Storing views presidency as threat to Constitution

by Bob Radziewicz
Staff Reporter

Calling the American presidency "quasi-ruler," Herbert Storing, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, contended that a paradox existed at the same time because the executive office seemed to be a major threat to that very Constitution.

Speaking before a capacity audience at the Notre Dame Auditorium last night, Storing suggested that there may have been "so much Presidential overreach" in Congressional abdication which has caused a basic change in our system of government, a change involving Presidential escape from the limits of constitutional government.

"There has been a real revival of interest in the Founders' interpretation of the Constitution which has become cancerous during the last decades," Storing said. "The United States is a constitutional democracy, which means that what government may legitimately do is determined by a system of checks and balances in the Constitution, the distinguished professor stated.

Storing noted that the criticisms of the American Presidency that have been made during recent years have taken two forms. The first, characterized by the views of Mr. Sam Ervin, is the Presidency as having usurped the powers of the legislature, but such an interpretation has to be exercised by the Congress. The second contends that "the American Presidency has become a threat to the Constitution and has become, in Prof. Arthurd Kommers' words, 'a monster with the Constitution at its apax, the distinguished professor said.

Storing noted the criticisms of the American Presidency that have been made during recent years have taken two forms. The first, characterized by the views of Mr. Sam Ervin, is the Presidency as having usurped the powers of the legislature, but such an interpretation has to be exercised by the Congress. The second contends that "the American Presidency has become a threat to the Constitution and has become, in Prof. Arthurd Kommers' words, 'a monster with the Constitution at its apax, the distinguished professor said.

Kommers maintained the same position on the Constitution, its vitality, the separation of powers, and its power and authority are stubborn. There must be a separation of powers which depends very heavily on the rector stated. He explained Toohey. "I think Grace Rector's plan for dorm education," McCarry remarked. She said McNally, "I don't think it would compromise the University's morals to try it for one year."

Survey of alumni proposed

Concerning possible negative reaction on the part of some alumni, Bob Howl, chairman of the Hall Presidents Council, said, "I think they should consider the American President's actions. I don't think the opposition would be that great. If that is the only argument against coeds, then I don't think it would be hard to overcome," concluded Howl.

Prof. Robert Griffin, University chaplain, declined to comment, "I have to give it a great deal more thought before I'd care to make a statement, though on the surface it seems correct, he noted."

Grace Rector McNally elaborated on the criteria for selection of participants in the experiment. "We would look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.

The actual mean for selection are not known. "We will look for people who have the time and energy to make it work, not just people looking for a good room," explained McNally.
On energy program
Ford willing to compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford was reported Wednesday ready to compromise on parts of his controversial energy program, but the White House insisted that nothing will happen until Congress deals with President Ford's proposal in a better way.

Ford's proposals include energy pricing and a tax cut, which have already met resistance from some lawmakers. The White House said that Ford's proposals will be considered by Congress, but that no decision will be made until Congress acts on the proposals.

Ford also expressed a desire to negotiate with the lawmakers, saying that he is willing to make changes to his proposals to meet their concerns. However, a senior administration official said that Ford's guests said the president's appeal was low and that the president's energy program, as it now stands, is not ready to be considered by Congress.

Ford also pointed out that there is some disagreement among lawmakers on the issue of energy pricing and that the tax cut is not universally popular. He said that he is willing to negotiate on these issues, but that the president's proposals must be put forward in a better way.

Ford's proposals include taxes on high-gasoline prices as a means of increasing gasoline prices and allowing Ford to break even in the first year of the program. The White House said that Ford's proposals are not ready to be considered by Congress and that the president's proposals must be put forward in a better way.

Ford's proposals include energy pricing, which some lawmakers say is too high, and a tax cut, which is not popular among some lawmakers. The White House said that Ford's proposals are not ready to be considered by Congress and that the president's proposals must be put forward in a better way.
Conservation Committee, not much economizing being the main areas of concern. Continued from last semester, with members of the committee. Nothing has been done charges Flanigan. The last committee was held September, 1973, we must pay an increase in student tuition next year, primarily because of an inflation which has nearly tripled the price of coal and fuel oils in recent years. The increase is more than a 33 per cent average, due to the explosion of coal and heating oil prices in the past two years. Increases in the future can only be kept at a minimum by cutting waste of fuel and energy. According to Father James Ganser, a Dean's Search has been advertised the position in the Notre Dame Energy Conservation Committee to continue its work. The committee nationally admitted its executive程序. This includes the shutting of radiators, changing operating procedures in the power plant to optimize its use of fuel and reduce waste of steam. We are working hard as we can, without working a hardship on anyone. We are just asking everyone to cooperate.

According to Ganser, most of the fuel is used for heating of buildings. This is the area we had hoped to save on. During the winter months we had hoped to get people to conserve on heat. We can shut the heat off in the fall and spring to help conserve fuel." Heating and lighting are areas that the Energy Conservation Committee members worked hard on improving in conservation during the first semester. According to Carol Simmons, student representative on the committee, each member surveyed his own area and found ways of cutting down on consumption. The measures taken have had considerable effect on fuel use, especially in the library and ACC.

Another area of saving is within the power plant. It is presently burning 80 percent coal and 20 percent of the more expensive heating oil. The plant will be running "about 90 percent coal" when the operations are changed," said Ganser. This will mean savings of fuel costs in the future. "It's not getting better; it's getting worse," said Ganser. "We want people to cooperate, not get complacent."

"Inflation has already caused an increase in tuition fees of $200 for this academic year which is at least partly due to the explosion of coal and fuel oil prices. In the past two years. Increases in the future can only be kept at a minimum by cutting waste of fuel and energy. Fuel usage in the last two years has been limited to a small group of candidates. This number has now been limited to a small group of 3 or 4, whom they will recommend to Fr. Hesburgh. Another area of saving is within the power plant. It is presently burning 80 percent coal and 20 percent of the more expensive heating oil. The plant will be running "about 90 percent coal" when the operations are changed," said Ganser. This will mean savings of fuel costs in the future. "It's not getting better; it's getting worse," said Ganser. "We want people to cooperate, not get complacent."

Pre-Law Society Law Students Symposium Sat. Feb. 22 1:30 pm Library Auditorium All Invited University remains undecided regarding ’75-’76 tuition increase

by Chris Heribey
Staff Reporter

The amount of the tuition increase slated for the 1975-76 academic year still remains unknown.

When asked as to the amount of the increase, Father Jerome Wilson, vice president for finance and affairs, said, "I can't say at this time."

He did state, however, that, "It was raised high as the 12 per cent inflation rate that has hit our present economy over the past year."

Wilson said that the deans are presently working on the figures and that many meetings have been scheduled and pictures of enrollment are submitted to the trustees in May.

He added that the question is being kept open for as long as possible to prevent short lived economic fluctuations from influencing the final decision.

Besides increased fuel costs, Wilson added that the increase in inflated maintenance expenses, maintenance costs, which include employing janitors, repairmen, maintenance and cleaning facilities, and the fire station are expected to increase by 7.5 per cent.

The University has tried to reduce costs in this department by recently changing to a different asbestos cleaning company, the former company had planned to employ the new company at only a third of the cost.

The use of the O'Shaughnessy construction contribution will be made possible as soon as the stock is sold. Wilson emphasized such action may take some time until the declining market situation is remedied.

Prof. Paul Faithburns had mentioned in a February 6 interview that by attracting the enrollment of eligible minorities, including blacks and women, the tuition expense gap between public and private schools might close. He felt that attracting minorities into college ranks would be the answer to fulfilling enrollment at schools which had priced themselves "out of business."

Daniel Saracino, associate director of admissions, reaffirmed that there was no coo-relation between the deans and minority students to "counteract the situation not only in our College but elsewhere.

The federal government and university aid is awarded on an individual student basis in the form of loans, grants, or work-study jobs.

Students will have to wait until May, it seems, before actual tuition increases are disclosed.

Found last May

Court discloses SLA victim list

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — A court document disclosed Wednesday that FBI agents have found Symbionese Liberation Army lists of names and addresses for death and kidnapping in a Los Angeles suburb and that the leader of the group had been kidnapped by Patricia Hearst.

The FBI said it found the material last May 6, the day before six members of the SLA were killed in a shootout with police.

Among items found were Miss Hearst's Social Security card, her airline student discount card, a university of California card of Steven Weed, her driver's license, and a picture of the couple eating with chopsticks in a Berkeley apartment.

The card and photos were cut diagonally, apparently so

Tattoos not taboo despite current state of economy

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Despite the hard times, out-of-the-way location and the pain they must endure, customers keep a tattoo parlor in downtown Fort Worth going.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.

Marie, the business was sandwiched between a boot shop and a barber shop in Fort Worth, and said the shop was under the same roof as a tattoo parlor.
At Morrissey meeting

McLaughlin discusses calendar

by Jada DeCourtry

The academic calendar was the main topic of conversation at an informal gathering of students and student government officials at Morrissey's lounge last night.

McLaughlin said, "The Academic Council recommended a post Labor Day start and a break during Thanksgiving and it was just assumed that the break at Thanksgiving would be longer than it is now."

Calling on student reactions by students, McLaughlin said, "We've had vals, but people feel it won't be changed." He suggested that the best thing students can do is approach student government with their suggestion.

"No one on the Academic Council wants to bring up the issue again," he added.

Suggestions were made about starting a boycott or forming picket lines, but McLaughlin replied negatively to the suggestion. "In our talk at the Hall President's Council meeting last night, the same suggestion came up, but most members felt it wouldn't be necessary."

McLaughlin also said, "Unless you have a large number of students willing to strike, you shouldn't strike."

Some student in the audience said that the calendar is just one more example of PT. James Burchael, University provost, getting everything he wants. One student said, "He's becoming a little dictator." Other students, citing quotes of student academic council members in yesterday's Observer said that the students were not in touch with student opinion about a long Thanksgiving break.

Replying to these complaints, McLaughlin pointed out that a meeting would be held Thursday night in LaFortune ballroom at 6:30 to talk about complaints. "We figure most talk will be about the calendar, but any complaints can be brought forward."

"Bills before the Indiana legislature were also discussed. McLaughlin stated that the bill relieving universities of liability in alcohol related accidents had a good chance for passage but felt that it wouldn't have much effect on drinking on campus. "We still won't be able to have hall parties." Concerning the bill to lower the drinking age to 18, McLaughlin said, "The bill went to the House Public Policy Committee, and the chairman, Chester Dobis, said it wouldn't get out of his committee, but Richard Bodine, (a Democrat from South Bend) is pressuring the chairman to hold a hearing and get the bill out of committee onto the floor."

"The only change in hall accommodations would have to be beefed up in areas where women reside," McNally explained, "I hope it will not be necessary to force anyone," commented McNally.

McLaughlin expressed the hope that a large number of present residents would not be forced to leave. "My hope is that men now in Grace would be willing to subject themselves to a greater risk in the lottery to assure a coeducational experience for those who remain," remarked McNally.

MCNALLY explained, "I hope it will not be necessary to force anyone," commented McNally.

"The coed sections would be very much a part of the hall," said McNally. "The entire hall will be involved, all the people would be part of the experience," he explained.

Concerning specific changes in the hall operation to accommodate women McNally explained, "Security would have to be beefed up in areas where women reside, but whether Deters cards will be used will be decided later."

The coed dorm reactions positive

(continued from page 1)

The plan, McNally said, is to "force the administration to become a little more open-minded about what students want." He suggested that student with complaints contact Brian McGlytly, student government police coordinator. McNally also read several proposals that are being studied by a committee in the SLC, which would limit resident powers and increase student rights.

One student suggested student representation on the Board of Trustees, which is being considered by some state universities.

Replying, McNally said, "We would need a lot of students on the board, and a few wouldn't do us much good. At the present time, we give presentations before the board and this seems to work well. The board members listen to us and give us a decent chance. I wouldn't favor getting one or two seats on the board if it meant giving up our presentations."

Concerning the upcoming elections, McNally said, "I will not endorse anybody in the upcoming elections, and I feel that the biggest issue is the students vs. administration."

In an open question about campus life, McNally said, "I believe campus life will be supercharged music ever heard."

Co-ed dorm reactions positive

cw, the observer

Night Editor - Thomas O’Neil
Asst Night Editor - Martha L. Fanning
Layout - Gregg Bangs, Maureen Sahl, Marit Hagan, Julie Peleskier, Bob Brink, Bob Nader, Jim Stevens
Copy Editor - Story - Sibeth Girouard and Golden Voice Hands
Day Editor - Val Zurblis
Sports - Greg Conley
Typists - Janet Carney, Jim Landis, Tom Modglin, Barb Norreens, Neil Vili, M.J. Foley
Camographic Operator - Mel Blesener
Picture Screener - Al Night Editor - Rick Haver
BElATED HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO ALFACe; Managing Editor to End

International
Students
Open House
Open House in International Students Room
(Basement of LaFortune)
Tuesdays & Thursdays
12:20 pm - 1:10 pm
Free Coffee and Munchies
All students, administrative staff and faculty welcome.

Co-ed dorm reactions positive

cw, the observer

Night Editor - Thomas O’Neil
Asst Night Editor - Martha L. Fanning
Layout - Gregg Bangs, Maureen Sahl, Marit Hagan, Julie Peleskier, Bob Brink, Bob Nader, Jim Stevens
Copy Editor - Story - Sibeth Girouard and Golden Voice Hands
Day Editor - Val Zurblis
Sports - Greg Conley
Typists - Janet Carney, Jim Landis, Tom Modglin, Barb Norreens, Neil Vili, M.J. Foley
Camographic Operator - Mel Blesener
Picture Screener - Al Night Editor - Rick Haver
BELATED HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO ALFACe; Managing Editor to End

International
Students
Open House
Open House in International Students Room
(Basement of LaFortune)
Tuesdays & Thursdays
12:20 pm - 1:10 pm
Free Coffee and Munchies
All students, administrative staff and faculty welcome.

Co-ed dorm reactions positive

cw, the observer

Night Editor - Thomas O’Neil
Asst Night Editor - Martha L. Fanning
Layout - Gregg Bangs, Maureen Sahl, Marit Hagan, Julie Peleskier, Bob Brink, Bob Nader, Jim Stevens
Copy Editor - Story - Sibeth Girouard and Golden Voice Hands
Day Editor - Val Zurblis
Sports - Greg Conley
Typists - Janet Carney, Jim Landis, Tom Modglin, Barb Norreens, Neil Vili, M.J. Foley
Camographic Operator - Mel Blesener
Picture Screener - Al Night Editor - Rick Haver
BElATED HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO ALFACe; Managing Editor to End

International
Students
Open House
Open House in International Students Room
(Basement of LaFortune)
Tuesdays & Thursdays
12:20 pm - 1:10 pm
Free Coffee and Munchies
All students, administrative staff and faculty welcome.
Kissinger returns from Middle East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew back to Washington Wednesday at the end of his 10-day journey through the Middle East and Europe as a possible reduction in the price of oil.

In Paris, his last stop before flying home, Kissinger breakfasted with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and indicated afterward the United States probably would attend a preparatory meeting next month for a French-proposed international energy conference.

The secretary planned to return to the Middle East in about three weeks to try to conclude an agreement between Egypt and Israel on a new troop withdrawal in the Suez canal.

The room selection with priority to class means that juniors have first choice, sophomores, second choice and freshmen, third choice. Priority is given according to the number that the student has.

Under this housing policy, no rooms will be reserved for freshmen. Freshmen will be placed in rooms after the room selection process.

A student may freeze her room on April fourteenth, and the lottery will be on April 16. The times and places will be posted later. Room selection days are Monday, April 21 through Thursday, April 24.

A $50.00 non-refundable room deposit fee is due in the Business Office during business hours on April 9 for juniors, April 10 for sophomores, and April 11 for freshmen.

"Anyone not having a receipt at the time of room selection will be placed last by the Housing Office," Blais noted.

Blais added that the room deposit fee could not be refunded if a student decides to transfer or to move off campus after the room selection.

"Students who are moving off campus, transferring, taking a leave of absence, or going abroad should give their names to the Housing Office by April 11," Blais said. Students who have any questions should see Blais before April elevenths.

Blais observed that letters will be sent out by next week to students who are taking leave of absence so that they can choose a contact student to select their room for them. She noted that several people do not have contact students. Students should send the name of a friend to the Housing Office to choose their rooms for them if they do not have a contact student.

Last Monday night the SMC Student Government conducted a poll during dinner concerning the room selection policy. According to Blais, approximately 25 per cent of the student body voted. Of the 25 percent of the students who voted, over half of them voted for some type of freeze policy. The biggest objection to any policy was the proposal of reserving rooms for freshmen.
FRIDAY, FEB. 23
5-11 p.m.
Podunk
Thornhill
576-0309

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House Intelligence Committee scheduled a hearing Thursday to investigate the National Archives' handling of a Nixon tape that was made on March 10, 1973.

The committee, chaired by Rep. Barber B. Conable, R-N.Y., and composed of 25 House members, will hear testimony from administrative and legal staff of the National Archives.

The hearing is the latest in a series of hearings and investigations into the handling of the Nixon tapes by the National Archives.

The committee is investigating whether the National Archives properly handled the tapes and whether any laws were broken.

The tapes were made during Nixon's presidential campaign in 1972 and contain evidence of possible violations of campaign finance laws.

The committee has been investigating the handling of the tapes since 1973 and has called several witnesses to testify.

The latest hearing will be held in the Longworth House Office Building in Washington, D.C.
Iceman alive and well with Irish

by Pete McHugh

Has the "Iceman" comeeth, and goeth? Where are the game winning baskets? the expert passes? the twisting layups? Just what's happened to Dwight Clay?

To begin with, Dwight the "Iceman" liveth, playeth, and talketh still. And though seeming less action than any of his previous seasons, he's more concerned about his team than his playing time. "Well, really it bothers me because I'm used to starting, but it's good to everybody some playing time especially if we can get into the rhythm of things," says Clay.

Not that Clay has been dormant all season. He's been a key performer for the team since winning the 0.95 pt. and leads Notre Dame in assists for the third straight year. His shooting in the first half of the season helped to relieve some of Adrian Dantley's scoring burden, with a 22 point performance against Northwestern his season's best.

In January, Dwight's game was frustrated to a certain extent with the recurrence of last year's nagging foot injury. Following a brawl with Marquette in Milwaukee, he was sidelined for close to a week with the more common ailments of fatigue. He's hoping to offset the setbacks, however. "Any kind of injury or sickness does affect your game. You lose your timing, but gradually you can get back with practice."

"Being a senior guard, I'm really not satisfied with my scoring, but overall I'm really not satisfied. I'm getting my stats and assists up. I would like to be playing a little better going into the playoffs.

Dwight does see the Irish as jelling into a more varied attack with the progress of the young players. "We've come a long way from a six-man team to a ten-man team.Everybody's now having the confidence to shoot and shoot with the ball. It's important that you come into pre-game with the right frame of mind."

He's particularly impressed with his backcourt teammates, freshmen "Tock" Williams and Jeff Turner. "I think they're coming rather quickly. Williams and Turner are a lot more advanced than when I was a freshman. It's not that they're young anymore. Maybe in age and class they are, but on the floor they're experiencing much more. I can take the challenge of playing with the best with a grain of salt."

As team captain and co-captain with Peter Creasy, he deems it an added responsibility with the youthful Irish. "The captain shows leadership but on this team the role isn't as big. Everybody's got to prove himself and play up to expectations every game."

Whatever his future, Clay has plenty to look back on. In his last minute foul shots were the difference against Ohio State and Pittsburgh. That same year he switched Marquette's 81 game home streak with a corner jump shot. And, of course, last season he blew UCLA and their 88-game winning streak on another now immortal jumper. Anyway, this is how the tournament is designed to function:

SMC trounces Bethel

The Notre Dame ski team stretched its winning streak to nine straight victory with a dominating victory over St. Mary's basketball squad yesterday as the second place finishers in the A.C.C. tournament. The Irish Eye's sectional matches could hypothetically look something like this:

The East

at Penn LaSalle vs. at large (possibly Providence or Holy Cross) Pennsylvania vs. at large (possibly Rutgers or St. John's or Fordham)

at Davidson

Maryland (or whoever wins the wacky A.C.C tournament) vs. at large (Pitt or Syracuse) Furman vs. at large the Midwest

at Alabama

MAC winner (possibly Central Michigan, Bowling Green, Miami, Western Michigan and Toledo) at large at Alabama vs. at large South Carolina

at Kentucky

Indiana at large (possibly Memphis, Middle Tennessee vs. at large NC-State) at large

the Midwest

at Texas Tech

Texas A&M vs. at large Notre Dame

at large Kentucky (second place SEC) vs. Arizona (second place ACC)

at Oral Roberts

Louisville vs. at large Oral Roberts Kansas or Kansas St. of large at large Oregon State or USC

the West

at Arizona State

Arizona State vs. at large Purdue (second place Big Ten)

Nebraska Las Vegas vs. at large Creighton

at Washington

UCLA vs. at large Utah State

Montana at large San Francisco

Two other hopefuls to consider have to be New Hampshire and Wisconsin. The experts pass on the two with their five sixth points in addition to her seven steals.

St. Mary's basketball squad stretched its winning streak to nine straight victory with a dominating victory over St. Mary's basketball squad yesterday as the second place finishers in the A.C.C. tournament. The Irish Eye's sectional matches could hypothetically look something like this:

The East

at Penn LaSalle vs. at large (possibly Providence or Holy Cross) Pennsylvania vs. at large (possibly Rutgers or St. John's or Fordham)

at Davidson

Maryland (or whoever wins the wacky A.C.C tournament) vs. at large (Pitt or Syracuse) Furman vs. at large the Midwest

at Alabama

MAC winner (possibly Central Michigan, Bowling Green, Miami, Western Michigan and Toledo) at large at Alabama vs. at large South Carolina

at Kentucky

Indiana at large (possibly Memphis, Middle Tennessee vs. at large NC-State) at large

the Midwest

at Texas Tech

Texas A&M vs. at large Notre Dame

at large Kentucky (second place SEC) vs. Arizona (second place ACC)

at Oral Roberts

Louisville vs. at large Oral Roberts Kansas or Kansas St. of large at large Oregon State or USC

the West

at Arizona State

Arizona State vs. at large Purdue (second place Big Ten)

Nebraska Las Vegas vs. at large Creighton

at Washington

UCLA vs. at large Utah State

Montana at large San Francisco

Two other hopefuls to consider have to be New Hampshire and Wisconsin. The experts pass on the two with their five sixth points in addition to her seven steals.

The Notre Dame ski team stretched its winning streak to nine straight victory with a dominating victory over St. Mary's basketball squad yesterday as the second place finishers in the A.C.C. tournament. The Irish Eye's sectional matches could hypothetically look something like this:

The East

at Penn LaSalle vs. at large (possibly Providence or Holy Cross) Pennsylvania vs. at large (possibly Rutgers or St. John's or Fordham)

at Davidson

Maryland (or whoever wins the wacky A.C.C tournament) vs. at large (Pitt or Syracuse) Furman vs. at large the Midwest

at Alabama

MAC winner (possibly Central Michigan, Bowling Green, Miami, Western Michigan and Toledo) at large at Alabama vs. at large South Carolina

at Kentucky

Indiana at large (possibly Memphis, Middle Tennessee vs. at large NC-State) at large

the Midwest

at Texas Tech

Texas A&M vs. at large Notre Dame

at large Kentucky (second place SEC) vs. Arizona (second place ACC)

at Oral Roberts

Louisville vs. at large Oral Roberts Kansas or Kansas St. of large at large Oregon State or USC

the West

at Arizona State

Arizona State vs. at large Purdue (second place Big Ten)

Nebraska Las Vegas vs. at large Creighton

at Washington

UCLA vs. at large Utah State

Montana at large San Francisco

Two other hopefuls to consider have to be New Hampshire and Wisconsin. The experts pass on the two with their five sixth points in addition to her seven steals.

The Notre Dame ski team stretched its winning streak to nine straight victory with a dominating victory over St. Mary's basketball squad yesterday as the second place finishers in the A.C.C. tournament. The Irish Eye's sectional matches could hypothetically look something like this: