The only barrier to a smooth transition date was June 1, so women could move in for the summer session but the recently announced Teamster strike could crimp things.

All the materials have not been delivered, she noted, and work on the interior may be held up if the strike persists. "Even if they were not finished until the first week in August," she added, "we would still be in good shape."

There is not much work to do in Badin before the undergraduates move back. The only major work would be taking out two of the kitchens installed for graduate women this year.

The Townhouses, located on Butler Road one block from the Memorial Library, consist of 36 units. JONES announced the Aquinas Bookstore will be renovated and become the Graduate Student Co-op.

She said the language will be a laundromat and there will be apartments on the second floor for the router and her assistant.

The first floor of the commons will have office space and a lounge area, like a graduate student's union. The quarters on the basement floor will also be renovated to provide space for meeting rooms and social gatherings.

"The Commons will be a center for residents of the townhouses and all graduate students," Jones said. Four students will live in each two-story townhouse. The first floor has a living room, dining room, kitchen and a half-bath. The kitchen facilities are all electric with four electric space heaters. The student says which is essential to the graduate student. A full bath is also located on the second floor.

The units are fully furnished. Other features are wall-to-wall carpeting, built-in bookshelves, an alarm clock and a telephone in the living room.

There is off-street paved and lighted parking space adjacent to every unit.

There are two rooms equipped for the handicapped in the complex. They are connected to regular units and share the living-dining room of that unit. Jones said students can allow a person in a wheelchair to be totally independent.

The rector of the townhouses has two functions, according to Jones. First, she is the personal minister to the residents and second, an assistant to the manager. Although they are independent units, Jones believes there will be instruction between the students. She sees the rector as "a catalyst in bringing people together."

The townhouses will not be run like apartments. There will be no paralegals, according to Jones. But as with on-campus resident halls, the University reserves the right to enter rooms without a search warrant for the purpose of maintaining security, discipline and the orderly operations of an educational institution.

"A large crucifix, Redemptorist of Badin, will be the rector of the townhouses. She described the attitude in Badin as "enthusiastic" towards moving to the new complex. By the time the new complex will increase social life between off-campus girls and students and engage in activities at the community center, she said the complex will be completely secure. She pointed out that when asked if they would be willing to park in front of their unit, the students said they would be willing to park in front of their unit, the students said they would be willing to park in front of their unit."

"When undergraduates return to school, it will be seen that there is a good balance between the classes," Jones stated. This will be accomplished by having from 40 to 40 places for freshman and consisting of the number of each class in the hall.

"All girls who moved to Lewis from Badin will have a room, if they want in Badin," she assured. She is not certain about those who moved to other halls from Badin and continued on page 2.

Fortune in chain letter?

By Matt Kane

Bruce Breitenstein

"It's against Indiana law," St. Joseph County Assistant Prosecutor Edward Chapaleau stated. "But the attitude of the office is that we will only take action if complaints are made.

What Chapaleau is referring to is a chain letter now circulating on the St. Mary's and Notre Dame campuses. The letter, which is supposed to make money, was brought to Notre Dame from Minnesota a week and a half ago by two Pennsylvania hall residents.

One of the originators has made $30 from the letter. The other, who has received $54, said, "I didn't pay much attention to the letter when we first heard about it over the phone. But towards the end we heard how much money other people were making from it. So we bought in on it," he explained.

The chain letter, which is bought for $20, contains instructions and a list of the names and addresses of 12 persons who have bought it previously. With the letter is a money order made out and to be mailed to the person at the top of the list.

One of the originators has made $30 from the letter. The other, who has received $54, said, "I didn't pay much attention to the letter when we first heard about it over the phone. But towards the end we heard how much money other people were making from it. So we bought in on it," he explained.

The chain letter, which is bought for $20, contains instructions and a list of the names and addresses of 12 persons who have bought it previously. With the letter is a money order made out and to be mailed to the person at the top of the list.

Two copies of the letter are made, removing the top name and putting the buyer's name and mailing address at the bottom of the letter. The three-dollar money orders made payable to the next person on the list are purchased from the post office to accompany the copies.

After making an investment of $13.13, which includes a fifty-cent service charge per money order and a thirteen-cent stamp, the purchaser attempts to sell the two letters and money orders to continue the chain. When the purchaser's name comes to the top of the list, he will receive, theoretically, $400 if he returns from purchasers.

Although they have not yet received them, the two originators do not expect to. They will be satisfied with four or five hundred dollars, they said.

Although there are laws in Indiana against chain letters, the county prosecutor will not take action unless complaints are made. Complaints are made following a request to Prosecutor Chapaleau, because "the chain letter people have no money. They are violating the law as they publish to people to return the forms to them and just as liable to prosecute."

Dean of Students James Roemer will not get involved, either. "If people get involved in the scheme, we will get involved," he said. Roemer added that laws concerning chain letter people are not the laws of people, not affluent college students who do not afford the laws.

The Postal Service cannot do anything about the letter, because it is not being sent through the mail. If it were, it would be considered a letter containing a letter and a money order. (continued on page 7)
Calm shattered in Israel

NAZARETH, Israel—Security forces shot and killed five rioting Israeli Arabs yesterday against violent clashes shattered years of calm between Israel’s three million Jews and 500,000 Arabs.

Bomb scare forces evacuation

MOSCOW—The American Embassy was evacuated yesterday in a week because of a bomb scare. No bomb was found.

Brink’s truck hijacked

MONTREAL—A Brink’s armored truck carrying more than $1 million was hijacked in Montreal’s financial district yesterday by thieves armed with anti-aircraft guns, authorities said.

Refugee named good citizen

SAN FRANCISCO—A Vietnamese refugee who chased and captured a man last month convicted of murder is to receive the San Francisco Police Department’s “good citizen” award.

Nuclear test site inspections

WASHINGTON—Soviet and American negotiators meeting in Vienna have reached basic agreement on the need for on-site inspection of each country’s nuclear test sites, a high administration official said yesterday. The accord would, for the first time, allow one country to check the other’s nuclear facilities to see that treaty provisions are not being violated.

Efforts intensified to assert strike

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill.—Top federal labor officials intensified efforts yesterday for a “peaceful, reasonable and responsible” settlement before a national trucking contract expires.

The New York Times

Primary timings aid New York democrats

NEW YORK (AP) — Because of good timing and a new law, Democratic voters in New York State next Tuesday will have their first chance to have a significant say in their party’s presidential nomination. The New York primary, which for decades was overshadowed if not outright ignored, comes now at a major turning point in the race for the White House. It is important and gives new life to the chances of two major contenders. As usual, the presidential candidates will be on the ballot in New York. But for the first time, candidates will be able to test their appeal to a wide electorate and to help determine the chances of two major contenders. The New York primary is one of the oddballs of the nation’s political system.

Operating Personnel Services. The job assigns the intern to the major functional areas of personnel work such as classification, employment and staffing. Business, psychology and social science majors are desired, but other majors will be considered if interest in personnel is shown. The last internship is available to the U.S. Government Printing Office. English and journalism majors will be considered for this position. It will involve research, reviewing and analyzing legal materials. In addition, interns will aid the General Counsel in publishing a manual concerning certain legal questions.

All interested students should complete applications by Fri., April 2. Applications and other forms can be obtained from William J. Schell at the Placement Bureau Office, Room 213 in the Administration Building.

Brings total to eleven

New internships available

PlACEMENT Director Richard Wil­

len, who oversees that fund, is a leader among federal summer internship programs and has a wealth of experience. These internships bring the total of the University up to eleven. "We are honored to have received this many," Willemse said. "Several universities receive only one or two." Requirements for the internships include United States citizenship and the completion of at least 60 semester hours by June, 1976. Willemse stressed that all appli­

NATIONAL REFUGEES

In a third internship in its office of

ON CAMPUS TODAY

12:15 pm—seminar, "interferon, virus and cell: an intimate look at a love-hate relationship" by dr. edward simon, dept. of biology science, purdue university, rm 278 galvin auditorium

1:30 pm—lecture, "water pollution abatement with recovery of organic" by chester t. fox, fluid process chemicals dept., room and haas co., philadelphia, rm 269 chemical engineering bldg

3:30 pm—seminar, "the generation of lift at low forward speeds" by dr. barry w. mcormick, chairman, aerospace engineering, penn state university, rm 303 engineering bldg

7:30 pm—folk dancing, free instruction, fortune ballroom

8 pm & 10 pm—film, "magnificent ambrosians," engineering auditorium, tickets $1

10 pm—lenten talk, "sin and a forgiving god," an introduction to the new rite of penance by the Rev. James t. burtchall, mass follows, morrissey chapel

12 am—album hour, tonight’s featured album—parohe snow, "second childhood," wnd 640 am

12:15 am—nocturne night flight, the best in progressive rock, jazz and blues, tonight’s host: tom paulaus, wnd 68.9 fm

READER: Barbara Breit­

», i

TODAY: Wednesday, March 31, 1976

FOR INTERVIEW

FR. JIM BURTCHALL, CSC

MORRISSEY HALL CHAPEL

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31 10 P.M.

Earnings on a commission basis - great potential. Must have use of a car.

NEED A JOB NEXT YEAR?

The Observer is looking for ad salesmen

The Observer is published Monday through Friday and weekly during the summer at the University of Notre Dame. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Mary’s College. Subscriptions may be purchased at the following rates: one year, $10.00; six months, $5.00. Second Class mailing permit No. 249, South Bend, Ind.

 calling for the discussion and celebration of mass following the talk and discussion

CALL MIKE MILLER

AT 7471 OR 288-0088

Business Majors:
Management positions available

The U. S. Navy has a limited number of management positions available to qualified business majors. The Navy Supply Corps is responsible for all aspects of naval logistics. As a Navy Supply Corps officer, you'll develop and practice modern management techniques while serving in a challenging and exciting environment. If you want a position with authority, responsibility and accountability, the Navy Supply Corps has it all. To apply, contact:

Lt. Bill Hughes (312) 657-2169/2170

What you do now determines whether you'll follow or whether you'll lead.
By Paul Walter
Staff Reporter

Student Body President Mike Gasman and Vice-President Mike Casey are to periodically attend the HPC (Higher Professions Council) meetings next year in an effort to stay in contact with the halls presidents. It was decided last night at the HPC meeting held in Walsh Hall.

Gassman and Casey, attending at the invitation of the HPC, discussed with council members the problem of the Student Government keeping an open line of communication with the HPC.

Since the HPC is independent of the Student government, the best way of keeping the two bodies in contact with each other is to have the student-body president and vice-president attend at least one HPC meeting per month. In this way, they could be informed of any activities or problems which the Council might have. The Council suggested that the Director of the Student Union might also attend meetings on a regular basis.

Elton Johnson, HPC Chairman, announced that the HPC Executive Coordinator will serve on the SBP Cabinet next year in place of the HPC Chairman as in previous years. All hall presidents will also be on the Student Body Congress which Gasman and Casey hope to organize next year.

In other business, the Council pointed out that An Tostal is sponsored and financed by the HPC and that the HPC Executive Coordinator usually serves as its chairman. All halls were urged to sponsor charity races, tug of war, and decathlon teams. Greg Wilks, An Tostal Committee member announced that anyone interested in being a scorekeeper, timekeeper, or judge in the decathlon should contact him.

Sunday, April 4 at midnight is the deadline for applications for the position of HPC representative to the Student Life Council. Applications should be made to Elton Johnson.

Farley Hall won the Rocke award for excellence in hall activities for the month of February.

HPC seeks ‘open line’ with student government their dorms. If security is busy enough escorting maybe they need to change policy for cars will be changed.

Elton Johnson listens to proposals on communication. (Photo by Paul Clevenge)

Students should be granted 15 minute campus passes any time pick up or leave off at their dorms. I do not believe such a change in policy will cause traffic problems on the main quad every Friday and Saturday night.

George McLaughlin

Show Consideration

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to Peggy Moore’s “warning” in St. Mary’s features was published in a daily paper of next year and to the College, lest the readers be deceived and thereby forfeit their monetary support in years to come.

I think that what is of great importance in this issue which Ms. Moore might think is the fact the college is charging students who want to live off campus must realize that they have a responsibility—to the College, if no one else— to plan their move sufficiently ahead of time so as not to violate the established housing selection procedures. In response to Peggy’s accusations concerning the contrary, I can assure you that no one is more aware of “student concerns” than the office which handles housing situations. If by “consideration” Peggy means to suggest that students, on a whim, should be allowed to break their room agreements (legally binding contracts which clearly state that they hold for an entire academic year) because they have the “second semester blues”, and many students who are live-in tutors regard for St. Mary’s, i.e. the institution, and its needs, then I think she is equally insensitive.

Leslie Wilson, SMC'76

P.O. Box Q
Open the Gates
Dear Editor:

Kathryn Mercer’s letter of March 24, “Burroughs as Porter”, pointed out that the current policy of Notre Dame security at the main gate in the evenings. The current policy for campus automobiles is unfair, potentially dangerous, particularly to the women of Notre Dame.

I became aware of the situation when I was denied a campus pass to pick up my date for a ball formal. My hall had failed to make special advance arrangements with Art Peers, I called security to attempt to make the necessary arrangements but my time was not at a minute. It was no one with enough authority available to authorize my passage through the main gate.

A policy that is potentially more dangerous to the women of Notre Dame and a girl who is dropped off at campus by friends after dark must walk back to her dorm because campus passes are not granted after 6:00 p.m. except for a medical emergency. It is not right for security to make a girl walk, not only to the North Quad, or Lewis Hall, down the uphill walkway between the dorms, but in the dark.

As a protest of this ridiculous policy of granting campus passes after 6:00 p.m. all the Notre Dame women that have to walk from the circle, whether coming from an off campus friend’s house at 9:00 p.m. or Nuckels on Thursday night at 3:00 am should go to the main gate and demand a personal escort to

To Turn the Tide

A year ago thirty-six hundred of you signed a petition demanding a re-investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy. I can remember many of you signing as you signed it, “It won’t make a difference, but...” At the same time a single congressman, Henry Gonzalez (D-Texas), was in support of his resolution calling for a congressional investigation of the JFK, RFK, King, and Wallace shootings. Many of you sent letters to your congressman urging their support, and some of you told me afterwards. “It won’t make a difference, but...”

But it has. A lot of other people have been writing letters and signing petitions, too, and at the moment 64 congressmen are sponsoring the resolution, including Morris Udall of Arizona, Don Riegle of Michigan, and approximately a third of the New York and California delegations. Eighteen other congressmen are supporting a resolution dealing specifically with the JFK assassination. Another major factor in this turnabout has been former N.Y. Congressman Allard K. Lowenstein. A close friend of the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy, he is one of the few people speaking out on political assassinations that members of Congress and the news media will listen to. He is currently engaged in a court battle with the Los Angeles Police concerning the assassination of Robert Kennedy and has recently been joined by Vincent Bugliosi, the prosecutor who put Charles Manson and his Family behind bars, and author of Helter Skelter.

There is another development that you should know about. All of you who are interested in justice and truth about the murders, read his account of “Superbullet”, the bullet that could go through John Kennedy and John Connally, execute the up and in and the down and out, smash bone with a single scratch, etc? If you’ve read any of Lowenstein’s magazine or newspaper articles on the JFK assassination you then know about a 22-caliber bullet that can best be described as “Superbullet’s Smarter Brother”. It was, according to the L.A. Police, able to go thru Senator Kennedy’s skull, into a ceiling panel, bounce off the floor above and come back down, off the floor and strike a lady on the forehead. Well, these bullets must have cousins because Cornelia Wallace, the Governor’s wife, writes in her soon to be published autobiography, “Brother”, she pulled the bullet out of her wall six times and four bystanders, with one bullet ending up in the asphalt. The cops should do that. One under the carpet... I have never questioned this, but with the experience they gained in investigating the JFK and Dr. King assassinations they undoubtedly knew what they were doing.

As far as the Gonzales Resolution is concerned, it remains stuck in the House Rules Committee in spite of its large sponsorship because many congressmen are afraid of it. You can help unstick it by writing a letter to your congressman demanding that he co-sponsor it. You see, there is one fear greater than the fear of death and that is the fear of being not re-elected.
Music fans in South Bend have recently been dissuaded by the lack of concerts, especially when Arlo Guthrie and his band released several albums with songs that obviously had been strung together without much care. After two trucking tunes, the band played a country-rock version of "The Clancy Brothers' "Clam Song." It was too bad that Arlo didn't attract a largeraudience, but the audience's response wasa positive one. Perhaps we can look forward to the cancellation of gentile balls and a few more funny songs. His ability to move the audience, which resulted in an extremely effective stage presence, Arlo Guthrie's music is in stark contrast to the ho-hum blandness of pop music today. It is hard to find fault with such a fine line example when you have nothing to compare it to.

A time to change

By thomas mcnally

We are moving away from the idea that sins arc "black marks" onour souls or simply the "bad things we've done." There is also the absence of the continuing failure to live when that response is called for. How often we lack generosity toward our parents and friends, for example, and hence fail to give a truly Christian response to their predicament. To be in a noble deed

Reconciliation:
We have timed. Therefore, we seek reconciliation. The task of the sacrament is to help bring about a reconciliation between the human beings. God, and among members of the human race. Hence, reconciliation is a kind of healing and, hopefully, for those who are aware of what has happened, the new rite says that the sacrament does achieve its purpose if it fails to take root in our lives and moves us to more fervent service of God and our neighbor.

By ourselves, all this is impossible. In the truth that reconciliation is not something that we do for ourselves, for something that God does for us, with eternal rewards that are possible to our parents and friends, for example, and hence fail to give a truly Christian response to their predicament. To be in a noble deed

Editor's Note: One of the most important recent developments in modern Catholic Church is the introduction of a new Rite of Penance; the first of two articles about the subject.

At Notre Dame and elsewhere this spring, the Catholic Church is presenting new life into an old sacrament—the Sacrament of Reconciliation.

In recent years the number of confession has dropped sharply here and around the world. Last fall, for example, 47 percent of Notre Dame freshmen said they go to confession "hardly ever or never." Probably the percentage is even higher for other classes.

Now a new Rite of Penance has been designed sharply here and around the world. Last fall, for example, 47 percent of Notre Dame freshmen said they go to confession "hardly ever or never."

The rite, which is prescribed in full or in part, is designed to bring about a reconciliation and to go to confession "hardly ever or never."

The first is what we know as private confession. The other two are similar in communal penance services. We probably have taken part in here or at home. Though one of these includes public confession and absolution. The Church is very reluctant to allow those who are really sin to receive the sacrament. This is one reason why people go by going individually to a priest. Nevertheless, this last form is an important development and may be the only way of getting the truth about the future of the sacrament.

What are the changes in going to confession? There are a few, which I will mention in the second of two articles. More importantly, however, the new rite suggests new ways to look at topics like reconciliation and conversion.

Sin: We are moving away from the idea that sins are "black marks" on our souls or simply the "bad things we've done." There is also the absence of the continuing failure to live when that response is called for. How often we lack generosity toward our parents and friends, for example, and hence fail to give a truly Christian response to their predicament. However, we can see more clearly that it is only an individual and personal transgression of some law or precept. We are witnessing today a new awareness of the universal dimension of sin—the common responsibility of all men and women for the plight of the workingman in America, the murder of an outspoken folk singer in Chile, and the activities of former President of Peru.

The bouncers come to usher you out just as your eyes are accustoming to the distortion of the bar's usual green-and-yellow lighted glass. After map readings and tricky negotiations, you sprint along the streets in the Latin Quarter, hailing a cab. But you've been thrown in. This is a noble deed...
One credit offered for summer live-in program

By Mary Mungovan Senior Staff Reporter

Students can visit social action organizations in major American cities this summer and receive course credit in theology, Fr. Tom Stella, director of Volunteer Services, announced Tuesday. Volunteer Services will sponsor the one-credit course, "The Church and the City," (Theology 375) in cooperation with the Catholic Committee on Urban Mission (CCUM). CCUM is a national network of over 3,000 priests, sisters, brothers and lay workers in prisons, housing projects, drug clinics, hospitals, legislatures, and various school and community projects. CCUM is headquartered at Notre Dame under the chairmanship of Mgr. John J. Ignat, C.S.C.

Students will live in for a 48-hour period with CCUM workers in various cities, usually in the context or rectory of the parish they are visiting," Stella explained. "Fagan's office will set up contacts between the students and the CCUM members they'll visit, preferably in a city near their own home." He added.

Few course requirements

Course requirements include attending an advance meeting this semester, the experience itself, a few short readings, keeping a journal, writing a short paper and attending de-briefing sessions early next semester. There are no prerequisites.

"The purpose of the experience is to acquaint the student with the problems of the city and the people who are addressing themselves to their solution," Stella commented.

The course was offered twice before over the past two Christmas vacations, with approximately 30 participants each time. The idea originated with Prof. Jay Dolan and was developed by the Undergraduate Committee for Theology and Religious Studies, according to Stella.

"The experience really had an impact on those involved," Stella reflected. "Most were struck by the largeness and complexity of the problems of social injustice, but many were also struck by the hope of the people attempting to alleviate those problems." Sue Grekowsk, a junior from a small town in Pennsylvania, visited a convent in downtown Boston. "I found after only two days that Boston was very neighborhood-oriented. Topmost on everyone's mind was the housing issue, a serious threat to neighborhood stability," she reflected. She visited several social agencies, including a home for homeless men and a consumer protection agency.

"As a result of the program, I have a job this summer at that consumer protection agency," she added.

Donald C. Nokes, a senior from Grace Hall, stayed with Josephite Fathers, an order dedicated to black Catholics, in Washington and Baltimore. "I got a chance to sit in on criminal court proceedings, which showed me an example of the injustice in our legal system." Increased awareness

"The experience gave me an increased awareness of the great needs of the black community and helped place the Catholic Church in perspective," he noted.

Kitty Barrett and Kathy Peters, from Lewis Hall, visited New York City, living with sisters in a tenement house.

"In just two days we were really bombarded," Barrett related.

"We visited a drug center, a mental health clinic, a renovated housing site, a youth center, and a grammar school, and we talked to a social worker, a poverty lawyer, a visiting nurse and city planners.

"I was most impressed by the hopelessness of the people fighting against the system. It seemed as though the system worked only for the rich," she commented.

"I didn't think it was hopeless because many really were succeeding in fighting the bureaucracy," Peters countered. "For these workers, this was more than just a job; it was total dedication. My visit just confirmed my own desire to work in cities myself."

The Office of Volunteer Services is in its fourth year. "It was originally the brainchild of Fr. Don McNeil to center the activities of students already involved in volunteer work," Stella indicated. "Since then it has grown, especially since Community Services brought volunteer work into the halls," he added.

Over 1800 Notre Dame and St. Mary's students are involved in at least 25 organizations, working with the retarded, visiting the elderly and various other activities.

"Volunteer Services encourages and promotes extracurricular involvements in the area of social service in the hope that students will become aware of persons and activities they would otherwise be oblivious to, coming from more protected environments," Stella stated.

"This course will hopefully accomplish this goal in cities other than South Bend," he added.

Interested students should contact the Office of Volunteer Services in LaFortune by April 7.

Marketing course offered for small business owners

A short course for owners and managers of small to medium-size businesses, "Marketing: Strategies for Success and Survival," has been scheduled for the Center for Continuing Education beginning April 20.

The classes will run from 6:30 to 8:30 on four consecutive Tuesdays followed by one-hocurse consultation period.

Two marketing faculty members, Robert Bress and James Stork, will conduct the classes in the Hayes-Healy Center. They are sponsored by the Small Business Administration in cooperation with the Center for Continuing Education.

Class sessions will focus on an overview of marketing, consumer behavior, emerging trends in retailing, company images, and product, price and promotion strategies. Market segmentation and research, as well as distribution, operations, negotiations and expansion will be course themes.

Persons wishing to participate in the course are asked to contact Dr. Robert L. Powell, 387-2327.

Year after year, semester after semester, the CollegeMaster from Fidelity Union Life has been the most accepted, most popular plan on campuses all across the U.S.

Find out why.

Call the Fidelity Union CollegeMaster

Field Associate in your area.

915 E. Cedar
South Bend, Ind. Phone 287-2327

The Freedom Fare.

It's brand new, offering up to 50% savings before June 1 and after September 15. During the summer season, the discount is 60%. Freedom Fare seating is limited on each flight, so advance reservations and pre-purchase of tickets are required. Good everywhere except Canada.

The Weekend Plan.

Take off as early as 7 PM Friday—return as late as noon Monday and save up to 25% roundtrip between our U.S. cities. Good anytime—including holiday weekends with advance reservations and pre-purchase of tickets.

It's your move.

See your Travel Agent for complete details on our discount air travel plans. Or call Allegheny. We'll show you how to fly in the face of inflation.
ND money orders increase as a result of chain letter something and doesn't get it through the mail, it is fraud. If it involves more than a few letters and illegal, but only if it is very sure that the case is fraud, the explained.

(continued from page 1)

Yet some of the recent buyers are losing enthusiasm. One suspecting the chain letter is the cause of some increase in money order sales. One normal said that the letter have been going for at least 25 years. He said, "It's not really been selling well. I've estimated that 85 percent of their sales are from people who are waiting for orders.

Two students from Minnesota have been reoccupied by reports, from their home state. The owner of the chain letter, a school administrator, has been reported to have deposited $2700 in his account with the Minnesota bank. One woman placed 97 money orders in one day, according to the students.

The letter said that a person has $2700, "one said, "So call up a person at the top of the list and check it out."

They admit that the letter is not selling as fast as it did at the beginning, because some people think it is either too late to make money, do not understand it, or are basically skeptical.

John Zentz, who bought a letter, one of the letter originators explained, "I waited until they were sure that they could get two people to buy their letter." Those who had a chance to buy and did not were skeptical either because they had bad experiences with chain letters or could not see how everyone could make money without someone losing. Others could not find two buyers before buying it. Not even the originators completely understand how $6000 can be made without losing $6000, but they did not feel they had cleared anyone either. "It's hard to sell if someone, if doesn't sell their letters," one said.

"But that's all right. We have to keep trying, and I don't do anything about it." The letter is a secret. Therefore, the creator, said to have been involved in the early stages of the letter, is not really involved in the letter to begin with. The creator did not have the time, he regretted getting involved. She said he could sell her two letters and that the dead. The two originators report that the letter has been sent to only a few campuses in the midwest, including: Valparaiso, Valparaiso, Michigan State and Purdue.

Callaghan leads race

LONDON AP—Foreign Secretary James Callaghan led the second round of balloting today for a new prime minister and head of the ruling Labor Party. The left-wing Labour Party is divided over two candidates, Harold Wilson, Labor's strong showing in the vote by Labor members in Parliament made him the clear favorite over the third ballot April 5.

The 64-year-old foreign secretary defeated Employment Secretary Michael Foot, 62, and Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey, 58. The vote was Callaghan 141, Foot 109 and Healey 38. A majority of 157 was needed to win the first ballot.

For a second election, Callaghan seemed to be on the wane with the government.

Healey will drop out under party rules. His vote is expected to spill over to Wilson in the third and final round.

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.

Although Monday night's a­

"It was really easy for me," said Burns. "I was supposed to be the New Yorker, which I was." It seems that someone had expected to see someone else. "It came natural to me, the rhythm of the lines, and I had a lot of fun," he said. When you're a comedian, you're standing up alone and all the lines are clear.

Acting isn't really hard. You get to do everything. You don't have to remember all the lines. And you get to do great actors like Walter Matthau and Richard Ben­jamin standing at each side.
Gridders boast 'brains and brawn'

by Ray O'Brien

The Notre Dame football team is the national champion of academia. According to a recent article by a Cleveland sports writer, Robert Mizell, the myth of the "Dumb Notre Dame football player" just is not true. Notre Dame was praised for its educational accomplishments with football players who have gone on to play professional football. This praise was initiated by statistics revealing the number of pro football players with degrees from various colleges. Notre Dame boasted a perfect record in the survey. The findings showed 24 ND products in the NFL all possessing a diploma. It was also evident that this was a trend in Catholic universities as Boston College was the third most successful school with nine of 11 former students (.818) in the NFL holding a sheepskin. The University of California had the second best record with 10-12 (.818) graduates.

The Big Eight Conference had the worst showing of any league with a horrible .222 percentage (30 out of 135). The survey found on average, with at least 10 veterans on NFL rosters.

One person responsible for this success is the Athletic Counselor Michael DeCicco. DeCicco was proud of the published results but commented reservedly, "I am up-front and admitting that it could be by any other way." He explained further, "If the people knew the recruiting processes they wouldn't be surprised."

The recruited players must have the required amount of prerequisite school work to enter a program of a 'C' average (along with other physical standards). According to statistics DeCicco stated, "Out of 30 player scholarships each year maybe three are marginally judged." He explained that athletic and scholastic abilities are coordinated so that a player would not have to have to receive a degree if he met the eligibility requirements. This is not true at all colleges.

Mizell has had five Rhodes Scholars in the past twenty years (although none in the past decade). The Fighting Irish have been honored with 17 NCAA awards for scholar-athletic ability which is second only to the Air Force Academy (21 awarded). The last recipient was freshman Paul Angelo. Two grid stars, Pete Demmerle and Reggie Barnett, won awards in the same year.

DeCicco said that he tended to agree with other coaches' belief that academic performance is reflected on the field. More importantly, he emphasized that performance on the field should not only be the schoolwork of a player. It is the players that never make it to the pros that will need the diploma the most he noted. He presented statistics which showed that the varsity athletics average GPA of .515 was very close to the University average and football the team and its seniors were a reflection of the rule. Several teams' academic averages are higher than the total student body average.

The stigma that most people have about football players or any athlete is that they are not Knights with no basis for proof. There are academically weak athletes just as there are academically weak non-athletes. The obsolete generalization that college football players are not bright or intelligent has been dispelled by these findings.

Mizell closes his article by saying, "Notre Dame obviously works hard as its football players have every shot at hanging up a sheepskin. Notre Dame is a strong school strut-boom! The Fighting Irish proudly claim they are a blend of brains and brawn."

Mizell's Survey

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Western Athletic Conference</th>
<th>US State</th>
<th>Points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Notre Dame</td>
<td>Utah</td>
<td>41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Boston College</td>
<td>Arizona</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pacific Coast</td>
<td>Oregon</td>
<td>39</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>University of Colorado</td>
<td>California</td>
<td>38</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Washington</td>
<td>Arizona</td>
<td>37</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - "I didn't remember nothing until today, not even that we won," said Indiana's Mickey Wilkinson Tuesday from his hospital bed.

The 21-year-old Wilkinson suffered a cerebral concussion on Monday night and 43 seconds into Monday night's Indiana-Michigan NCAA championship basketball game.

The 6-foot-7 Wilkinson was still woozy after sleeping the night at Temple University Hospital.

"I remember now (Tuesday) Coach (Bobby) Knight in last night and telling me that we won," Wilkinson said slowly.

Wilkinson's face is swollen and he has a dislocating under one eye. Dr. Joseph Torg, head of Team sports medical clinic, dis- counted initial reports Monday that Wilkinson suffered a mild concussion.

"It was severe," said Torg.

"The boy was unconscious for six minutes," he said. "He's ok now."

Wilkinson was released from hospital, but didn't remember anything. He's just don't remember," he repeated softly.

Willerson to be all right

Mike O'Donnell, senior captain of the tennis team, is hoping to lead the Irish nettters to their best record in recent years.

"High school tennis is so much different from college tennis," states O'Donnell. He still plays tennis for the same reasons. O'Donnell claims that tennis is giving him many friends all over the country. His desire to travel is also being satisfied as already he has traveled to Maryland and twice to California.

Tennis is the nucleus of his life. For the past five years now O'Donnell has spent the summer instructing at a tennis club just south of Chicago. He plans to continue his instructing and hopes to play in some small tournaments following graduation but will not make tennis his career. This fall, O'Donnell will attend the University of Denver Law School to further his education.

O'Donnell has realized that tennis is not a sport in which a player can move from the back of the court to the top echelon in a short period of time. Very few players in college today can afford the time away from their studies to adequately prepare a professional career. To become an accomplished player there must be time, dedication and hard all are needed. For O'Donnell, the only successful playing part-time.

Although tennis is virtually a forgotten sport at Notre Dame, O'Donnell feels he owes alot to tennis. The game has provided him with his philosophy for life. It may sound strange to foolish but tennis has given him more than just his mental skills and improved his character.

Although tennis is virtually a forgotten sport at Notre Dame, O'Donnell feels he owes alot to tennis. The game has provided him with his philosophy for life. It may sound strange to foolish but tennis has given him more than just his mental skills and improved his character.

"I didn't remember nothing until today, not even that we won," said Indiana's Mickey Wilkinson Tuesday from his hospital bed.

The 21-year-old Wilkinson suffered a cerebral concussion on Monday night and 43 seconds into Monday night's Indiana-Michigan NCAA championship basketball game.

The 6-foot-7 Wilkinson was still woozy after sleeping the night at Temple University Hospital.

"I remember now (Tuesday) Coach (Bobby) Knight in last night and telling me that we won," Wilkinson said slowly.

Wilkinson's face is swollen and he has a dislocating under one eye. Dr. Joseph Torg, head of Team sports medical clinic, dis- counted initial reports Monday that Wilkinson suffered a mild concussion.

"It was severe," said Torg.

"The boy was unconscious for six minutes," he said. "He's ok now."

Wilkinson was released from hospital, but didn't remember anything. He's just don't remember," he repeated softly.

"I didn't remember nothing until today, not even that we won," said Indiana's Mickey Wilkinson Tuesday from his hospital bed.

The 21-year-old Wilkinson suffered a cerebral concussion on Monday night and 43 seconds into Monday night's Indiana-Michigan NCAA championship basketball game.

The 6-foot-7 Wilkinson was still woozy after sleeping the night at Temple University Hospital.

"I remember now (Tuesday) Coach (Bobby) Knight in last night and telling me that we won," Wilkinson said slowly.

Wilkinson's face is swollen and he has a dislocating under one eye. Dr. Joseph Torg, head of Team sports medical clinic, dis- counted initial reports Monday that Wilkinson suffered a mild concussion.

"It was severe," said Torg.

"The boy was unconscious for six minutes," he said. "He's ok now."

Wilkinson was released from hospital, but didn't remember anything. He's just don't remember," he repeated softly.