with fifteen South Bend businessmen on Monday, Sept. 30th, were also discussed.

Tom Webber, chairman of Notre Dame AIESEC described the objectives his group will try to strive for, both immediate and future. "We are planning a moderate growth with successful-minded and enthusiastic people who are interested in making business their career," he said.

Webber commented, "As it stands now we would like three or four more students to join us!" Webber remarked that for business majors and those with just an interest in business, AIESEC is actually a dynamic learning process.

"We try to supplement the learning on paper with real experiences with commerce in South Bend and abroad. Going to Europe as an exchange student is not a learning process. We try to supplement the learning on paper with real experiences with commerce in South Bend and abroad. Going to Europe, Webber added Webber.

When asked about AIESEC's main goal for the individual, Webber responded, "We want to develop their concepts of economics and commerce by exposing them to local and European businesses."

"AIESEC helps the person see himself working under the pressure and active pace that exists in the world of business."
Government created to encourage Arts. The national committee is an SMC · to the National Endowment for the Arts. The national committee is an smoke concerning either the suit or the settlement in a suit received. Bergin stated, "Membership on the panel represents a first rate opportunity to assist in a tremendously important curriculum area elementary and high school-the arts, an area that has been neglected and abandoned." "The Artists-In-Schools Program receives requests for money to support visiting artists and art programs in schools. The National Endowment for the Arts acts upon the Advisory Panel's proposals and matches, dollar for dollar, the amount of money put up by the schools," he observed. "This year's budget had to be cut by almost 25 percent," said Bergin. "And it was necessary to cut judiciously in order that schools get the most from the money allocated."

The Artists-In-Schools Program began in 1969 and has become one of the Arts Endowment's most successful programs. "We have 1275 artists in residence employed in schools. Programs are offered in crafts, dance, film music, poetry, theater and visual arts. The artists simply go to a school system and work with the children, holding workshops in their specialty and discussing aspects of their art with the students," Bergin said. The program provides employment for talented young artists in a new dimension on where and how artists can give," concluded Bergin. "At first, schools were slow to respond. They thought the program competition with the teachers, "Bergin admitted. "However, the increased demands for funds indicate that the school systems recognize the benefits to the school children and host communities where the Artist-In-Schools Program is in progress.

In accepting chairmanship of the Arts-In-Schools Panel, Bergin said he felt a "genuine sense of great challenge, a real break through, primarily because I feel the program represents the one great track, the one great creative option and structure through which the arts might take some giant steps and move as we have never been able to move before."
The Irish Eye

(continued from page 14)

more interested in the 'oohs' and 'ahs' a especially that cool yrung 'Cat Tony Dorsett. The game is in Pittsburgh of the afternoon and a tough pick. The Trojans have had a week off to lick injury for at least another week. Again, somebody should take pity on Barry Switzer won't fall asleep in the first quarter. Oklahoma by the Brown Bears.

"They'll pass. We have to be alert "They'll run out of the slot-1 and

Rhode Island at Brown: Great things are happening at Brown (yawn)

Upset

Washington State at Illinois: The Illini have come into their own while the Brown Bears.

Season:

SMU at Ohio State: The 'ckeyes continue their tough rough schedule with some preachers from down South. Woody Hayescould have had Purdue than an an Eastern game this year, but he probably figured SMU would be the team to beat in 74. OSU by plenty. Arizona State at Missouri: Missouri is surprisingly mediocre this year

Washington State at Illinois: The Illini have come into their own while State in the wilderness of the West Northwest. Illinois by 16.

Tennessee at Auburn: Tennessee could Volunteer themselves right out of the SEC competition with another lackluster performance. Head Coach Bill Battle won't allow that however and Auburn hasn't had anything since Pat Sullivan left. Tennessee by 12.

Rhode Island at Brown: Great things are happening at Brown (yawn) and that means winning more than one football game or loosing less than seven. This intrastate battle would gather no attention but look for the Brown Bears

"The Irish defense remains intact and unchanged and poised on facing a Purdue attack which features both the run and the pass. "Purdue will do a lot of things as of discount

Irish host Purdue

(continued from page 14)

By Andy Praschak

"Tickets for all homecoming-oriented activities will be on sale as of today," said Richard Guiltinan, chairman of the Student Union Social Commission. Tickets are available for football game, Gordon Lightfoot concert and the annual "Homecoming Party". Tickets for this year's party, entitled "Cabarret," will go on sale today at 1:30 p.m. at the Student Union ticket office. "We can only keep the offer open as long as our supply of discounted tickets last," said Guiltinan. As of now, there are only 150 tickets available at a reduced price.

"Cabarret" will be held on Saturday, October 12, from 8:30 to 1 a.m. at the Silver Beach Ballroom. The party site is in St. Joseph, Michigan, 30 miles north of campus.

The ballroom is situated in an old amusement park on the shores of Lake Michigan. "The building will supply the perfect atmosphere for our theme, "Cabarret", remarked the Social Commission.

Busses will be provided, free of charge, for anyone wishing to make use of them. Guiltinan recommended that anyone driving should make an attempt to form car pools. The Student Union will provide maps for anyone desiring them.

"I'd like to stress the fact that everyone should be extremely careful driving to and from the event," said Guiltinan. If this event is successful, it will be the first of many off-campus events involving the proper use of alcohol as a social stimulus, according to Guiltinan.

The "come as you are" event will feature two bands, "Wind" and one not yet secured. In keeping with the "Cabarret" theme, refreshments will include beer, wine, bread, cheese, and fruit. "We expect the tickets for the party to sell out at a quick rate," added Guiltinan.

Also on sale today will be tickets for the Rice game on October 12. These tickets will also be on sale as long as the supply lasts.

"They haven't been moving as fast as we thought they would," said Guiltinan. The party and football tickets can be bought in one package for $23.

Tickets for the concert, slated for Friday, October 11, may be purchased at the Student Union ticket office. "These tickets have been selling rapidly as we expected concluded Guiltinan.

The Colonial

"Enjoy a snack or dinner"

35 Varieties of Pancakes Chicken - Steak - Sandwiches Friday Nites: Perch Dinners

U.S. 31 (Dixieway) North
(Across from Holiday Inn)

Your Host: Bob Edwards, ND '50

STUDENT UNION PRESENTS HOMECOMING '74 GORDON LIGHTFOOT CONCERT FRIDAY OCTOBER 11 8:30 p.m.

NOTRE DAME ATHLETIC AND CONVOCATION CENTER TICKETS: $6.50, $5.50, $4.00 TICKETS NOW ON SALE FROM 1:30 - 5:00 AT THE STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE IN LAFORTUNE, AND FROM 9:00 - 5:00 AT THE GATE 10 TICKET OFFICE AT THE A.C.C.
The Opening Statement (continued from page 16)
cannot afford to take lightly. The coaching staff has spent the week impressing on the players the fact that, despite Purdue's record, they are a strong team. Notre Dame must prepare for a traditional, hungry for Irish blood. The gentlemen from Lafayette have little to lose and a great deal to gain in this contest. More than once the Boilermakers have faced The gentlemen from Lafayette have little to lose and a great deal to gain in this contest. More than once the Boilermakers have faced Notre Dame as underdogs and have emerged the "Spoliers." This year they bring with them a high, strong defense that promises to test the Irish offense. They have one of the world's fastest pass receivers and a new coach who would like nothing better than to beat his former boss.

N.D.'s veterans remember last year's game with Purdue. The Boilermakers hit hard, even in defeat, and they promise to hit even harder this year. Nothing but a total effort on the part of the Irish will prevent the Boilers from accomplishing the upset they have in mind. As Coach Parseighian stated, the Irish are a good team. But a good team can suffer defeat at the hands of an average team if there is a total effort from the players. The gentlemen from Lafayette have a deal to gain in this contest. More than once the Boilermakers have faced Notre Dame as underdogs and have emerged the "SPOILER." This year they bring with them a high, strong defense that promises to test the Irish offense. They have one of the world's fastest pass receivers and a new coach who would like nothing better than to beat his former boss.

For Sale:

1980 Ford Mustang V 8 2 speed
Good condition. Best offer. Call 1413

90 VW - AM-FM stereo, excellent cond. Best offer. Call after 8 pm 327-3929

Sherwood 9900 A FM receiver 232-888

1976 Chevy stationwagon, low mileage, good condition, good. Call anytime John - 1466

For Sale: Honeywell Pest gun Mattie Tatmukar; 1:25 mm lens 272-0475. Ray

For Sale: Upright Piano - 50. Yes. It works. Call 272-9990 after 5 pm

WANTED

Desperately need 2 - 4 Purdue tix will Pay. Call 7471

Wanted: 2 tickets to Mich. State game - Desperate! Call 8143

Need 2 or 4 GA tix for Purdue. Will Pay. Call 7471

Need 2 GA Pit tickets will pay! Sue 6771

Need 2 GA Purdue tix. Please call 6965 or 254

Need to ride to Cleveland Oct. 4 weekend. Call Mary 1526

Need 2 GA or Student tix for Purdue. Call 4854

Need desperately: three Michigan State tix. Call Jerry 1638

2 Purdue GA tix. Will pay good price. Call 1602

Need GA Purdue Tix. Call Norm 277-0130

WANTED: Scoutmasters Local Boy Scout troop north of campus is in need of a volunteer scoutmaster. Call 283-7322

WANTED - 2 - 4 Tix Pitt and or Miami call Mark 3638

Wanted: 2 Rice GA tix & 4 Army GA tix. Call John or Kathy 380-1569

Classified Ads

Notices

TOM'S UNIVERSITY STAND. 11:00-1:00 PM @ HOME. PURDUE RD. 21 WILL GIVE YOU A FREE N.D. GLASS WITH A FILL-UP

D. Mokleksi - your letter jacket was found Sat. on the So. Quad. Call Mark 1752

GORDON LIGHTFOOT TICKETS NOW ON SALE AT THE STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE

Free puppies. One: 6 months others - 3 months. Call 234-7760

Euphoria records lowest price for all records. Including imports and cali outs plus weekly specials. 234-635

TALIEMAN AVAILABLE FOR PARTIES, DANCES, CONCERTS & PREGAME PERFORMANCES. Call 374-9195 FOR INFORMATION.

Money? Morrissey loan fund can lend you up to $150; basement of Lafartune - Daily, 11:15 - 12:15

TICKETS FOR THE LINYRD SKYNYRD-HYDRA - CONCERT OCTOBER 1 AT MORRIS CIVIC AUDITORIUM ARE NOW ON SALE AT THE STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE, 2ND FLOOR LAFORTUNE.

Now you can read the N.Y. Times daily and on 9pm. Get your copy at Pandoras Books. We'll reserve one for you

HOCKEY GAME: THE CAMPUS VIEW CRUNCHIES vs. THE FLANNER FROGS. WED OCT 2, 11:00 PM AT THE ACC CAMPUS VIEW AND STONERIDGE RESIDENTS WHO WANT TO PLAY BUT HAVEN'T SIGNED UP YET, CALL CLIFF AT 272-986

SHA NA NA TICKETS NOW AVAILABLE AT THE STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE. 2ND FLOOR LAFORTUNE. HOURS THIS SEMESTER WILL BE FROM 12:15 - 5:00 MWF AND 11:00-12:00 & 2:30-5:00 TT.

Lost in Keys in North dining hall Thurs. Sept. 19, NBC insignia on key chains. Reward. Call 3358

PERSONALS

Lady in red, I love you too. Who are you? The Slapper

Gail, Happy 21st BIRTHDAY to you! (am not your twin)

Tracy has two nice tix for Purdue Peeking Pete

Dear ying' Could Jim O'Malley chug 9/4 shots and live to tell about it T.V.

P.S. Sleep me to death

A HAPPY 3rd ANNIVERSARY TO MARGE AND FRANK. GOD BLESS YOU BOTH TOM

Welcome to du Lac: Denise, Sam, Cindy, Love, 135

Ah Chris, you sultry bitch with fire in your eyes -

Ben Dover, I'll get you in the end! King Walter

To the Romas Pontiff On this the unholy day of your birth, the world wonders at your treachery. But we graciously wish you a HAPPY BIRTHDAY. AntiChristal Coalition

To the guy who retrieved the pants stuck on the ledge: Thank you for boosting our morale

Happiest nineteenth birthday Beanie. Love, your three frosh. Remember the double T.P. (have a drink on us!)

Help me celebrate my 21st birthday Call 4644

Gail Dear

Hey ramblin Chris why don't you settle down. Loretta ain't your kind of town. There ain't no gold and there ain't no mudder like me. I'm, the number one fan of the gal from Johnes F. Eddie D.

Frez, we are glad to see you back

Ditta, still very much I'm gone you...
Ara after second Irish first

by Greg Corgan
Sports Editor

When Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame and Alex Agase of Purdue match wits and wide receivers in Notre Dame stadium tomorrow afternoon a couple of second-place positions will be at stake.

For Ara, a victory tomorrow will give him sole possession of second place on the all-time Irish list.

Parseghian, now in his 11th year at Notre Dame, upped his record to 80-14-4 with wins over Georgia Tech and Northwestern. A triumph over the Boilermakers would enable Ara to surpass the legendary Frank Leahy who was 80-11-1 in 11 years.

For the Irish, second place is where they stand in the recent AP and VT college football polls. And first is where they'd rather be. An important win over Purdue would certainly aid the cause.

Unfortunately for all concerned, certain obstacles stand in the way, not the least of which are Agase and Larry Burton.

The Blue-Notre Dame rivalry which means more than just a share of Hoosier history.

University of Wisconsin, Penn State, and Navy have themselves a lot better than Navy. Michigan by Purdue has some fine people and some fast people (i.e. Larry Burton) but Purdue has some fine people and some faster people (i.e. Larry Burton). And it seems that the '74 college football season should provide fans with quite a few more of major upsets. And it seems that the '74 college football season should provide fans with quite a few more of major upsets.

Easily the observa.

One thing is certain. We're going to be prepared mentally and physically to win that football game.

The Irish are prepared mentally as well, knowing Parseghian's trying to do with Agase, but physically they'll still be missing running back Art Bost. Best is recovering from a broken jaw and is expected to be back in pads Monday but will definitely miss Saturday's clash with the Boilers.

Joining quarterback Tom Clements in the starting backfield will be fullback Wayne Bullock, and halfbacks Al Samuel and Ron Goodman. The Irish are prepared with four other running backs, however, Russ Korman, Tom Parise, Jim Weiler and Mark McCane are all expected to see action.

Ara Parseghian's
time for the Irish nation's sixth leading receiver in split end Pete Demmerle. Demmerle, in two games, has already caught 13 passes for 205 yards and one touchdown.

Kevin Doherty and fresh­men Ken McAfee are behind

The Irish "O" has a bigger

(continued on page 14)

Like Haorse to Snow, Harranly to Seymour, and Theissmann to Gatwood before them, Tom Clements at Purdue in the morning and the Irish have themselves a contest.

Greg Corg
The Irish Eye

Football picks

The phrase 'on any given day' may be well used and well-worn, but last Saturday it was also well-taken.

No less than eight teams, including Nebraska, LSU Penn State, Arkansas, Houston, UCLA, Stanford, and Maryland were the victims of upsets. And it is true that the '74 college football season should prove fans with quite a few more of these 'given days.'

With all the upsets in college football these past few weeks, you can never tell what might happen,' said Ara Parseghian earlier this week.

Parseghian's hoping the Irish will know what's happening this Saturday afternoon when they open their home season with Purdue, but elsewhere, it could be another one of those 'given days.'

This week's picks:

Purdue at Notre Dame: In the first home game of the season the Irish are always out to impress the home fans. And Tom Clements will.

Purdue has some fine people and some fast people (i.e. Larry Burton) but Purdue has some fine people and some fast people (i.e. Larry Burton). And it seems that the '74 college football season should provide fans with quite a few more of major upsets. And it seems that the '74 college football season should provide fans with quite a few more of major upsets.

Penn State at Iowa: The Nittany Lions were overly generous with Western Michigan last week and the Paterno has restored the roar to last week's whining kitty cats. This week the Lions' favorite food may be Hawkeyes, Iowa style.

Purdue at UCLA: The Spartans have allowed but seven points in two games while the Uclans could manage only ten in an upset loss to Iowa last week. The Bruins have been hibernating for the past three weeks but a hometown L.A. crowd may wake them up. UCLA by one.

Indiana at Kentucky: This could be the Hoosiers only chance of winning this year. But Lexington is Wildcat homeland and Hoosiers deal more easily with cows and pigs. Look for Kentucky.

Michigan at Navy: Navy may not be the team it was a few years ago but the Midwest Navy has still a few tricks up its sleeve. Navy by one.

Vanderbilt at Alabama: Who's Bear Bryant kidding? Southern Mississippi one week and Vanderbilt the next. They probably have Wake Forest and Alabama a 1,000.

Utah State at Oklahoma: This one's even worse. The Sooners are only number one in the polls at this time. Utah State is not bad, but they are not as good as the Sooners and their defense is no match for their intellectual makeup and strict adherence to the rules, the Sooners are

(continued on page 14)

The Opening Statement

Apparently Notre Dame did not win well enough against Northwestern last week. At least that's what the Associated Press did. The A.P. could have everyone believe since replacing Notre Dame with Ohio State as their choice for the number one team. In the nation. There are even those around here who would echo the 'scribes' misgivings with their anxious queries. 'What was the matter with those guys, anyway?' Of course, they only beat the projected spread by a point, gaining a mere 60 or so yards in total offense. Something must have been wrong. Under circumstances other than last week's, however, the result could have been the same.

Heading the list of those concerned about last week's performance are the Notre Dame coaches. In spite of the result.

Heading the list of those concerned about last week's performance are the Notre Dame coaches. In spite of the result.

Notre Dame's関 related to the offense. But mental laxity leads to physical error. The truth comes to mind. That is split end Larry Burton who accounted for the only Boilermaker points against the Irish last season on a 53 yard touch down bomb. Burton, along with quarterback Mike Terrizzi and fullback Scott Dierking, constitute the essence of the Notre Dame running game.

Heading the list of those concerned about last week's performance are the Notre Dame coaches. In spite of the result.

Heading the list of those concerned about last week's performance are the Notre Dame coaches. In spite of the result.

One thing is certain. We're going to be prepared mentally and physically to win that football game.

The Irish are prepared mentally as well, knowing Parseghian's trying to do with Agase, but physically they'll still be missing running back Art Bost. Best is recovering from a broken jaw and is expected to be back in pads Monday but will definitely miss Saturday's clash with the Boilers.

Joining quarterback Tom Clements in the starting backfield will be fullback Wayne Bullock, and halfbacks Al Samuel and Ron Goodman. The Irish are prepared with four other running backs, however, Russ Korman, Tom Parise, Jim Weiler and Mark McCane are all expected to see action.

Ara Parseghian's

(continued on page 15)