War orphans flee to U.S. families
Ford on hand to welcome Vietnamese children

United Press International

Hundreds of orphans crossed a 10,000-mile air bridge Sunday from war-ravaged Vietnam to a new life as adopted children in America.

A giant jetliner landed in Seattle at 10:35 p.m. with 118 orphans and the unprecedented air lift continued through the day with two planes carrying 76 children headed for Travis Air Force Base, 36 miles northeast of San Francisco.

More orphans to arrive

Another flight carrying 42 children was on route to Vancouver, British Columbia, with additional orphans and ferry them to Travis Tuesday.

Dramatizing the nation's growing concern for the orphans, President Ford flew to San Francisco Saturday night from his International Airport to welcome 319 children and to carry two infants onto US soil through a rainfall.

Fourteen of the 118 children boarded the San Francisco flight had chicken pox, but doctors said there was no reason to worry about the children's healthy 16-year-old wife, Betty, accompanied him to the airport and was not allowed to enter the Operation Babylift area because treatment of her recent breast cancer surgery may have removed her immunity to the chicken pox virus.

Ford "deeply touched"

The White House said the President decided on the flight to San Francisco International Airport because the Ford Orphans were "deeply touched" by the plight of thousands of innocent orphans and ferry them to Travis Air Force Base because the orphans were fearful, others in Seattle were in shock.

"This was the first to pick up his adopted child, a four-month-old son who will be named Curtis Lee. "This was going to be my first day at our new church," Halliday said. "Now I don't know if I'll be there or if I'll be in any shape to go if I can." Although many of the children were fearful, others in Seattle were welcome to "a plane full of babies going to face strangers in a new land."

"This is an acute medical situation," Dr. Alex Slupack said at the Presidio military base in San Francisco where most of the babies were taken after leaving their airplane flight last Saturday. "Our resources are now stretched to capacity. Of the infants at the Presidio right now, by American standards, at least half should be in a hospital right now.

About 70 children were being cared for at the temporary facility, waiting processing before joining their adoptive parents.

Nearly all of the babies were "uncomfortably near death" when taken off the Pan Am flight which arrived earlier.

"They are very small infants - six, seven or eight pounds." Slupack said. "Some were profoundly dehydrated, some were profoundly dehydrated," he added. "Some who were taken off were severely acutely ill."

Two babies were taken off the plane because of diarrhea, high fever and inadequate supplies on the plane, he said. During the flight children drank two bottles of fluid to supply the babies stricken by diarrhea.

(11) babies taken from the airport in ambulances, most were carried to a waiting helicopter immediately after the survivors of the Saigon crash had infected suicides from women and children in the crossfire at the American military base in Saigon.

Two hundred doctors and the same number of nurses volunteered to help with the babies, but Dr. Mark Oechslin said still were needed.

Death near for many orphans arriving in U.S.

The "acute medical situation" developed Sunday among the 118 orphans flown Saturday night from Vietnam to San Francisco.

Doctors disclosed that 47 babies from the flight that was welcomed by President Ford were being treated in hospitals.

Some were survivors of last Friday's crash of a military plane that killed 178 persons in a rice paddly near Saigon.

Search for Dean of Law School continues with new approach

by Chris Meehan
Staff Reporter

After a seven week search, a replacement to the retiring Dean of the Law School, Thomas Shaffer, has not been found.

As in past year's selection process, a co-operative venture between the faculty and the Administration will be made without the use of a search committee. According to Shaffer, the new approach not only generates candidates, the normal role of search committees, but also involves lawyers in the selection.

University Provost Fr. James Hurthcanchel wrote to each of the 4,000 members of the Notre Dame Law Association asking for suggestions to fill the office. The most promising candidates will visit the campus.

During their stay the candidates will be interviewed by the Faculty Committee of the Student Bar Association. Reports will be made by the committee on all the candidates except those who are presently on the faculty of the University. This is to preserve objectivity. After students asked for a voice in the selection process, Hurthcanchel granted the Student Bar Association the right to interview candidates and make recommendations.

Faculty Committee Chairman Tom Schoaf is unsure of what effect his committee's reports will have on the final choice. As of yet, the new procedure has provided for only one candidate form outside the University to be interviewed. While there is no indication that a choice has been made, it is reasonable certain that the selection will be made by the end of the current semester.

Schoaf said.

InPIRG organizes petition drive

by Mark Janca
Saint Mary's Editor

Final plans for a petition drive, needed to form a St. Mary’s chapter of the Indiana Public Interest Research Group (InPIRG), were agreed upon last night at an organizational meeting of the group.

The drive, scheduled to run from today until Friday, will be conducted in the residence halls.

Approximately 60 to 70 percent of the student body must sign the petition before a proposal concerning the formation of a SMC InPIRG chapter can be presented to the Student Assembly for consideration, according to Joanne Durlacher, vice-president for academic affairs.

Pending final approval, the organization will officially be established on campus for the next academic year.

According to Mark Clark, former member of the Notre Dame InPIRG board, the establishment of a SMC chapter would have several advantages over participating in Notre Dame’s.

Presently, said Clark, “there is no real participation from St. Mary’s InPIRG.

If SMC were to form its own chapter, an increased amount of money would be available to support InPIRG, he continued.

S. Mary’s could also investigate its own concerns, as well as have representation on the state level.,” noted Clark.

InPIRG, a statewide non-profit organization composed of college and university students, lawyers, engineers and natural and social scientists, “investigates broad social problems which are of concern to Indiana students generally, represents students’ interests before the courts, the legislature, and the public,” states a hand-out on the group.

General areas of InPIRG concern include racial and sexual discrimination, consumer protection, occupational safety, protection of natural areas and environmental quality, landlord tenant relations and community housing problems, and health care.

The group contends that students can gain from InPIRG because InPIRG provides students with an effective and independent voice, provides avenues with the means for making real and far-reaching social change, and the opportunity to learn the means involved in making a change, and InPIRG projects give students the chance to integrate their classroom work in the real world.” Academic credit is often available to those working on such projects.

Out of state students, according to InPIRG members, spend two-thirds of their year in Indiana. Changes effected by InPIRG will directly affect them. Also, judicial and legislative precedents set in Indiana through InPIRG have an impact on the laws of other states.

Funding of the organizations comes from student contributions. According to Clark, InPIRG should be approved on campus, each student will be asked to contribute $4 per year.

Weekly meetings are attended by approximately 25 students.

A press conference was held on Monday, April 12, in the auditorium. Mary’s to enforce stiff rules for registration.

This year advance registration forms for the Fall Semester 1975-76 will not be given out to the students mentally abled at the door of the room, according to Sister M. Francesca Kennedy, Acting Vice-President for SMC Academic Affairs.

Sister Kennedy stated that the Academic Affairs office is going to try to be more rigorous in enforcing the guidelines for registration as they were originally set up.

At an Academic Affairs meeting which took place two weeks before spring vacation, it was decided that seniors would register on the first day of pre-registration, juniors on the second day, sophomores on the third day and freshmen on the fourth day.

"We have tried to do this strictly in this schedule in order to avoid problems we have had with registration in the past,” Kennedy stated.

Many duties are involved with the Office of the Dean or Senior class officer. Among other things, senior class officers are in charge of the Senior Club graduation, senior football trip, several fellow voting, parents’ weekend, and alumni relations.

Kennedy believes that the job of class officer is to help provide an enjoyable time for the students.

"Senior class officers are a student service," he added.

The present senior class officers will run the elections for both the junior and senior classes. Voting on the bill along with the yearly $29 student government fee. Payment of the fee is voluntary, although InPIRG members averaged that all students will benefit from their actions.

Individual contributions are not considered feasible as they do not provide a steady source of funding.

That high quality professionals will be willing to work if they can’t be assured their employer (InPIRG) will have a reliable yearly income with which they will have a reliable yearly income with which to pay them.

U.S. airlift continues despite Red attack

PHNOM PENH (UPI) - Rebel Communist forces Sunday attacked this besieged capital, from all sides, and raised rockets on its airport in another attempt to sever the city's lone remaining supply link to the outside world.

The government also learned that its defeat Tuesday at Neak Luong, 31 miles down the Communist-controlled Mekong River, cost it some 5,000 troops-all captured by the rebels.

Rebel troops entrenched five miles from the city sent more rockets thundering into Phnom Penh Airport and launched simultaneous assaults on virtually all sides of the capital's defense perimeter, field reports said.

But the rocket attack still failed to stop the American airlift which has become Phnom Penh's only way to bring in supplies. At least two of the U.S. planes left with some U.S. embassy personnel, including Cambodian workers.

The embassy - the lone diplomatic mission still operating in Phnom Penh - said it had been reduced to about 30 or 40 staffers, down from the nearly 250 of just a week ago, embassy officials said.

"We have taken out just about as many people as we could and still function," one source said.

In Sunday's fighting, government troops lost 17 killed and 96 wounded. Rebel gunners also shot down a Cambodian Air Force C-47 gunship west of Phnom Penh. The seven-man crew was presumed either killed or captured.

Government troops also abandoned another eight positions west of the capital, along Highway 4, and failed again to push back a new insurgent threat to the southeast. Government forces at Svay Rolou, six miles southeast of here, came under heavy attack, and suffered two killed and six wounded.

Details of the fall of Neak Luong began to trickle into the capital. In addition to the lost troops and commander, government sources said, the rebels seized 12 105mm artillery pieces, 70 60mm machineguns, 30 30mm machineguns and hundreds of small arms.

Government forces reported some success in pushing insurgents out of a school they had taken at Kompong Speu, 34 miles down Highway 4. But they also lost 17 more men at a point 12 miles west of the capital as 105mm barrages of insurgent artillery into the nearby town of Ang Snoul.

One civilian was killed and eight others wounded.

Sources in Phnom Penh said Gen. Meas Dym, a personal assistant of President Lon Nol, who himself left the city for exile last week, departed Phnom Penh during the day for Laos.

North Quad, SMC to host picnics during An Tostal

As an added feature to the Notre Dame picnic, Siegel announced that all women attending the picnic will be given a numbered pink button and men will be a numbered blue button, courtesy of McDonald's.

Persons who successfully find their numerical match will be allowed to eat at the picnic, Siegel stated. She noted that several balls have been lost in determining students of the picnics and advised attendees to call the Ombudsmen office at 788 or to call her at 1277 today before midnight.

Off-campus students may purchase meal tickets for the picnics for $1.50 each at the Student Union Ticket Office.

Siegel also announced the details of the two picnics. The SMC picnic will include a barbecue meal, kite-flying and free frisbees. The Notre Dame picnic will be the traditional kick-off to the activities of Sunny Saturday, Siegel noted. This picnic will feature a hot dog meal.

Plans for the An Tostal picnics were released yesterday by Mary Siegel, Notre Dame An Tostal picnic chairman.

Members of the Notre Dame-STMY's community are invited to an outdoor barbecue Thursday evening, April 17 and a North Quad picnic Saturday noon on April 19.
two reviews of 'verona'

CHRIS HERLHY

The audience gazes at the make-shift stage in front of them. Three light poles sit out over a raised platform which is bordered by a series of muslin curtain drops in brown tones. The curtains frame a jumble of overhead wires. An actor in a suit sits on a stool, and the play begins.

The character of Valentine, as portrayed by Mark Blum, has an emotional depth and sensitivity that is often lacking in Shakespeare's plays. Valentine is a complex, multi-layered character, and his actions and motivations are often questionable. The audience is left to decide whether he is acting out of love or for his own gain.

Blum's performance is nuanced and nuanced, and he brings a depth to the role that is often missing in other productions. His portrayal of Valentine is both sympathetic and loathsome, and he manages to balance these two extremes with ease.

The National Shakespeare Company's production of 'Verona' is a welcome addition to the season. The company's handling of the text and its performers' abilities make for a compelling and engaging production. The audience is left to ponder the meaning of the play, and to consider the nature of love and loyalty.

The production is directed by Ms. Sterling, and the set design and costuming are by Mr. Cortese. The acting is top-notch, and the pace of the play is well-managed.

In conclusion, the National Shakespeare Company's production of 'Verona' is a must-see for Shakespeare fans and theatre-goers alike. The performances are outstanding, and the production is a testament to the company's commitment to bringing classic literature to the modern audience. The play is a reminder of the enduring power of love and the complexities of relationships, and it is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit.
Ara selected as senior fellow

by Mark Jamne
Staff Reporter

Former Notre Dame football coach Ara Parseghian has been chosen as Senior Class Fellow in voting by the Class of 1975. The results of last week's election were announced last night by Senior Class President Greg Erikson.

With nearly forty percent of all seniors voting, Parseghian captured 33 percent of the ballots to win over popular cartoonist Jimmy Breslin, Notre Dame history professor James Kroeker, editor and newswoman Shana Alexander, and Socialist author and lecturer Michael Harrington.

Parseghian, who coached the Fighting Irish to national championships in 1966 and 1973, retired this season to accept a fund-raising and public relations job with the University. He will continue as National Campaign Chairman for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

At Senior Class Fellow, Parseghian will address this year's graduating class at a date as yet undetermined.

Faccenda slates open meeting to discuss assaults on campus

Dr. Philip Faccenda, University general counsel, will meet with concerned students in the lower study lounge of Lehman Hall on Thursday, April 19 at 8 p.m. The meeting has been called to discuss the number of alleged violent crimes perpetrated against women on campus in the past few weeks and allegations by students that the University is indifferent to the situation.

Faccenda will hear suggestions regarding feasible means the University might employ to prevent such crimes and will also be prepared to explain the present position of the University regarding official University publication of the facts and circumstances of the rapes and assaults on campus.

As far as possible, within the confines of the guaranteed confidentiality of matters private to the victim, Faccenda will discuss specific cases, and the University’s reaction to each case.

Faccenda has scheduled this meeting in response to a swell of rumors immediately preceding spring break. These rumors, alleged that the University quashed publicity of violent crimes on campus, did not warn students of dangerous situations and shielded one perpetrator of a sex crime from prosecution.

The meeting is open to all students.

Two Holy Cross priests awarded new positions

The appointment of two Holy Cross priests at the University of Notre Dame to new positions has been announced by Fr. Jerome J. M. Meisel, University chaplain.

Carl F. Ebey, assistant professor of financial accounting, has been named to succeed Emeritus Fr. Moore who resigned March 8, 1973 due to health reasons.

Fr. Ebey, a native of Detroit, Fr. Ebey holds a master's degree in business administration from Notre Dame in 1972 after graduate theological studies at Holy Cross College in Washington, D.C. and Gregorian University, Rome, Italy. He majored in philosophy and accounting during his undergraduate years at Notre Dame.

Fr. Ebey completed undergraduate studies at Duquesne University and Notre Dame where he majored in engineering and business administration.

Physics Courses for Non-Science Majors

The four courses described below will be offered by the Department of Physics in the fall and spring semesters. They are particularly well suited for non-science majors—though not restricted to them.

Physics 111-112: Topics in Physics - 3 credits per semester

A quantitative study of the major developments in classical and modern physics set in historical and philosophical perspective. High school algebra and geometry are the only requirements. This two-semester course fulfills the University-wide science requirement for all students.

Instructor: Professor James T. Cushing (Extension 6132)

Physics 210: Descriptive Astronomy - 3 credits

A description of the motions, distribution, and structure of the planets, sun, star system and galaxies. Some observational work is included. A one-year introductory science course including at least one semester of physical science is a prerequisite.

Instructors: Professor James L. Shifts (Extension 7732) and Professor William D. McGlenn (Extension 7095)

Physics 206: Concepts of Relativity - 3 credits

A discussion of Einstein's Special and General Theories of Relativity. Concepts discussed include time dilation, causality, mass-energy equivalence, curved space, black holes, and cosmology. A one-year introductory physical science course is a prerequisite.

Instructor: Professor Sperry E. Darden (Extension 2762)

Physics 311: Emergence of Modern Scientific World Views - 3 credits

This seminar reading course traces the rise of rationality and development of the belief in a scientific approach to problems and surveys the differences and interactions between philosophy and science. There are no formal prerequisites.

Instructor: Professor James T. Cushing (Extension 6132)

Further information, as well as course syllabi, can be obtained either by contacting the instructors at the extensions listed above or by stopping in at the Department of Physics Office in Room 225 of Nieuwland Science Hall (Extension 6386).
Fencers third in NCAAs

by Tom Kruezer

Notre Dame's fencing team concluded its season Saturday with a third place finish in the NCAA national tournament at Pullman, Wash.

The Irish finished the three-day event with 76 team points, in a tie with Princeton behind Wayne State who captured their first fencing title and Cornell, who finished six points behind the Tigers in second. Notre Dame last year finished in 12th place behind national champion NYU.

Notre Dame began the four matches action like a ball at 1:15 p.m. in epee was underlined with ten victories. Mike McCuey in foil also went 1-0, while team DiFiglio at saber finished 8-2. The second session went much like the first, glass remaining undefeated, adding seven more victories, while McCuey slipped a 1-0, DiFiglio ended 4-3.

Relentless after the meet, head coach Mike DeCicco remarked that he felt that "we could have won all the way if we could have maintained the same level of performances" on the third day, the Irish did run into problems, and finishing day with a 4-6 record. Glass fared the best with 5-2 and moved onto the finals on Saturday. McCuey and DiFiglio did not make it to the finals, McCuey falling just one touch short of making the finals.

In the finals, Glass ended up with two wins and three losses, and a fourth-place effort in the nation in epee. McCuey finished 17th while DiFiglio ended 11th. The fourth place finish by Glass added to his increasing list of honors for the year. The sophomore from Niles, Ill, a week ago competed in the Junior Olympics in Mexico City, finishing in third place. This was the highest finish by a U.S. male in international competition.

Wayne State was led to the national title behind the performances of Greg Benko and Uri Habibovich. Benko captured his second straight foil championship, while Habibovich who recently received Israeli (Islands, Soviet Union) to Israel and then to Wayne State, won his first title in saber. Histo Hurme from NYU won his third epee title, an all time record. Hurme, incidentally will be coming to Notre Dame to finish his medical education in September of 1978, after taking a year out to train for the Olympics. Although he will have used up his college eligibility, Hurme will work with the Irish fencers.

Absent from the tourney was Dave Donnelly from Wayne State, who for two weeks ago tore an achilles tendon and may never fence again. DeCicco commented that he was quite pleased with the team's performance. "The kids were young and we were going against some very experienced teams in Wayne State, and Columbus and we did well. Now we know what we have to do to win the title down the line, but it didn't come true in one year" I hope so, and I think it will be next year."
Devine pleases with first drills

by Bill Reink

Sports Editor

All the photographs and TV and radio reports, Dan Devine settled down to do what he does best, coaching football. Details of three days because of bad weather, the spring drills for the Fighting Irish began Saturday afternoon, and the new general had finally made his appearance the field.

Practice began officially at 1:15 p.m. Saturday when the specialty teams started drills off the south surface of Tother Field, and 20 minutes later, captains Jon Snack and Ed Bauer led the rest of the squad onto the field. The team was divided into three units, each with their own drills, each coach working with his section of the team hand to mouth Saturday afternoon also.

The Irish, as expected, showed devine of the two practice sessions. "I always expect coaching, it's a good to get out there and look over practice. I'd rather have two good days of drills than two or three bad days." Devine had veteran defensive coaches to aid him in line coaches Joe Vento, linebackers coach George Golzly and secondary coach Paul Shults. But the new faces along with Devine include halfback Don Baumann, defensive back coach John Holzard, backs coach Roy Studion, guards and centers coach and recently appointed Ed Titchie, coach of the specialty teams Brian Rodano returns to handle the offensive line and tight ends.

Former pro John Holland showed his speed by breezing by Bob Bauer lead the calisthenics, and throwing a few good spots of his own during the drills. Coach Devine supervised the exercises, making a few comments to slackers and then led the team in a new Irish jump. After jumping jack drill which had the players staggering and smoking, and then shearing as they broke for the spring drills.

Later in the practice the coaches had to trim the running plays, going with a tentative starting offense of Frank Allocco at quarterback, Mark Bochler and Russ Kermann at halfbacks. Tom Purcell at fullback, Al Wajicar and Elmo Moore at guards, Ed Bauer and Steve Quast at tackles. Vince Kleen at center. John Mackay at tight end, and Kevin Doherty at wide receiver. Dick Schager and Steve Darmochwal.

"It was a lot longer than we expected," Devine said. "The Irish received some unfortunate news when it was learned that tight end Roc Bodner's football career was ended by a cervical nerve injury, and that offensive tackle Larry Wroben was suspended for two formations man by coach Devine. Defensive tackle Tom Suma will also miss the rest of drills, giving them time to an eye injury which kept him out of season.

"We've got a tremendous amount of work to do," said Devine.

Irish unleash against Marian, take doubleheader 14-3, 12-1

by Rich O'Dea

Observing the strong breeze that was blowing in from left field Bob Stratta remarked, "It looks like one of those low scoring affairs today." Stratta proved himself a better pitcher than pitcher as the Irish pounded out 21 hits in nine innings, Sunday, sweeping past gunned Marian 14-3 and 12-1.

The Knight coach requested that each game be shortened to five innings after the Irish mounted 15 run margins. With the parameters increased, the wind and making it seem even colder Notre Dame Coach Jake Kline knew he was in for another tough one.

Stratta allowed only five hits in counting in the win in the opener and reached base all eight times he was on base. Scoring three times and driving in three runs. Lethard Bob Hughes was even better than Stratta in the Knightcap, fanning nine of the twelve Irish batters. Stopping three hits and giving up three runs in the fifth.

The second game had a little more heart than the Irish only led 2-1 going into the top of the fourth inning. Battle of base loaded walks and strikeouts gives Notre Dame a 1-6 lead. Notre Dame salted the game with two insurance runs in the fifth.

Stratta said he felt fine despite the cold weather, "I left the last year with quite a little with the big lead. Still, I'll take a seven run inning anytime." Hughes credited an improved breaking pitch with his performance. He considered better than a one run extra winning effort on the Texas trip. "I had no curve ball down there but I've really worked on it since then," he commented.

ISH Irish ITEMS - Catcher Tom Lopoulos collected his first hit of the season and first base hit of his career with a scorching double down the left field line in the second game. Pat Coleman hit only .211 in warm weather Texas. Returning to his native climate, the third baseman from Normal, Ill. had only .160 at bats. With Bob Stratta batting and the bases loaded, Lopoulos hit a two run, Marian hurler Will Bohinger uncorked a wild pitch that catcher Scotty Vanderhook totally lost track of. Two runs scored. Bohinger found the ball and barely threw out Jim Smithing to score all the way from first. Stan Bobowick's dad struck out and travelled from Chicago to Marian College in Maroon, Ill. University was at Marian College in Chicago. They arrived in time for the second game but Stan only stayed to play first. The home opener was preceded by the 5-2 win over the Irish by 5-2.

The Irish opened up the first half with five in three sets and three in their hearts. But it didn't last too long Peter Schrck scored ND's only early run, simply touching down a base ball in the bottom of the inning.

The Falcons slumped back for two unanswered runs and one conversion kick, giving them the 8-4 lead midway through the game. Wilk Williams converted for ND on a three-point penalty kick, cutting the Falcon lead to 1.

They added another try for the half ended, for a 147 lead. The Falcons put the away team to a strong showing, scoring 12 more points for the 26-7 final.

DiBlasso appointed new head coach at Stanford

by Bill Reink

Sports Editor

DiBlasso,34, will take over the program for the 1974-75 season. He comes to Stanford from the University of Notre Dame where the Fighting Irish have won three of the last four NCAA titles. DiBlasso was hired by Tony Novak and Jack Brailsford, the two practice sessions. The Irish is scheduled for Stanford this year because of the school's calendar.

Irish unleashes against Marian, take doubleheader 14-3, 12-1

"The len sure didn't fit into our system," Bob Stratta remarked. "It was a shot in the dark that we would land a premium basketball program in the Notre Dame. The Irish loss is most of spring practice. Defensive tackle Tom Suma will also miss the rest of drills, giving them time to an eye injury which kept him out of season.

Devine came to Notre Dame with his old friend from Beacon, Nagler Phillips in 1971, and along with fellow assistant Frank McLaughlin has worked with the Irish to build a first rate basketball program in the Notre Dame. The Irish Coach Dan Devine talks about his team through the University administration.

The appointment is expected to announced. The position is available for the job of full-time coaching position for the next four years and position runs through the 1974-75 season. In 1968 he moved to the University of Virginia as assistant coach and assistant to head coach Bill Gibbons.

The Irish is expected to announced when it is announced to the University administration.

Rugby team defeated by Bowling Green Saturday afternoon

"Bowling Green was one game we didn't expect to lose," added senior captain. "We made too many mistakes which they (Bowling Green) were able to take advantage of. Those mistakes were crucial ones, down near our own end zone."

The ND Rag back was just that a clam up practice. The ND B team also dropped a tough one, losing 1-0. The Irish C unit brought home the only victory of the day, scoring an 8-7 win after a hard battle against the Falcons. The Falcons added a try in the opening half, while the young Irish managed three points on a penalty kick by Mike Shiakos.

Bowling Green netted Notre Dame three tries in one of the greatest hours of the 167 victory. ND's sole try was scored by junior Pete Brennan.

The Falcons tried to rely on the scrum, but we probably didn't get to the ball quick enough," noted Mike Shiakos. "Bowling Green has a good team, but we made some bad mistakes at the wrong time."

Some Irish pride was salvaged by the ND green's, the "u" side, at the try together after the shunt of the ND B's. Ean Snyder bit two points, one conversion kick. George Pinkie Faherty scored two tries, and Brian Dobby accounted for the final try. The Irish is expected to announced when it is announced to the University administration.
