Early-morning registration
Notre Dame students celebrate rites of Spring

by Barbara Britenstein
Senior Staff Reporter

The bi-yearly process of registration began yesterday morning with over 500 seniors waiting in lines outside LaFortune and in the halls of O'Shaugnessy to pick up course cards for the fall semester.

Registration opened at 8 a.m., as two campus security officers opened the front doors of LaFortune to the students outside, some of whom had been waiting in freezing weather since midnight.

Students also began gathering in O'Shaugnessy at the same time. "I got here at 12:30," said Karen Abraham, a senior who was waiting for a card for Photography I.

Other students began lining up around 4:30 or 5 a.m., equipped with blankets and pillows, at both card distribution sites.

The first-course cards for all Arts and Letters departments, with the exception of Philosophy, Theology and English, were handed out in O'Shaugnessy. Students lined both sides of the hall on the third floor and filled at the Art Department hallway on the first floor, waiting for offices to open.

One of the requirements, for Philosophy, Theology and English were distributed on the second floor of LaFortune due to the large number of students desiring courses in those three departments. Therefore, the procedure is being used for junior registration today.

The over 300 seniors who were outside the building when it opened could cite the need to be on time and to the second floor of LaFortune in less than five minutes. Students then waited, some for another hour or more, in long lines which filled the balcony.

As usual, there were some conflicts in the registration process, mostly noticeably in the College of Business Administration, but in LaFortune, the students were "for the most part well-mannered this year," according to Bob Strikerwoda, a graduate student who distributed course cards for the school.

Courses which closed first in Philosophy included Business Ethics, Philosophy of Being taught by Prof. Rice, and Prof. Brennan's Existentialism course.

"There was a mix-up with the Existentialism course," Brooks stated. "There were two sections listed, though only one was offered." In Theology, the more popular courses were Sex and Marriage, and Jung and Theology, while Prof. Werge's Mark Twain and the American Tradition course was the first to fill in English, along with Poetry by Prof. Sandeen.

Notre Dame students celebrate rites of Spring

Registration a challenge to students

by Barbara Britenstein
Senior Staff Reporter

Registration procedures in the business college has brought complaints from many senior business majors who pulled elective cards for the fall semester Wednesday night.

"There was an amazing line," Darice Spence, senior business major stated, and "Dean Raymond was the only one handing out cards." I waited for two and a half hours. Then, before I got up there, the course I wanted was closed," she complained. "It was frustrating.

"I was mad," Steve Garagolis, a senior management major, complained. "I was the first senior in line. I waited for two and a half hours and when they opened the door they said that there were only fourteen courses still left, and the finance course I needed was already closed out."

"There were a lot of people in my same position," Garagolis continued. "I just left."

"A lot of people didn't even bother going to pick out cards when they heard about it," Mary O'Meara, a junior agreed. "Everything I wanted was gone."

Students reporting for these business cards were divided into three groups by ID number. Each group came at an hour apart. Cards were distributed by Vincent Raymond, dean of Business Administration.

"These were seeking additional business courses beyond the requirements," Raymond explained. "But the registration of one student in relative to limited availability. There is such a judgement factor you have to use."

"There's more to it than just getting cards," Raymond continued. "There's a lot of judgement, counseling, and advising that comes in. I could have easily had a thousand volunteers helping me if I wanted, but the only way to bring in integrity, fairness and equality for the students or have a centralized point," he stated.

Some students complained that three required Finance courses were reserved for the upper juniors and therefore were closed to seniors. Those seniors who did not take these courses their junior year must take them before they are able to graduate.

"It seemed very unfair," Garagolis complained. "I have to take those courses, but I couldn't.

The required courses are Business Conditions Analysis, Money and Banking, and Government Fiscal Policy. All three courses must be taken by juniors."

"There are 239 new juniors to take," said Ray Powell, Accounting Department chairman. "So the new junior must get these three courses. There are 290 to 275 cards for these courses and I am 300 to give to new-in-sequence juniors."

Powell explained that the other 75 cards are saved for out-of-sequence seniors who did not take these courses in their junior year.

Seniors were able to pick the left-over cards this morning.

"I'm a bit unfair for me to have gone to the 239 juniors and have given seniors these cards before they had a chance to get them," he stated.

Part of the problem of registration was caused by the lack of faculty in the business college, according to Powell. "We don't have enough teachers here to teach the seniors, and that's the crux of the problem," he stated.

Raymond did not cite understaffing as the possible cause of the course card shortage, as some students said. He explained his discontent on students attempts to only take required courses with certain professors.

Business major cards were distributed Wednesday afternoon.

Elective cards were distributed to seniors on Wednesday night and next year's juniors last night.

"I'm sure some juniors anticipated problems with their registration which was scheduled at the same time as the senior's. Most of the report for cards was pushed back an hour to alleviate this problem."

"We've had no trouble tonight," Raymond said.

Of SMC Admissions
Brooks named new Director

by Maggie Brydges
Staff Reporter

St. Mary's has announced the appointment of Elisa Brooks, current assistant director of Admissions at Notre Dame, as director of the Office of Admissions. The appointment will become effective June 1, and Brooks will be "progressing," Brooks said. She survived battle the largest volume of applications at St. Mary's will allow for greater mobility within the department, thereby allowing more opportunity to travel at St. Mary's.

"Brooks is a good woman's college independent of Notre Dame: "It's easy for a smaller school to be overshadowed by one with a reputation such as Notre Dame's."

In her four years at Notre Dame, Brooks has observed a major change in the attitudes of the enrolling students. "Students are more serious now when they apply to a college. They address themselves to specific questions about the curriculum before they decide to spend four years anywhere."

Brooks will replace Sr. Anne Marie Golden who had been St. Mary's director of admissions since 1972. Golden plans to return to Maryland.

"Admissions at St. Mary's is considerably like Notre Dame as far as alumni pressure, although not as intensified," Golden explained. The admissions department was completely revamped under Golden.

Several new policies and changes were made during her four years as admissions director.

"In keeping our admissions literature, organized an extensive recruiting program and conducted studies on different parts of the country where we receive heavy commitment," Golden said, lauding some of the changes.

Brooks has been assistant director of admissions at Notre Dame since February last year. A graduate of Saint Xavier College in Chicago, she received her M.A. from Smith College in Northampton, Massachussetts. She has done graduate work (continued on page 5)
On Campus Today

Friday, April 9, 1976

12:15 pm-- 12:30 pm--
mass, la fortune ballroom tavelogue series, "india" by karmen rae, room 278 galvin aud., sponsored by biology dept

civil rights lectures, "reforming racial strategies for survival and accommodation" by prof derrick a bell, jr., cce

3:30 pm--
philosophy perspectives, "rationality and communities" by prof. richard berstein, library aud

4:30 pm--
lecture, "character manipulation in pl-1, room 115, computer center

5:15 pm-- 5:30 pm--
seminar, "chemotherapy of african trypanosomiasis problems and prospects" by prof arthur c zahalsky, laboratory for biochemical parasitology, national institutes of health parasitology training center, galvin aud.

6:00 pm--
mass and dinner, bolla shed

6:30 pm--
dinner, an evening in williamsburg 1776, lower level, dining hall, sponsored by community relations council, smc, reservations closed

9 pm--
"midnight cowboy" sponsored by cultural arts commission, engineering aud, tickets $1

9:30 pm--
film, "bedknobs and broomsticks," "road runner" cartoon "bugs bunny," farley basement, sdc

12 am-- album hour, wsnf 640 am

2:15 am--
nightime flight, the best in progressive rock, jazz and blues, "george the friendly mainstream".

3 am--
The best in jazz just for you, wsnf 80.9 fm

sunday, april 10

10 am-- sale, glass greenhouse, benefit sale of glassware and donations, sponsored by south bend venues alumnus refreshments and door prizes, eahnin aud, admission $1 general, 50c students

10:30 pm--
rugby, n.d. vs. northern illinois, stephan field

11 am--
farley picnic, all farley residents welcome, st. mary's lake, near grotto

9:15 am-- 9:30 am-- film, "the sting" sponsored by student union, engineering aud., tickets $1

10:30 am-- festival, international student festival, washington hall

9 pm--
variety show, "broadway review," sponsored by speech and drama dept, eahnin aud.

11 pm--
album hour, wsnf 640 am

12:15 am-- nightime flight, the best in progressive rock, jazz and blues, tonight's host: jorge lopez, wsnf 80.9 fm

saturday, april 11

2 pm--
recital, student piano recital, sponsored by ladies of n.d. music interest group, library aud

2 pm--
variety show, "broadway review," sponsored by speech and drama dept, eahnin aud.

3:30 pm--
lecture, "sexual mythology in america 1775-1875," by sr. madonna kollenschlag, n.d., cosponsored by association for the study of american Indian cultures and women with grant from indiana committee for the humanities, cce

4:30 pm--
vespers, concert, notre dame chapel choir sings

5:30 pm--
an evening in williamsburg 1776, lower level, dining hall, snc

7:15 am-- 7:30 am-- film, "the sting," sponsored by student union, engineering aud., tickets: $1

8 pm--
vespers, concert, notre dame chapel choir sings

12:00 am--
service, lenten choral service, sacred heart church

12:15 am--
nightime flight, the best in progressive rock, jazz and blues, tonight's host: dave szymanski, wsnf 88.9 fm
Quinlivan’s Mass closes second campus Food Day

In Maureen Flynn, Campus Editor

Fr. Francis Quinlivan, director of the Peace and Justice Commission, last night called for students to recognize Christ’s presence on earth in the poor. Quinlivan’s Mass in Sacred Heart brought to close the second campus “Food Day” sponsored by the Notre Dame Hunger Coalition and IPBIRG.

In his homily, Quinlivan addressed several purposes of campus Food Day to enlighten students and faculty concerning hunger on earth and in the world. The celebrant noted that citizens of more prosperous nations tend to take their prosperity for granted.

“We Americans, pro-suppose that our abundant food and material goods come from our own land,” said Quinlivan, “but only through the poor does salvation come to us.”

Quinlivan commented on the gospel text, writing: “The story of the four leper Jews who died of starvation at the gates of the rich man’s house. He pointed out that the rich man, condemned for his neglect of the poor, was afraid that he might lose his future glory if he fed them. In comforting the work of the Hungry: ‘The labors of the poor are not as those that have to work with them was to see God’s salvation in students and the poverty-stricken alike.’ He petitioned prayers for the unanswerable evil, the hurting, and those consider ed useless.

“May we,” he added, “the poor can help our nation find its soul.”

Earlier in the day, the Hunger Coalition and IPBIRG sponsored a food booth on the South Quad, which featured information on the hunger problem, proper nutrition and food supplements. In the afternoon members of the ND-SMC community participated in a seminar and discussion involving students and faculty who have lived in another country.

A meal of rice and tea was served on Mass Day in the Knights of Columbus building. Members of the Notre Dame Faculty participated in a panel discussion later in the day concerning global issues in the context of resourcing and opportunities.

Maritain’s home donated to ND

The Princeton, N.J. residence of the late Jacques Maritain, an internationally known philosopher who died in 1973, has been given to Notre Dame, where Maritain was a member of the philosophy department between 1934 and the late 1950’s. The University will maintain the residence for its scholars on study leave at Princeton.

Born in Paris in 1882, Maritain converted to Catholicism in 1905 and spent a lifetime elucidating the thought of the 13th Century Dominicans Thomas Aquinas.

In 1958, Notre Dame established a Jacques Maritain Center, located in the University’s Memorial Library, under the direction of Dr. Joseph W. Evans, associate professor of philosophy. The Center serves as a clearinghouse for research and publications of Maritain’s work.

In the definition of An Tostal is “spring festival” but it means much more to the Notre Dame community.

An Tostal weekend of April 22-24 is swiftly approaching, and more elaborate and innovative events will make it the best An Tostal in its history, according to Don Opal, director of internal affairs.

“If we can get people involved in the event, it will only be successful,” said Opal, assistant to Craig Moore, who is coordinating the An Tostal weekend. “With events ranging from the Killer Skateboard Tour to ‘Recuse 170,’ we will be culminating by the Irish Wake on Saturday night.

“The basketball tournament, which began Wednesday on the Stepain and bookstore basketball courts, is typical of An Tostal’s appeal to students,” cited Opal. A total of 256 teams entered the games with another 48 teams on the waiting list.

An Tostal finals will be held Thursday, April 22 on opening night and will total over 3,000 is expected to sit in on the championship game.

The Tostal committee will distribute an information booklet explaining the ranking of events just prior to Easter break. The weekend will officially begin on the afternoon of April 22 with an “Irish Luncheon in the Irish and South Dining Hall.

A new event this year will be the An Tostal Assassination Service. During the three day festival trained group of assassins will be on hand to blow a pie in the face of any targeted person any where on the quad or in the dorms at anytime day or night.

All of the pies are freshly baked with cream cheese and banana cream specials for $3. A major percentage of the profits goes to charity and Opal added, “We hope that students will collaborate on the cost of the pies to have their victim’s names remembered in the administration and all university employees are exempt.”

Thursday’s opening ceremony features also include a rock concert staged in front of the North Dining Hall at 8 p.m.

The keynote events will be a giant sack race, egg toss and car Stuffing during the day with Recess 170 scheduled Friday evening. The recess is highlighted by a sandwich, tricycle races, baby powder fights and other big-child fantasies according to Opal. It will also be catered by Farrell’s Ice Cream Parlor again this year.

The Irishman and road rally begin Saturday evening’s events by the “Irish Picnic” on the North Quad Saturday afternoon.

The picnic will be open to students, faculty and guests and quads and St. Mary’s. In addition, on Friday and Saturday tickets will be provided on the Notre Dame campus for those interested in the St. Mary’s bar cure that evening.

Mud volleyball will begin next week in front of Fleming Hall and the finals for that event will also be held Saturday of An Tostal weekend.

Chariot races and the mud tug-of-war as well will held on Saturday afternoon.

Finally, the Irish Wake will be held Saturday night at the South Quad and will suitably decorated for the event. The $3 flat will be served beside beer plus wine and cheese.

“One of the greatest features of the Wake is the band “Eden Rock”, which play prices $7,500 to the university. The band will provide for his children from the sale of their concert tickets.

Students Brian Dow and Steve Callahan, chairman of the mobilization committee, said both are hopeful enough getting students to mingle both inside and outside.

The two Planner residents are responsible for the physical setup of each event and have assured the committee that all phases of the program have run smoothly to date.

All major events will be held again this year on An Tostal Field across Jesse Rd.

‘Ugly’ contest to benefit charity

The annual ‘Ugly’ Mung Contest to the largest man or woman on campus, is scheduled to be held during An Tostal weekend, April 22-24. Participants can vote for a position as such as they wish, with one penny buying a vote. The winner of the contest will receive a special dinner and wine for two.

The winner is be sponsored by the Sigma Phi Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity. All proceeds will go to St. Mary’s Primary Day School for underprivileged children.

Happiness is a Job

Our high quality resume service can find that job. Send for our free resume form— it might make you happy.

Print, etc., P.O. Box 696 Bloomington, Ind. 47402
Please send the reply form here

Name

City-State Zip

Printed by: City-State Crop.

Bookstore tourney featured An Tostal to be ‘best in history’ by Pat Canee, Senior Staff Reporter

In the definition of An Tostal is “spring festival” but it means much more to the Notre Dame community.

An Tostal weekend of April 22-24 is swiftly approaching, and more elaborate and innovative events will make it the best An Tostal in its history, according to Don Opal, director of internal affairs.

“If we can get people involved in the event, it will only be successful,” said Opal, assistant to Craig Moore, who is coordinating the An Tostal weekend. “With events ranging from the Killer Skateboard Tour to ‘Recuse 170,’ we will be culminating by the Irish Wake on Saturday night.

“The basketball tournament, which began Wednesday on the Stepain and bookstore basketball courts, is typical of An Tostal’s appeal to students,” cited Opal. A total of 256 teams entered the games with another 48 teams on the waiting list.

An Tostal finals will be held Thursday, April 22 on opening night and will total over 3,000 is expected to sit in on the championship game.

The Tostal committee will distribute an information booklet explaining the ranking of events just prior to Easter break. The weekend will officially begin on the afternoon of April 22 with an “Irish Luncheon in the Irish and South Dining Hall.

A new event this year will be the An Tostal Assassination Service. During the three day festival trained group of assassins will be on hand to blow a pie in the face of any targeted person any where on the quad or in the dorms at anytime day or night.

All of the pies are freshly baked with cream cheese and banana cream specials for $3. A major percentage of the profits goes to charity and Opal added, “We hope that students will collaborate on the cost of the pies to have their victim’s names remembered in the administration and all university employees are exempt.”

Thursday’s opening ceremony features also include a rock concert staged in front of the North Dining Hall at 8 p.m.

The keynote events will be a giant sack race, egg toss and car Stuffing during the day with Recess 170 scheduled Friday evening. The recess is highlighted by a sandwich, tricycle races, baby powder fights and other big-child fantasies according to Opal. It will also be catered by Farrell’s Ice Cream Parlor again this year.

The Irishman and road rally begin Saturday evening’s events by the “Irish Picnic” on the North Quad Saturday afternoon.

The picnic will be open to students, faculty and guests and quads and St. Mary’s. In addition, on Friday and Saturday tickets will be provided on the Notre Dame campus for those interested in the St. Mary’s bar cure that evening.

Mud volleyball will begin next week in front of Fleming Hall and the finals for that event will also be held Saturday of An Tostal weekend.

Chariot races and the mud tug-of-war as well will held on Saturday afternoon.

Finally, the Irish Wake will be held Saturday night at the South Quad and will suitably decorated for the event. The $3 flat will be served beside beer plus wine and cheese.

“One of the greatest features of the Wake is the band “Eden Rock”, which play prices $7,500 to the university. The band will provide for his children from the sale of their concert tickets.

Students Brian Dow and Steve Callahan, chairman of the mobilization committee, said both are hopeful enough getting students to mingle both inside and outside.

The two Planner residents are responsible for the physical setup of each event and have assured the committee that all phases of the program have run smoothly to date.

All major events will be held again this year on An Tostal Field across Jesse Rd.

‘Ugly’ contest to benefit charity

The annual ‘Ugly’ Mung Contest to the largest man or woman on campus, is scheduled to be held during An Tostal weekend, April 22-24. Participants can vote for a position as such as they wish, with one penny buying a vote. The winner of the contest will receive a special dinner and wine for two.

The winner is be sponsored by the Sigma Phi Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity. All proceeds will go to St. Mary’s Primary Day School for underprivileged children.
midnight
0-C
architects next year, to be wary of in the Huddle, and listed in The have the words 'excellent' or 'very assumed that the University ted the house and given it this selves
"Some predict pressure increase according to class fall. both the student and our office of ern California game next year. The of departmentals arc presently given over a 75-minute period, but are change of-address forms in the Off-Campus Office or with Student Affairs. By filling out these forms

Chairmen react to policy; predict pressure increase

continued from page 2)

rather than going through a full day of classes.

Wong, Powell and Miller all stated that any increase in pressure would increase because of the 85-minute restrictions.

Miller said that physical areas are designed to be finished by a "good student" in minutes, but extra half-hour is added so that the "good" student can make mistakes if they are present in the room.

Acconting offices are presently given over a "leisurely two hour" period, according to Powell. There will be more pressure on students, he noted, because of the amount of material covered in the course, and also the amount of testing time available. "Sopho

Powell said that the number of students who would be affected by the policy was being compiled to include those interested or those who might also be interested.

Next Senior class plans USC trip

The senior class will go to Los Angeles, California for their class trip next year, according to class president Bob Tally.

The trip will coincide with Thanksgiving break and the Southern California game next year. The class will depart from the Michigan Regional Airport in South Bend on Wednesday, November 22. Flights over Los Angeles and back will total approximately 400 allotted for Notre Dame and 80 for Fresno State. The planes will feature as open bar.

Included in the trip package are a ticket to the game, airport transportation, accommodations for 5 days and 4 nights in Southern California, and meals.

Students who are 21 will also be allowed to go to a couple of bars four days with unlimited mileage.

Total cost of the trip is approximately $253, however, it may possibly increase. Although the actual dates will not be avail- able until next week, a $50 non-refundable deposit will probably be collected within the next 3 weeks.

Student paper wins first prize

Notre Dame student Tim Walsh, of 1022 E. Collfax, recently captured first place in the Region VI American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME) competition in Evanston, Ill.

Walsh's award winning paper, "The Flow Rate of Red Blood Cells," enables him to move on to the winter conference national competition.

Notre Dame's student chapter of ASME also secured three awards at the competition including the greatest participation of any university in the six-state regional area.

Walsh's project is supported by heart valve research where he has been working under the direction of Dr. John Lloyd, Department of Aerospace Mechanical Engineering.

Other students who competed in the competition included Frank Migliarese with his paper "The Effect of Relative Humidity and Temperature on the Performance of the ACC from the University in the six-state regional area.

Walsh's project is supported by heart valve research where he has been working under the direction of Dr. John Lloyd, Department of Aerospace Mechanical Engineering.

Other students who competed in the competition included Frank Migliarese with his paper "The Effect of Relative Humidity and Temperature on the Performance of the ACC from the University in the six-state regional area.

This has to be a certain disapproval from students for his participation in campus activities.

Grupala stated that the policy is intended to make possible or even stimulate this participation. He commented that the university is a total exercise program and should not just be studying.

An informal poll of students indicated that they were unsure about the new policy. A few students said they like the idea of taking exams early in the morning so that they don't have to worry about class the day before. Another reason was that they would have more time for studying in the morning.

"I think it will be a problem under the policy," one student complained.

Many professors were directed at the reasons for the policy given by Fr. James Burtchaell on Wednesday night. He said that the policy was intended to relieve pressure on freshmen and sophomores who sometimes have to wait until their junior year to attend their first concert or lecture.

Next Senior class plans plans USC trip

The senior class will go to Los Angeles, California for their class trip next year, according to class president Bob Tally.

The trip will coincide with Thanksgiving break and the Southern California game next year. The class will depart from the Michigan Regional Airport in South Bend on Wednesday, November 22. Flights over Los Angeles and back will total approximately 400 allotted for Notre Dame and 80 for Fresno State. The planes will feature as open bar.

Included in the trip package are a ticket to the game, airport transportation, accommodations for 5 days and 4 nights in Southern California, and meals.

Students who are 21 will also be allowed to go to a couple of bars four days with unlimited mileage.

Total cost of the trip is approximately $253, however, it may possibly increase. Although the actual dates will not be avail- able until next week, a $50 non-refundable deposit will probably be collected within the next 3 weeks.

Student paper wins first prize

Notre Dame student Tim Walsh, of 1022 E. Collfax, recently captured first place in the Region VI American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME) competition in Evanston, Ill.

Walsh's award winning paper, "The Flow Rate of Red Blood Cells," enables him to move on to the winter conference national competition.

Notre Dame's student chapter of ASME also secured three awards at the competition including the greatest participation of any university in the six-state regional area.

Walsh's project is supported by heart valve research where he has been working under the direction of Dr. John Lloyd, Department of Aerospace Mechanical Engineering.

Other students who competed in the competition included Frank Migliarese with his paper "The Effect of Relative Humidity and Temperature on the Performance of the ACC from the University in the six-state regional area.

This has to be a certain disapproval from students for his participation in campus activities.

Grupala stated that the policy is intended to make possible or even stimulate this participation. He commented that the university is a total exercise program and should not just be studying.

An informal poll of students indicated that they were unsure about the new policy. A few students said they like the idea of taking exams early in the morning so that they don't have to worry about class the day before. Another reason was that they would have more time for studying in the morning.

"I think it will be a problem under the policy," one student complained.

Many professors were directed at the reasons for the policy given by Fr. James Burtchaell on Wednesday night. He said that the policy was intended to relieve pressure on freshmen and sophomores who sometimes have to wait until their junior year to attend their first concert or lecture.

Next Senior class plans plans USC trip

The senior class will go to Los Angeles, California for their class trip next year, according to class president Bob Tally.

The trip will coincide with Thanksgiving break and the Southern California game next year. The class will depart from the Michigan Regional Airport in South Bend on Wednesday, November 22. Flights over Los Angeles and back will total approximately 400 allotted for Notre Dame and 80 for Fresno State. The planes will feature as open bar.

Included in the trip package are a ticket to the game, airport transportation, accommodations for 5 days and 4 nights in Southern California, and meals.

Students who are 21 will also be allowed to go to a couple of bars four days with unlimited mileage.

Total cost of the trip is approximately $253, however, it may possibly increase. Although the actual dates will not be avail- able until next week, a $50 non-refundable deposit will probably be collected within the next 3 weeks.
The NCA accreditation team was tremendously impressed with St. Mary's and Notre Dame. Dr. Hickey, vice-president for academic Affairs, noted in his report that the recent North Central Association's (NCA) evaluation of St. Mary's.

The general tenor of the evaluation, which took place March 24-26, was "to look at all aspects of the institution," said Hickey. He added that because of the college's resources, the team will consider whether or not the college is doing the job it is supposed to be doing.

NCA is one of the nation-wide forces set up to evaluate colleges and universities. The NCA determines if an institution is fulfilling its role to itself and the students. NCA visits are held every ten years.

The NCA main office selects a team of people from geographical area of the school to be evaluated to hold this position. All the members have participation in the team selection process.

Hickey noted that people are chosen who have diverse interests and different areas of expertise.

"Three days was an adequate amount of time, " Hickey said. "If given adequate informa- tion, the team could do a lot. However, it was not possible to visit every area of the campus during the accreditation process."

Commenting on the preliminary report, Hickey said, "In every case the department strength was outweighed by the weaknesses." The report said that the department members of English, foreign languages, and sociology were parti-

Lower drinking age may pass by Matt Kane Staff Reporter

State Rep. Robert DuComb (R) told a group of young Republicans Wednesday night that the 18-year-old drinking age "is too hard on the rest of us — it's too easy for the under-aged students to get their hands on the liquor."

DuComb supported a bill creating a "good cause" drinking age for minors. He cited the problem of "inadequate facilities."

The bill failed to come to a vote last session because of insufficient votes on the floor. The second reading of the bill was brought up for a vote, said co-sponsor DuComb, "but this time the under-age people have hurt our chances for next year."

The report said that the bill might have been supported by under-aged legislators. But, according to DuComb, its supporters did not want to risk legislative history in the upcoming elections because of the emotional issues surrounding the drinking age. Also the bill "may have passed in the House" without "smoke time for the Senate to pass it."

DuComb cited some of the "obstacles the bill faced last session."

The student lobbyists did not realize that prior to this year 20 to 25 members of the House have been professionally trained. "They will oppose any bill that will give a person access to alcohol, " DuComb said.

The major obstacle to the drinking bill was the election year. "Everyone gets a little dry in the mouth around election time," DuComb remarked. "A legislator is cautious when it comes to voting on a bill on which he might be damaged in his community." DuComb advised students who reside in Indiana to persuade their representatives to support the bill. He noted that if the university and college regulations have an effect upon legislators, DuComb stated: "The University has to decide the extent of its liability. Rules they make don't affect our deliberations."

If the bill does pass next year, DuComb thinks Governor Otis Bowen will sign it. "Governor Bowen, who was speaking to the student body, will follow the legislature on moral issues like this," DuComb said.

DuComb also reported on legislation dealing with education and the environment. "In this session, we tried to deal with the problem of the Clean Air Act and pollution of our colleges," he cited the great difference in tuition between private and public schools. To assist the private school student, the legislation was based upon the Indiana freedom of choice grants. Students receiving the grant attend any college in Indiana.

They consider themselves as part of a larger educational enterprise including the University of Notre Dame.

The library was singled out as having a much needed collection of books. The building, however, was termed "highly inadequate."

Hickey is planning to publish the complete report and have it made available for anyone to read. The complete report will be ready in six to eight weeks.

"There is no doubt in our minds that the report will make very positive statements about St. Mary's, but we will seriously look at areas of concern," Hickey concluded.

St. Mary's is to receive favorable accreditation

by Pat Payne Staff Reporter

The NCA accreditation team was tremendously impressed with St. Mary's. Dr. Hickey, vice-president for academic Affairs, noted in his report that the recent North Central Association's (NCA) evaluation of St. Mary's.

The general tenor of the evaluation, which took place March 24-26, was "to look at all aspects of the institution," said Hickey. He added that because of the college's resources, the team will consider whether or not the college is doing the job it is supposed to be doing.

NCA is one of the nation-wide forces set up to evaluate colleges and universities. The NCA determines if an institution is fulfilling its role to itself and the students. NCA visits are held every ten years.

The NCA main office selects a team of people from geographical area of the school to be evaluated to hold this position. All the members have participation in the team selection process.

Hickey noted that people are chosen who have diverse interests and different areas of expertise.

"Three days was an adequate amount of time, " Hickey said. "If given adequate informa- tion, the team could do a lot. However, it was not possible to visit every area of the campus during the accreditation process."

Commenting on the preliminary report, Hickey said, "In every case the department strength was outweighed by the weaknesses." The report said that the department members of English, foreign languages, and sociology were parti-

Lower drinking age may pass by Matt Kane Staff Reporter

State Rep. Robert DuComb (R) told a group of young Republicans Wednesday night that the 18-year-old drinking age "is too hard on the rest of us — it's too easy for the under-aged students to get their hands on the liquor."

DuComb supported a bill creating a "good cause" drinking age for minors. He cited the problem of "inadequate facilities."

The bill failed to come to a vote last session because of insufficient votes on the floor. The second reading of the bill was brought up for a vote, said co-sponsor DuComb, "but this time the under-age people have hurt our chances for next year."

The report said that the bill might have been supported by under-aged legislators. But, according to DuComb, its supporters did not want to risk legislative history in the upcoming elections because of the emotional issues surrounding the drinking age. Also the bill "may have passed in the House" without "smoke time for the Senate to pass it."

DuComb cited some of the "obstacles the bill faced last session."

The student lobbyists did not realize that prior to this year 20 to 25 members of the House have been professionally trained. "They will oppose any bill that will give a person access to alcohol, " DuComb said.

The major obstacle to the drinking bill was the election year. "Everyone gets a little dry in the mouth around election time," DuComb remarked. "A legislator is cautious when it comes to voting on a bill on which he might be damaged in his community." DuComb advised students who reside in Indiana to persuade their representatives to support the bill. He noted that if the university and college regulations have an effect upon legislators, DuComb stated: "The University has to decide the extent of its liability. Rules they make don't affect our deliberations."

If the bill does pass next year, DuComb thinks Governor Otis Bowen will sign it. "Governor Bowen, who was speaking to the student body, will follow the legislature on moral issues like this," DuComb said.

DuComb also reported on legislation dealing with education and the environment. "In this session, we tried to deal with the problem of the Clean Air Act and pollution of our colleges," he cited the great difference in tuition between private and public schools. To assist the private school student, the legislation was based upon the Indiana freedom of choice grants. Students receiving the grant attend any college in Indiana.

They consider themselves as part of a larger educational enterprise including the University of Notre Dame.

The library was singled out as having a much needed collection of books. The building, however, was termed "highly inadequate."

Hickey is planning to publish the complete report and have it made available for anyone to read. The complete report will be ready in six to eight weeks.

"There is no doubt in our minds that the report will make very positive statements about St. Mary's, but we will seriously look at areas of concern," Hickey concluded.

St. Mary's is to receive favorable accreditation

by Pat Payne Staff Reporter

The NCA accreditation team was tremendously impressed with St. Mary's. Dr. Hickey, vice-president for academic Affairs, noted in his report that the recent North Central Association's (NCA) evaluation of St. Mary's.

The general tenor of the evaluation, which took place March 24-26, was "to look at all aspects of the institution," said Hickey. He added that because of the college's resources, the team will consider whether or not the college is doing the job it is supposed to be doing.

NCA is one of the nation-wide forces set up to evaluate colleges and universities. The NCA determines if an institution is fulfilling its role to itself and the students. NCA visits are held every ten years.

The NCA main office selects a team of people from geographical area of the school to be evaluated to hold this position. All the members have participation in the team selection process.

Hickey noted that people are chosen who have diverse interests and different areas of expertise.

"Three days was an adequate amount of time, " Hickey said. "If given adequate informa- tion, the team could do a lot. However, it was not possible to visit every area of the campus during the accreditation process."

Commenting on the preliminary report, Hickey said, "In every case the department strength was outweighed by the weaknesses." The report said that the department members of English, foreign languages, and sociology were parti-

Lower drinking age may pass by Matt Kane Staff Reporter

State Rep. Robert DuComb (R) told a group of young Republicans Wednesday night that the 18-year-old drinking age "is too hard on the rest of us — it's too easy for the under-aged students to get their hands on the liquor."

DuComb supported a bill creating a "good cause" drinking age for minors. He cited the problem of "inadequate facilities."

The bill failed to come to a vote last session because of insufficient votes on the floor. The second reading of the bill was brought up for a vote, said co-sponsor DuComb, "but this time the under-age people have hurt our chances for next year."

The report said that the bill might have been supported by under-aged legislators. But, according to DuComb, its supporters did not want to risk legislative history in the upcoming elections because of the emotional issues surrounding the drinking age. Also the bill "may have passed in the House" without "smoke time for the Senate to pass it."

DuComb cited some of the "obstacles the bill faced last session."

The student lobbyists did not realize that prior to this year 20 to 25 members of the House have been professionally trained. "They will oppose any bill that will give a person access to alcohol, " DuComb said.

The major obstacle to the drinking bill was the election year. "Everyone gets a little dry in the mouth around election time," DuComb remarked. "A legislator is cautious when it comes to voting on a bill on which he might be damaged in his community." DuComb advised students who reside in Indiana to persuade their representatives to support the bill. He noted that if the university and college regulations have an effect upon legislators, DuComb stated: "The University has to decide the extent of its liability. Rules they make don't affect our deliberations."

If the bill does pass next year, DuComb thinks Governor Otis Bowen will sign it. "Governor Bowen, who was speaking to the student body, will follow the legislature on moral issues like this," DuComb said.

DuComb also reported on legislation dealing with education and the environment. "In this session, we tried to deal with the problem of the Clean Air Act and pollution of our colleges," he cited the great difference in tuition between private and public schools. To assist the private school student, the legislation was based upon the Indiana freedom of choice grants. Students receiving the grant attend any college in Indiana.

They consider themselves as part of a larger educational enterprise including the University of Notre Dame.

The library was singled out as having a much needed collection of books. The building, however, was termed "highly inadequate."

Hickey is planning to publish the complete report and have it made available for anyone to read. The complete report will be ready in six to eight weeks.

"There is no doubt in our minds that the report will make very positive statements about St. Mary's, but we will seriously look at areas of concern," Hickey concluded.
Registration

Blues

Dear Editor:

Once again Pre-Registration time rolls around and the 3 hour lines in the Business Building begin to form. I am a Senior-to-be and I waited patiently in line for 2-and-a-half hours to get my third choice Business course. (I do not necessarily reflect the policies of other institutions.) The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. The opinions expressed are those of the Editorial Board. We reserve the right to publish or refuse to publish any contribution. Columnist may be available to all members of the community, and letters are encouraged to present the true expression of varying opinions on campus.

suns 261-867
Business 261-7471
Edmlands 261-7515

Manager: Tom Modlin
Advertising Manager: Tom Whelan

P. O. Box Q

Arrogant Absurdity

Dear Editor:

Do you know the quote attributed to F. H obscough in the March 30th Observer could have been taken out of context, but to say that "there are only two great Catholic Universities in the world today (Loyola and Notre Dame)" is an absurdity and arrogance and is insulting to thousands of world-wide orthodox Catholic universities in the world—no matter what their size or even academic ranking!

Rev Edmund J. Murray CSc
Professor Emeritus

Hurray

Dear Editor:

Just one comment concerning Kathy Cargill's column of Wednesday, April 7--Hurray! At last some last from SMC has spoken up on student government and the student body's role in it. Student government has the potential to be a vibrant, active organization, if only students take advantage of it. For too long, the tradition of "this is not my department" for the position of SJB has existed—for the last four elections, as a matter of fact. This is not to criticize those former and present student government leaders, for they were and are perhaps, the most qualified to hold the position.

But the student body needs a voice. If a student body does not have a spark to energize an apathetic student government, then student government will continue to be treated as a "rubber-stamp" of the waning Student Senate. The student body needs a boost to lift student government out of its possible death. If student government is to be a "rubber-stamp" of the Student Senate, then Student Senate needs to be held accountable. That way, student government can function as a student voice.

Dear Editor:

I, along with 171 other students, have been forced to forfeit this year due to an action concerning a residence hall that was initiated by Notre Dame barring him from classes. From completion of this school year and graduation, the court finds this student innocent of his charge. Consider the effects of Notre Dame's decision. However, we point out that trial may not occur until three months from this date. The student suspended until trial date is prohibited and ultimately punished by Notre Dame barring him from classes. From completion of this school year and graduation, the court finds this student innocent of his charge. Consider the effects of Notre Dame's decision. However, we point out that trial may not occur until three months from this date. The student suspended until trial date is prohibited and ultimately punished by Notre Dame barring him from classes. From completion of this school year and graduation, the court finds this student innocent of his charge. Consider the effects of Notre Dame's decision. However, we point out that trial may not occur until three months from this date. The student suspended until trial date is prohibited and ultimately punished by Notre Dame barring him from classes.

Mark Wimmer

---

DOONESBURY

by Garry Trudeau

\[\text{DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau} \]

OPINION}

Chocolate Poverty

Robert Jacques

It is likely that in recent times you have had chocolate in one or more of its various forms, whether it be candy bars, chocolate bars, or fudge, ice cream, or toppings. It is also likely that you noticed how expensive chocolate is these days. One reason for this is probably conjure up a memory of soft, brown, sweet-tasting quality of the product that has declined rapidly in the past decade and continues to do so at a rapid pace.

We are pleased to celebrate its 300th Anniversary. Such a time of rejoicing should also be a time to critically evaluate the nation and its successes and failures. One accomplishment of past times which should be noted is the sharp reduction in the number of people living in poverty in the past fifteen years. In 1960 there were 30 million Americans in poverty while in 1974 it was 24.3. During the same period the population increased from 170 to 213 million. Poverty declined from 22 percent to 11 percent of the population.

These two disparate topics—chocolate and poverty—are really very closely related. In fact, one largely is dependent upon the other; that is, the quality of chocolate varies directly with the size of the portion of the populace in poverty.

Before we progress any further, note that chocolate is only one example being used here for simplicity's sake. Almost all types of products have suffered from falling quality in the past several decades. Such items range from cars which decay before they arrive at the show rooms, to the number of people living in poverty. In 1960 there were 30 million Americans in poverty while in 1974 it was 24.3. During the same period the population increased from 170 to 213 million. Poverty declined from 22 percent to 11 percent of the population.

The primary reason for the decline in quality can be traced to an explosive rise in demand for the products. This demand results from the rising standard of living which has, in turn, fuel the poverty index. The rising standard puts more money in the average person's pocket and translates into an increase in the number and type of goods previously unavailable. Perhaps the opposite is true.

But what is the correct answer, the best answer, the objective answer? Is a:YPUIteY ON eOM- TULJN(j M& IAIE'RG Jl/ST

STAN/J A510E ANO 00 Nfi!H££

It is the general well-being for the masses worth the decline of quality for some items? Scientifically, essential ingredients and the profitability of offering to the masses "high class" items of similar appearance and affordable price but of lower quality.

The key ingredients are those which are essential to the product in which they appear. Such is cocoa to chocolate and fudge, ice cream, or toppings. It is also likely that you noticed how expensive chocolate is these days. One reason for this is probably conjure up a memory of soft, brown, sweet-tasting quality of the product that has declined rapidly in the past decade and continues to do so at a rapid pace.

The primary reason for the decline in quality can be traced to an explosive rise in demand for the products. This demand results from the rising standard of living which has, in turn, fuel the poverty index. The rising standard puts more money in the average person's pocket and translates into an increase in the number and type of goods previously unavailable. Perhaps the opposite is true.
We forgot to give credit to Mac's record rack for their gracious donation of the Maria Muldaur and the Laura Nyro albums that we reviewed on April 6.

Friday, April 9, 1976

Letters to a Lonely God

Reverend Robert Griffin

The grace of the paraclete

It was a store front church in a mid-town neighborhood. The First Presbyterian Church had been there for years, but the Holy Spirit made His appearance in that church so frequently that those Protestants claimed it was His New York Headquarters. He always showed up for prayer meetings, they said, making a noise like that of a strong, driving horn among the congregation. Some members claimed they had seen Him making appearance was felt, but never seen. It was His habit to make ordinary Christian worship services for Him, making services for them in strange tongues. It was a wonderful experience, they said, being rung like a bell by the Spirit of God as He pranced Himself in the ecstatic utterances they could feel on tongues.

It was a gift given as human language fails and there are no words, as left when the Holy Spirit becomes tongue-tied with delight; then God takes over in an orchestration of grace. Once upon a time, they said, all the world spoke a single language and spoke the same words, until the Lord, at Babel, confused men's speech, making a babble of the language of the earth once again. It does indeed come among us using a diversity of records.

For the last two years, everything has been going right for Pure Prairie League. First Craig Fuller's "Amica," off the 1972 album, was released and got great reviews. Then R/C ran a conversation about the most over-rated song of the year, then a new contract. With Larry Godshorn taking Fuller's place as lead guitarist and chief song writer, the group produced a very competent and popular debut, Two Lane Highway.

In an attempt to go a perfect three for three in their comeback, PPL has run into a stall with their latest album, If the Shoe Fits. The problem comes in the area that Fuller excelled in - songwriting. Fuller wrote some very pretty ballads - "Amica" and "Lady Morning Rose" and "Call Me, I'll Be." From the booklet, the album is among his best. Soft, attractive vocals was also the perfect vehicle for his romantic lyrics.

Godshorn is a neck 'n' roll guitarist turned country. His best songs are his straight rockers, such as "Two Lane Highway," off the album "Amica," and "Ginme Another Chance." Godshorn takes a few leads in each to keep the songs moving along. However, God- shock often chooses to let the EP's of these songs have no right being in.

In "My Shiny Eighties," Godshorn is singing about those constant country themes: love, sex, finding a job, being a failure, and the wish I was home with you." Right in the middle of this very slow paced song, Godshorn says, "If you're too young to know, you're in the neighborhood of mid-town Manhattan."

"People who do all that shouting and praying are usually poorly narrow-minded," said Grace bitterly, "unless you're willing to crawl."

As a matter of fact it from the mood and eventually, the song's object.

Godshorn and original PPL member George Fel Donsilvan can match the slower songs of Fuller. All of them focus on the emotionalism of the songs. "Do You Believe in Praying for the Soul of My Husband?" is this non-committal turn of this album. It is quite a shock to learn that the slower songs of the back part of this album are not off-putting, but can be slowed down and played. "Are you still with me?" is for those who are lost and saying, go on and try it, if they let you. You don't think they will let her." I asked.

"People who do all that shouting and praying are usually poorly narrow-minded," said Grace bitterly, unless you're willing to crawl. They love to make women hustle for a living crawl and wreck and somewhere. That's how we get Go and sin no more, like some big, stuck up Jesus.

"The story also says, 'Let him who is without sin cast the first stone.' I pointed out as one who is a sticker for the text. I've never heard that part of the story," said Grace. "They just know about telling you to go and sin no more. If you want to crawl for them, go ahead. But don't tell them that when you go and sin no more, you're going to do it to a whore's wages, cause then they would want you to go and sin no more too. If it comes to that, you'll never get to pray in Jesus."

I left the two of them arguing: Grace urging and Irma reforming. Grace said, "She couldn't take Grace's money, and Grace saying she didn't know why not, it is as good as any. Irma Godshorn earned.

About a week later, I met Irma on the street. I probably wouldn't have recognized her. She hadn't spoken to me for the last two years. Her classic hot pants and gladiator boots tradition. She is doing the profession of best-selling books in New York, she wore a black dress. In place of the blontblond wig she always wore, there was a black hat and black and white fringes. She looked like one of those Italian widows who are always in the back streets for the souls of their deceased husbands. I'm doing it," she said. "I'm living on Grace's money. I've been to confession, and I've asked to be baptized in the Spirit. That way I would know if I would stand up in the meeting and tell them I feel on their spirit, and it has been saved, and my soul has been saved by Jesus." She fixed me with a glaring eye. I'm not sure my soul has been saved by Jesus."

"You should see them, Father," said Irma, speaking of the PPL. "They're always talking about the wail of the white man. "You should see them shouting and praying and praising the Lord. The Spirit gets in them, and the noise of Him comes so slowly that you can't count the words. It's like singing, only you never heard the words because it isn't a tune. It is not the words, it's a prayer and kind of would make if He were talking to Himself.

Amazing Grace would say nothing, but her eyes glittered and her hands trembled as she drank her coffee. She didn't believe a word I was saying was right, but I want to admit it in front of the priest. I'm not sure I'm a sinner, but she doesn't need to be greeted by sinners praying in the name of Jesus."

Grace said, "You want to pray in Jesus you go ahead and pray, if they let you. Don't talk any nonsense about working the streets. I can take care of us."

"Oh, Grace," Irma said. "You don't believe in praying in Jesus. I know you don't believe in that."

"I don't believe in nothing," said Grace; then glancing at me, she asked: "Do you think I should pardon me for saying it. But you believe in it You're always talking about the Lord."

"They made me crawl," she said. "They tried to make me think I had a demon in my soul. They made me crawl, and all I wanted was to be saved. Did you ever pray in Jesus, Father?"

"You've never tried," I said. "At least, for me. I tried in that way. I never thought it would work for me." So we sat there, the priest and the prostitute, wondering what it was like to be rung like a bell by the Spirit of God.

"For most of us," I said, "I think He came in more ambiguous ways."

"Grace is praying in Jesus now," Irma said. "I went to the meeting. They were praying over me. All of a sudden, Grace said something about being born. She said she knew she's a sinner, but she believes the Lamb of God has taken her sins away."

"Amazing," I said. "Who's supposing that?"

"Nobody," said Irma. "She's supposing that. She's paying me to help her, but she said no, she didn't believe in anything. She's an old witch without teeth selling apples on 42nd street. It wasn't Grace."

"Can a seventy year old woman really be a witch?" I said. "No, not if she's got the Spirit." I think she already knew that. I think both of us knew we were in the neighborhoods of mid-town Manhattan.
by Ron Parkinson
Staff Reporter

Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men? The Shadow knew. But An Tostal is an elusive creature. Its very existence is shrouded in mystery and legend. The Shadow, a solitary figure, roamed the city streets, always one step ahead of his enemies. His name was an enigma, his identity unknown. But one thing was certain - he was a man of principle, a defender of justice.

The Shadow knew that An Tostal was a force to be reckoned with. It was a group of assassins, skilled in the art of death. They were hired to perform contracts on behalf of wealthy clients, their identities hidden behind masks and aliases. The Shadow had heard tales of their deadly deeds, their reputation preceding them like a whisper in the wind.

The Shadow also knew that An Tostal was not just a simple killings group. They were masters of their craft, their techniques honed to perfection. They were able to slip in and out of buildings, their movements silent as a ghost. They were experts in the art of deception, able to manipulate situations to their advantage.

The Shadow wished to know more about An Tostal. He wanted to understand their motivations, their goals. He was determined to bring them to justice, to bring them to light. He knew that only by understanding their nature could he hope to defeat them.

The Shadow knew that An Tostal was not alone. Other groups were operating in the same manner. They were all part of a larger network, a web of assassins that spanned the globe. The Shadow knew that he was just one piece of a much larger puzzle.

The Shadow was determined to solve the mystery of An Tostal. He was determined to bring them to justice. He was determined to be the one to set them free.

The Shadow knew that An Tostal was a force to be reckoned with. He was determined to bring them to justice, to bring them to light. He was determined to be the one to set them free.

The Shadow knew that An Tostal was a force to be reckoned with. He was determined to bring them to justice, to bring them to light. He was determined to be the one to set them free.

The Shadow knew that An Tostal was a force to be reckoned with. He was determined to bring them to justice, to bring them to light. He was determined to be the one to set them free.

The Shadow knew that An Tostal was a force to be reckoned with. He was determined to bring them to justice, to bring them to light. He was determined to be the one to set them free.
Campus Briefs

Sexual mythology to be discussed

A lecture on sexual mythology will be held Sunday, 5:30 p.m., in the Main Church. The lecture will be presented by Dr. A. Edward McManus, associate professor of philosophy. The title of the lecture will be "The Evolution of Sexual Mythology from the Pre-Christian Era to the New World Divinity." The lecture is open to the faculty and to anyone interested in the topic.

Theater presents "Second Scene"

The Theater Department is planning "Second Scene," a series of one-act plays. The plays will be presented on Saturday, April 29, at 8 p.m., and Sunday, April 30, at 2 p.m., in the Main Church. The tickets cost $2 for students and $4 for non-students. The proceeds will go to the Notre Dame Drama Club.

Farley to hold "Sister" week

Residents of Farley will welcome sisters, cousins, neighbors and guests for "Sister" Week, the week of April 17-23, exclusive of the weekend. Activities planned for the week include a "Sister" week reception on Friday night, preceding a special presentation of Walt Disney's classic of "The Rescuers." The presentation will be followed by a "Sister" week parade through the halls of the building. The parade will be filled with floats, paper trains and music! Join in the fun as we celebrate this great week with "Sister" week activities!
Discussion on hunger held in library

by Tom Byrne
Staff Reporter

Members of the Notre Dame community related their personal insights on the misery and suffering in the world before a small gathering of about 50 in a Notre Dame auditorium. The event was sponsored by the Notre Dame World Hunger Coalition and commemorated of national "Food Day." At 5 p.m., after his collection at the dining halls over the past two years, described the situation in Bangladesh as "just sickening," he told his listeners about his experiences during his visit to the southern Asian country.

"I couldn't believe what I saw. It isn't just pockets of poverty, it's everywhere," he remarked. According to Sondej, the typical scene in this region is one of starving people sleeping on the streets, among insects and human waste. Begging is the chief occupation.

One especially poignant incident he recalled involved an advanced leprosy victim known as "No Face." Sondej explained that the "money-lender" who owned the man would not allow a surgeon to repair his maimed face because it was an asset to his productivity as a beggar.

Sondej also visited several refugee camps in the area and provided what aid he could for its inhabitants. He noted that his was amazed by the "great gratitude" of the people despite their misfortune.

"They spend their whole lives in the camp," he remarked. "They just sit there, eat, get their wounds cleaned and sleep. I felt sorry for them," he added, "but then I went outside.

"There I found a huge mob of desperately hungry people, clamoring for food, which no one had. "There was just enough for those in the camp," Sondej explained.

Sondej became charmed with Sr. Miriam Gomes, currently studying at Notre Dame after spending much of her life helping to operate schools in Bangladesh. "Bodies were lying on the streets," she stated. "People couldn't do anything.

Gomes stated that parents were often reluctant to let the nuns relieve their emaciated children because of their value as effective beggars.

"It is good to be hungry," she commented. "But if day after day there is no hope to satisfy this hunger than it does something to people." She classified the problem in Bangladesh as "radical hunger," and termed it "oppressive," because it caused its victims to lose their sense of belonging to one another.

Gomes explained the history of the region now called Bangladesh, and cited British colonial domination as a partial cause for the traditional misfortune of the area. Also a factor in the unrest is the high "political consciousness" of the people, which has led to a series of wars.

"Such wars and various natural disasters, particularly the flooding of two years ago, caused a great "dislocation of people," according to Gomes, crowding much of the population in cities or ever-present refugee camps.

"Nobody has any kind of stability to do anything," she stated. "The black market makes a great deal of money at the cost of great suffering of many peoples. The government nationalized the industries but they did not know how to run them," she added. "And there was not time to learn.

Gomes expressed her frustration at only being able to offer the people "one meal," instead of some hope for the future.

Basil Serra, a graduate student in government, called his interactions with the people in his native Banglades his "happy days" and professed amazement at the generos- ity of the Western countries. Serra also described the rampant deaths and dire famine ravaging the region, and examined some of the causes.

"The economy was imposed on the Third world areas," he asserted. "The mechanisms of domination are the common enemy, her and abroad." Serra pointed to the disproportionate consumption of resources by the industrial nations as an illustration of domination.

Martin Garate, a Holy Cross Priest who fled Chile after the fall of the Allende regime, explored the problem of inequality throughout the world.

"It's difficult to imagine two different worlds coexisting," he commented. "Very few students know the conditions where I live, in the west side of the city-the black section." Garate professed that he came to Notre Dame to study economics in order to discover why there are such differences in distribution of wealth throughout the world.

Bell speaks on racial justice

(continued from page 8)

desegregation cases were shat­tered by the Detroit school case.

Bell comments, "The trends of these decisions illustrates that black people cannot afford the luxury of viewing rights as more than they are. The United States Constitution could prove very poor shelter if blacks rely on it to save them from future political storms.

University President Fr. Theodore Hesburgh, to whom the series was dedicated, commented before the speech that he hopes Bell is wrong in his theories on racism.

"In some ways I hope he is wrong. I hope we can be more optimistic about the future. If we can't help we won't be a very nice place to live on.

In today's lecture at 2 p.m. at the CCE, Bell will further explore the nature of racism and review some crucial components of strategies and accommodations of it.

---

RAF SHACK

AN EXTRAORDINARY REALISTIC® STEREO SYSTEM AT 99% OFF!

REALISTIC®

• Realistic STA-225 AM-FM Stereo Receiver with Auto-Magic® FM Tuning
• Two Realistic Optimus-58 Walnut Veneer Floor Speaker Systems
• Realistic LAB-100 Manual Turntable, Base, Dust Cover, $39.95 Value Elliptical Cartridge

Regular Separate Items Price . . . 728.90

$629

and you can CHARGE IT At Radio Shack.

There's Only One Place You Can Find It ... Radio Shack.

SCOTTSDALE MALL

Friday, April 9, 1976
I want to rent a room furnished, near ND. See below.

- Bedroom:
- Bathroom:
- Near ND.

Two men need room for Easter break.

- Bedroom:

233-2613 or 232-7263

Wanted: One small room (upstairs), 2nd floor. Must walk distance of ND. 233-6248.

WANTED: Summer Rentals. 4 bedroom. 5 bedroom available. Also furnished. Near ND. Very reasonable. 234-2620.

WANTED: Summer 2 bedroom for rent. gas, furn furniture, free place. Near ND. 3 blocks from St. Joseph Hospital. 255-5991.

Visit the Men's and Women's Housing Fair. 220-3345.

Lost: Female为什么要? April 13. All items must be paid for. Items left at 207-1219, 207-4221 or 207-8165.

Lost and Found: Items must be claimed immediately: 207-3529.

NOTICES

June 20: Women's Class Reunion. 1957-59. Single tickets $5.00. 38th Reunion. (How's your nose.)

Will do anything, experienced. Term papers, research papers, etc. Call 293-6512.

RUGBY SHIRTS - get the same shirt you wore last year in gold, green, red or blue for $2.00 each.

Merrymotion True Companions. April 13. All items must be paid for. Items left at 207-1219, 207-4221 or 207-8165.

Selling: New and used furniture. All furn. and fixtures.

Lost: Female why? April 13. All items must be claimed immediately: 207-3529.

DON'T FORGET: June 20 and 21st. St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

For rent: 3 bedroom Duplex, also 6 bedroom house. Both furnished. Call 234-4644.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.

St. Joseph's Oldtimers Alumni Ball. 3 P.M. at the Mansion. Tickets now available. 207-3529.
George Kelly—man behind the Irish linebacking corps

by Paul Stevenson

George Kelly is the man behind the Irish linebacking corps, the foundation of the tenacious defense characteristic of Notre Dame. Kelly has been the mainstay of the Irish defense since the Medical Corps, during which period he was co-captain and leader of his service team. Upon moving to Notre Dame, Kelly was charged to guard. He played during the reign of Frank Leahy, and graduated in 1949.

After graduating, Kelly served as assistant football coach at St. Joseph high school. After two years as an assistant, he was appointed to the head coaching position at Marquette. Kelly moved onto Marquette after three years as a St. Joe head coach. At Marquette, he served four years under Johnny Devaney as assistant coach. Kelly felt that all his years at Notre Dame have been rewarding.

"There is no particular season that stands out as my favorite. I’ve had all of them being gratifying, and I’ve been lucky to have been able to work with some great kids," Kelly said.

"I think 1973 was a great year, because we had such a great team influenced by some of the great coaches, everybody should be getting settled with regard to positions. Now, the young have to learn and the old have to improve."

Kelly wants to find out how his linebackers play in the most difficult situations. No real stunting is done, the line backers play what is called the ‘setup’; each player must be responsible for his own defense and his own line, and not with the aid of the stunting.

Kelly feels that all his years at Notre Dame have been rewarding.

"The fifth annual Iron Man Five Bookstore basketball tourney may get under way yesterday with 32 games as 25 teams began the competition. The selection of teams was 24 games of great interest. I would say that there are three teams involved that seem to be the favorites, and of course there are teams like Tulane II with Dave Batton who went to the Elite Eight last year. And the other team involved is the Average White Team. The Tulane II and the Average White Team could lead the tourney of John Dubeczky from last year in terms of their performance last year. They have Bill Pasero."

"But Average White Team is back also and they want to win the title this year. We have the team that needs to win the title this year. They have Bill Pasero."

Tampa Bay chose Selmon quickly, supported by his performance in the Orange, and immediately moved him back chosen in the first round, drafted by Cincinnati. He was the 24th pick in the draft.

"I feel we have an excellent football player," said Se spokesman for the team. "We have a lot of work involved, but that’s what I live about."

Tampa Bay coach John McKee of Southern Mississippi called Selmon an "unsung team at any time to come, who were involved."

During spring practice, Kelly--the head coaching position at St. Thomas--was replaced by Tony O’Gradie, who was immediately introduced in the final choice of the draft procedure.

"I have been the head coach of football since the Irish linebackers for seven years now, and he believes he will be around many more, enhancing Notre Dame’s pride in their own defense.

Bookstore basketball opens

by Rich Olsdeo

The fifth annual Iron Man Five Bookstore basketball tourney may get under way yesterday with 32 games as 25 teams began the competition. The selection of teams was 24 games of great interest. I would say that there are three teams involved that seem to be the favorites, and of course there are teams like Tulane II with Dave Batton who went to the Elite Eight last year. And the other team involved is the Average White Team. The Tulane II and the Average White Team could lead the tourney of John Dubeczky from last year in terms of their performance last year. They have Bill Pasero."

"But Average White Team is back also and they want to win the title this year. We have the team that needs to win the title this year. They have Bill Pasero."

Tampa Bay chose Selmon quickly, supported by his performance in the Orange, and immediately moved him back chosen in the first round, drafted by Cincinnati. He was the 24th pick in the draft.

"I feel we have an excellent football player," said Se spokesman for the team. "We have a lot of work involved, but that’s what I live about."

Tampa Bay coach John McKee of Southern Mississippi called Selmon an "unsung team at any time to come, who were involved."

During spring practice, Kelly--the head coaching position at St. Thomas--was replaced by Tony O’Gradie, who was immediately introduced in the final choice of the draft procedure.

The fifth annual Iron Man Five Bookstore basketball tourney may get under way yesterday with 32 games as 25 teams began the competition. The selection of teams was 24 games of great interest. I would say that there are three teams involved that seem to be the favorites, and of course there are teams like Tulane II with Dave Batton who went to the Elite Eight last year. And the other team involved is the Average White Team. The Tulane II and the Average White Team could lead the tourney of John Dubeczky from last year in terms of their performance last year. They have Bill Pasero."

"But Average White Team is back also and they want to win the title this year. We have the team that needs to win the title this year. They have Bill Pasero."

Tampa Bay chose Selmon quickly, supported by his performance in the Orange, and immediately moved him back chosen in the first round, drafted by Cincinnati. He was the 24th pick in the draft.

"I feel we have an excellent football player," said Se spokesman for the team. "We have a lot of work involved, but that’s what I live about."

Tampa Bay coach John McKee of Southern Mississippi called Selmon an "unsung team at any time to come, who were involved."

During spring practice, Kelly--the head coaching position at St. Thomas--was replaced by Tony O’Gradie, who was immediately introduced in the final choice of the draft procedure.

Bookstore basketball opens

by Rich Olsdeo

The fifth annual Iron Man Five Bookstore basketball tourney may get under way yesterday with 32 games as 25 teams began the competition. The selection of teams was 24 games of great interest. I would say that there are three teams involved that seem to be the favorites, and of course there are teams like Tulane II with Dave Batton who went to the Elite Eight last year. And the other team involved is the Average White Team. The Tulane II and the Average White Team could lead the tourney of John Dubeczky from last year in terms of their performance last year. They have Bill Pasero."

"But Average White Team is back also and they want to win the title this year. We have the team that needs to win the title this year. They have Bill Pasero."

Tampa Bay chose Selmon quickly, supported by his performance in the Orange, and immediately moved him back chosen in the first round, drafted by Cincinnati. He was the 24th pick in the draft.

"I feel we have an excellent football player," said Se spokesman for the team. "We have a lot of work involved, but that’s what I live about."

Tampa Bay coach John McKee of Southern Mississippi called Selmon an "unsung team at any time to come, who were involved."

During spring practice, Kelly--the head coaching position at St. Thomas--was replaced by Tony O’Gradie, who was immediately introduced in the final choice of the draft procedure.

The fifth annual Iron Man Five Bookstore basketball tourney may get under way yesterday with 32 games as 25 teams began the competition. The selection of teams was 24 games of great interest. I would say that there are three teams involved that seem to be the favorites, and of course there are teams like Tulane II with Dave Batton who went to the Elite Eight last year. And the other team involved is the Average White Team. The Tulane II and the Average White Team could lead the tourney of John Dubeczky from last year in terms of their performance last year. They have Bill Pasero."

"But Average White Team is back also and they want to win the title this year. We have the team that needs to win the title this year. They have Bill Pasero."

Tampa Bay chose Selmon quickly, supported by his performance in the Orange, and immediately moved him back chosen in the first round, drafted by Cincinnati. He was the 24th pick in the draft.

"I feel we have an excellent football player," said Se spokesman for the team. "We have a lot of work involved, but that’s what I live about."

Tampa Bay coach John McKee of Southern Mississippi called Selmon an "unsung team at any time to come, who were involved."

During spring practice, Kelly--the head coaching position at St. Thomas--was replaced by Tony O’Gradie, who was immediately introduced in the final choice of the draft procedure.

The fifth annual Iron Man Five Bookstore basketball tourney may get under way yesterday with 32 games as 25 teams began the competition. The selection of teams was 24 games of great interest. I would say that there are three teams involved that seem to be the favorites, and of course there are teams like Tulane II with Dave Batton who went to the Elite Eight last year. And the other team involved is the Average White Team. The Tulane II and the Average White Team could lead the tourney of John Dubeczky from last year in terms of their performance last year. They have Bill Pasero."

"But Average White Team is back also and they want to win the title this year. We have the team that needs to win the title this year. They have Bill Pasero."

Tampa Bay chose Selmon quickly, supported by his performance in the Orange, and immediately moved him back chosen in the first round, drafted by Cincinnati. He was the 24th pick in the draft.

"I feel we have an excellent football player," said Se spokesman for the team. "We have a lot of work involved, but that’s what I live about."

Tampa Bay coach John McKee of Southern Mississippi called Selmon an "unsung team at any time to come, who were involved."

During spring practice, Kelly--the head coaching position at St. Thomas--was replaced by Tony O’Gradie, who was immediately introduced in the final choice of the draft procedure.

The fifth annual Iron Man Five Bookstore basketball tourney may get under way yesterday with 32 games as 25 teams began the competition. The selection of teams was 24 games of great interest. I would say that there are three teams involved that seem to be the favorites, and of course there are teams like Tulane II with Dave Batton who went to the Elite Eight last year. And the other team involved is the Average White Team. The Tulane II and the Average White Team could lead the tourney of John Dubeczky from last year in terms of their performance last year. They have Bill Pasero."

"But Average White Team is back also and they want to win the title this year. We have the team that needs to win the title this year. They have Bill Pasero."

Tampa Bay chose Selmon quickly, supported by his performance in the Orange, and immediately moved him back chosen in the first round, drafted by Cincinnati. He was the 24th pick in the draft.