Cambodian forces advance

PHNOM PENH (UPI) - Communist-led rebel forces, firing rockets as they advanced, pushed to within 50 miles of Phnom Penh's airport Monday and hurled government troops from retiring student body president.

The appointment of ex officio members, proposed by Maureen Nicgorski, will affect the dean of students.

Two more evacuation flights Monday took additional U.S. embassy personnel from the city.

Another province capital, Phnom Penh, has been closed to the outside world.

One diplomat who fled the city as it has been in the last seven years and the situation to the north west of the city is very serious.

There is some penetration in those segments of the defense perimeter.

Ohotir Kurino, the Japanese ambassador who closed down his country's mission here last week, said in Tokyo the airport maybe become the prime target of a major rebel assault before the lunar new-year holidays.

Despite the assault, U.S. planes resumed ammunition and fuel flights into the airport at dawn - the 64th day of the airlift.

DUBLIN (UPI) -- The militant Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army announced Monday its nine-weekold cease-fire in Northern Ireland will continue but it will take action against "Truce breakers."

"A momentary lull issued by the outlawed guerrilla group said new orders soon would go out to IRA units in the wake of a blit of fighting that has claimed 11 lives and left more than 40 persons injured in the Belfast area since Saturday.

BOLZANO ITALY (UPI) -- Weekend avalanches triggered by unseasonable weather killed at least 32 persons and forced three ski resorts and skiers in the Alpine regions of Italy, Switzerland and Austria authorities reported Monday.

CHARLESTON, W. VA. (UPI) -- The was another false alarm Monday in the search for fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

The Kanawha County sheriff's office said there had been a report of a yellow van and black car in the city carrying persons resembling those being sought in the Hearst case.

"It was checked out," a deputy said. "Apparently it was just another rumor."

SAIGON (UPI) -- Communist forces have driven the two thirds of South Vietnam opened on a punitive Monday in the populous Mekong Delta to the south and threatened the country much of its rice staple.

In 18 of the South Vietnam's 44 provinces, all of which are held by the Communists, major successes in the Delta could trap Saigon in a vise and cost the truncated country much of its rice staple.

Theology course corrections cited

200 level theology courses are open to any student at Notre Dame or St. Mary's, needing a first theology course. The preliminary course evaluation booklets erroneously state that this level of courses is open only to sophomores, according to Prof. O'Brien of the Theology Department.

Graduation name cards, announcements are ready

Graduating seniors who have not picked up their graduation announcements or name cards should do so by April 15, according to Joe Henderlong, senior class representative.

Each senior is entitled to ten free announcements, which are now available in room 217 of the Administration Building. Extra announcements may be bought after April 15 for ten cents each.

Also available in the same room are order forms for name cards and information packets detailing the programs and provisions for commencement weekend.

The deadline for ordering name cards has been extended to April 15, instead of the April 9 date listed on the forms.

Campus housing lottery abolished

The problems of on-campus housing and a possible lottery should not be present next year, according to Fr. John Multia, director of student residences.

"There will be no lottery for on-campus housing next year," stated Multia.

"Things are running comparatively the same as last year," continued Multia, "and we can see no problems right now."

"We've got to balance out the same number of people will move off campus again, and with the addition of Lewis Hall as a women's residence hall, there should be adequate housing," he added.

The freshman quota will be the same next year, according to Multia, reaching the 1800 level as in the past. Returns on housing cards are continuing and Multia said he will know far more about the situation when the April deadline is reached and a definite number of on-campus resident will be realized.

Universal Notre Dame nights sponsored by Alumni Clubs

The month of April begins another series of Universal Notre Dame nights throughout the world. Universal Notre Dame Night is an annual event which occurs in April at many of the extensive Notre Dame Alumni Clubs, which are located in nearly 500 cities in the U.S. and some international locations.

At these Universal Notre Dame nights, speakers from the University travel to these different clubs and lecture on the many diverse aspects of Notre Dame life other than athletics, which are a part of the contemporary scene at their alma mater.

April at many of the extensive Notre Dame Alumni clubs is the first Universal Notre Dame night in April every year, the event occurs at various dates throughout the month of April at each club's choice.

"The Notre Dame Alumni Association operates primarily through a club situation to achieve the goal of keeping the alumni united as a Notre Dame family and informed with the current happenings in the Notre Dame community, other than athletics. The alumni clubs are an extension of the Notre Dame community," John Nesson, a graduate of the University in 1960, established the first Universal Notre Dame Night in 1964. Originally intended to be held at all alumni clubs on the same night in April every year, the event occurs at various dates throughout the month of April at each club's choice.

"The Notre Dame Alumni Association operates primarily through a club situation to achieve the goal of keeping the alumni united as a Notre Dame family and informed with the current happenings in the Notre Dame community," Tom Pagna, executive director of the Notre Dame Alumni Association, said yesterday. Approximately fifty-three hundred thousand alumni are geographically dispersed across the country and in cities outside the continental U.S., including Alaska, Hawaii, Innsbruck, and Rome.

"These alumni clubs are..."
Open House Today

Beginning tonight, The Observer is hosting its second annual Open House. The members of the staff are inviting all members of the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's community to visit the Observer offices in LaFortune between 7:30 p.m. and midnight tonight through Thursday.

The purpose of the Open House is simple: to bring together those who read the paper with those who put it together. It is too easy to associate the Observer with one's lunch hour menu without considering the work and effort that goes into publishing a daily college newspaper. On the other hand, it is too easy for those who write, and work production to fail to see beyond the fourth floor of LaFortune to the readership they serve.

Although The Observer is advertised as an independent student newspaper (or perhaps because of this), it has a responsibility that extends beyond the students to the community at large. This paper provides a service to this community by reporting the news and giving appropriate editorial comment.

The Observer, however, could not exist without its readership. The work of its large staff (nearly 200) would be fruitless if not for the fact that the work is read every day by a large portion of the community. In fact, The Observer is dependent on the students to provide the man power for each issue.

The Open House is an opportunity for all members of the campus to learn something more about the newspaper upon whose services it relies every day. In a real sense The Observer belongs to all the students if for no other reason than the annual subscription fee each student is asked to pay. The criticisms and comments in the Letters to the Editor of recent weeks have illustrated a student concern over this newspaper.

The Open House provides an opportunity for the airing of such constructive criticism. By holding the Open House, The Observer is committed to openness with those who read the paper in the hope that those who orders will, in turn, be open to the problems of a daily college newspaper.

The Open House is finally an invitation to all students to join the Observer staff. The Observer needs students as writers and production and layout staff. The more students involved in daily work, the better the final product will be.

Visit Vietnamland and fred graver

Step right up, ladies and gents, for the thrill of a lifetime. Just constructed on the outskirts of an Indian Reservation in New Mexico: VIETNAMLAND!!! Celebrating twenty years and fifty thousand lives spent to give people of Southeast Asia all the Democracy that American technology and know-how could produce.

Four hundred rides and exhibits, sponsored by the vast Military-Industrial Complex. Dedicated on July 4, 1976, by President Gerald Ford, who said, "What a wonderful way to learn history."

Visit an actual Vietnamese officers club. Dance with the Saigon ladies. Drink expensive cocktails at which kids enjoy playing bumper cars with replicas of the Mercedes-Benz automobiles driven by high officials in the Vietnamese Army.

View the bow Chemical exhibit: "The Blazing Glory of Nagasaki!"

"Take a ride in an American tank, jeep or helicopter. Feel the glee of being 'right on target' when you shoot down gooks who appear before your very machine gun turret."

"Time out to sample the delights of the Mekong Delta, where you can ride on a real American cruiser and shoot at anything that moves.

Stop in an actual American military holding. View solders taking a break, washing clothes through a replica of the Pentagon into the 'Home Front.' While in the Pentagon, you are invited to purchase souvenirs of our Vietnam involvement at one of the many concession areas provided."

"Your friends back home will be thrilled when you present them with a 'Huey and litter' set of black plastic rocket launchers and stick propellers. One sure present, never failing to bring a smile, is the official mortar shell cocktail glass set. What a hit at the barbeque!"

"Looking for something for that little boy in your life? The Rust Calley outfit is just what you need for an Order in Vietnam. Included: Rusty Calley rifle, Rusty Calley helmet, Rusty Calley knife, Rusty Calley Iraqi War Vets, Rusty Calley Vietcong map of key Vietnamese villages "possibly held by Communists."

"And we must not forget the little girl: the Pentagon concession stands offer a wide variety of Vietnamese orphan dolls. They walk (those with legs), they talk (pull the string and hear ten native Vietnamese phrases), including 'Dad, I don't want to be a civilian.'"

"And many of them work as double agents for the Vietnam Cong."

"After your stop in the Pentagon, move right into the Home Front section of Vietnamland. At a grandstand seat as the Kent State Massacre is enacted before your eyes on the big screen, Nosh and Young singing "Ohio."

"Moving right along, you'll see the "Hall of the Presidents." Real-life replicas of Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, Jack Kennedy, Richard M. Nixon and Jerry Ford do all they can to assure themselves the blame for our involvement in Vietnam. In the end, five of the Presidents gang up on Nixon.

"For a special balance, make sure you visit the "Hall of the Candidates," where Hubert Humphrey, Gene McCarthy and George McGovern all spell their political demise as "Conserv-a-tives."

"Out in the main field, Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin amuse the kiddies with their Yippie antics. See them throw rocks, bottles and bags of human excrement at Chicago Police as a protest against the war. Narrated by Allen Ginsberg, with commentary by Richard Daley.

"Walk through "media row," and see the amazing distortion machines used by many of the leading networks and news publications to tell the American people about the war. A special dramatization will be presented, entitled "One Family." It is the story of a mother and father who view their children, and the children of their friends, as they return from Vietnam. They go from supporting the war to brutal indignation as they see the boys come back latched on to junk, without their limbs, unemployed, and most effective of all: dead. The suspense reaches fever pitch when one of the boys doesn't come home at all, and is seen on the evening news as the director of a Vietnamese POW camp.

"The "Silent Majority" room is then highlighted. You will be allowed to make your own moral judgement on the war, as various government officials view from a sound-proof booth. Hungry? You should be! Have a meal you won't forget in our replica Vietnamese Village. Delight to a villager feast of rice. Thrill to the occasional M-16 machine gun run. Tingle to the wailing of not knowing if the wailer is one of ours or one of theirs."

"Host accommodations provided in a real-life POW camp, complete with tiger cages, torture pits, and special American Press areas, where you will be allowed to play television and make commentaries."

This is the opportunity of a lifetime to remember the Vietnam war as it really happened. If you can't be there, you can talk to your friends at home about what the war really was like.

the past and future of dan devine

The following article was published Sunday, March 8th in the Chattanooga Times Times the Associated Press. It was written by Will Grieshop.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. - "I think with no ghosts," Dan Devine said firmly. To move from the shadow of Knute Rockne into the shadows of Rockne, Leary and Parseghian is a prospect that might make the most tur- ried of football coaches. But not the hook-and-eye looking Devine, who locked up the regime of the Notre Dame team this year after a four-year excursion - the latter part of it shattering - in the pro ranks with the Green Bay Packers.

They key to talking to me about pressure, "I don't comprehend it," Devine said. "I don't think any coach would have survived 27 years if pressure affected him."

Vince Lombardi was a great coach and earned tremendous influence on the community, but I don't think his records put that much weight on his successors.

"I am a great admirer of Ara Parseghian and I have the highest respect for the legends of Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy, but if I spent my time worrying about trying to match their records I wouldn't have time to apply to my own work."

Devine has taken over the head coach's chair in the domed athletic center. From his window, he can view the sprawling Notre Dame campus with the traditional Golden Dome and the striking masonry towering to the library. He can hardly take a step with out bumping into a bit of Rockne, a Copper plaque, a Leavy portrait or some other piece of Notre Dame memorabilia.

I am transfixed by being a football-oriented," Devine says.

His compact office reflects more challenge than tradition. Instead of Rockne, there is a painting of a leprechaun on the wall. The only Rockne reference is a plaque that in 1939 the Rockne Club voted Devine "Outstanding Football Player of the Year."

Game footballs, each representing a stray winner or his party, sit like chorus girls on wooden stands. Gator Bowl, Missouri, 1941, Orange Bowl, Missouri, 1941, Army, 1941. Other balls advertising Green Bay victories over the Michigan Wolverines and the Chicago Bears are on the Angels Rams. A crucifix hangs behind his desk.

The new Notre Dame coach is a restless man, seemingly always on the move, yet he always seems to stay rooted in a place. A former tackle, he played tackle, back, halfback. These people around here always get you in a gutter, he says.

To help the caffeine-free coffee constantly form pent-sized mugs. He is deceptively low key, mild in manner but has a loyal enthu- siast, about his job.

Andy Russell, a sometime Devine protege at the University of Missouri and now a standout defensive captain of the National Football League champions Pittsburgh Steelers, says of him: "He looks like a goal post, but there's steel inside that mild-mannered exterior."

This is a team that carried Devine to one of the best coaching records in collegiate football, first at Arizona State and then at Missouri, before he was swept into what turned out to be a bitter experience with the pros. His college record was 130 victories, 40 defeats and eight ties.

As he is adjusting to one of the most prestigious and demanding jobs in football, the bespectacled Wisconsin native talked reluctantly in an interview of his ill-fated experience with the pros.

"Some day the true story will will be told," he said. "I prefer to look ahead, not back. I am not anxious to reopen old wounds."

"I didn't think the Green Bay incident leave any marks," he says.

"Certainly, I wouldn't be truthful if I didn't say I was hurt - hurt deeply."

Devine took a Green Bay team in 1970 that had won 10 of its first 11 games before dropping three points while tying 194. In 1972 he took the Packers into conference champions with a 16-14 record.

"There seems always one year when a team starts to hit the skids and it becomes necessary to reverse the tide," he said. "In 1972, they didn't start my law. Willie Buchanon and Bill Hayhoe broke their legs. We got down, we never closed ranks."

The Packers went 7-2-2 in 1973 and 6-8 last year. It was then that a "dump Devine" movement gained in Green Bay, as fans wrote letters of encouragement and com-
To raise gay consciousness

by Andy Przechak

The Notre Dame Campus Ministry is sponsoring a panel discussion tonight at 8 p.m. in the Library Auditorium. The purpose of the discussion will be to raise consciousness to the gay experience on campus and to manifest a pastoral concern to the gay community, according to Fr. Nominations sought for St. Mary's award

by Patrice Connolly
Staff Reporter

Nominations for the Lumen Christi Award will be accepted from any person in the St. Mary's community until April 18. Anyone wishing to submit nominations must forward supporting letters to Steve Wernig, assistant to the vice-president of student affairs.

The SMC Student Affairs Council has changed the criteria for the award to the following:

"The Lumen Christi Award shall be considered, but not necessarily given, annually. Only under extraordinary circumstances shall more than one award be given per year."

For the last two years the award has been given to two students who were usually active in student government. "Service to the community is as valid to the college but has not been given enough credit in the past," Wernig noted.

"The award will be given to an outstanding member of the Senior Class who has demonstrated leadership and loyalty to Saint Mary's College and has made a significant contribution to the College Community. The name of the recipient is not announced until Commencement."

Persons submitting letters for the award are requested to write "Lumen Christi Nomination" on the face of the envelope.

Sign-up deadline set for SMC graduation housing

The deadline for all St. Mary's students who wish to remain on campus for spring graduation exercises will be Sunday, April 13, according to Marianne Rinella, chairman of the graduation housing committee. Sign-up sheets can be found at the hall desk.

Rinella also announced that seniors will be allowed to stay in their rooms, as always, undergraduates will be moved into Regina; and parents of graduating seniors will be housed in both Lemans and McCandless. Rinella noted that seniors will be responsible for obtaining the key for their parent's room and taking care of the locks.

ERRATUM

The April 4 observer printed a picture which mistakenly identified Leland Hale as the SMC In-House Director. Not only is Leland Hale not the SMC director, but the picture was really of Joanne Durlacher, vice-president for academic affairs of the SMC student body. SMC In-House is still in its organizational stage and has not elected any directors.
Junior officers seek applications to fill positions at Senior Bar

by Ken Bradford

COPY EDITOR

Juniors interested in management or bartending positions with next year's Senior Bar must submit applications to the junior class officers by Monday, April 2, according to Junior Class President Augusto Grace.

Three major positions, including manager, assistant manager and business manager, will be open in addition to an unknown number of bartending positions.

Applications should include, in addition to a regular resume, a statement of intention on why the student is applying and what he or she plans to achieve at the Senior Bar, Grace said. The application should also include two University references.

The Senior Bar manager, Grace stated, should be able to co-ordinate people, be honest and knowledgeable of the goals of the Senior Class. In addition, the manager should have some marketing skills, but the applicant will be judged on his qualifications rather than his experience, Grace noted.

The assistant manager is responsible for arranging specials, receiving orders, planning work and staff scheduling and overseeing maintenance, Grace said. Grace stated the business manager should possess basic business skills and will be responsible for the bookkeeping and the inventories.

The managerial positions are rewarded by salaries paid by the Office for Student Affairs. Grace would not reveal the exact salary figures but termed them "very generous."

Bartenders will be paid by the hour and will need to obtain a bartender's license. Grace said it is essential that next year's bartenders be chosen soon so the licenses may be procured and the Senior Bar could open earlier next year.

The junior class officers will screen all applicants and send recommendations to the student affairs office. Grace said the officers will probably select two persons for each position and the continuing candidates will probably be interviewed.

Grace advised all interested applicants to apply for at least three positions. He said junior girls are especially encouraged to apply, noting the Senior Bar could use some input from qualified women.

"The Senior Bar should be a learning experience for its workers," Grace said. He added that the club will provide service for seniors and not just make money.

Grace noted that anyone with ideas for next year's Senior Bar should relay them to the junior class officers.

Golfers bow to Indiana: beat Wisconsin-Whitewater

by Tom Kruecker

Cold weather notwithstanding, the Notre Dame tennis team has finished its first two dual matches of the year and ended up with a mark of one win and one loss. The Irish will need to play well in the coming week, as they face two of the top midwest teams in Western Michigan and Michigan State.

The first dual meet of the season for the Irish was held on Saturday in Bloomington, on the Indiana University campus. Notre Dame found the going tough in the 38 degree temperature and gusty wind, coming out on top with a 78-1 low score for the Irish was Jeff Burda who fired a 2-over par 72. Next in line for Notre Dame was Paul Koprowski with a 79.

After the match, Coach Noel Sullivan was not entirely displeased with his team's performance. "We did not play as well as we might have liked to," said Sullivan, "but we have the chance to prepare as well as we might have liked to. I am not that upset by the way we played. We'll improve."

Jeff Burda was low scorer for the Irish in both their weekend matches. Notre Dame beat Wisconsin-Whitewater after losing to Indiana Saturday. NORTEND

by John Vincent

It was a long day of action Saturday, but the Notre Dame tennis team ended up on the short end as they dropped a closely fought match to the visiting Ohio State team 5-4 before 500 spectators at the Tennis East Indoor Complex in Columbus. It was the first loss of the season for the Irish in seven matches while it brought the Buckeyes record to 4-4.

"That was a tough one to lose," admitted Irish coach Tom Fallon. "The Irish also took Ohio State's Dave Pattern 6-3, 7-6 at number seven by Keith Baily and Miguel Botica won handily 6-1, 6-0 over Chris Carrico. The Irish took the doubles point but dropped the first two singles matches.

"The Irish did not play as well as we might have liked to," said Sullivan, "but we have the chance to prepare as well as we might have liked to. I am not that upset by the way we played. We'll improve."
