Senior Club changes managers

Not managed consistent with what Student Affairs wanted

William "Butch" Smith, manager of the Alumni-Senior Club, was dismissed from his position on Tuesday, November 26. Fr. Terrence Lally, associate vice-president for Student Affairs, stated that Smith was dismissed for managing the club that was not consistent with what Student Affairs wanted.

Dean of Students John Macheca, who was directly involved in the dismissal, commented "the decision was with regard to management. I'm not trying to place the blame on any one person, but we were..." The situation was discussed by the senior class.

Operation of the Alumni-Senior Club will continue through the remainder of the semester, under the operation of Jim Swidick, former Assistant Manager of the Club, and Jim Shanahan, former Business Manager.

Senior Class President Greg Ericksen stated, "Butch was trying in things with the operation that Student Affairs disagreed with. Now, we intend to find out what they are. I think Shanahan and Swidick are working in with that intention."

Smith missed

Smith commented on his dismissal by saying, "There were disagreements between us on how the Club should be run, but I was misled into believing I was doing a good job."

"There were numerous situations where I was patted on the back in public," Smith continued. "Within a week before I was let go, Dr. Ackerman told me 'Butch, we are convinced you were the right choice for the job."

Smith said, "two weeks before, I was sitting in the upstairs lounge with Terry Lally, and I asked him how he felt things were going, and he told me, 'Butch, this is the way the club should be run.'"

Smith's dismissal was the decision of Lally, Macheca, and Dr. Robert Ackerman, director of special development for student affairs.

According to Lally, "Smith had to put up with three demanding bosses, who were upstairs, who were upstairs."

Lally stated the philosophy of the club as "not a place with people passing in and out, but a place run by Student Affairs that seniors could enjoy and use as their own place."

"There has not been a single project this year in Student Affairs that has taken as much of our time as this one," Lally continued. "It is a place we're totally concerned about. I just wish it had worked out the first time..."

Not consistent with philosophy

"There were practical things relating to the interpretation of policy," said Ackerman.

Lally stated that, "Butch was constantly in dialogue with us, from the day one, over interpretation of policy. We need a manager who works consistently with our philosophy, and not the place running."

It was hard to keep the place running. It was the kind of deal where you're operating in a mystery; we weren't getting solid answers."

Lally stated that he, Macheca and Ackerman had met with Smith many times to discuss their dissatisfaction with the management of the Club. "We had a list of eighteen or nineteen things that we had told him, but he just refused to admit the problems."

Smith claimed that he was never given a list of problems. "I was never confronted with an enumerated list. I think they made it up over break, because they didn't show it to me when they fired me."

"I was never confronted with a situation of 'if you don't do this or correct this you will be fired,'" Smith continued.

"We met every Monday, Macheca, Lally, Ackerman, Shanahan, Swidick and I and I was never singled out at meetings or told of changes that had to be made. They never pressured me to correct anything," Smith stated.

Ericksen cited the dismissal as "a communication problem." "Butch's intentions for the club and the intentions for the Student Affairs office were never made clear to each other," Ericksen said.

"Indication was made that Butch would be fired, previous to the actual thing, from the Student Affairs office. I wish he would have been warned, given a fair trial or probation period."

Smith protests firing

Smith has protested the process of his firing to University Personnel Director Joseph O'Brien. Smith claimed he would have been notified in advance of the firing.

O'Brien has told Fr. Lally that Smith was not covered in any way by the University's policies for dismissal of employees, as he had worked for only twelve weeks and was still on a trial period.

"I worked for twelve weeks as a manager," stated Smith, "but that's counting the time from the middle of August that I put into the bar." Smith also cited his position as a member of the Club as a reason for Smith's dismissal. "We weren't looking for a tavern keeper like Tool's Short, but we could have made up a lot of Seniors, were capable of running a Club for them, servicing them, and helping them get along."

Faculty Senate argues budget review proposal

by Pat Cuneo
Staff Reporter

The Faculty Senate engaged in a heated debate over the budget review proposal at the Center for Continuing Education, Tuesday night.

The Report of the Faculty Senate's Committee on the Budget Review Proposal was the main issue discussed and at all night it was determined that the amended report would be circulated to the faculty, administration and Board of Trustees.

Professor James Danehy, chairman of the report committee, assisted by Professors Paul Conway, Waldemar Goulet and Erwin Fress, presented a four-page document that outlined the Budget Priorities Committee (BPC). Both the composition and the function of the BPC underwent acute observation by the Senate.

The Senate adopted an amendment introduced by Professor Vincent DeSantis which directly affects the function of the BPC. It stated that each member of the BPC will be furnished with the financial data that the executive budget committee and the President of the University have compiled. This amendment became necessary because the previous statement contained provisions which limited the scope of the BPC's powers.

A major portion of the debate concerned the composition of the BPC. The twenty-member committee will include the members of the executive budget committee, the President of the University, one student elected by the student body, one member of the University staff and six members of the faculty (one from each of the four colleges, the law school and the Library) elected by groups that teach will represent.

A controversial amendment that would also include the deans of the four colleges plus the Dean of the law school and the Director of Libraries was defeated.

Lastly, the Senate determined that the BPC will make an annual report to the Notre Dame Community. In the remaining minutes of the meeting, Senate Chairman Professor James Cushing introduced the topic of a Senate referendum. This referendum would consist of the many motions the Senate has supported or opposed. An example of this would be the Senate's document introducing a faculty salary increase which took place last June. The referendum would be presented to the faculty and they would be polled as to whether they agreed or disagreed with the Senate reports. The actual reason for the referendum would be to see the views of the faculty and whether or not the Senate does, in fact, represent the faculty.

The Senate then accepted a proposal introduced by Professor Robert Kerry which stated that a test-size referendum would be presented for discussion at the next meeting.

At the opening of the meeting, two letters were read by Professor Cushing which came from Fr. Theodore Hesburgh and Fr. James Burtchaell. Cushing stated that he would write again to Burtchaell because his letter concerning the opportunity for self-evaluation of the Senate was too vague.

In other business, the Collective Bargaining Report which was previously agreed to by the Senate was again briefly mentioned.

The Senate's resolution on religious discrimination in hiring was not mentioned at the meeting but several professors noted that discussion on this topic could not be completed in one meeting. Therefore, after more research, the Senate will discuss this problem next semester when it meets again.
WASHINGTON (UPI) - House Judiciary Committee members said Tuesday they were a conflict in Nelson A. Rockefeller's testimony about his knowledge of CIA activities in Chile and White House wiretapping during the Nixon administration. Rockefeller told the committee during testimony on his vice-presidential nomination that his only knowledge on the subjects came from newspaper reports months after the events. But several committee members say an investigation by their staff has turned up contradictory evidence.

800 students gobble turkey

Over eight hundred students partook of Thanksgiving dinner in the Notre Dame dining hall, according to Edmund Price, Director of Notre Dame Food Services.

“We expected more students to come than did,” remarked Price. He explained that estimates were made using figures obtained from last year’s Thanksgiving meal.

“However, there are always different variables affecting the count from year to year,” Price explained.

Price said that the only time the numbers were underestimated was the Friday after Thanksgiving when 1,223 students showed up for dinner. “We’ve tried issuing surveys before the break, but this method is often misleading also,” he noted.

According to Price, it is difficult to say why the dining hall remained open during Thanksgiving break but not during the one in October. “We can only make recommendations; the decision to remain open or closed during a break is made on the administrative level,” said Price.

Price suggested that some of the reasons they remained open during this break were that not everyone could get home over such a short break and also because they like to make the Thanksgiving dinner something special for the students.

Price found it interesting but not surprising to note that very few students showed up for breakfast during the entire break.

During the break, everyone on the staff was given their days off, even though there were two University holidays in this period, noted Price. “We also tried to get some extra cleaning and fixing up done in our spare time,” said Price.

Besides making Thanksgiving special, Price said that the quality of the food was kept consistent with normal standards. Price concluded by saying, “We try to do our best all the time. After all, ‘Service’ is our middle name.”

WASHINGTON UPI - Speaker Carl Albert said today he did not feel recovered.

"I don't think he's feeling well," Albert said, newsman. "It's as if he is physically ill."

After talking a moment, he added, "I'm not talking about any other thing - only his physical condition."

Albert, who has been meeting quietly to discuss removing Mills, D-Ark., from his relationship with the stripper and the popularity of his appearance on stage with his appearance on stage with Faune Foxe. The Arkansas Gazette, the largest newspaper in his home state, Monday called for him to "Forego his public indiscretions," and the Cincinnati Post and Times Star today said Mills had made a "fool of himself."

Events Monday cost Mills his power to make House committee assignments and the Democratic caucus voted today to expand his Ways and Means Committee from 8 to 25 members - presumably to pack it with liberal Democrats.

Congressman Charles B. Rangel, Democrat of New York, will speak "A Civil Rights Agenda for the Mid-Seventies" on Thursday, December 5, at 5 p.m., in the Center for Continuing Education Auditorium. Doobie Brothers rescheduled

by Bill Gonzensch

The Doobie Brothers Concert, which was postponed November 23, will be rescheduled for Saturday, December 10 at 8:30 p.m. in the ACC. "Tickets sold for the November concert will be honored at the rescheduled concert," said Don Boudard, ACC ticket manager.

"Anyone who wants a refund for their ticket must turn it in to the ticket office by 5 p.m. at Gate 6 on December 4," Boudard added.

The concert was originally postponed because Tom Johnston, lead guitarist and vocalist for the Doobie Brothers, developed an infection of the pancreas on Friday November 23. The band cancelled all performances for a week after Johnston's illness. However, they are now continuing their regularly scheduled tour.

In other concert news, Black Oak Arkansas is scheduled to perform December 17 in the ACC. Pete Kerman, South Bend and Notre Dame representative for Sunshine Promotions, has announced that rock group Jo Jo Gunne will also appear with Black Oak Arkansas. Tickets for the concert are available at the ACC and the regular downtown outlets.

Dear Editor:

I present here a few quotes from various sources, I believe they speak for themselves:

Los Angeles Times, December 2, 1974:
John McKay mildly needled Ara Parseghian for suggesting that his team was outplayed by Notre Dame, saying: "To hum. They won the game."

Los Angeles Times, December 1, 1974:

USA Today, December 1, 1974:
"...the audience couldn't help noticing the lack of voices, either."
Senior trip considered a success

by Ellen Syburg
Staff Reporter

Although the game was a disappointment and two late flights delayed the return of some students until 5:45 a.m. Tuesday morning, the Senior Class Trip to Los Angeles for the ND-USC game seems to have been a success.

Greg Ericksen, Senior Class President said, "Despite these problems, everyone had a great time." The trip was organized by the class officers: Ericksen; Bob Span, vice-president; Joe Henderson, secretary; and Chris Penn, treasurer.

Six hundred and seventeen students, including about five hundred seniors, made the trip. The students took buses in Chicago and then flew to Los Angeles in four planes.

On the return trip, the two flights scheduled to leave at 3:00 and 3:30 pm (4:00 and 4:30 pm, South Bend time) were delayed when the planes did not arrive in Los Angeles on time from their previous flights. The 3:00 flight (originally set at 7:00 p.m. (9:00 2 B.T. time) and arrived back at Notre Dame about 4:30 pm. The 3:30 group did not arrive until 5:00 a.m. because they encountered another delay when their bus from Chicago to South Bend experienced an electrical system failure. The students were forced to wait in L.A. Porta, Indiana until another bus arrived to bring them back to campus.

According to SMC, the USO was another frustrating part of the trip. Ericksen said, "The first half was great but in the bad half, just like everyone else, we couldn't believe it." He added that the fans from USC were very hospitable and that "USC is a classy team." Penn stated, "Our fans were great; there was no comparison with our spirit and theirs. The Notre Dame alumni out there are unbelievable.

Unlike much of the rest of the country, the weather in Los Angeles was very good. "We had sunshine and blue skies all the time and temperatures as high as 83," Ericksen reported. "No off-campus burglaries noted over vacation"

Fr. Thomas Tallarida, Director of Off-Campus Residents informed the Observer no burglaries or other incidents had been reported over break or by students returning to their South Bend residences.

Tallarida also added that his office is working with the police to compile a list of all burglaries of off-campus residents during November. A similar list was drawn up earlier for September and October.

Norbert Schickel, Vice-President of Sorin Hall, yesterday announced his hall and the Saint Mary's Social Commission were sponsoring a square dance, Friday December 6 at Omega Center. Schickel said the square dance will last from 8:00 p.m. until 12:00 a.m. and will be open to all Saint Mary's students and faculty and students are invited.

The admission price is 25 cents for adults and children free.

The unique thing about this dance, Schickel stated "is the fact we are encouraging all the people from the ND and SMC faculty to attend, not just staff or faculty or students, but all living with their families."

"As far as I know, this is the first time all these people have been invited for one social event along with students," he continued.

Bob Barnes will call for the square dance along with square dancing records Schickel reported.

"We'll have bangers, strunk lights lanterns, straw, a barn door painted on cardboard as an entrance, and possibly a water trough for atmosphere," Refreshments will consist of apples, popcorn, peanuts, ham, soft drinks and donuts.

Schickel said about 2000 invitations to faculty and staff were sent out by Sorin Hall and the SMC Social Commission is contacting people at St. Mary's and generally working with us on the whole project," Schickel said.

Sorin and SMC to sponsor square dance this Friday

by Matt Yalom
Staff Reporter

"No knowledge of square dancing is necessary; all you have to do is listen to the caller," Schickel said. He also stated "any inspired dress is welcome but not required."

Schickel recalled "the last square dance we went west super."

"We were hoping for about 500 people, but at least nearly 100 and a lot of people suggested having another one," he continued.

Schickel concluded "one of the reason we want to open it up to everyone is to fast the idea of the family, which included the staff and faculty as well as the students."

Schickel was appointed ND Student Union Social Commissioner last week.

Pep rally greets team's arrival

by Bill Flanagan
Staff Reporter

The 52-24 debacle in California on Saturday did little to dampen the spirits of the Irish football fans as hundreds of enthusiastic fans assembled at the Main Circle on Monday night to greet the team as they arrived back at the campus.

The idea of the pep rally was thought of by Dr. Donald Bender, a freckled from Sorin Hall. Bender came up with the idea while returning to the campus after Thanksgiving break.

"I was proud of them," Bender said. "Even though they lost, they never really gave up. I wanted to show that we aren't fair-weather friends."

Bender went to Bill McLean, Director of the Ombudsman Service, and the plans for the rally quickly took shape. The Ombudsman facilities were put into action and arrival times were checked and double-checked. Announcements were printed and distributed and Campus security made a huge effort to keep the area under control.

The schedule was disrupted when the plane carrying the Irish football team encountered strong head winds and was delayed. The team buses arrived at approximately 10:15 with the band playing the fight song and the fans screaming "Bear Down!"

Several people said they were disappointed when the buses did not arrive at the circle to unload. Security explained that the original plans were to have the buses unload at the circle, but the large crowd prevented it. Instead, the buses took the players to the A.C.C.

McLeans noted that Edmund Price, Director of Food Services, was "extremely cooperative" as far as making an announcement for the rally in the dining halls.

Nessen discounts criticism of Ford's lack of leadership

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Press Secretary Ron Nessen admitted today there is a "growing sense of frustration" in the White House over Ford's recent Far East trip as one which provided leadership to deal adequately with the nation's economic problems.

He noted that Congress took vacations during the November elections and Thanksgiving and will be leaving again soon for the Christmas holidays.

"Obviously, the economic situation is serious and there is a growing sense of frustration in the White House," Nessen said. "The comments that the President is not dealing with this economic problem—this seems to be unfair."

"The President has a long range view and a plan for the economy and within that plan he is reviewing constantly the shift...The overall plan is for curing this sick economy is to get rid of the long range deep deflation.

Ford, he said, is "frustrated for the country. He wants to get the country out of this economic mess and unless Congress acts, it's unfair."

The House has already set the possibility of a third consecutive congressional rejection of a presidential veto. The Senate was scheduled to vote on the override attempt tonight, and was expected to provide far more than the two-thirds majority required to override.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters that Ford believes the legislation is inflationary and that if Congress chooses to override his veto, he said "pay the bill."

"The President feels Congress should pay whatever it is voting on," he said.

In response to a question, he said the President "doesn't mean to be punitive or retaliatory."

"If they override, then Congress can vote to put up the money to pay the bill," Nessen said.

Nessen said that the vote is not simply to override but is a vote on "whether to increase the Federal budget by over a billion dollars."

Defending Ford's recent Far East trip as one which "was important and resulted in accomplishments," Nessen suggested in return that members of Congress "put their air travel card in mothballs" and act on Ford's 31-point program to improve the sagging economy — this, he said, is the real issue with remarks of Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., critical of Ford's recent Far East trip.

"The President in the United States is the leader of the free world, and as such he takes the responsibility of keeping the peace and security of the country. He wants to get rid of the long range deep deflation in this sick economy."

Ford, he said, is frustrated for the country. He wants to get the country out of this economic mess and unless Congress acts, it's unfair.

Nessen discounted criticism of Ford's lack of leadership.
Irish cagers begin home season with Northwestern

by Greg Corgan

Sports Editor

If Digger Phelps and his Irish brought a steady winning team into their home season tonight against Northwestern, the 13th season would have been suddenly shattered. Phelps doesn’t like to coach or practice like he was bit by the Illinois League bug, and his boys scored 41 points in a whiz-bang style that made Notre Dame come up short on both ends of the board. With that, the Irish’s effectiveness in moving the football against Northwestern’s last season as well as just this past Saturday and John Bracken. Center Dave Fields and forward Brad Cartwright saw some time on the front line.

NU Head Coach Tex Winter brings to South Bend a squad which returns 11 lettermen including three starters and, last year’s stars, Guard Billy McKinney (15.8 pp last year) and forward Willie Williams (15.9 pp). The Irish have big losses on the front line where Williams is 6-6, senior Greg Wells stands 6-4 and center James Wallace is 6-8. Wells averaged 11.4 points per game in 1972-73 with 9.2 rebounds while Wallace pulled down nine rebounds a game.

In reserve, Winter has guard Bob Hildebrand, a sophomore who started the last five games for Northwestern last season as well as juniors Tim Tansley and John Feslon. Center Dave Fields and forward Brad Cartwright saw some time on the front line.

Extra Points

The incredible story surrounding the 55-24 catastrophe Notre Dame suffered at the hands of USC was that in the last six minutes those 79 points were scored. The 55-24 game possessed the ingredients of the annual classic that it is grown to be. Throughout the week, the Los Angeles press built up Notre Dame as the best in the West, and most particularly the conference champions of the Pac-10. USC had possession of the ball nine times in the final 36 minutes including the pass interception run back for a touchdown by Charles Phillips. USC had possession of the ball nine times in the final 36 minutes including the pass interception run back for a touchdown by Charles Phillips, averaging 11.4 points per game in 1972-73 with 9.2 rebounds while Wallace pulled down nine rebounds a game.

The first half was quite a shock to anyone who’s followed Notre Dame football this year. The Irish’s effectiveness in moving the football against USC’s so-called “Rat Patrol” defense (to borrow a phrase from Friday’s HERALD EXAMINER), was a new and pleasant surprise. Let’s face it—ND has been blessed with the lack of talent in most of its victories this season. We should have had no problems over Navy, Rice and Pittsburgh this season. And perhaps the Irish will still be able to turn them right back into the ballgame. The loss to Purdue was due to mistakes that should never have been made. Loss of speed suspensions, injuries and mental errors have been attributed to ND’s “difficulties.” But the areas of ND’s performance at maximum vulnerability Saturday afternoon: lack of speed offensively and in the defensive backfield, and inability to exploit the weaknesses of the stack that was such a humiliation, the hopes of another championship season have been suddenly shattered.
