To legally serve alcohol on campus

by Titty Kennedy
Editor-in-Chief

The bill to limit the legal liability for colleges and universities in cases of underage student consumption of alcoholic beverages failed last night to reach the legislative floor. The bill introduced by Philip Faccenda, passed the Indiana Senate last February by a 46-36 margin. The body working on the Senate consideration is an amended version of the Senate-passed bill.

The House has amended the bill to provide that 18-year-olds in Indiana be allowed to enter establishments that serve alcoholic beverages as long as they do not consume alcohol. Under current Indiana law, only persons over 21 are permitted to enter taverns and restaurants that serve alcohol.

If the House should pass the amended version of the bill, it will be sent to the Senate. If the Senate accepts the bill as amended, it will go directly to Governor Otis Bowen for his signature. If the Senate rejects the amendment, the disputed provisions will be worked out in House-Senate conference.

The limited liability bill would free the Universities and colleges from strict liability for students who violate Indiana drinking laws.

The bill was proposed after two cases in the Indiana State Supreme Court extended a broad interpretation of legal responsibility for underage drinking to persons who have knowledge of its existence.

A Notre Dame woman reported that she was attacked near campus shortly before midnight last night, but was not seriously harmed. The woman, a graduate student, reported an attempted rape occurring late on Wednesday, March 19. Accounts of the incident differ.

The victim stated she was walking along Notre Dame Drive towards the campus. Just before she reached Angels, a pick-up truck pulled up and a man in a pick-up truck reached the stoplight at Angels, the driver signaled a right turn. When the girl pointed out that he was going the wrong way, he asked her if he could take her to the Library Circle instead and she assented.

Victim's account

Instead of driving to the Library Circle, however, he took her to Douglas and turned off the street and off Douglas. He then said he had made a mistake and he would go back the other way.

The victim said the man then stalled the engine, opened the door, and said that things were getting out of hand and he attempted to get out of the truck. The man grabbed her arm and she struggled to leave her alone and pulled away. She kicked the door open and managed to slip out of the truck.

According to the victim's story, he followed her and threw her down on the ground. He put his hand on her breast and she said he thought he was going to choke her. All this time she was struggling, kicking and trying to fight him off.

During the scuffle her jacket was ripped and she told him she was going to get sick. He left her hand on her throat for about a minute and then he got up, looking startled, she said.

The assailant apologized, saying he was sorry and would not bother her anymore. He said he didn't know what the motion meant. He then said that he was sorry and would drive her back to campus.

She hesitated at first, refusing and saying she was going to get sick. At last he convinced her that it would be all right. She went along with him, partly because she didn't want to upset him and perhaps provoke another attack.

She waited until he got to her and then got in the truck. She had asked him to sit and he sat up, looking into her lap. She called him a jerk and she got out of the truck and moved towards the campus.

The victim said the man let her off, still apologizing, and she went back to her dorm and reported the incident to Notre Dame Security.

She gave her account to both Security and the county police. The victim said she was attacked near campus.

Viet Cong threaten to attack Saigon if US continues support

By the (AP)—The Viet Cong said Wednesday Communist armed forces will push on to Saigon unless the United States ends its support for South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Thieu has rejected a Middle East-style peace offer for the Viet Cong Provisional Revolutionary Government, a newswire service said today.

"The President has a great deal of sympathy and compassion for the Vietnamese people. He continues to feel this Communist onslaught is a gross violation of the Paris Peace Accord and, like any civilized person, he is greatly distressed," Nessen said.

There was no indication from Nessen and the other senior officials that any discussions were taking place in Palm Springs on what Ford will decide the United States should do about Indochina.

Third World Relief Fund

Pledge drive raises thousands

by Shawn Seannell
Staff Reporter

Professor Robert Rades, on behalf of the organizers of the Notre Dame Third World Relief Fund, announced Tuesday that cash and pledge contributions by faculty and campus employees to have amounted to $13,959.90 as of Tuesday, March 18, was made in conjunction with the Freshman Student Union Academic Commission.

Applications should be made at the Admissions Office, and only students whose applications are accepted will be eligible to participate.

The pledge drive, initiated in December, encouraged faculty and university employees to have contributions deducted from their paychecks.

According to the preferences indicated by the contributors, the contributions are to be distributed to these seven organizations at the following rates in percent:

- Catholic Relief Service 21
- World Council of Churches 20
- Oxfam, America 13
- UNICEF 12
- Church World Service 12
- IFCO-RAINS 11
- Fellowship of Christian Athletes 10

Contributions may still be made or pledge at the Personnel Department, and will be distributed by these percentages.

Third World Relief Fund had accepted by Nessen, given to the University absorbed.

The pledge drive is sponsored by Notre Dame Student Government in conjunction with the Freshman Student Union Academic Commission.

Thi said President Ford's

"We heard the President say many times, he does not have any plans to do that because of his own inclination and the requirements of his administration on ending the war," Nessen told reporters.

"The law is very clear," Nessen added. "We told the reporters that Defense Secretary James Schlesinger at a news conference in Washington earlier today answered the question of bombing open.

Schlesinger said, "It is not my decision to make.

Nessen announced that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will arrive at Palm Springs Thursday and will meet with the President that night.

Since the President's aides declined Thursday that diplomatic efforts to stop the communist offensive have been futile.

"The President has a great deal of sympathy and compassion for the Vietnamese people. He continues to feel this Communist onslaught is a gross violation of the Paris Peace Accord and, like any civilized person, he is greatly distressed," Nessen said.

There was no indication from Nessen that any discussions are currently taking place in Palm Springs on what Ford will decide the United States should do about Indochina.

Riehle to study energy waste as campus fuel costs increase

by Michele Arriens
Staff Reporter

Fr. James Riehle has been appointed Director of Energy Conservation for the University and will be examining methods of reducing fuel consumption on campus. Riehle stated, "The recent budget for fuel has doubled from 1 million dollars last year to 2 million dollars this year, which is a substantial increase for the overall energy crisis in which we find ourselves make it necessary for everyone to cooperate fully in conserving energy."

The new director believes that "people have no idea of the high cost of fuel." He further stated, "Even a 10 percent of cost would mean a $200,000, savings, which isn't a small amount." Riehle stated that the university must reduce unnecessary lighting in university buildings and classrooms. He stated, "Although the campus is run efficiently, the three necessities of heating, lighting and coal have increased in cost tremendously." He further stated, "It is my intention to keep this Committee in progress, but the Committee itself recommended that a person be appointed who would devote most of his time to the planning for and achieving energy conservation."

It is with this in mind that I am appointing Reverend James F. Flanigan, C.S.C., as Director of Energy Conservation. He will have an office in the administration building and I ask each one of you to cooperate fully with him."

I cannot overlook that any energy in will also save dollars in our fuel budget. You are aware of the fact that in the last two years, the cost of fuel alone has increased over $1,000,000, that is, the fuel cost in our budget for 1972-73 will be more than $1,000,000 higher than that in the 1973-74 budget. This certainly speaks to the need of fuel savings for both conservation of energy and also for the conservation of our funds."

To the Notre Dame Faculty, Staff, and Students

The inflationary costs of fuel and the overall energy crisis in which we find ourselves make it impossible for me to do everything possible at Notre Dame to conserve energy. As Energy Conservation Committee was formed and has been under the direction of Reverend James F. Flanigan, C.S.C. There have been noticeable savings in energy because of the work of this Committee, for which I commend them and all of you."

With many thanks, I am
Ever devotedly, Notre Dame
(Rev.) Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C.
President

the passivity of Israel

In Ireland

What really to expect? Leprechauns and magic had long passed from mind, but surely something of popularized Eire would surface on this most Irish of days. Knowing the exaggerated Irish spirit in New York and Chicago was Dolly's river green again that year!, and being forewarned that Ireland would not match that loveliness, my excitement was tempered, but the Irish half of me was drawn irresistibly by Patrick's charms.

So, I thronged of transplanted countrymen journeyed from London to Holyhead, a port in Wales, and on to Dublin

After a short visit to Israel, it is hard to imagine that this is such a troubled area. The people appear calm and oblivious to the potential of war. Both Jews and Arabs go about their affairs with a business-like attitude. Soldiers, with machine guns nonchalantly slung around their shoulders, blend in with civilians on the streets and buses.

The land, even forested, seems peaceful. Mt. Hermon, within eyeshot of the Syrian army, has been designated a prime ski resort. Of course, a midnight stroll along the Lebanese border is not recommended, but the air is so clear it's true for Central Park.

With few exceptions, only the sounds of Israeli Army jeeps break the quiet. And with the potential of war, both Jews and Arabs must live with something they must live with daily. The citizens is the fragile state of the economy, borders the Lebanese border is not recommended, the most Israeli of creations, the kibbutz.

We walked into the arms of an authentic Champs Elysees, I trod the way to St. Stephen's Green, and on to Dublin. We stayed in Dublin two more days, to better appreciate the lifestyle of the Erin Isles of Patrick's Day celebration, and whatever leprechauns had appeared taking their last pint and were off, as the city became quiet again. I left knowing that as dutifully as he tries, Mayor Daley will never be able to create an atmosphere like this exists in Dublin on March 17th, the day for St. Patrick's Day.

Ruggers drop three California contests by Bob Kinsel

The Irish rugby team will travel just about anywhere to find the best in rugby competition. Notre Dame's squad flew out to sunny California for warm sun, that Colorado beer, and unfortunately the sun.

The Notre Dame rugby 'A' side lost to California at Irvine 23-11, where the 'B' side lost to UCLA 13-10. Before their West Coast trip the ruggers showed the local South Bend team 28-10 under the lights at Carmel Field on St. Pat's Day. Scoring for ND were: Doug Mosser, Tony Mendindia, John Frenette, Brian Hainline, Nick Technology, and Mitch Wilkes, handing the Irish a 31-13 loss.

In the loss to Irvine, Mitch Wilkes hit a three-point penalty kick and from the 50-yard line added a try each for the Irish. Of course Rousier tallied a side try against the San Diego team. Team captain Larry Casey scored a four point try against SC, Wilkes converting on one conversion and one penalty kick for ND's nine points.

"We had some team members in the scrum who couldnt make the trip because of commitments. We were fortunate that no other teams saw that we were really weak in the second half, which broke our spirit and momentum. The team picked up much help from the players especially from the Irvine and Southern Cal teams," added senior Casey. "We lost to us on the scrum, which we are now investigating into.

The ND 'B' side was a bit more competitive losing only to Cal-San Diego 19-8, yet defeating San Diego 11-4 and SC 13-10. The ND 'B' also turned the South Bend team around winning 13-0.

In the South Bend contest Bill Jasch, Sean McDonald, George Cabretty, with Mark Kowens kicking, scored in the Irish win. George Spiegel and McDonald tallied the only points for ND and Raab Keown kicked a penalty conversion and a penalty kick. Tony Mendindia scored a four point try, and Pete Casey scored the winning try in the 'B's defeat of the Trojans.

"The 'B's really played well, especially in the last three quarters of the game," Casey said.

The Irish ruggers hope to open their season off officially this weekend with a rebound victory over the Bowling Green Falcons. The games against Bowling Green are at home Saturday afternoon on the fields behind Rupan. The 'B' game is at one, 'A' 3:30 and the 'C's square off at three.
